Western Powers Reject New Soviet Treaty Proposal

Hold Molotov's Concessions Are Just Confusing Issue

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers lined up solidly today against Russia's latest European security treaty plan, regarding it as an effort to confuse the issue of German unity and freeze the present division of Europe.

By his timing, he made a bid to dominate the conference news throughout today when the conference is in recess.

ASKED FOR BREAK

France's Foreign Minister Pinay asked for the break because of the All Saint's Day holiday, and State Secretary Dulles of the United States flew to Spain this morning for talks with Generalissimo Francisco Franco, on return to Geneva tonight.

The official comments of Dulles, Pinay and Britain's Foreign Secretary Macmillan on Molotov's plan therefore will not be forthcoming until Wednesday.

But within hours after the Molotov plan was launched, diplomats in the Western camp passed the word that it changes in no way Russia's key position—her opposition to the unification of Germany except on her own terms.

What Molotov proposed was that the great powers, East and West Germany and the countries bordering Germany, sign a provisional treaty on security in Europe."

WHAT IT WOULD DO

It would provide for arbitration of any member state attacked.

But there were two sharp differences with another security treaty proposal which Molotov introduced only last week.

The European-wide security pact which Molotov would wipe out NATO within three years and would include all European states willing to join.

Tank Car Explodes After Derailment

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—Flames shot high in the air Monday when a tank car containing 10,000 gallons of industrial alcohol exploded after 15 cars of a Canadian National Railways freight were derailed.

Burning alcohol poured down a hill and spread over more than a quarter-mile section of the Napanee river at nearby Camden East.

CNR officials said the derailment occurred after a heavy rainstorm Sunday washed out a section of roadbed on the single-track line between this town, 23 miles west of Kingston, and Oshawa.

STAYED ON TRACK

Engineer John Brown of Belleville said the engine crossed safely over the washout before the first 15 cars went pinning over an embankment.

HEARD ALARM

Harold Hartman, a Camden east plumber, said he was working at a farm about a mile away when he heard the train crash. He arrived on the scene to see the tank car explode.

District farmers first thought the flames came from a burning barn. It is believed the explosion was caused by a spark from grinding metal.

Volunteer firemen from nearby Newburgh extinguished flames that broke out in some of the derailed box cars.

Anti-British Greek Rioters Battle Police

ATHENS (AP) — Pitched battles between demonstrators and police dragged in the Greek city of Patras today after police opened fire on a hate-throwing mob who stormed and badly damaged the British Institute building. At least 30 police and civilians received treatment for injuries.

Demonstrators attacked police in waves, temporarily overpowering them, before attacking the British Institute building. Police reinforcements rushed to the scene and dispersed the rioters, but they quickly regrouped.

The fighting still raged this afternoon.

MAY CANCEL ALL COLLEGE FOOTBALL DR. SMITH WARNS

University of Toronto Prexy Hits Hoodlums

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, said today Intercollegiate football games may be cancelled if student violence at the games isn't stopped.

"If it does not get getting worse game after game, we might have to suspend the league to protect innocent bystanders and the hoodlums themselves," he said.

Dr. Smith said he plans to discuss with responsible officials at the four universities — U. of T., Western, McGill and Queen's—"the desirability of even finishing out the league this year."

"I can't be forecast," said Dr. Smith. "I haven't all the facts yet. But if that is the only way to prevent development of hooliganism that might lead to personal injury or death, we will have to do it."

He was writing to Queen's president Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, for details of the disturbance which followed Saturday's Queen's-Varsity game, Queen's won 11-10.

BLAMES MINORITY

Dr. Smith said Varsity and Queen's student officials did their best to head off activities that might lead to personal injury to the game.

"If cancellation appears to be the only alternative to a chain reaction of more and more serious trouble, the alternative must be taken," he said.

A minority of students were responsible.

"Surely they will realize what they are doing and put a stop to it. It seems too bad to think that the games might be cancelled on account of a reckless minority."

Five Queen's and two U of T students required hospital treatment, one man was arrested and a woman was slightly burned when a balloon burst beside her as she lit a cigaret. Scuffle broke out when U of T men tried to lower Queen's and Varsity's goalposts after the 11-10 game.

A U of T spokesman said no report has been received from Queen's.

"All we know is what we've read in the newspapers and that seems exaggerated."

J. P. Loosemore, secretary of U of T athletic directorate, said he "saw nothing at the game that anyone could call a riot."

Hospital authorities at Kingston said they are Lou Robbins, 20-year-old Queen's science student from Barrie, may be blind in one eye, the result of being struck by a lime bomb after the game.

Another student, Bob Hugh Gamble, 20, a medical student from Ottawa. His sight was saved by a Toronto team doctor who washed Gamble's eyes before permanent damage was done. Gamble's parents were called from Toronto and Ottawa.

Donald McNay, 21, a former Queen's student from Windsor, Que., was fined $50 and costs in Kingston Monday for resisting police in the disturbance and causing a disturbance after the game.

Molotov Insists His Answer To Israel on Arms Be Secret

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

GENEVA (AP)—Foreign Minister Molotov was reported today to have made a new move to inject Russian power and influence in the troubled Middle East.

Israeli informants said Molotov's strategy was indicated Monday night when he answered Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett's protests against the flow of Red arms to Egypt.

At Molotov's insistence, Sharett and his aides refused to disclose the precise nature of his reply. But this much did come out of the meeting between Molotov and Sharett:

The Soviet foreign minister did not turn a completely deaf ear to Sharett's complaint that the sale to Egypt of submarines, tanks, guns and MIG jet fighters by the Soviet bloc is a threat to Israel's existence.

Talks on the military and other aspects of the Middle Eastern situation will be continued between the two countries, probably in Moscow through diplomatic channels.

Molotov sidestepped Sharett's direct appeal to stop the sale of arms to Egypt. Israel's bitter and avowed enemy. He explained that Czechoslovakia, not Russia, is selling the arms, and that the deal is a "normal" commercial transaction.

But he expressed some appreciation of Israel's opposition to the Baghdad pact. This is the alliance of Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan, the so-called "northern tier" of countries in the Middle East, to which Britain is linked and which the United States may join in 1956 or 1957. Russia previously has bitterly protested against the formation of this alliance.

It was not disclosed whether the Kremlin diplomat told Sharett that Israel also may qualify for the sort of commercial arms deals and economic aid offered to various Arab countries.

Before meeting Molotov, however, Sharett had advised the three Western foreign ministers that he would not ask for Soviet-bloc arms even though he had received word previously that he could buy military equipment if he asked for it.

LONDON (CP) — News of Princess Margaret's renunciation of Peter Townsend was hailed back and forth today across Britain and around the world.

Every newspaper in Britain expressed sympathy with the Queen's family over decision, and in some there were angry grumbles against the Church of England for its stand on marriage and divorce.

The praise throughout the world splashed the story in screaming headlines across their front pages as Anglican observers — and almost some who do agree with the church's rigid ban on the remarriage of divorced persons—joined with spokesmen for Roman Catholic and Anglican churches in praising her action. The Archbishop of Canterbury issued no comment.

Reaction in other world capitals was reported by Reuters correspondents:

Paris: When the news was announced a typist said: "Poor Margaret. This will break her heart."

The anti-Communist left - wing paper France Tireur says the "impartial sadness" of Margaret's message — "the sadness of a woman who puts duty before love—should win even the most unyielding adversaries of her marriage."

Bonn: The news spread like wildfire through Germany. A British officer said: "Fantastic. I think it's pretty wonderful. She is setting the world a standard—putting her duty before everything else."

Hallowe'en Brings Tragedy, Violence and Property Damage

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hallowe'en 1955 brought, heavy rainstorms in some parts of western Ontario and snowfall to the north. In several cases it brought tragedy and violence.

At North Bay, an eight-year-old girl dressed in a witch ghost costume was fatally injured when she ran into the side of a car. Diane Hunter died on the way to hospital.

In other parts of the province a seventy-year-old man was injured in a similar accident and a teenaged boy was unconscious in hospital from an injury suffered in a Hallowe'en prank Sunday night.

Police in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. reported two shootings, both when property owners became angry at pranks by drive away pranksters. A youth was shot in the hand and another in the abdomen, both slightly.

Ontario police reported heavy damage in London suburbs. A small three section set of bleachers were upset and goalposts torn down by what police called a rival gang.

Outside the city police reported two gang fights. Several sections of fence were destroyed and cattle driven onto roads. On one road 18 mail boxes were pulled down.

In Toronto, where 10 years ago police quelled the worst teen-aged riot in the city's history, authorities reported less damage than usual.

Three youths were picked up for questioning after a number of fires were started in garbage cans and works department lanterns and garbage cans.

At Welland, near St. Catharines, police said a gang was cutting telephone wires and cut off telephone booths.

Youths in Ridgeway tried to set fire to a pile of old chairs they had stacked on the railway tracks.

U.S. Surgeons Are Probing Fees

CHICAGO (AP) — The American College of Surgeons today announced the launching of a special study of surgical fees in the United States to determine if they are too high.

A committee of "six or seven distinguished surgeons" will investigate the matter, making a preliminary report about mid-December, said Dr. I. S. Ravdin, chairman of the college's board of regents. He told reporters:

"Statements have been made that in many instances exorbitant fees have been charged. We intend to look into this matter, and find out if it is so."

GHOST CARS START HUNTING ONT. SPEEDERS

Unmarked Vehicles Being Used by Police

TORONTO (CP)—Ghost cars are on the prowl in Ontario today for speed artists and other traffic violators.

Police in unmarked vehicles—the ghost cars—kept a watch on motorists as the Ontario government's all-out war on speeders stepped into high gear.

The operation started just after midnight Monday night. The government hopes to halve the number of traffic accidents during the next 11 months.

Not since the late Gordon Conant, as attorney-general of Ontario in 1940 introduced the highly unpopular cruiser system, have the Ontario provincials used unmarked cars.

AFTER SAFETY TALKS

The decision to throw this type of car, widely used by municipal police, into the work was announced Monday by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts after he attended a safety-engineering meeting.

Provincial police said the cars will be manned both by plain-clothesmen and uniformed police. Some will be in black cars and others will be in cars of any color, "if necessary," he said.

Ontario accounted for nearly half the traffic death toll in Canada last year. Of the 2,586 traffic fatalities, 1,045 were in this province.

The attorney - general ordered every available vehicle and constable assigned to traffic duty. Main forces will be concentrated in the known danger areas. However, officials said the province-provincial and local police will be on the lookout for any violation of the Highway Traffic Act.

Mr. Roberts said 75 per cent of the police available men and vehicles will be put on traffic duty. The force will have just 300 radio units will be operating around the clock. The provincial police radio communications system is one of the largest in North America. It has 416 radio-equipped cars.

WILL CHECK CONDITION

Police said the new campaign will be the checking of the mechanical condition of cars by provincial police. Until now this has been handled by local officers.

Chief Lorne W. Pickup of the Ontario Appeal Court said: "The awful toll of life and personal injuries caused by accidents involving hospital expenses, loss of wages and compensation of all kinds is daily impressed upon the judges of the courts of the province."

Said Premier Frost: "Remember this is an occasion for caution. One life unnecessarily, not one of us can afford to be careless, even for a moment.'

Surprise, Relief, Sympathy Reactions Of Canadians to Margaret's Stand

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian reaction to the London announcement that Princess Margaret would not marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend included surprise, relief, sympathy and commendation for her personal sacrifice.

The news came as a surprise to most Canadians including government officials who first learned of Princess Margaret's decision in reports through news reports Monday. There had been no official announcement - to - government information passed.

Newspapers headlined the story, and broadcasters interrupted radio network programs with it.

The decision relieved federal authorities of constitutional entanglements that would have developed had the princess chosen to marry the 40-year-old divorced commoner.

About a week ago, when the government received an informal report that the United Kingdom administration that the princess still had not made up her mind, authorities in Ottawa said if she married the British air attache, legislation would have had to be introduced in the Canadian Parliament to remove her succession rights. Princess Margaret is third in line in succession to the throne.

There was no doubt many Canadians sympathized with her position. In some federal quarters it was felt the position of the British monarchy might have been damaged by the controversy had it developed the group captain.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa said: "I admire Margaret's move a "shining example of sacrifice, of personal inclination for the public weal and of placing duty above desire."

And Dr. E. S. Reed, Anglican Bishop of Ottawa, said it was "the best news we have heard in a long time."

"The sacrifice she is making will be appreciated by all the right-thinking people in the Commonwealth," he said.

Princess Says Decision Made "Entirely Alone"

Announcement Received With Mixed Emotions

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret has thrust aside her love for a divorced commoner because of her duty to the Church and the Commonwealth.

Her decision, announced in a brief note Monday night, has sent a wave of mixed emotions around the world.

Public and press reaction has been expressed of approval, resentment, and downright confusion.

Some newspapers predict an outburst of popular feeling against the Church of England and the Duke of Edinburgh. But Associated Press said this morning that both are "strongly identified by many men with the unhappy ending of the romance" with Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

WARMLY PRAISED

On the other hand, the princess has been warmly praised in many quarters for putting her duty above what seemed a normal desire to marry the man she loves.

With great courage and simplicity, the 25-year-old princess announced publicly that she would not marry the divorced Townsend, wartime fighter pilot, then royal equerry and finally air attache in Brussels. The father of two sons, he divorced his wife in 1952 on grounds of misconduct. She has since remarried, and the children are with her.

Margaret said in her message from Clarence House that she reached the decision "entirely alone," and with the knowledge that if she renounced her right to succession "it might have been possible for me to contract a civil marriage."

ENDED SPECULATION

Thus, the princess ended worldwide speculation about her affection for Townsend, and prevented her affair of the heart from becoming an explosive affair of state.

Many sources believe the princess has safeguarded the moral teachings of the Church of England and averted a possible constitutional crisis.

Mindful of the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble, and conscious of my duty to the commonwealth," the princess said, "I have resolved after the most anxious consideration before any others.

"I have reached this decision entirely alone and in doing so I have been strengthened by unfailing support and devotion of Group Capt. Townsend."

COW CAUSES DEATH

HEBRON, Neb. (AP)—A cow crossing a highway caused the death Monday of a 77-year-old woman and serious injury to her husband, authorities said. Mrs. Minnie Anne Wold hit the animal. She died three hours later in Hebron hospital. Her husband, Lemon, Miss Rosa B. Turnbull, is in serious condition. The cow was killed.

Princess Stays In Seclusion Of Her Home

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret remained in seclusion today at Clarence House as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh went on with their royal duties in the wake of Monday night's announcement that the princess will not marry Peter Townsend.

Townsend was back at the country house where he and the princess spent last weekend as guests of Lord and Lady Rupert Neville. A butler said he would have no statement to make today.

The princess had no engagements for today, but her usual round of public duties begins again later this week.

KEEN TO CALL

She dubbed five new knights with her sword of state and honored nearly 200 other men and women who appeared earlier this year on her traditional birthday list.

Prime Minister Eden is to call on her tonight, and observers said there is no doubt he will discuss Margaret's immediate future.

Some London papers forecast that the Queen will probably ask Eden to curtail the list of official engagements scheduled for the princess, since she might wish to remain out of the public eye for the time being.

Court circles predict, however, that the princess will continue, with other members of the Royal Family, her public duties.

Margaret Likes Fashion and Fun But There Is Steel in Character

BY JAMES F. KING

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret is usually gay and sometimes puckish or even impish. Small and seemingly delicate as a flower, she has a steel-like core.

But her intimates have long known and the public long sensed that her character has a strong band of steel.

Margaret had a reputation for usually getting her way—but opposed to that is an obvious devotion to duty and respect for its traditions, dignity and honor of royalty.

Beneath Margaret's outward gaiety is a serious, deeply religious young woman who at times has been lonely. For a young girl of lively temperament, being a royal princess can be trying. Bound with the role are traditions, restrictions.

Yet she enjoyed her part. A close friend once suggested that she must sometimes long to be a normal child.

"I cannot imagine anything more wonderful than to be born to be surrounded with typical enthusiasm.

Growing up as the baby of the family, she was inclined to demand attention—sometimes. But her talent for mimicry was difficult to suppress. Her father often was forced to turn away from serious while lecturing her on proper manners.

Despite the rigors of the Second World War, the little princesses had some good times at Windsor. Margaret, even at 10 and 11, was never shy with boys. With Elizabeth she looked forward to meeting young Guards officers stationed at the castle who were often invited to tea.

Stewart-Warner Seeks TV Test Station Here

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of governors will be asked to permit private radio stations to broadcast more paid spot or flash announcements.

At a Dec. 1 public meeting in Ottawa the board is to hear proposals by the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters that CBC regulations governing such flashes be relaxed.

Other requests the board is to hear include:

A request by Stewart-Warner Corp. of Canada Ltd. for permission to operate a low-power experimental TV station at Belleville, to test TV sets manufactured by the company.

Council by 9-6 Vote Defeats By-Law Naming Anthony Bos, Larder Lake as City Manager

After several months work on the part of the council committee and three special meetings of city council, the Belleville city fathers are still as far away as ever from appointing a city manager.

At an adjourned meeting held Monday night to complete the business of two weeks ago when a special meeting was called to appoint a city manager, council voted down a by-law to appoint Anthony Bos of Larder Lake, to the position and then adjourned without setting any date to again discuss the matter.

Earlier in the meeting council voted down amendments calling for the matter to be laid over, but the amendment was defeated when it was from Alderman Art Keegan calling for the matter to be laid over until such time as a by-law could be drafted setting out the duties and powers of the city manager and until the electors voted on the question at council from 14 to eight members. The other motion which saw defeat was from Alderman Hyde, who wanted the matter of appointing a city manager and the annual estimates finance committee could bring in a report outlining duties and salary of the city manager before council.

The city manager form of municipal government was called in under discussion for the greater part of the past summer with a special committee and finally authorized to investigate and report to council.

Then, following the death of Clerk-Comptroller Harold D. Bateman, council voted to hire a city manager and authorized the calling of applications for the position.

60 APPLICATIONS

Approximately 60 applications for the position were received and these were screened by the special committee and boiled down to seven applicants, who were recommended to the city for a second interview, this time with the entire council present.

At this session of council held on October 14, on a vote council agreed on a "straw vote" and a vote on the honor of councillors, the appointment of Anthony Bos, Larder Lake real estate agent and high school board representative, was given a large majority.

A special meeting was then called for the following Monday, presumably to finalize the appointment, but the council failed to vote in a one-night session and proceedings were continued until last night. Last night the by-law appointing Mr. Bos as city manager at a salary of $9,000 per year was defeated by a 9-6 count.

DISCUSS PROCEDURE

Last night's protracted meeting got under way with a spirited discussion on what is the proper procedure to follow.

Alderman Bruce Smith as chairman of the committee of the whole asked that council go into by-laws in committee. The natural course was the appointment of Mr. Bos, notice of motion for which had been given at last week's council meeting by Alderman Harry Clarke.

Alderman Clarke objected and appealing the ruling of the chair asked that his amendment from the meeting of two weeks ago be considered. He claimed that the by-laws calling for the appointment of Mr. Bos could not be presented at this special meeting.

The acting city solicitor W. A. Pringle was that a by-law took precedence over a motion.

Alderman Keegan still appealed the ruling of the chair asking that council be governed by and conducted by parliamentary procedure.

REVIEWS WHOLE ISSUE

Alderman Rice reviewed matters up to the moment noting that the entire council had been called in on October 14th to interview the narrowed field of seven applicants. After the applicants had been interviewed the special committee had retired and brought in a recommendation carried 3-2 by committee members calling for the appointment of Mr. Bos. Then council as a whole had been asked to vote on the appointment.

"I asked the mayor if this was a straw vote," Alderman Rice said. "I was told that it was, but now we are told it was a recorded vote."

The alderman said he was opposed to city manager form of government and went on to note that if the pay was going to be $9,000 a year "there were be men in Belleville quite capable of filling the position."

"The position is bigger than a $6,000 a year job," he went on. "Mr. Bos is not big enough for the job if we want a city manager."

He asked that the appointment be allowed to stand "until we find out where we are going."

Replying to Alderman Tice, Alderman Frank Connolly pointed out that it was not a straw vote by which council earlier in the year had decided to appoint a city manager. "That vote was taken in regular council and was carried by a large majority," he said.

Alderman Jack Jane said that same opinion as Alderman Tice, that there were men in Belleville as capable of the city manager job as any of the seven applicants interviewed by council.

"From what I saw of the seven men, any man of any hall would do a better job," he said.

CHAMBER IN MINORITY CLAIM

He noted that many people in the city were not in favor of a city manager, although the Chamber of Commerce had expressed itself as being in favor.

"But the Chamber of Commerce is a minority," he said. "I say let's get right down to brass tacks, put it to the people, and then get an experienced man for the job."

"What are we discussing at this meeting?" asked Alderman Keegan. "I thought council had decided it wanted a city manager."

Replying to Alderman Jane he had been a "straw" vote taken at the special meeting held October 14th, Mayor Both denied this had been the case.

He advised council at the time that the vote would be on the honor of councillors, Alderman Jane said. "Following the vote I was instructed to interview the seven applicants of the decision of council. It would be misleading and unfair and unjustified for council to now go back on its word."

"Did you not say at the meeting of October 14th that it would be a straw vote taken by councillors?" asked Ald. Jane Forrester of Mayor Both.

"I told you then exactly what I have told you now, that the vote would be on your honor," was the reply.

Re-asserting that the mayor had said the vote was to be a "straw" vote, Ald. Forrester claimed that the mayor had no right to ask that the vote be on the honor of councillors.

"The municipal act says that by-laws must receive three readings, the reason being to allow council time to think," Ald. Forrester asserted. "You tried to make up our mind in ten minutes. The natural assumption now is that councillors have had time to look into the applications."

REFUSED ACCESS TO FILES

Alderman Forrester went on to say that last week she had been at city hall and asked for the applications of candidates before selection as city manager. After these had been momentarily produced the acting city clerk asking for room to say the mayor had directed that no one was to have access to the application files.

"This," she said, "was interfering with the rights of council to keep themselves informed."

The mayor stated that he had directed that the applications not be interferred with. "When the special committee is through with them, you can have them, but not before," he said.

Ald. Clarke thought it might help some if the by-law calling for the appointment of Mr. Bos was read in its entirety. He proceeded to read the by-law outlining the duties of the city manager.

"How does this compare with our present comptroller's by-law?" asked Ald. Tice.

"It is identical," was the joint reply of Alderman Graham and Forrester.

Alderman Effie McCabe thought that council was making a little childish. "After all the work of the special committee we found ourselves considered incapable man what do we find. Instead of council abiding by the ruling of the chair we find council ruling against the solicitor's advice."

At this point council voted to allow citizens on Alderman Keegan's amendment calling for the matter to be laid over until after the next election and on reduction in the members of council.

MIGHT LOSE EMPLOYEES CLAIM

Speaking to his amendment, Ald. Keegan warned that appointment of Mr. Bos as city manager would spell trouble at city hall. "Any department head and every city hall was better qualified than the proposed applicant," he said. "We might lose many fine men if they have gone as far as they can in Belleville. Maybe we would lose them," he warned.

Ald. Keegan said that down in his heart he felt a city manager was not needed and there was no point in saddling the taxpayers with another half mill to hire such a man when all that was needed was a good city clerk.

"What are we doing anyway, are we not here to vote?" he asked. "We have authorized the finance committee to bring in a report on duties regarding the duties of a city manager. Let us take time to look into things," he pleaded.

Alderman McCabe agreed there were three department heads at city hall who were very efficient. "But we couldn't appoint all three to the new position, so we had to make a choice elsewhere," she said.

Alderman Ralph Graham said he approved in principle with the first part of Alderman Keegan's motion declaring that no appointment be made until council could decided what the job was and what it was worth. He said, however, that he could not vote for the amendment because of its third part which was nothing to do with city manager.

"There should be appointment of a city manager until his duties are defined and council decides how much he is to be paid," he said.

POSTPONEMENT NOT ANSWER

Alderman Argue said if the words "city manager" had not been used council would not have had to vote on the appointment. "There is no reason to stall and let the thing die," he argued.

Alderman Grandame agreed that postponement of the matter was the answer. He stressed that qualifications were important. "This matter is important in that men presently on the city hall staff were more qualified for the position than Mr. Bos. He will be a serious mistake," he said.

"I am now more confused than ever," stated Ald. Enos David, adding that the alderman had decided council to make decisions and then went on to point in referring this matter to the ratepayers.

"The question is," he said, "should city manager be appointed now."

He said he was opposed to the appointment of Mr. Bos and he would consider resigning from council should he be appointed.

"Mr. Bos has no municipal experience and with it you have experience under a capable city manager at Sarnia was voted down.

Ald. David supported the contention of Alderman Jane and Forrester that the vote taken on October 14th was a "straw" vote. "I was present and I listened to all this argument," observed Alderman David. "This matter has been before council for some months and many questions have been asked. This is a matter of a great fear of a city manager."

Ald. Jane moved to "lay on the hall," he went on. The duties of a city manager could be those of a clerk-comptroller and could be added to."

MAYOR CHARGES FILIBUSTER

Mayor Both objected to the fact that a councillor would point a finger at any member of the appointed committee appointed to investigate the position of city manager.

"Especially you, Alderman David, who made those sarcastic remarks and who should not have had the privilege of sitting on council."

Mayor Both assured council that nothing had been covered up by the committee and that council had been told the number of applications received, a couple of applications received from city hall and "I have had known none of the applicants," he said.

He charged that council had agreed in the first of the special meeting two weeks ago and was doing the same tonight to delay matters.

Alderman David jumped to his feet demanding an apology from the mayor for what he claimed was an attack on his character. "I reserve the right to defend my character," he declared.

Alderman Smith as chairman of the committee as a whole, told of the duties of the board.

Council voted Alderman Keegan's amendment down with a heavy majority, following which Alderman Hyde introduced his amendment calling for the appointment to be postponed until the report of the finance committee on the duties of a city manager and salary to be paid.

He also reviewed matters up to date and said it was his understanding that the vote would be taken on October 14th.

Ald. Forrester supporting the matter some members of council are perfectly satisfied, suggested that information received was that Mr. Bos would be totally dissatisfactory for the job.

He observed that council at the last regular meeting had referred the finance committee to outline the duties of a city manager and to set the salary.

There was some discussion about council receiving full information from the special committee to which Mayor Both said the reason council had not been fully informed was to allow members clear thinking.

Alderman Hyde's amendment was defeated on a vote of 9-6. Opposing were: Aldermen Argue, Clarke, Humphreys, McCabe, Smith, Graham and Both. Favoring the amendment were: Aldermen David, Forrester, Graham, Grandame, Hyde, Keegan and Tice.

Acting clerk Mrs. A. Haggerty then read the by-law appointing Mr. Bos as city manager, together with the list of duties involved.

The by-law was defeated 9-6. Opposing were: Aldermen Argue, David, Forrester, Graham, Grandame, Hyde, Keegan, Mosam and Tice. In favor were: Aldermen Clarke, Humphreys, McCabe, Safe, Smith and Mayor Both.

With the defeat of the by-law: Alderman McCabe rose to her feet to express her disappointment at what she termed was the failure of council to carry out its duty.

"I feel now that the taxpayers will know how lax certain members of council are in carrying out their duties," she said.

Amid shouts of the alderman's remark from a score of taxpayers in the council chamber a movement for adjournment was carried.

Nothing New In Bancroft Fire Probe Say Police

No new developments have taken place in the Provincial C.I.B. investigation into last Saturday's disastrous fire at Bancroft which claimed one life and sent four others to hospital.

Criminal Investigation Branch Inspector R. B. Taylor, who is in charge of the investigation said today at Bancroft that there was "nothing new" to report.

Inspector John Richards of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department, is assisting in the investigation.

Chief Inspector Wilford Franks of the C.I.B. said the investigation had been ordered after no cause could be found for the blaze which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Crawford and brought death to their eight-year-old son, Samuel. Mrs. Crawford and daughter, Mary, are in hospital in Toronto suffering from critical burns sustained when they rescued four younger members of the family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices fluctuated narrowly in first-hour dealings at the Toronto stock exchange today. Industrials posted a fractional index advance with small gains in some key issues. Most activity in senior issues was directed to lower-priced base metals. Western golds were mixed.

Most industrial groups were down but with scattered gains. Canada Steel, frequently traded up 50 $4.50 to 90 on 76 shares. Preston's selected 1⅛ to 130 and Algoma Steel gained a point. Seagram's lost a point.

Senior base metals were fractionally mixed. Among juniors gaining a few pennies were Eastern Iron Bay Lyndhurst, Quebec Nickel and Vicdamac. Base metals ran off 14 at 86. Sherritt, East Sullivan and Quebec Metallurgical were a dime.

Golds improved. Hollinger was ½, and Sullivan added 15 at 25. In a mixed uraniums group, Gunnar dipped ⅛.

Price changes in western oils were limited to about 10 cents in either direction.

Rentals of Park Properties Under Fire at Rotary Club

Is the Belleville Parks Board receiving returns in proportion to its investment in the Fairgrounds?

The debate was touched off by an address delivered by parks board member Jack Devine. Mr. Devine was reiterating remarks he had made previously to several organizations on the city parks situation but made no reference to returns received by his board from renting the Fairgrounds to any organization. The ensuing debate was unexpected.

(1) The board receives $150 a day from the Fair-board for its annual three-day Belleville Fair held on the grounds;

(2) The Club Commodore pays $600 rent a year;

(3) Storage space rented out to various farmers brings in about $1,000 but insurance on the grounds takes about $900 of this.

NOT ADEQUATE RENT CLAIM

Referring to rent paid by the Fair board, Rotarian McLean Hale commented "I do not think $150 a day is adequate rent for the investment you have up there . . . I do not think you get enough from the Club Commodore . . . I do not think you get enough from the Fair board."

Coming to the defence of the parks board, Oriana Pinkston, secretary of the Parks board, pointed out that rents on buildings now being let was assessed and appraised by the Rents Control and the Parks Board has stood by those figures in subsequent years. Storage also is let on a 10-month basis and the building must be cleared in July and August to make way for the Fair.

When the Club Commodore took over its present location in 1941 the building was insured for $7,000. However, it was found that the underpinning at that time was rotted and had to be replaced by the club. Since then all expenses for renovations and extensions to the Commodore premises have been underwritten by the club until today the premises are worth about $20,000.

One Rotarian objected to the Club Commodore rent as "a crying shame" adding: "They are making a fortune up there."

Former Speaker Of Legislature To Be Guest

Rev. M. C. Davies, M.P.P., rector of St. George's Anglican Church, Walkerville, Ontario, and a former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature for three years, will be the guest speaker at the banquet for Moira Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 11, Wednesday evening in the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue.

Mr. Davies has a reputation of being an outstanding orator and all Masons are invited to take advantage of hearing this gifted speaker.

Police Court

Charged with forgery and uttering a worthless cheque, Fred Dafoe, 19, was sentenced to one year in Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in magistrate's court today.

Arrested on the same charges, Russell Culbertson, 17, was given a two-year suspended sentence. He also was ordered to make restitution of $30 for the cheque cashed.

Dafoe also received a sentence of three months concurrent for stealing electric coal.

Both youths reside at 209 Coleman Street.

Police Blotter

Hallowe'en has far from hallowed place in police books this morning. The police nightwatch was kept constantly on the run, investigating complaints, accidents, and infractions of the peace in general.

An inspection of Front St. early this morning is good evidence of what city police were up against.

Charged with disorderly conduct was Wayne Reid, 23, Belleville, who was apprehended attempting to take "No Parking" signs and garbage pails away on a truck.

Police hurried to Queen Mary School shortly before 8 p.m. on a report that stones were being thrown through the school windows. Police, however, found only one in the vicinity on their arrival, while one window was broken in the building.

This occurred while police were investigating another incidence of vandalism also in a city school. Some time during Monday night or shortly afterwards, entrance was gained to the school by breaking a pane of glass in the west wing of the building. Desks in several classrooms were ransacked while it is estimated about $1.50 was missing.

Police also rudely shattered the spell of festive celebrations for Samuel John Cooper, 76-year-old resident of Watertown, N.Y., arrested at the corners of Front and McAnnany streets and charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Taken in tow with him and charged with vagrancy, were Larry Phillips, 17, Bill Broussard, 18, Kingston and William Sharp, 18, Colborne.

Provincial police also are investigating a hit-and-run accident at Bloomfield during the night.

Dr. Reg. Anderson, PSI Head, Announces Increase in Rates

About 226,000 Ontario subscribers will soon pay higher rates for medical coverage under Physicians' Services Inc.

Dr. Reg. Anderson, announced a general increase that will go into effect on the beginning of 1956 and will mean payment increases ranging from five cents to $1.25 per month.

Dr. R. M. Anderson, of Belleville, PSI president, said the increase was forced by higher fees for doctors, greater use of PSI services by subscribers and their dependents and partial depletion of the organization's reserves.

Largest of the increases, 20 per cent, will affect 181,000 subscribers or 485,000 participants, in the PSI Blue Plan, which covers all services rendered by doctors. It will mean a rise from $1.85 to $2.20 per month for single subscribers, $4.25 to $5.10 for subscribers with one dependent and $6.25 to $7.50 for subscribers with more than one dependent.

The 66,000 subscribers to PSI's Brown Plan will have their rates raised 8 per cent — from $1 to $1.05, from $2.25 to $2.55, and from $3.10 to $3.30.

The Brown Plan covers all surgical, obstetrical and medical services rendered by a doctor to a patient in hospital, as well as out of hospital care for fractures, dislocations and diagnostic X-rays.

Dr. Anderson said rates had been affected by the decision of the Ontario Medical Association last year to raise doctors' fees. The PSI, which was created in 1947 by the OMA, in turn needed more money to pay the doctors.

In addition, Dr. Anderson said participants were apparently using their PSI cards more freely. Since 1951 there had been an increase of 80 services per month per 1,000 participants. The third factor—partial depletion of PSI reserves—was due to the increase in-use.

PSI coverage is still offered only through group plans. But Dr. Anderson said there is a reasonable possibility that a plan will be available to individuals some time in 1956. Details have not yet been worked out.

Youths on Trial In Priest's Death

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — After many delays, the trial of three Quebec youths charged with the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest begins today.

Charged with the gun-slaying of 46-year-old Rev. Alfred Quirion of St. Edouard, Alta., are Guy Fortagne, 18, of Riviere des Prairies, Que., and Claude Paquin and Gerard de Tonnancourt, of Montreal who were 17 at the time of their arrest. Both now are 18.

'Sound Shot' Killed Woodward His Wife States

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. William Woodward says it was a noise rather than anything she saw that prompted her to fire the shotgun blast that killed her wealthy sportsman husband.

Propped up in a hospital bed, the attractive blonde widow Monday night gave authorities details of events she said led to the shooting of her husband in their Long Island home early Sunday morning. She broke down when she came to the actual shooting. Nassau county district attorney Frank Coletta said, and the questioning was discontinued for the night.

On the morning of the shooting, police reported that the sobbing and hysterical woman had told them she fired at a figure or shadow she believed it to be a prowler and not recognizing it as her husband.

'MAJOR DISCREPANCY'

Inspector Stuyvesant Pinell, chief of Long Island's Nassau county detectives, said the new information that the shot was prompted by a noise was the "major discrepancy" between her original account and her later story.

However, Pinnell had said earlier that her original story was virtually "useless" because of her "highly disturbed" state at the time.

Thought Dead For Four Days, Girl Revives

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—The condition of a 14-year-old girl now in a government hospital after being believed dead for four days was reported fair today.

Marie Sliebe "died" Thursday after a long illness. A death certificate was issued and, wrapped in a shroud, she was placed in a coffin.

Monday the girl's mother gazed sadly into the coffin shortly before the funeral service was to begin. Maria's eyes suddenly flickered open.

Then she asked for a glass of milk.

An official inquiry is being conducted into the circumstances in which the death certificate was issued.

Lest We Forget

"Lest we forget . . ."

A Remembrance Day tribute to Canada's war dead is currently on display in the window of the Belleville public utilities office, Front St.

Centring the display is a plain white cross. On a grass-like mat in front of the cross is a bouquet of poppies, crossed swords and two helmets. A small card bears the inscription in gold letters "In grateful memory of those who made the Supreme Sacrifice."

The window is sponsored by Zone F-3 of the Canadian Legion which includes branches in Madoc, Tweed, Marmora, Bancroft, Belleville, Stirling, Consecon, Wellington, Picton and Deseronto.

BINGO IS BIGGEST OTTAWA ART

There has been some talk of promoting an international festival of music and art in Ottawa.

Ottawa has been touted as the logical place for such a festival because of its picturesque setting with the Gatineau hills as a backdrop; because it is bilingual, but mostly because Ottawa is Canada's capital city. The opportunity to hear the world's best musicians, see the best in drama, ballet, dance and other art works is one which might give great pleasure to Canadians and offer encouragement to Canadian talent at the same time.

Ottawa is the national capital, to be sure, but when it comes to entertainment and that is what an international arts-music festival would be—Ottawa is definitely not in the big leagues.

Stone, Ont., is about one-eighth the size of Ottawa, but the enthusiasm of some and the talent of many, combined with unbounded energy and a huckster's zeal, promoted the Stratford Shakespearian Festival into the success it has become one entire community project. The National Ballet Company of Canada embarks on coast-to-coast tours of Canada and the United States from Toronto. The Winnipeg Ballet usually includes Ottawa in its itinerary when on tour.

A French-language theatrical company from Montreal brought great distinction to Ottawa during the past year when it played in Paris on invitation from French authorities.

Ottawa has a symphony orchestra whose support depends to a great extent on the receipts of teas and special projects arranged by a women's auxiliary. The only permanent theatrical company in Ottawa, The Canadian Repertory Theatre, ceased its last year after it had attempted by to interest Ottawans in live theatre during six years of back-breaking toil and financial distress.

Ottawans apparently are quite democratic in their non-support of other entertainment offerings. In the space of two years, non-support has caused the demise of Ottawa's entry in the Quebec Senior Hockey League and the sale of its franchise in the International League. The Ottawa Big Four entry in eastern Canada's major football league is, undoubtedly, the weakest member of the league despite an honored history.

Ottawans, admittedly, are superb horticulturists and no one can deny the effective use which they have made of the thousands of tulips donated by Netherlanders in return for countless years of her and her family during World War II. Ottawans are also good curlers and lawn bowlers and when it comes to mass bingos they are in a class by themselves.

But when it comes to playing host to an international entertainment festival, Ottawa is not the obvious choice, on the basis of performers and manifest civic disinterest in everything entertaining except the social evenings of private clubs.

PARROT TROUBLE

A man, it is said, is judged by the company he keeps. This is sometimes considered to be a little less than ideal justice, but there is more to be said in defence of it than judging a man by his vocabulary alone. That what happened to Frank H. Crowe, of Tampa, Fla., the other day. He was in the process of talking a traffic policeman out of the intention of issuing a ticket for going through a red light, when his parrot made a very uncomplimentary reference to the policeman's ancestry. A ticket followed immediately.

This goes to show that a talkative parrot has got a man into trouble in real life, but there is at least one fictional account of an even more embarrassing situation resulting from a parrot failing to keep his beak buttoned.

It seems, (so goes the newspaper version of this story) that a certain lady of the highest moral standards, finding that her husband's business affairs and her daughter's universities studies were forcing them to absent themselves from their home in the evening, decided that she needed some company. After considerable cogitation, she decided that a bird would be a more suitable companion than a dog or cat, since these animals might also develop outside interests. Discarding a canary as unworthy of filling the role of companion to one of her intellect, she decided to purchase a parrot.

A round of the better pet shops failed to satisfy her requirements, and a talkative parrot parted for sale, but their conversational achievements were distinctly limited. At the last shop, though, she was informed that parrots possessing remarkable vocabularies were sometimes to be found in the shops of the waterfront. She gave enough, in a dingy little store she discovered a beautiful bird.

"Does it talk?" she asked.

"Talks? Blimey, talk your ear orff, it will."

"Err—what about?"

"Err—any bad words."

"Lor, luv yer ma'am, h'only the best of H'english. Cawn't understand him 'alf the time."

"I'll take it. Oh, by the way, where did the bird come from."

"From Tony's Saloon, down the street."

"A saloon? Oh, dear me, one of those terrible places. I really don't think I should buy it. But after all, you say the parrot doesn't use any bad language and so I don't really suppose it having been in a saloon will matter. You're sure?"

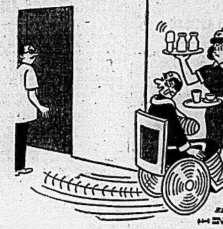
The cage was placed on the table in the living room and the cover lifted.

The parrot looked around.

"Mmm. New saloon," observed the parrot. He cocked his head to one side, closed one eye and cogitated. "Consequently, quiet but dignified," he decided.



He turned and surveyed his new owner.

"New barmaid," said the parrot. "Quiet looking but probably a secret drinker. Never touch the stuff myself."

The living room door opened and the husband, George, and daughter, Sue, of the parrot's new owner strode into the room.

The parrot turned quickly and his eye lighted up. "Ah-ha," he cried, "new saloon, new barmaid, but the same old customers. Hi-yah George and Sue. It looks like another big evening."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 1, 1935

Mr. Addison Vandervoort, deputy-sheriff and clerk for Hastings County, entered upon the duties of office today. When a very young man he became deputy registrar early in October, 1875, and has served the public efficiently continuously since that time. His serving for sixty years in the one office has given him a record of which he may well be proud. His many friends wish him happy years in retirement.

LeRoy Madden, excise examiner on the staff of the local customs, has been transferred to the customs excise staff at Cornwall. His place in the Belleville office will be taken by Mr. Frank J. Carve, who has been transferred from Brockville.

The most severe earthquake experienced in this city and district occurred shortly after one o'clock this morning and wakened citizens from deep slumber. The quake, which lasted approximately one half minute, shook houses and buildings, toppled some bricks from their mooring on a chimney of a house on Bleecker Avenue, rattled dishes in cupboards and pantries and jolted awake sleepers in their beds. Business blocks were not damaged in any way nor were any houses levelled. The disturbance which rumbled across Canada from the head of Lake Superior to the Bay of Fundy, was felt more by residents on the upper floors of tall buildin this city. Occupants of houses in the lower section of the city, between the two hills report that they were barely disturbed. Residents in the suburbs also felt the shock sufficiently to arouse them; Bleecker Avenue residents report that the shock was really severe and they were greatly disturbed. Water, gas and sewer mains were not disturbed. Apparently it was a severe earthquake, but no damage has been reported. The city is apparently all right, and we are thankful it was not greater than it was.

Nov. 1, 1925

The members of the Signal Corps in connection with the Argyll Light Infantry entertained at a highly enjoyable Hallowe'en dance in the armouries last night. About one hundred and fifty young people of this city were present.

Building permits in this city during the month of October totalled $42,000, an increase over the preceding month and greater than the same month last year. Included in the figures are four houses and the balance covers alterations and repairs to properties in excess of $100.

Mr. J. F. McFadden of this city spent several days in Peterborough this week.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 1, 1915

Just to recall to mind well known and good citizens of some years ago, we quote the following item from our files of about this time in 1895: "Ald. A. Robinson entertained a number of his men friends at his handsome residence on Commercial St. (now Highland Avenue) last evening and the event was most enjoyable. The following were present: Mayor J.A. Walmsley, Ald. P. J. Cook, Ald. J. A. Marshall, ex. mayor, Frank Wallbridge, Col. S. S. Lazier, J. J. B. Flint, treasurer, Arthur Ponton, Hamilton, Robert Templeton, John N. Lazier, William Stevenson, Thomas C. Lazier, J. J. Johnston, W. F. Vandervoort, M. Stock, E. M. Thompson, H.N. Smith, A. E. Fish, W. H. Ketcheson, W. Fenton, Ald. H. Wolf, S. G. Retallack, J. Parker Thomas, Thomas Dunnett, Ald. Wm. Ellis, F. Dicker, J. Poucher, W. Applebee, R. J. Orr, Cameron Bleasdell, Chief of Police and Police John Newton. (Note 1955) Mr. Robinson's residence is now "The Manor" — residence for Albert College girl students.

Also from our file copy at this time in 1895: Mr. John Taylor, our new postmaster has not yet returned home from the Northwest where he has been for several weeks. Mr. J. D. Chapman, the veteran postmaster, who is retiring will continue in charge until Mr. Taylor returns.

Nov. 1, 1905

A man engaged by the police department to do patrol work and see that the boys celebrating Hallowe'en kept within bounds evidently met with little trouble in the district to which he was assigned, for, as reported for duty at the police station to be sworn in he had with him a dilapidated old cane chamber loaded, a pair of old fashioned handcuffs, and a rope which resembled a miniature clothesline, and a wheel with which he said was to call for help if needed. The revolver was returned to him after he had discharged the duties as a special policeman for one night.

Stradivari's Secret Found?

(Montreal Gazette)

For more than two centuries since the death of Antonio Stradivari in 1737, the violins made by the famous Cremonese violin maker have steadily risen until, today, a "Stradivarius" is worth a good-sized fortune. The main reason why the instruments have become so fabulously precious is that no violin-maker has since been able to produce an instrument that could rival them in tone.

A violin-maker of Genoa, Maestro Eraclio Rainerl, believes he has finally found the secret and quite by chance. Rainerl says he found pieces of an old sheet of paper in a violin which was containing a violin bought from his uncle. Examining the paper closer, he read the words, "a composition of violin varnish" and the date 1737.

The recipe listed three ingredients, two were common types of resin and a third, unknown to Rainerl. He has since discovered, he says, that the third ingredient can be made from an Indian plant. Pieces of Rainerl's violins have since been treated with the new formula and a warm, velvety tone has been achieved.

Only time will tell.

NOVEMBER

It's November. On the wall
The name the calendar is plain,
Just two dated sheets are all
Of the year that now remain.

Ten were calmly torn away—
Winter, summer and the spring
Though we lived them day by day,
From their earth they've taken wing.

Time for no one ever stays.
Through the calendar it flies.
We have lived ten months or days
And that's hard to realize.

Why so swiftly did they go?
Why so brief must seem a year?
Why so soon we wake and know
That November now is here?

Subway Substitute

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Should the dream of a New York transportation man become a reality, the city's vast daily influx of commuters literally will be "pouredin" into the business area by means of overhead concrete troughs now resembling old Roman aqueducts. They would be funnelled into the metropolis from suburbs within a 50-mile radius area and restored to their homes on the return journey in the evening.

The idea has been put forward by Henry K. Norton, chairman of the New York Committee of the Western Railroad, a former member of the New York City Transit Authority. It would cost $1,500,000,000 according to his estimate.

The Manhattan portion of the 200-mile system — called aerial transit — would be carried 16 feet above the ground on a slightly curved trough whose sides would rise four feet. These one-way troughs would be made of prefabricated virtually noiseless electric cars running a minute or so apart on rubber tires. Steel wheel flanges, running in grooves, would keep the cars steady in case of tire blowouts.

The overhead troughs would be anchored by slender steel or concrete poles to the sidewalks and would not interfere with vehicular traffic. Stations, a mile apart, would be reached by escalator. They would be fully air-cooled with doors corresponding to the doors of subway trains and the danger of anyone being pushed off.

Fares would be arranged to discourage city dwellers from using the system. Outside New York the system would be double-tracked and run for the most part along the right-of-way of established commuter railroads.

Mr. Norton does not believe the cost excessive in view of present costs being sustained through congested traffic conditions. It is not designed to compete with the New York City subways, he says. Nor is it estimated that the system would move 350,000 persons an hour.

In Defence Of Lawyers

(Brantford Expositor)

Boswell tells us that when a man's name is cropped up in conversation one day, Dr. Johnson observed that he did not care to speak ill of any man behind his back, but he believed the gentleman was unlettered. This strength of and hostility to members of the legal profession goes back a long way. Shakespeare made one of the characters in "Henry VI" Part II, claim, "The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers."

Today we find people refer jibingly to "smart-aleck lawyers." Mr. Stock of Mr. Pickwick's fame, ceases to be smart. And the old Dickensian tag put into the mouth of Mr. Bumble, "If the law supposes that, the law is a ass," has been used frequently with public scorn and contempt for lawyers in general.

But let a man run foul of the law, and he will find a lawyer ready to rush to the smartest lawyer he knows.

Most laymen think of a lawyer as one who makes a living pettifogging around in a sea of verbiage and poring over points that have been settled for centuries in the court when a legal victory is won not by a system of words but by strictest economy in their use.

This is admirably illustrated by what happened in the recent income tax evasion trial at Boston. Defending counsel called a parade of character witnesses, the last of them being a meritorious member of the community so he testified that to his knowledge the defendant was a man who was honest in his every rectitude, and an ornament to the community where he had lived for years.

When he had finished, the prosecuting counsel satisfied his cross-examination to a single question—"Would you like to buy the Brooklyn Bridge?" The witness admitted he didn't know, and a major part of the defence case was demolished in those five simple words.

All skilled advocates know the power of one well-aimed question and the potential danger of asking one question too many. If that fraudulent banker, ex-M. P. Horace Greasley, had been content to sit at London's Old Bailey, had ended his examination with the last prosecuter one sentence before he did, he might never have gone to jail. But he had to try to be clever, devastating cross-examiners in reply to Sir Patrick Hastings, one of the wit-barbed, rapier-like questions. In one case he accused, a single question, florid-faced Sir Patrick had been lily-whiting his own character and hadn't. "Are you not known as a drunkard?" asked Carson. "I am a man of business," snapped the witness. A brief pause then Carson quietly asked, "Any other business?"

Who says lawyers aren't smart?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

With very few exceptions, Canadian cities and towns are a disgrace of statuary. I do not mean fine sculpture of noble human figures citizens, or war memorials. But it does seem to me that enough time has elapsed in Canada for some of us to have fallen in love with our cities enough, or cities, and to have felt the need of expressing that love in public terms.

In some of the older countries, and I think of Denmark and Italy right off, though England deserves a thought too, generations do more than generations before them. They generate a compassion for the past and the future. And as you walk the streets of the cities you feel you come unexpectedly on the most splendid tender of statuary—not great stiff mortuary figures, but small, fleeting shapes, breathe in bone, sometimes gay, sometimes sad, but always disturbing to that sense of being a stranger which afflicts us if we are licensed strangers, and inviting us to belong, for the instant, to the place.

They are in the parks and public squares, but also in the streets, forcing traffic to go around them; they are up side-streets which until lit this moment, you thought were side-streets but suddenly appear to be avenues leading to what was given to them by the past. And a past that loved, and having loved, left behind it the gift of love.

To some extent, architecture and town planning, the interest and capture, form time, this love men and women must have to inspire them to feel for their city, their town, their native land. But statuary, small statuary, sculpture, and especially those through a city, in surprising places, meeting it speaks to all ages and conditions of men with universal tender of statuary, in twilight, under the bright sun.

For example, in my city they are slowly but resolutely removing towards the destruction of an old fishing district. When the new town planning blossoms in lean, functional beauty, unlilted figure will say, as he stares slyly up—"I used to live here!"

Michigan reader, telling how her parents lived to the age of 87 and 89 without any teeth or dentures, mentioned that her father could chin himself more times than any of his sons age grandsons could.

Oh, come, now, isn't that going a little too far? These grandsons, I take it, were or are Americans. Surely, Ma'am, you can't expect young Americans to chin themselves, run a mile, turn handsprings and flips and all that there stuff.

That sort of thing just isn't done by the namby-pamby youth of today.

In tests of physical strength of boys from 6 to 16 years of age less than a tenth of the European boys failed to pass, while half of the American boys failed. "We've found by few Canadians can now that we've discontinued the test," said the director of physical education and athletics at a western university. The professor of physical education at another university said have leg muscles, but muscles in the shoulder girdle and in the arms have almost disappeared."

Isn't it about time to squelch for good and all any of the great Canadian myths? I mean I'm afraid to try. Afraid the attempt might aggravate the pain in the neck I've had since I last did my exercises about three or four weeks ago. Whatever slight injury I sustained seems to be nearly healed and I don't want anything to interfere with my resumption of my regular six mile A.M. breakfast in the next week.

Nevertheless, I hope my Chapel Street in Canandaigua we felt sorry for, and it's an entirely different car in its newness, appearance and styling qualities, the dream of many an engineer and designer enters into the performance of the car. Tomorrow's car will be even greater!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A DREAM FOR THE FINEST

It was my privilege to be one of a group of men at the Motor Executives' with some more than 300 newspaper men, to a national conference on the introduction of their new cars, the Continental Mark II, a car on which they have been working for over three years. The meetings were held in the Rotunda, at Dearborn, Michigan, where the new car, in its simplicity and dignity, was unveiled in a most unusual Presell setting.

Henry Ford II, President, and Ernest R. Breech, Chairman of the Board, were guests at the luncheon, and the newspaper men had their say question to them, and were answered by these two and some 24 Vice-Presidents, the heads of departments. Here is a concern that has eyes only for the finest—and the "better things to come." To me that conference was an inspiring experience. I had never had the reading of the daily newspapers, both in Canada and the United States, I am convinced the finest leaders in industry do not plan to sell freedom, they live by it. Short of the cause of the faith and confidence our great leaders have, that we know tomorrow, not better.

Take the automobile as an example. Here is a group of men (from any manufacturer) along side the latest model the world has seen, and it's similarity different car in its newness, appearance and styling qualities, the dream of many an engineer and designer enters into the performance of the car. Tomorrow's car will be even greater!

Many years ago Henry Ford, founder, showed me around h plant. Recently, on his press est exhibition was his first ama car, the car that people laughed at as he gave it a try on the stree of Detroit. Cocktail Party For a Python

(Ottawa Citizen)

Cocktail parties have been eyed askance by some observers of the modern scene. These critics assert that the cocktail party is usually marked by an over-consumption of alcohol and the over-production of elevating conversation.

No doubt there is justification for the criticism levelled at cocktail parties by some of the people who attend them. But it is also true that many cocktail parties are not only enjoyable but also beneficial for boys who escape civilities, the hostile, the hypocritical, the false, the unreal, the boring, to the few at the exclusion of the many. That is to say, not the dimes and dollars the student body is virtually forced to cough up for football equipment, but the cutting of classes and the neglect of proper high school activities in order to pamper and glorify the prima donnas of football.

It is patently obvious, from the fact that so many boys can't chin themselves nowadays, that physical education in America is a costly farce.

No wonder the experts are worried about what is going to happen to America in the coming Olympic games.

This shameful fact is something that every American is pondering. Nearly four and a third millions of men from 18 to 35 years old were given pre-induction physical examinations in the seven years from 1948 to 1955. More than half of them, 2,248,000, were rejected on physical and mental grounds.

No, I'm afraid I can't chin myself. I mean I'm afraid to try. Afraid the attempt might aggravate the pain in the neck I've had since I last did my exercises about three or four weeks ago. Whatever slight injury I sustained seems to be nearly healed and I don't want anything to interfere with my resumption of my regular six mile A.M. breakfast in the next week.

Nevertheless, I hope my Chapel Street in Canandaigua we felt sorry for, and it's an entirely different car in its newness, appearance and styling qualities, the dream of many an engineer and designer enters into the performance of the car. Tomorrow's car will be even greater!

Many years ago Henry Ford, founder, showed me around h plant. Recently, on his press est exhibition was his first ama car, the car that people laughed at as he gave it a try on the stree of Detroit. SOME REFLECTIONS ON PRAYER

The Bible exhorts us to pray without ceasing. How is this possible? We have to work to eat, we sleep eight hours out of the twenty-four. How can we pray? Is not earnest writer urge us to pray without ceasing?

Prayer is more an attitude than it is an utterance. Our desires are prayers. Our aspirations are prayers. our motives are prayers. Every day there should be a specified time set aside for prayer uttered in words, but at all times the attitude of prayer should prevail and man should be such as to constitute prayer, thanksgiving, and petition to God.

"In everything give thanks." Not for everything, but in everything. We cannot thank God for pain, sorrow, or loss; certainly we cannot thank God for the sins into which we so continually fall. But in pain, sorrow, loss, and sin, we can give thanks to God.

"Pray without ceasing"—by the attitude you maintain toward God, the world, and yourself. "In everything give thanks"—by the attitude! We can, but in everything. These injunctions will lead any since man into the path of right living fellowship with the living God.

And the same attitude can be maintained at times and amid all employment This is a variety of prayer.

Here Is Diary of Last Days Of Headline-Making Romance

LONDON (Reuters)—A diary of the swift-moving events of the past weeks leading up to Monday's surprise climax in the romance of Princess Margaret and Group Captain Peter Townsend:

Oct. 13: Townsend flew to Britain from his post as air attache in Brussels on three weeks' leave.

Oct. 13: He drove to Clarence House, the princess' London home, where he met her for the first time in nearly three years. The meeting, of 90 minutes together.

Oct. 14: Clarence House issued this statement: "In view of the varied reports which have been published, the press secretary to the Queen has been authorized to say that no announcement concerning Princess Margaret's personal future is at present contemplated." Townsend and Princess Margaret motored separately from London to meet at the home of Mrs. John Wills, a cousin of the princess, in Windsor forest.

Oct. 15: The princess, telephoning from the forest hideaway, had a long talk with the Queen at Balmoral, Scotland.

Oct. 16: The princess interrupted the "ball-of-worsted" story to attend a private church service with the Queen Mother in the Royal Lodge, Windsor.

Oct. 17: The princess and her suitor motored separately to London. Both spent the evening at the home of Mark Bonham-Carter.

Oct. 18: Townsend called on Princess Margaret for the second time, at Clarence House.

Oct. 19: After presenting new colors to a Highland battalion at Bulford, Wiltshire, the princess flew back to London to dine with the Archbishop of Canterbury and 50 bishops in the banqueting hall of Lambeth Palace.

Oct. 20: Princess Margaret drove to Epsom, to open a new hospital wing. She and Townsend dined together at the London home of Mrs. Wills.

Oct. 21: The couple spent most of the day apart but met again for dinner with some of Princess Margaret's closest friends.

Oct. 22: Townsend drove in the evening to Clarence House where he and the princess spent two hours together. Princess Margaret later motored to Royal Lodge for her first private meeting with the Queen since her reunion with the group captain.

Oct. 23: The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret went to morning service in the royal chapel at Windsor.

Oct. 24: Princess Margaret returned to London and within a few hours was visited at Clarence House by Group Capt. Townsend for the fourth time. This meeting lasted 90 minutes. He and the princess later drove separately to a luxury flat in Kensington for a small dinner party.

Oct. 25: The couple met again at Clarence House. The Archbishop of Canterbury announced his opposition to moves to alter the Church of England's attitude toward divorce.

Oct. 26: The Times said in an editorial that Princess Margaret had decided to marry the divorced airattache she would be "irrevocably disqualified" from carrying out her royal position.

Oct. 27: Princess Margaret paid a surprise visit to Lambeth Palace, where she had tea with Mrs. and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Oct. 28: The princess and her suitor left London within a few minutes of each other and made the 70-mile journey to Uckfield to spend the weekend as guests at a friend.

Oct. 29: Not a clue as to the activities of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend, flying ace and equerry to the late King George VI, leaked out.

Oct. 30: The princess and Townsend remained secluded all day.

Oct. 31: Princess Margaret and her suitor returned separately to London. An hour after arriving at his own apartment, Townsend drove to Clarence House to see Princess Margaret. In the evening the princess released her historic decision.

Archbishop's Religious Beliefs Played Big Part in Romance

LONDON (Reuters) — The staunch religious beliefs of the Archbishop of Canterbury played a big part in Princess Margaret's decision not to marry Group-Captain Peter Townsend.

But his wife who owns the title of Primate of England has in recent years become more and more outspoken when the sanctity of marriage has been threatened.

The archbishop has made it clear neither he nor the Church of England could approve of Margaret's marriage to a divorced man.

Someone once said that "so closely guarded are the archbishop's motions that it looks like something quite out of the ordinary to reveal them."

The archbishop is the only dignitary in Britain who has issued to all the joys and griefs of Britain's fauna.

Royal Family for the last 10 years.

It has been an action-packed decade for the churchman, who never had a parish of his own.

It was he who confirmed a solemn-faced Princess Margaret when she was 13, and pronounced the marriage service of the then Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, christened their first-born, and buried the late King George VI.

And, it was Dr. Fisher who comforted the widow and children, the young Queen's head and named her Queen Elizabeth II.

The archbishop, 68, wends his way through ceremonial with dignity and solemnity — sometimes with the aid of a cleric specially assigned for the task of marshalling out of processions and chatting with friends along the way.

He is known also for a fine sense of recognizing the ridiculous.

He once said to comedian Danny Kaye: "The difference between us is that you are intentionally

19 Years Ago King Edward Renounced Throne for Love

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—In just 19 years Britain has had a king who renounced his throne for love and a princess who placed duty before personal happiness.

Britons were thinking today of Princess Margaret and King Edward VIII, the present Duke of Windsor.

The two revealed in statements packed with the stuff of drama how their career, after tortured examinations of their hearts, to opposite conclusions in confronting similar problems.

In December, 1936, Edward, now Duke of Windsor, in an emotional radio broadcast to the world, said he was stepping down from his exalted place in the Empire so that he might live his life "with the woman I love." A few months later, he was married to Wally Simpson, an American divorcee.

CHOSE PATH OF DUTY

Monday night Princess Margaret said that in a similar situation she chose the way of austere duty.

In 1936, the abdication was the culmination of a long and complicated negotiation in the course of which the King was never able to present his side of the romantic story.

The phrase that sticks in mind after 19 years is his allusion to "the woman I love." She, like Peter Townsend, had agreed against her own case.

He said: I am able to say a few words of my own," Edward said in his broadcast to a tense world.

"I have never wanted to withhold anything but until now it has not been not constitutionally possible for me to speak.

"A few hours ago I discharged my last duty as King and Emperor, and now that I have been succeeded by my brother, the Duke of York, my first words must be to declare my allegiance to him.

"This I do with all my heart. You know all the reasons which have impelled me to renounce the throne.

"But I want you to understand that in making up my mind I did not forget the country or the Empire which, as Prince of Wales and lately as king, I have for 25 years tried to serve. But you must believe me when I tell you that I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge my duties as king as I would wish to do without the support of the woman I love.

HIS ALONE

"And I want you to know that the decision I have made has been mine alone. This was a thing I had to judge entirely for myself. The other person most nearly concerned has tried up to the last to persuade me to take a different course. I have made this the most serious decision of my life, upon the single thought of what would in the end be best for all. . . .

"I now quit altogether, public affairs, and I lay down my burden. It may be some time before I return to my native land, but I shall always follow the fortunes of the British race and Empire with profound interest, and if at any time in the future I can be found of service to His Majesty in a private station I shall not fail.

"And now we all have a new king. I wish him and you, his people, happiness and prosperity with all my heart. God bless you all. God save the King."

MARGARET

wartime clothes rationing and Margaret, like other younger sisters, wore many of Elizabeth's hand-me-downs.

At the end of the war, Margaret at 16 was outgrowing the gawky age. She served an ultimate duty for her first private meeting with the Queen since her reunion with the group captain.

Oct. 23: The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret went to morning service in the royal chapel at Windsor.

Oct. 24: Princess Margaret returned to London and within a few hours was visited at Clarence House by Group Capt. Townsend for the fourth time. This meeting lasted 90 minutes. He and the princess later drove separately to a luxury flat in Kensington for a small dinner party.

Oct. 26: The Times said in an editorial that Princess Margaret had decided to marry the divorced air attache she would be "irrevocably disqualified" from carrying out her royal position.

Oct. 27: Princess Margaret paid a surprise visit to Lambeth Palace, where she had tea with and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

PRINCESS

Wellington Secretary Zealand's Prime Minister Sidney Holland said: "The princess set a shining example to all people. I am sure that this will encouragement to millions throughout the world."

Capetown: The South African parliament today says its act as result of the decision "for the rest of her life Princess Margaret will reap richly of warmth, affection and deeper respect from the people of the Commonwealth."

Colombo: Governor - General Sir Oliver Goonetilleke said: "Ceylon is wailing most anxiously to hear that the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret will be able to accept the invitation to come to Ceylon early in 1957."

Ottawa: There was no official government comment, but The Ottawa Citizen said that the most decisive federal quarters it was felt that the princess might have been damaged had the princess decided to wed the group captain. But there was no doubt that many Canadians sympathized with her position.

Princess Makes Headlines In British Papers

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret's announcement that she will not marry Group Captain Townsend was emblazoned in front-page headlines in papers throughout Britain today.

Typical front-page headlines in London were:

Daily Sketch: "Church's Teaching . . . And My Duty Comes First."

News Chronicle: "Princess Decides 'No.'"

Daily Mirror, "Margaret Decides: Duty Before Love."

Daily Express: "The Romance Is Off."

Daily Herald: "My Duty First."

Daily Telegraph: "Princess Margaret: No Marriage."

Photographs told their own story and some of Group Captain Townsend after his parting visit to Margaret revealed him as grim-faced and tired.

Belleville Woman Wins $3,000 Jackpot

Mrs. Garfield Carson, 13 Brown Street, Belleville, is $3,000 richer this week as result of a telephone call Saturday night out of which she emerged as the winner of the Dominion Stores contest jackpot.

"I thought they were fooling," Mrs. Carson said, "but it turned out that I had won the money."

When the telephone rang, Mrs. Carson answered "Dominion Stores" and named the phantom brand.

Later Mrs. Carson said she always shopped at Dominion Stores and always buys the phantom brand making her eligible for the $1,000 additional prize should she be called by store officials.

She said that she had followed the contest ever since it was started by Dominion Stores.

The above picture shows Mrs. Carson with Belleville Dominion Stores manager, Ernest Mason, lo oking at newspaper advertisement which led to the $3,000 prize.

Front St. Looked Like Dump After Pranksters Got Through

The tricks played by Hallowe'en pranksters last night were no treat for many district residents.

Front Street Tuesday morning looked like a dump. Carloads of garbage put up by merchants for regular pickup had been overturned and strewn on the street.

A box of mortar was spread on the sidewalk in front of the city hall. Some plate glass windows in the Tip Top Tailor store and at National Billiards were broken. Garbage cans were overturned and hung on parking meters.

Every window on Front Street was liberally soaped. In addition to futuristic and abstract pictures some windows bore personal messages for the owners or their employees.

Some street signs on both East and West hills were knocked over and cans were thrown right out of the ground, cement bases and all.

Most householders on the verandah and garden furniture indoors.

The district's most destructive prank reported was the pushing over of more than a dozen rural mail boxes near Bayside. The metal boxes, in many cases, were twisted from their poles and thrown into nearby ditches or fields.

HIGHWAY SIGNS DAMAGED

Some highway signs in the same vicinity were pushed over. A lawn chair was placed on the stone pillar at the entrance to the Jewish cemetery and a milking stool was placed over a mailbox near Bayside.

Middleton Park was quiet.

Swarms of small children were on the streets in costume but little mischief was done and little damage reported.

Downtown Trenton was quiet. Store windows were soaped but not to the same degree as prevailed in Belleville. People on the street were orderly.

A traffic jam in the Front, Bridge East and Pinnacle Streets district began bulbiking about 8 p.m., and remained snarled until nearly 10 p.m. A traffic constable was on duty at the four corners.

Hundreds of persons were on the streets.

Cadets from RCSCC Quinte held a Hallowe'en party at the Sea Cadet shin.

ADULTS HAD GAY TIME

It was a gay night for adults, too.

Patrons of the open-'til-midnight lemonade stands were in fine fettle. Half of them were in costume. Impromptu band concerts were played in most gathering.

A comic touch in one well-patronized whistle wetter was the appearance in the men's room of four gaily bedecked and costumed "ladies," who subsequently turned out to be men.

By the time the disguise was proven to be false it was too late.

Sightseers downtown to view the crowds and the carnage found themselves peering through soaped windows at pranksters tied up traffic. Horn blowing, whether in frustration or as part of the merrymaking, created bedlam or a carnival atmosphere depending on one's point of view.

Steel Tenders Are Extended Until Nov. 9th

TRENTON (Special) — Tenders for the steel to be employed in the erection of the four-lane highway bridge across the Trent River, advertised to close Tuesday, November 2, have been extended to November 9, one week from today. The tenders were first called September 27 of this year.

The Department of Highways called for bids on 1725 tons of steel to be used in the project. Erection is to commence in September 1956 and completion date was set for December in the same year. However owing to the present shortage of steel, dates for erection and completion could be extended.

Plans call to arch over the river between No. 1 and No. 2 dams is considered one of the most scenic links in Highway No. 401.

STARTING NEW BOARD

"Join With a Beard", "That is the title mentioned Don McPherson seeks in his new attempt to form Consolidated Trenton Boards Community Centre drive to raise $70,000 by public subscription. Mr. McPherson has called an impressive crop of chin brush during the centennial celebration in Trenton. He was among those who got together to create interest in that fund drive. Now he intends to start again.

On November 14 Mr. McPherson will be shaving. There'll be a public ceremony the day his whiskers come off.

Town Policemen Praise Conduct Of Celebrants

The morning check of property and no damage is reported. The worst we had to contend with were costumed pranksters marking windows with soap," a senior constable on the force commented.

The first party to be sponsored by the Trenton Kinsmen Club in the city's recreation area, attracted jubilant masqueraders of all ages and kept them entertained for the most part of the evening.

TO ENFORCE ACT

Highway travellers have been warned to heed strictest speeding regulations ever enforced in Ontario. Chief Provincial Police Provincial Police are instructed to arrest drivers who exceed the limit. Plainclothes officers in cars without tell-tale markings are patrolling highways and other members of the force. This is the law's answer to the mounting number of traffic accidents.

REVISION COURT TO SIT

TRENTON. (Special) — Court of Revision hearings will be held in the town office Wednesday, November 9 and Thursday, November 17, inclusive. Some 26 cases are to be reviewed by the council, five of the members of the council exclusive of Mayor Ross Donald and councillor James McDonald.

No Opposition For Mayor Burtt Seen at Present

TRENTON (Special) — As time for nominating candidates for municipal offices draws near electors begin taking interest in the forthcoming election scheduled for the early part of December.

Subject to council's approval tonight the nomination meeting this year will be held in the town hall between 6.30 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.

In other years nominations took place in the daytime and in the evening proposed candidates had the opportunity of accepting or declining nomination. The new policy of combining morning and evening meetings was recommended by town clerk and treasurer, H. W. Larry at the nomination meeting last year.

Whether there is an election this year is the question on the lips of many citizens.

At the present there is no one who has come forward to definitely oppose Mayor Ross Burtt. He will be seeking his third term if he decides to stand again.

Town council field electors can count on a new candidate. He is Grant Coodeg, 27, who has faithfully followed council business here throughout 1955 and showed keen interest right to the end.

Mr. Goodeg publicly announced that if he is nominated he will stand.

For the last four years Mr. Goodeg has been employed by the Central Bridge Steel Company. He is married and resides in the head office here. He is married and recently became the proud father of a baby daughter. He is a home owner with residence at 5 Princess St., Trenton.

Mr. Goodeg is a graduate of the University of Toronto in civil engineering.

Girl Thrown From Car Hood, Is Hospitalized

Playing the Hallowe'en festive role for the full day and night cost a girl to hospital.

Phyllis Henley, 80 West Bridge St., was admitted to Belleville General Hospital with multiple bruises and shock, after she was thrown from her perch on the hood of an automobile on Front St.

Police said a car driven by Ralph Graham, 28 Mqire St. East, was travelling west on Front when a girl sitting on each fender when it collided with the front of an automobile driven by Russell Ritz, 4th concession Thurlow.

The Ritz car had slowed down at the time because of heavy traffic.

Miss Henley was pitched to the ground and later removed to hospital where was to be released later today.

Import-Export Situation Is Not Satisfactory

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, which Monday opened its annual meeting here, say they are not satisfied with Canada's import-export situation.

Mrs. Newman Tuckey, chairman of the women's section, said in her opening speech the federation is not satisfied with the way exports and imports are handled. "The difference between income and expenditures," she said, "has narrowed considerably since the end of the war and on some commodities the profit margin is so slim there is little incentive.

"The farmer and his wife are rapidly becoming more conscious of their economic strength in the country and are anxious to discuss the actual economics of their situation."

NOT AS TRADE BALANCE

Federation president J. A. Ferguson said in an interview "agriculture should be set in a position where it's not used to balance trade."

He referred to the importing of New Zealand cheese and said manufacturers would be upset if trade were lost because of favorable dairy products. There should be an established agriculture policy on a long-term basis.

Delegates passed a resolution asking the Ontario department of health to set up plans for hospital budgeting as a means of encouraging uniformity in hospital administration costs.

More rigid enforcement of driving regulations was also asked.

Humane Soc. Tag Day Nets $644

The Belleville Humane Society Tag Day netted its organizers $644, it was announced today.

Pointing up the spirit of the campaign, the Society held an animal parade on Saturday afternoon from the BCIVS grounds. Dogs, cats, rabbits with the largest animal-world addition of ponies and horses, paraded through the streets, many of them dressed especially for the occasion.

Carrying dog-sized tags bearing such mottos as "Be Kind to Animals", and other slogans of the campaign, the mutts, in every shape and size from the stately Great Dane down, carried themselves proudly through the parade.

Riding in an old 1885 buggy, originally owned by his grandfather, was Ewen Scott White, a cluster of color and fun were given to the procession by two clowns.

Horses from Barney Parsons' stables lent a touch of stateliness while a proud showing was made by the prize-winning ponies of Maurice Parks. Wagons from Reid's dairy also were included in the parade.

Drawing the result of the tag day being made known, the Society issued its thanks to everyone expressing thanks to the citizens of Belleville for making the event a success and all who participated in putting the campaign before the public.

Weddings

CALBERRY—BLAKELY

Tall standards of mauve and pink gladioli, yellow chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely setting on Wednesday, October 19, at 7.00 p.m., in Bridge Street United church, Belleville, when Evelyn Ingelle Blakley of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blakley, was united in marriage to Joseph Calberry of Belleville, son of Mrs. Myrtle Calberry and the late George Calberry.

The Rev. H. M. Lyon, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. St. Alec Hicks presided at the organ for the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Darlene Dalgleish, who rendered before the ceremony "O Perfect Love", and during the signing of the register "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of brocaded taffeta fashioned with fitted bodice having a matching jacket with medium length sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists, and a Peter Pan collar, studded with seed pearls. Her fingertip length veil of silk illusion was caught by a brocaded taffeta headdress and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Margaret Blakley, as maid of honor, sister of the bride, was attired in floor length gown of mauve net over taffeta with matching net jacket.

Mrs. Glenn Wagar, as senior bridesmaid, sister of the groom, was attired in floor length gown of blue net over taffeta with matching jacket.

Miss Kellie Calberry, as flower girl, niece of the groom, was attired in floor length gown of green net over taffeta.

All attendants were matching net studded headdresses and carried yellow, pink, amber and pink and white chrysanthemums respectively.

Mr. Peter Calberry of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. George Calberry of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Robert Jeffery of Trenton, were ushers.

For the reception, which was held at the church parlors with decorations of gladioli, mums and ferns, the bride's mother attired in powder blue with furs and black accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, assisted. The bridegroom's mother attired in navy with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations, assisted.

The bride's table was prettily appointed in white lace and centered by a three-tier pedestal cake topped by three roses and adorned by tall white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquets.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the pastor, to which the bridegroom responded.

For travelling to points east, the bride chose a gown of navy taffeta accented by white polka dots with black accessories and a powder blue coat. Mr. and Mrs. Calberry will reside in Belleville upon their return.

The guests were present from Norwood, Peterborough, Havelock, Campbellford, Hastings, Kingston, Napanee and Belleville.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. James Blakley and Miss Gladys Sloggett of Belleville, and another miscellaneous shower given by Miss Janine Blakley of Belleville.

YOUNG—HODGES

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 29, at 8.00 p.m., in Bridge Street United church, Belleville, when Evelyn Ingelle Blakley of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blakley, was united in marriage to Joseph Calberry of Belleville, son of Mrs. Myrtle Calberry and the late George Calberry.

YOUNG—HODGES

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 29, at 8.00 p.m., in Royal Oak Park, the Paris home of the Rev. and Mrs. Royal Fewsmith, when Thelma Jean Hodges, became the bride of Walter Norman Young.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hodges formerly of this city, and the bridegroom, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Young of Wooler.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. George Ferguson of Trenton and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haley of Toronto.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson, 25 Coby Street, in Galt.

The honeymoon is being spent in Northern Ontario.

Guests were present from Toronto, Brighton, Belleville, Paris and Galt.

MOWERS—MULVILLE

A double-ring ceremony was performed at 11.00 a.m., on October 8, in St. Michael's rectory, Belleville, uniting in marriage Marian Gertrude Mulville, daughter of Mr. Thomas Mulville of Ottawa and the late Mrs. Mulville, to Howard Grant Mowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mowers of Belleville. The Rev. Father Murphy officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white cocktail length gown of brocaded nylon net, over an under skirt of satin and ruffled net, with a fitted brocaded nylon jacket with collar studded with seed pearls and sequins. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a fitted seed pearl crown and she carried a cascade of red roses and adiantum fern.

Mrs. Michael Mulville of Sudbury, was her only attendant, wearing a princess style cocktail gown of turquoise crystalette over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow mums.

Mr. Ted Mowers acted as groomsman for the bridegroom.

Mrs. Bert Mowers assisted, wearing a navy dress with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Hamilton, Niagara and around the Lake, the bride chose a navy two-piece wool dress with red accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mowers will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Sudbury, Oshawa, Desoronto, Napanee, Gananoque, Smiths Falls and Prescott.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Larry Farrar of Belleville. She was also presented with a canister set by her fellow-workers of the Dominion Stores Ltd., Belleville.

'Guest Room Needs' Specified By Girls' Club

The president, Mabel Craig, opened the meeting with singing after which several items of business were discussed. Each member present answered the roll call with "What I would Appreciate in a Guest Room." Some suggestions were, a full-length mirror, a rug, a comfortable chair and flowers.

Group work was under the direction of Mrs. Murray Reid. She asked the members to write out formal and informal invitations, list the things which would make the guest room more beautiful and comfortable and outline the responsibilities of a well-mannered guest.

Mrs. Clifford Reid gave out the home assignments and closed the meeting.

The third meeting will be on November 3, at the home of Mrs. Murray Reid.

Family Honors Parents' 48th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adams, London; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Adams, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Foster, Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Foster, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Colling of Belleville, gathered together on Sunday to honor their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adams, Stanley Street, Belleville, on the occasion of their 48th wedding anniversary.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

FRANKFORD.— The W.M.S. of Frankford United church met recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Charlesworth with ladies present from Stirling, Zion, Stockdale and Batawa. Quiet music was played by Mrs. Leslie Frost. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Walter Morrow.

The topic "The call to commitment" was given by Mrs. Morrow.

The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Morrow in the absence of Mrs. H. J. Medill, treasurer and the roll call showed 17 members and visitors present.

A short business period followed. A duet by Mrs. H. S. Pearce and Mrs. A. Duncan, "Someone has Need of Kindness" was sung, accompanied by Mrs. A. Stirrett of Batawa.

Mrs. Walter Elliott, of Stirling brought greetings from W.A. conference of the Belleville Presbytery. Following this a solo was sung by Mrs. A. Duncan of Batawa, entitled "His Eye is on the Sparrow."

Mrs. S. Martin's fine piano solo was followed by the study period by Mrs. Arthur Packman, of the Stirling United church. Her paper entitled Mrs. Packman told of visiting a lace factory in Brussels; seeing the work being completed in the home and how it ended in perfection. "That is how our lives should be lived, in perfection. Many workers in the shadows, are copying for us, the pattern He sees more clearly than the rest," said the speaker. She quoted from scripture, "A heart in every thought renewed and full of love divine."

She also stated that when a person has experienced the joy of worthwhile conversation, he is not satisfied in trifling gossip and stupid chattery.

She told also of an old blacksmith, who stated that "Dr. Norman never came to his shop without speaking as if he had been a blacksmith all his life, and never left without leaving Christ in his heart, adding 'Lord help me to touch as many lives as possible for Thee, and every life I touch, do thou quicken, whether through the word I speak, the prayer I breath, or the life I live." May I be so with us," said Mrs. Packman as she finished her inspiring message with the words of B. H. Streeter: "Our world is like an Atlantic liner deprived of rudder, compass, gliding calmly on, unable to tackle, yet compelled to go full steam ahead. There is magnificence, comfort and pulsating power, but whither are we going, I want to show," he said "that there is one lesson of history, which men may yet learn, the lesson of God's control and guidance."

Mrs. Morrow thanked Mrs. Packman for her interesting talk and also moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Charlesworth, and Mrs. Reid for serving refreshments.

The ladies of Stockdale, and Batawa brought greetings and the meeting closed with "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Refreshments were served by the hostess Charlesworth and her helpers.

Talk on European Trip Enjoyed By Bridge St. W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United church, was held in the Sunday school rooms, on Tuesday evening, Mrs. E. Fairman presiding.

Visitors were introduced and welcomed, one having come from as far away as New Brunswick and another from British Columbia.

REPORTS GIVEN

Monthly reports were given, showing several successful dinners and reception catered for by different groups. Plans for the coming bazaar and tea were discussed. Also announcement was made of a tea and bake sale to be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Finkle early this month, to assist in raising funds for the new United church project planned to serve the east end of the city on Bleecker Avenue.

The next regular meeting of the W.A. will be a Thanksgiving meeting, Monday, November 28, and will be in charge of the Coronation group.

The program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Dallas and their group. Mrs. Fairman's devotional theme being "The Bread of Life" and the interdependence of mind, body and spirit.

Mrs. Broad gave the Scripture reading, St. John 3:16-18.

Mrs. Lee Riedel sang two beautiful solos, Bach's "Praise, My Soul" and "Bless This House."

SPEAKING

Mrs. Adsett introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Nellie Merry, who had recently made a trip to Europe and had promised to give a few highlights of the trip.

Miss Merry said she wished first to tell of the gorgeous bouquet of flowers and the telegrams and letters received in her stateroom on board ship and how much it meant to her. Miss Merry told of the beauty of Paris in the spring with the chestnut trees in bloom; the drive to Versailles, where Millet painted the simple peasants; the beautiful country; the trip to Nice in Southern France with its famous monastery built on the foundation of an ancient Temple to Venus; Grasse, the centre of the perfume industry; Verona with its castles of Montague and Capulet; Florence, the beautiful with its wealth of art treasures, from the time of Lorenzo, the Magnificent; Rome and its so many great men, Michael Angelo, Machiavelli, Dante.

BEAUTIFUL SCENERY

In closing, Miss Merry said that she wished that cities like Belleville could plan for beauty, for, while Canada was away ahead in practical matters, it would be money well spent to plan for beauty.'

Mrs. May thanked Miss Merry for a fine account of her trip abroad, and for the great pleasure and uplift it had given all who heard her. Mrs. May also thanked Mrs. Riedel for her beautiful solos.

Mrs. Parker invited all to stay for a social half-hour.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Plans Coming Events

The regular monthly meeting of St. Joseph's C.W.L. was held last Monday in the school hall, with Mrs. H. Carr-Brant presiding and 21 members present.

Mrs. G. Williams thanked all who had donated clothing in the recent drive for the Madonna House at Combermere, and then outlined her visit to the Madonna House, giving the members a most interesting picture of the wonderful work done there and the great need for children's and adults' clothing.

Plans were also made for another drive for toys and articles suitable for Christmas gifts to be sent to the Madonna House. Mrs. Williams will be in charge and members were asked to send articles to her home within the next month.

The Radio and T.V. convener recommended the radio program "Radio League of St. Michael's" heard on Sunday at 12.15 p.m. on CBL. The Spiritual convener, reported that those study club will meet the fourth Wednesday of each month and anyone interested is attending would be welcome.

The next euchre is to be held November 3rd will be convened by Mrs. C. Offrell.

A marathon bridge has been scheduled and the first game will be played in November.

Final plans were made for the Hallowe'en tea and sale to be held in early November.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Chipman and her committee.

40 Young People Hold Enjoyable Party

A Hallowe'en party was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church with some 40 young people present, including a load of teenagers brought by the Rev. and Mrs. Ed. Prosser of Port Hope.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing novelty games under the supervision of the Rev. Wendy Collins of the high school Bible club department of Youth for Christ International, and Mr. Bill James of Brantford.

The hall was gaily decorated throughout with large yellow pumpkins, grotesque faces, black cats, yellow and orange streamers and skeletons.

PRIZES AWARDED

Prizes went to the following, Norman Pender, Bob Anderson, Pat Roland and Monica Gay.

The evening closed on a more serious vein of thought—singing of familiar hymns with Miss Helen Spearman at the piano.

A challenging message was given by Mr. Collins and at the conclusion of his message, he encouraged those present to carry their Bibles to school and to witness for Christ. 1 Timothy 4:12—

U. W. Club Awards $100 Scholarship

Miss Monika Bruchmann of BCIVS, as the top grade 13 student with the highest marks in 11 papers was eligible to receive the $100 University Women's Club of Belleville and district scholarship.

However, because Miss Bruchmann had been awarded a $1,200 Watson scholarship in German by Queen's University, the $100 scholarship reverts to the next highest student, Miss Margelle Wheeler of Tweed high school. Miss Wheeler will receive the $100 scholarship and Miss Bruchmann was presented with a scroll from the UWC at the BCIVS commencement exercises Friday evening. Miss Bruchmann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruchmann, Batawa.

Psalm 149:5—"Let the high praises of God be in their mouth, and a two-edged sword in their hand."

A delicious repast of pumpkin tarts, doughnuts, home-made candy, and soft drinks, was served by the Y.F.C. committee.

HOW TO READ COMFORTABLY IN BED

by PEGGY LIDSTONE
Home Lighting Specialist

Do you love to read in bed—but find it difficult because the lighting is poorly placed? Then follow either of these two recipes and see for hours without eye strain!

If you are using a table lamp the beside table on which it rests should be about 28" high. For reading comfort, your lamp shade should be approximately 16" wide and the bottom edge should be 30" above your bed mattress.

If you prefer a wall lamp, see that it is centred above your bed at a height of about 30 inches from the bottom of the shade to the bed mattress. Check that the shade is about 13 inches wide at the bottom. For both these lighting recipes, use the 50/100/150 three-lite bulb.

If you want further information on modern lighting tips write to me, Peggy Lidstone c/o Lighting Institute, Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., 153 Dufferin Street, Toronto, and I will send you FREE a 16 page illustrated booklet "How to Light Condition Your New Home."

Do you rank your best with a glowing summer tan? Then go G-E Sunlamp and stay tanned and healthy-looking all winter long!

They give you exactly the same kind of tan you get on the beach this summer. Even the same Vitamin D! (That means you'll cut down on wintry colds and illness too.)

Just put your G-E Sunlamp into a standard 60 cycle AC or DC light socket—then sit back and let those warm relaxing rays. This popular Sunlamp gives a slow, steady tan almost as cheaply as the sun does. Only $13.35. Why not pick up a G-E Sunlamp today?

BEAUTY

By HELEN JACHECON

THE ESSENCE OF BEAUTY (Part 1: LOVE)

So much stress is laid on the essentials of beauty that one frequently forgets those inner qualities which lend great enchantment to faces which are far from perfect according to physical standards. It is true, of course, that everywoman owes it to herself and to her "public", no matter how small, to look her best at all times. And, as far as the externals are concerned, she can do this by immaculate cleanliness; by good grooming, by taking advantage of all the modern beauty aids and by dressing in her most becoming manner.

'Tis be truly beautiful, however, a woman needs far more than these external aids. For beauty comes from within. And when we say "within" we are not referring to her physical health. This is essential, of course, but even more essential is a beauty of spirit. It has been said that beauty is in the eye of the beholder." No truer word was ever spoken. And it is in spiritual beauty alone that truth of the adage lies. If one analyzes it, one cannot help but see why. For, if externals alone counted, it would be illogical to assume that one could look at a person with, let's say, a definitely ugly nose and say, "Now there is a beautiful face." But if that person radiates such warmth of spirit, such unselfishness, such kindness and consideration that others are immediately drawn to him (or her), then the imperfect nose is not even noticed and people are genuinely sincere when they say, "Now there is a beautiful face."

Love, more than any other emotion in the world puts such beauty in a woman's face that even those apart from her beloved notice it. It is almost axiomatic that every man in the world thinks the woman he loves is the most beautiful in the world. And that is understandable, because, in her, he has found everything in a woman which is desirable to him—or he wouldn't have asked her to marry him. And because she is desirable she is beautiful in his eyes. But loving and being loved also makes a woman beautiful to others. You cannot doubt that if you have ever seen the plainest Jane you know when she first exhibits her engagement ring or when you see her in her bridal gown. No cosmetic in the world can bring such radiance to a woman's face.

There is no cosmetic, either, which can bring the glow of beauty that is reflected in a woman's face when she looks upon her child. And, conversely, to the child, looking adoringly upon a beloved mother, there is no more beautiful woman in the world. Love, it would seem then, is the greatest giver of beauty. But there are other qualities of a woman's spirit which radiate a woman's face and this week we propose to discuss them. All can be acquired and all, if emphasized with sincerity, will truly make a woman beautiful "in the eye of the beholder." What more can one ask?

Fat-Free Recipes

By Mary Moore

In the past week by coincidence a few readers and a couple of friends have written or telephoned for information on fat-free diets. One has a heart case to cook for, another hepatitis (a liver ailment).

I know from previous experience that there are plenty of you circumspect on your own with the puzzle of making fat-free meals, after the doctor intones "No fat in their diet" and leaves without enlarging on this pronouncement.

BLANC MANGE

Two cups hot skim milk, 3 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch or arrowroot flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup cold skim milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. (You may use 1-2 cup skim milk powder and 2 cups water instead of 2 cups skim milk.) Mix cornstarch or arrowroot flour with sugar and salt, then add the cold skim milk and mix. Stir this slowly into hot milk in double boiler until thick. Cover and cook 30 minutes, stirring every ten minutes. Remove from heat, add flavorings, pour into moistened mold or molds and chill. Lovely with apricot puree over it.

IVY'S FAT-FREE SOUP

My neighbor Ivy gave me this recipe because her daughter, who is on a fat-free diet, enjoyed it so much.

One and one-half lbs. perfectly lean stewing beef. If there are any traces of fat or gristle remove them with a knife. Cut meat into small cubes, cover with water and simmer two hours. Add 1 cup each cut up celery, carrots and potatoes and cook 1-3 hour longer with 1 teaspoon salt. Strain out all of the solids and add 1 1-2 tablespoons each rice and barley and 1 cup seedless tomatoes or tomato juice. Simmer long enough to cook rice and barley. Ivy strained out the rice and barley—but you may want to leave them in. Everybody in the family liked this nourishing soup so well Ivy had to make more for the invalid

BILL'S BUTTERMILK PANCAKES

You must have a heavy pan or griddle for these. Two cups unsifted flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 3-4 cups buttermilk. (Melted butter would be added for those on non-restricted diet.) Bake on hot griddle without fat; serve at once with maple syrup, or corn syrup. These are surprisingly good.

TOMATO JELLY

One and 1-3 tablespoons gelatine, 1-3 cup cold water, 2 1-2 cups tomatoes, 1-4 cup water, 1 bay leaf, 1 slice onion, 1-8 teaspoon dried celery leaves or 1-4 stalk raw celery, 4 cloves, 4 pepper berries, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Soak gelatine in cold water. Simmer next eight ingredients 20 minutes; add lemon juice. Pour over softened gelatine, stir till gelatine is dissolved, strain. There should be two cups. Pour into moistened molds and chill. Chopped parsley may be added at last minute if desired. Serve on lettuce and, if the doctor permits it, add a large scoop of cottage cheese.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN BRIDE'S FATHER SAYS, "HER MOTHER AND I DO"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Don't I remember that you have said in your column that you enthusiastically approve of the bride's father responding "Her mother and I do" to the clergyman's question, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" I was, and am, very much impressed with this idea. Since I dearly love my mother and father and we three have been so close always, and since they completely approve of "our" marriage, I'd like to have my father say this. But he's never heard of this, and hesitates to make this response.

— Grace C.

I do heartily approve of the bride's father making this charmingly "inclusive" response, "Her mother and I do." And I've noticed that it is being increasingly used. It's easy to see why, for, after all, the "giving in marriage" is equally important and significant to both parents. And so many courtly fathers say these words with such grace, looking tenderly at the bride's mother, that it is a high and memorable moment.

They are very fine children and love one another very much.

My husband drinks an awful lot, and gets very abusive. When drunk, he says and does many things that hurt, such as calling me and also my two children bad names. Although he adopted these children a few months ago, he now refuses to accept them. He seems to have no feeling at all for any of us, and picks at everything either I or they do.

He keeps all of us in a dreadful-ly upset state, and I have begun to feel that if I stay with him much longer, I will go out of my mind. I have no place to go, otherwise I would leave him.

Can you advise me what to do, or help me find some place to go with my children? I know they cannot stand much more of this.

— Mrs. J.W.

Dear Mrs. J.W.

The most helpful thing you could do, I think, would be to get in touch with the organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous and ask their advice on this problem. If you will write a letter to the main headquarters of this organization, you will be sent the name and address—probably, also, a phone number you can call—of someone in the nearest group who will be glad to talk with you and advise you.

Will you do this? I am sure you will get the kind of practical help of which you are so greatly in need.

Farmer Assails Co-operative Formed by Hog Producers

ss wydzya HOGS BGT novik

STRATFORD (CP)—The legal position of the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative was assailed Monday by Theodore Parker, Exeter township farmer, who has been conducting a one-man campaign against certain marketing regulations during the past two years.

Mr. Parker interviewed department of agriculture and marketing board officials at Toronto Monday and on his return home Monday night issued a statement as a result of information obtained in the interviews.

"It appears that the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative is operating without any legal authority," he said.

Parker said he went to Toronto with three questions which his legal counsel had advised him to ask:

These were: (1) "Show me the appointment filed with the marketing board for the co-operative to operate." He reported that C. F. Perkins, chairman of the farm products marketing board said there was no appointment filed.

(2) "Were there any further regulations passed since Bill 86 came in force. If so, I demand to see them." He said Mr. Perkins told him there were no further regulations.

(3) "Were all persons marketing hogs in the province, upon marketing them, notified that they had become members of the Hog Producers' Co-Operative? To that question he said Mr. Perkins answered "No."

Mr. Parker said that as a result of the answer to these questions "it appears that the agency has no authority whatever to collect the 24-cent fee on hogs sold and to require the packers to deduct the fee.

"The agency also would have no authority to direct marketing."

Parker created a furore in hog marketing circles when he first started his campaign against United Livestock Sales about two years ago. He said at that time that the ULS was not an authorized agency and when he instituted court action against the sales agency and the hog producers' marketing board a new marketing system was proposed.

The new organization was called the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative and was given tentative approval by hog producers who attended a meeting in Guelph shortly after the court action was abandoned.

A few weeks ago Parker announced he was starting a new court action against the co-operative on the grounds it had never been legally established and because membership in it is compulsory.

His other points in opposition to the co-operative included a campaign against direction in marketing whereby hogs had to be channelled through points set up by the co-operative.

TOLL NOW NINE

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Nine persons now have lost their lives in the fiery crash of wealthy Joel Thorne's plane into an apartment house Oct. 17. Thorne who was flying alone, and two others were killed and seven persons critically burned at the time of the accident. Six of the injured have died. The most recent victim was nine-year-old Patty Marchica, who died Saturday. Her father, mother and brother died earlier of burns.

PASSENGERS RESCUED

BOSTON (AP)—A power line fire on the west Boston bridge Sunday night crippled rapid transit service and stranded some 175 passengers on two trains. Firefighters used ladder on the bridge when cables caught fire, short-circuiting all power.

A CURTIS MAGAZINE

WESTERN POWERS

The surface impression that Molotov was shifting position was strengthened by his indicated willingness to accept what he called the Eden plan for a disarmament zone along the East-West frontier of Europe. Britain's Sir Anthony Eden had spoken of the possibility of such a zone at last July's "summit" conference in Geneva.

OBJECTIONABLE FEATURES

A quick Western study of the Molotov plan, however, showed these important features which diplomats said would assure its rejection.

1. The Molotov treaty would perpetuate the division of Germany indefinitely and give equal treaty status to West Germany, and to East Germany which the Western powers do not recognize.

2. The zone plan would serve the same purpose because it would use the East-West dividing line inside Germany as the centre of the zone.

3. Even from Russia's point of view the treaty would not provide any substantial security against revival of militarism in the reunited Germany.

STUDY CONTACTS

Monday, the ministers also turned their attention to the possibilities of expanding East-West contacts through trade, travel and information.

All four agreed that this would be a good thing, in general, and settled on the appointment of a committee of experts to study some two dozen separate proposals and to report back to the ministers Nov. 10.

Molotov introduced a five-point plan for the consideration of these experts. It is aimed at breaking down Western restrictions on the sale of strategic goods to Russia, stimulating the exchange of technical information in such fields as atomic energy, broadening East-West travel and getting Red China into such organizations as the international Labor Office, which is associated with the United Nations.

WESTERN PLAN

Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay laid out a 17-point program to end Russia's jamming of foreign radio broadcasts, open Soviet borders to tourist travel and commercial airline service, end news censorship and in general to shatter the Iron Curtain.

Diplomats expect that there will be some general agreements making expansion of East-West contacts easier. But they do not expect Russia to make any radical changes in the Iron Curtain, and say the Western powers have no intention of dropping their ban on the sale of strategic goods to the Communists because of security considerations.

PRINCESS SAYS

As the statement was issued, Townsend was driving to a country home at Uckfield where he and the princess spent last weekend. For the first time since returning to England Oct. 12 he told reporters where he was going—and even asked if they could show him the way.

Back in London, Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, informed in advance of Margaret's statement, attended the royal film festival in a Leicester square cinema. A great throng watched them arrive, and the crowd grew as word of the decision spread through the capital.

Police remained within the darkened walls of Clarence House with the Queen Mother.

Fog shrouded the glow of gas lamps, and dulled the outline of the four-storey cream-colored Georgian mansion just off the Mall.

There was no crowd. Only a handful of photographers stood gossiping in low tones at the gate. Light shone through the curtains of three of the upper windows. A single policeman stood chatting with one of the guardsmen.

IT TAKES FORTITUDE

A girl who performs in a cabaret was standing outside Clarence House when the decision was issued.

"It takes a lot of guts to give up the man you love," the girl said. "I think she has more courage than her uncle."

She was referring to the Duke of Windsor, who 19 years ago abdicated the throne he had ascended as Edward VIII to marry "the woman I love"—the twice-divorced American Wallis Warfield Simpson.

"It's the only thing she could do, poor kid," Mrs. Mary Keller, a factory worker in London's east end, said. "I wouldn't be a member of the Royal Family for all the money in the world. They can't please themselves like us ordinary folk."

Several in the group outside Clarence House gave the reaction: "what a shame!"

Townsend was with Margaret at Clarence House for more than two hours just before she issued her statement of renunciation.

Having reached her heartrending decision, Margaret will continue to be swept along in the tide of ceremony and social activity that surrounds the Royal Family. She must continue to appear in public with no opportunity to hide herself from the world during her emotional stress. Many think this will be best for her in the long run.

Wednesday evening she will attend a service at St. Paul's Cathedral. Thursday evening she will attend a glittering Buckingham Palace event — a presentation party given by the Queen for the diplomatic corps.

Saturday she will accompany the Queen and the duke for the British Legion festival in Albert Hall. Sunday she and the rest of the Royal Family will attend the national Remembrance Day service in Whitehall honoring the dead of two world wars.

BANCROFT

Living North of 54th Parallel Described H-S Assoc.

BANCROFT. — "Living North of the 54th Parallel" was the subject of an address given by Mrs. Amy Smith at the regular meeting of the Home and School Association held at the school with president, Mrs. A. Weiss in the chair.

Introduced by the president, Mrs. Smith told her listeners of the mystery, beauty and adventure she experienced living among Indians at Norway House, and at Behren's River. The area was accessible by boat only in the summer, and in winter, was completely isolated.

GREAT ATTRACTIONS

During the lonely months there was time to live and, once adjusted to northern life, its attractions were great. Friends were good friends and the Indians, a kind and helpful people, made excellent neighbors. "Once a northerner always a northerner", concluded the speaker, adding that experience leaving life in the north will, from time to time, feel the urge to return.

Mrs. Smith was thanked by Mrs. F. Wiggins.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY CANCELLED

The president announced that the association had decided, with regret, to cancel the annual Hallowe'en party since suitable accommodation was not available. She hoped that parents would arrange house parties in their homes.

The treasurer reported a balance of $78 and Mrs. C. Wilson was appointed convener for the teachers' group meeting on November 3rd.

Room roll call was won by Mrs. F. Wiggins.

Rossmore

LADIES' AID BAZAAR

ROSSMORE — Rossmore Ladies' Aid Society held a successful tea and bazaar at Tobe's County Gardens, Wednesday afternoon. The day was beautiful and the tea room festive with azaleas, 'mums, and nicely decorated sale tables.

Mrs. Charles Reddick received at the door, and Mrs. Kropinak was convener for the apron table. Mrs. Vera Clapp successfully convened the candy table and Mrs. Wilma Reddick was in charge of the home cooking table which was well attended.

The fancy work table was in charge of Mrs. Florence Pollitt.

Mrs. Root and Mrs. Chambers poured tea. While Meadames Belnay, Moy, Hannah and Vance attended the tea tables.

The drawing of the door prize, won by Miss Rosemary Bladen, brought a pleasant and successful afternoon to a close.

The evening euchre was held at Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson's home, Wednesday evening. Five tables were at play and prizes awarded according to score.

The afternoon euchre was held at the home of Mrs. Root, Thursday.

Compared With 1954, Bruins Hottest Thing In National Hockey League

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

GOODIES TONIGHT!

According to reports on the Kingston Goodyears-Whitby Dunlops clash in Kingston this eve. night, the Goodyears have lost none of their flair for the argumentative and willingness to mix matters. Playing coach Les Douglas and some of his merry men became embroiled in an argument over an official decision and, 'tis stated, the official thumb wagged right merrily.

By the time the smoke of battle had cleared Douglas had been tabbed with two misconducts and an automatic game misconduct. Nicholson drew a misconduct and a game misconduct while Londry drew a ten-minute sentence. They say it was a right merry ole battle of words and thumbs.

That Goodies will be at full strength here tonight when they make their seasonal debut against the TPT's. And they will be out for victory blood, for they have yet to taste the sweets of win potion. Meanwhile, the TPT's struck some sort of stride in their victorious safari down Cornwall way on Sunday. Chum Pryis led the shock troops with Gus Leonard and Bert Hill doing yeoman service in an assisting capacity. The team showed much better finish around the nets than they did in the opening game against Whitby and they should give their pet hockey "hate", Ken Johnson, a busy time this evening.

MINOR HOCKEY

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association's "Lower Canada" representative, Doug Patterson, of Stirling, is losing no time getting the moppets' organization under way. Doug has called a special meeting for Wednesday night for West Hastings' local officers at Stirling where much preliminary work is expected to be done. Doug works faithfully and well for his organization and for the kids in general and it is due to his untiring efforts that minor hockey down thisaway has enjoyed unqualified success.

All managers, coaches and sponsors of the district are invited to attend the meeting so that organization for the season coming up will get under way.

THE GAELS' DAY

The foot went back into football in Kingston, Saturday, and 13,500 fans, a Richardson stadium record, go the biggest boot of the current intercolligiate campaign from a pulre-pounding performance that reached its throbbing climax just 23 seconds before the final flag.

Queen's Golden Gaels edged by Varsity Blues into the championship round of the college league Saturday and won its first good chance at a stitie since 1937 in a game that was harder to believe than fiction. The Gaels, sparked by the all-round play of dynamic Ron Stewart, and the hard charging of Gary Shreider and Bill Surphlis, built up an 8-1 lead at half time on the strength of Schreider's juggling catch of a 30-yard heave from quarterback Gus Bracela only 22 seconds remaining until half time.

The Blues came back in the fourth quarter with a converted touchdown and a field goal to take a 10-8 lead with only four minutes and 32 seconds remaining in the game. When Varsity intercepted a Bracela heave to Perry it looked like the end of the Gaels' chances. But Ron Stewart, out in the flat, took a pass from the Varsity 50 and scampered to the 15. An end run by Stewart netted nothing and Schreider, smashing off left tackle, moved the ball down to the seven yard line and in front of the goal posts, where Thompson, who had pumped two other field goal attempts wide of the mark, punted and who had converted Schreider's touchdown, boomed the ball through for the winning three points as the stadium fans went wild.

Bracela, who held the ball, did somersaults. Thompson bounced up and down like he was riding a pogo stick. The Queen's line, which had had its troubles all afternoon, nearly mobbed him. There were whoops of joy mounting almost to hysteria everywhere in the packed stadium except in the Varsity rooting section which after the minutes earlier had erupted into a celebration that would have done New Year's Eve proud.

The Gael defence, weakened more than a little when all-star centre Gary Lewis was injured on the opening kick-off, had trouble containing the line plunging of hard-charging Don Cheeseman, Wally Bulchak and all-star Phil Muntz. Tackle Jim Hughes, and Lou Bruce, the "pony backfield" of Stewart, Schreider and Surphlis, and Bracela were the Gael stars.

After the game Queen's won the toss to select the site of a playoff game should Varsity and Queen's meet. The Gaels picked Kingston. The championship game will be played Saturday, November 12th.

TEEPEES COMING HERE

TPT manager "Red" Doran announced today that the St. Catharines Teepees, crack junior "A" hockey club, will play an exhibition game here on Wednesday, November 16 against the Senior "B" club.

The Teepees who will play Quebec clubs in the St. Laurent trophy series, will stop off at both Brockville and Belleville on their way home, to play exhibition games. They are rated as one of the top clubs in junior ranks and there should be special local interest since Bobby Hull, Point Anne's gift to junior "A" hockey is one of the Teeps' centre ice stars.

Named Coach At Goderich

GODERICH (CP)—Jackie White, 24, formerly of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, will act as playing coach for the Goderich Aces, Stratford Indians and Cleveland Barons. The first workout under the new coach is scheduled for Tuesday night.

Beantowners Tied for Second With Rangers, Black Hawks; Scoring Ahead Last Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Somewhere in this early National Hockey League race there's a topsy-turvy situation aside from the baffling first-place position of the Detroit Red Wings. You can't go wrong if you single out the Boston Bruins as the real surprise packet, with Chicago Black Hawks a close second.

There's no surprise at Montreal Canadiens leading the pack, at present by a four-point margin. There has been some eyebrow lifting at Dave Creighton of New York Rangers remaining at the top of the point-scorers in an even-steven battle with Montreal's Jean Beliveau. Each has 13 points. But behind them, with the exception of Rangers' Ron Murphy, it's the same old pack of Red Wings and Canadiens in hot pursuit.

AND NOW THE BRUINS

Compared with their showing last season at this stage, the Bruins are the hottest thing in the league. If they ever break loose with a scoring punch the whole league can take for shelter.

In their first nine games last season the Bruins had collected only five points and were in last place. In the same number they have 10 points and are sitting pretty in the three-way tie for second place.

That's only part of the story. A year ago the Bruins had been scored on 31 times. To date this season the Bruins have been scored only 14 goals. Offensively, the Bruins are not quite up to last year's mark. 14 goals this season compared with 19.

This goals-against reduction of 55 per cent can't necessarily be attributed entirely to the great Terry Sawchuk in the Boston nets. Last year with Detroit, in the same number of games, Sawchuk had been beaten 20 times.

HIGHEST SCORERS

The Bruins' defensive strength is pointed up by the pehlion of their highest point-getters in the current official NHL statistics. They are Lorne Ferguson and Don McKenney with they are tied for first place. Ferguson has scored three goals and two assists while Kenney one goal and four assists.

Chicago Black Hawks, who finished last year 32 points behind the best best improvement. In 11 games last year they had scored only six points. Their for-and-against record is good for 22 and 31, while last year it is 25 and 22.

Despite the Rangers' second-place spot, they have exactly the same for-and-against scoring record: 31 and 26 this year, 26 and 28 last.

Toronto Maple Leafs have nine points now compared with 10 at the same stage last year. In the goal record they're not doing so well: 16 for and 26 against, this year; 23 and 21 last year.

RED WINGS RECORD

Last year at this time the Red Wings had collected 13 points. This year, only 10 games, they have only seven. The for-and-against count is 25-22, compared with 29-21 last year.

Creighton and Beliveau each scored one goal and had two assists in games last week, leaving them deadlocked at 13 points. Because he has more goals, Creighton ranks on top.

Ron Murphy picked up two goals and an assist and remains tied for third place, with 12 points, with Gordie Howe of Detroit. Howe collected three assists. Murphy's eight goals set the pace in that department. Beliveau leads on assists with 10.

Army May Get Johnny Podres

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Johnny Podres, who pitched Brooklyn to victory in the world championship, has been ordered by his draft board to report for a physical examination, the Plattsburgh Press-Republican said Monday.

The 22-year-old Podres could not be reached. He was reported on a trip to Montreal.

Podres has played three seasons with the Brooklyn baseball club. On his 22nd birthday last month he pitched Brooklyn to an 8-3 world series victory and in the final series game he shut out the Yankees 2-0.

FASTEETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plate or dentures. Helps check "plate" odor or feeling. Checks "denture breath" (due to systemic acidity). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Pat Abbruzzi Retains Grip On Point Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Halfback Pat Abbruzzi of Montreal Alouettes counted 10 points on two touchdowns to maintain his grip on first place in the Big Four football scoring race here last week.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the former Rhode Island State College backfielder with 19 touchdowns for a total of 95 points, six more than runner-up Al Pfeifer of Toronto Argonauts. Pfeifer, former Fordham University end, picked up nine points on Argo touchdowns in Argos' win over Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday.

Joey Par of Montreal is third with 60 points.

Bill Graham of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen won the Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring title when the league wound up its regular schedule Sunday.

He rolled up a total of 71 points in 12 games, scoring sayen touchdowns, 33 converts and one single point. He was edged by 70 points of Geno Cappelletti of Sarnia Imperials, who in 10 games scored five touchdowns, three field goals, 26 converts and three singles. Cookie Gilchrist finished in third place with 61 points.

Johnny Evans of McGill Redmen counted 10 points on two touchdowns as Redmen Weinert of Jacksonville Quarterback Club to move into first place among the scorers in the senior intercollegiate league. He now has 11 points, one more than Ron Stewart of Queen's who was held scoreless in the Gawls' win over University of Toronto Blues. Peter Maik of Varsity is in third place with 10 points.

Trappers Whip Lumber Kings

NORTH BAY (CP)—Pembroke's injury-plagued Lumber Kings absorbed a 6-2 setback from North Bay Trappers Monday night when they opened a two-game grind of five games in six days.

Victory for the Trappers shunted them into a tie with the Kings for last place in the five-team NOHA Senior intermediate race.

The fast-stepping line of Cord Myles, Stan Sowell and Buck Eloi produced the most punch for Trappers with Maxwell and Elik getting two goals each. Myles registered a single. Bob Barlow and Tony Pasin were the other North Bay snipers.

Bologna, Italy—Francesco Cavicchi, Italy, defeated Joe Ygraves, Jamaica, 8 (Bygraves disqualified for fouling—no weights available, but heavyweights).

BEAT ST. LOUIS

TORONTO (CP) — Philadelphia Warriors edged St. Louis Hawks 97-91 in an exhibition basketball game here Monday night. The teams are members of the United States National Basketball Association.

Alex Webster One of Best In Pro Football

And the Redskins, who let him go to Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four last season because he wasn't good enough defensively, are probably kicking themselves because they made no attempt to get him back when he returned to the U.S.

Webster, a 215-pounder from Searcy, N.J., who was leading scorer and most valuable player in the Big Four last season, scored two touchdowns Sunday, on a 52-yard run and a 41-yard pass play. What made his performance all the more remarkable was that he had emerged from hospital only Saturday after being laid low with concussion from the game here a week earlier.

Football Here Is Big Thing Says 'Peahead'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Football in Canada is becoming bigger and better, Doug (Peahead) Walker, coach of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, told the Jacksonville Quarterback Club Monday night.

"At present there are mostly about 10 colleges in Canada that have football teams and the high school football is about equal to the small played in the United States 25 years ago," he said. "But Canada is taking big steps forward."

Walker said Canadian pro teams do not like to be unjustly accused of having "imported players" who already had contracts with National Football League teams.

"Only one team in Canada has persisted in signing NFL players," Walker said, without naming the team.

Larks' Stars Outclass Those Of National Loop

MONTREAL (CP) — Compared with record performances in the National Football League in the United States, the statistical account of the doings of quarterback Sam Etcheverry and halfback Pat Abbruzzi show that stars of Montreal Alouettes are outclassing the NFL's top men.

In 11 games Etcheverry has thrown 29 touchdown passes. The NFL record is 36 in 12 games by Sid Luckman of Chicago Bears.

In passes completed for yardage every's total now stands at 212, compared with the 1947 NFL record of 210 by Sammy Baugh.

Etcheverry's pass yardage this season has reached 2,400. Luckman's NFL record is 2,938.

Pat Abbruzzi has gained 1,171 yards on the ground in 11 games. Norman Van Buren holds the NFL mark of 1,146 in 12 games, made in 1949.

Abbruzzi's 19 touchdowns—three above the old record in the Big Four League—belters Van Buren's NFL record of 18 made in 1945.

HORSE SHOW TO BEGIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The 67th edition of the National Horse Show, boasting 512 equine performers, four international jumping teams and two new classes, begins an eight-day run in Madison Square Garden today.

As usual, the international jumping—the division that produces the hardest riding and fiercest competition—will command most of the attention from the galleries. The United States, Mexico, Canada and Ireland all have entered teams.

Giovanelli Wins Over Italian

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Giovanelli, lanky Brooklyn welterweight, used his long reach and superior boxing ability to whip stocky Paolo Melis of Italy on a unanimous 10-round decision Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena. Giovanelli weighed 150½, Melis 148½.

Melis, now fighting out of Montreal, was examined after the seventh round by Dr. Alexander Schiff of New York state athletic commission. Giovanelli had sliced Melis' left eyebrow in their fourth round and drew blood from a cut on the bridge of the Italian's nose in the sixth.

WANTS BRUIN DEAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Managing director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens indicated Monday he "Boonin is the aggressive type" Ton Bruins that would bring Marcel Bonin to the Montreal National Hockey League club. Dick Gamble is the Montreal player mentioned as likely to figure in a trade.

Bonin is the aggressive type we like and he can hand out solid body-checks," said Selke. Bonin played with Detroit Red Wings last season and figured in a Detroit-Boston trade in the off-season.

UNEXPECTED SUPPORT

The resultless calling for his reinstatement was passed at the British Columbia Yukon convention of the Canada-Progressive party.

SKI CHAMPION DIES

HELSINKI (AP) — Finland' Tauno Lairo, 23, holder of the world ski jumping record of 452 feet, died Saturday. He had suffered from diabetes.

PICTON — "Miss Supertest II" will not try for the world speedboat record this year. The damage done on the third run in the record-breaking attempt yesterday revealed that the boat broke an engine rod. "Miss Supertest" and co-owners J. Gordon Thompson and son, James Thompson, of London, left for home shortly before eight a.m. today.

Canadian Speedboat Mark Set by 'Miss Supertest II"; May Seek World Record Today

PICTON — Ripping approximately sixteen miles off the former mark, "Miss Supertest II", a $240,000 speedboat beauty with a power plant of 3,000 h.p. roared to a new Canadian record here yesterday.

Bill Braden, of Waterdown, Ont., near Hamilton, realized one of two life dreams when he sent the handsome craft flashing over the five-mile course on Picton's famed nautical raceway a short distance east of the town.

Braden was cheered by Bill Finlayson, editor of Canadian Boating, a member of the Canadian Boating Federation, and other official timers, at 154 miles per hour. The former record of 139.58 m.p.h. was set here some years ago by Harold Wilson in his ill-fated "Miss Canada IV."

The top Canadian speedboat driver, who got out of a sick bed on Saturday to be here to drive "Miss Supertest" hoped to take the boat over the course today in quest of a new world record, at present held by Stan Sayers of Seattle and his "Slo-Mo-Shun". The record is 178 miles per hour.

The mark of 202.3 miles per hour set by Donald Campbell in the famous "Bluebird" is not recognized by North American speed boat officials because she is driven by jet-turbo engines.

LENGTHY WAIT

The new Canadian record climaxed a lengthy wait on the part of Messrs. J. Gordon Thompson and his son James of London, Ont., co-owners of the craft, who have been here awaiting favorable opportunities since October 25th.

The first sanctioned day for the attempt was Sunday, October 30, but rough, choppy waves blown by a cross wind prevented the after-dawn planned attempt by Danny Foster, head of Guy Lombardo's racing crew who are here with "Miss Supertest."

Later heavy rain started to fall and while the water subsided, Foster after a second run in which he attained over 150 miles per hour said that visibility was poor for getting worthwhile trials. Were called off after an all-day wait.

Braden sent "Miss Supertest" roaring over the five-mile course on two runs necessary for the establishing of a record. The entire course is five miles in length with the craft timed as she crossed the start of the middle mile after getting up speed for two miles. The mean average on the runs back and fro are taken as the official time.

BROKE ROD

The driver drove the trim craft over the course on the third run and then semi-disaster struck. It was stated that "Miss Supertest" broke a rod in her Rolls-Royce Griffon engine said to be valued at $70,000. It was stated then that the boat would be through for the season.

Apparently the damage was not as serious as first anticipated for the word was released later that the craft would try for a new world record today.

It is the first time that "Miss Supertest" has tested the Picton course, which was selected by Braden as the best on the continent for record-breaking attempts. The Hamilton driver has raced here on several occasions and has won several trophies, although he never quite got to winning the famed Picton Gold Cup.

The course on the Bay of Quinte, a mile or so east of Picton, nestles in a natural amphitheatre with high sloping hills stretching upward from the shoreline. The tree-topped slopes in most cases affords a wind break and it was mainly for this reason the Picton raceway was selected.

Final Tribute Paid To Clarke Griffith

WASHINGTON (AP) — They buried Clark Griffith Monday after a minister told a hushed gathering at the Hamline Methodist church that Griffith "did more than anyone past or present for organized baseball."

Rev. J. A. Leatherman described the death of the 85-year-old baseball veteran last Thursday as "opening day in the Great Beyond" for him.

"It is game time in a new and wonderful land beginning a season of eternal value and meaning," the minister said.

Among those assembled to pay a last tribute to the late president of the Washington American League club were baseball greats, past and present, from Homus Wagner to Eddie Yost.

Cavicchi Wins From Jamaican

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — European heavyweight champion Francesco Cavicchi was awarded an eight-round victory over Jamaica's Joe Bygraves on a foul Monday night while flat on his back.

Bygraves pressed the fight all the way and was leading by a wide margin when he knocked the Italian down in the eighth round with an uppercut.

While Cavicchi was still out of action the referee, after a long consultation with the judges, issued a verdict giving Cavicchi the bout on a foul. He didn't explain, but apparently he thought the punches to Cavicchi's stomach were low.

Toronto Boxer Wins Decision

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's Al McLean was awarded a five-round decision over Jorma Ahopelto of Sudbury Monday night in the main bout of the weekly amateur boxing card.

The Sudbury boxer was unable to score effectively from the outside, and when he moved in, McLean tied him up. They fought in the 147-pound main event.

Red Ledbetter of Sudbury was awarded a three-round decision over Vern Wilson of Toronto in a 170-pound preliminary. Ray Galante, Hamilton, decisioned Sudbury's Nels Bribbels in a 146-pound, five-round preliminary.

Three Tied For Grid Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Maryland, Oklahoma and Michigan, continuing a race that's as knotted up as a coach's nerves, still are 1-2-3 in the U.S. college football ratings.

The seventh weekly Associated Press poll drew the season's heaviest vote but it left the situation unchanged with Maryland on top by a handful of points.

The tabulation today of 220 ballots brought Maryland 74 first-place votes and a total of 1,884 points—counted on the usual basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second and so on. Just behind came Oklahoma with 54 firsts and 1,852 points, then Michigan with 53 for 1,774.

Voyles Denies Coach Offer From Winnipeg

HAMILTON (CP)—Carl Voyles, coach and general manager of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four Football Union, Monday night denied reports that he has been offered a job to coach Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"I haven't been offered a coaching job by the Bombers or any other team in the West or East," Voyles said. "Al Sherman of the Bombers is a personal friend of mine and stories like this annoy me. As far as I'm concerned, he's doing a good job with the Bombers."

An Ottawa report said Monday it has learned that Bombers, in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, were seeking Voyles' services for next season.

At Winnipeg, Ralph Misener, president of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Monday denied the report.

He said the report is "100-per-cent wrong."

"I haven't seen or talked to Voyles since last August during which, at no time, was there any discussion in regard to Winnipeg coaching."

AFTER TICKETS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Offices of the British Columbia Lions were ransacked here early Monday by thieves apparently looking for Grey Cup tickets," team manager Phil Webb said.

"They didn't have got a couple of dollars," Webb said, "but our Grey Cup tickets haven't arrived. When they do, they'll go into a bank or trust company."

Lieutenant-Governor Guaranteed Minimum of 5 Years in Office

OTTAWA (CP) — Lieutenant-Governor David MacLaren of New Brunswick today became the 12th person to act for 10 years or more as the sovereign's representative in a Canadian province.

The longest term as lieutenant-governor of a province was that of Hon. J. C. Bowen of Alberta who served nearly 13 years. He held office from March 20, 1937, to Feb. 1, 1950.

Under the British North America Act, a lieutenant-governor is guaranteed a minimum of five years in office, subject to removal only with cause. After the five years are up he remains in office until a successor is appointed.

MAY STAY LONGER

The practice, however, is for a lieutenant-governor to receive a second or third five-year appointment if the federal cabinet wishes him to remain in office.

A former mayor of Saint John, Mr. MacLaren succeeded Hon. William G. Clark as lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick. He was appointed federal minister of national revenue in April, 1943, by the late Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and was defeated at the June 11 general election that year. He took office as lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick on Nov. 1, 1945.

Mr. MacLaren, who celebrated his 63rd birthday Oct. 27 is the second lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick to hold office for 10 years. The other was Hon. William Pugsley, who served from Nov. 8, 1917 to Feb. 26, 1928.

Quebec, Alberta, Nova Scotia and Manitoba also have had two lieutenant-governors who served 10 years. Saskatchewan and British Columbia each have had one.

SERVED 10 YEARS

By provinces, lieutenant-governors with 10 or more years service:

Quebec—Sir Louis A. Jette, Feb. 21, 1898, to Sept. 1908, and Sir Eugene Fiset, Jan. 1, 1940, to Oct. 1, 1950.

Alberta—Mr. Bowen and Hon. Robert C. Brett, Oct. 6, 1915, to Oct. 20, 1925.

Nova Scotia—Sir A.G. Archibald, July 4, 1873, to July 4, 1883, and Sir Malachy Bowes Daley, July 11, 1930, to July 26, 1940.

New Brunswick—Mr. MacLaren and Mr. Pugsley.

Manitoba — Hon. R. F. McWilliams, Nov. 1, 1940, to Aug. 1, 1953, and Sir D. C. McMillan, Oct. 15, 1900, to July 22, 1911.

British Columbia—Sir J. A. Aikins, Aug. 5, 1916 to Oct. 25, 1926.

SALARIES, ALLOWANCES

The lieutenant-governors of Ontario and Quebec each receive a salary of $10,000 a year from the federal government. The Queen's representative in Prince Edward Island receives $8,000, those in the remaining provinces $9,000.

In addition to their annual salary, lieutenant-governors receive an entertainment allowance up-to a maximum of $12,000 a year. Allowances to the 10 lieutenant-governors in the 1953-54 fiscal year, last period for which figures are available, totalled $84,000 compared with total salaries of $91,000.

Newfoundland—Sir Leonard Outerbridge, Sept. 5, 1949; P. E. I.—Hon. T. William Prowse, Oct. 1, 1950; Nova Scotia—Hon. Alistair Fraser, Oct. 1, 1952; Quebec—Hon. Gaspard Fauteux, Oct. 1, 1952; Ontario—Hon. Louis O. Breithaupt, Feb. 18, 1952; Manitoba—Hon. John S. McDiarmid, Oct. 1, 1953; Saskatchewan—Hon. John B. Patterson, July 4, 1951; Alberta—Hon. J. J. Bowlen, Feb. 1, 1950; British Columbia — Hon. Frank McKenzie Ross, Oct. 1, 1955.

LIONS FREE RICCA

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Lions, boers of six straight games, Monday gave up on Jim Ricca and asked waivers on the hulking lineman who was supposed to take the place of the retired Les Bingaman.

The 6-foot-4, 270-pound Ricca was acquired from Washington Redskins along with end Walt Yowarsky in a trade for Laverne Torgeson, co-captain of the Lions last season. Tod Torgeson, former Michigan State star, is a brother of Laverne.

First problem of a pair of bridge hands may give you the idea that you have several problems. An obvious study of the best plan of play, however, usually resolves into one major line of operation.

NORTH
♠A 5 32
♥A 3
♦K 8
♣A 7 6 4 2

WEST
♠Q J 10 7 6
♥J 10 8

SOUTH

♣9 4

South was declarer at a small slam contract of six diamonds and opening lead from West was spade queen. The result should be the same even if west had decided to start with the lead of some other suit.

As soon as dummy hand goes down it looks as if three operations need attention. One is the pulling of trumps. Another is ruffing the dummy black losers. A third is ruffing south heart losers.

Close scrutiny eliminates all but ruffing hearts. Because if the south heart losers are ruffed, dummy black losers are no problem. Nor is it necessary to draw trumps.

Declarer simply cashed his three dummy aces and his own major kings. He then ruffed a heart in dummy and ruffed a dummy club in south. Then he ruffed the fourth south heart in dummy.

By now all that south has left are five trumps, one of which he gives up and the rest of the tricks are his own. And all this time east can take only one trick despite his five trumps.

Realizing the importance of using both dummy trumps for ruffing south hearts, a very careful player would consider something special. This is to consider using the king on the first heart ruff.

See what could happen If the first heart ruff was with eight-spot and east had no more hearts? He could overruff and return a trump. The loss of a fourth south heart would then defeat the slam.

On the other hand, ruffing first with the king loses nothing. A trump trick must be lost to the opponent anyway. So, if the second heart ruff with eightpool is overruffed it is no loss. Play safe.

Canada Paying More Than Lip Service to GATT

By FORBES RHODE
Canadian Press Business Editor

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)— Leading trading nations pay lip service to the objectives of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, but with the exception of Canada very few countries have lived up to their obligations, says a statement before the annual convention of the Canadian Exporters Association.

The statement is from the association's policy and recommendations committee, chaired by T. R. Gavin of Toronto, with Andree Scipio chairman of the Montreal subcommittee.

Convention delegates, who received the declaration Monday, will mull it over and give final decision on it Wednesday.

SUMS UP GRIEVANCES

The statement sums up exporters' grievances in a trading world which accepts Canada-hearts, a very semi-processed materials in large quantities, but, in the opinion of Canadian manufacturers, erects almost insurmountable barriers in one way or another against Canadian finished goods.

The United States was the particular target of criticism, but the United Kingdom and other countries came in for criticism too.

According to opinion expressed Monday the average American is unaware of the manner in which the United States treats its best customer.

In an unusual and somewhat dramatic move, the association will ask if it adopts the recommendation of its policy and recommendations committee, carry its case directly to the president and Congress of the United States.

OUTLINE POSITION

In this presentation it would present summary outlining the recent Canadian purchases from the United States over United States purchases by Canada, and emphasize that American purchases are chiefly of Canadian raw materials.

"Somehow it seems ludicrous that a nation with 10 times our population could not absorb at least two or three times the amount we purchase from them.

"The fact that we consistently buy more from the United States than they are prepared to import from Canada must be given more serious consideration by our trade negotiators."

Rubber Dinghy Used During Rare Operation

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Doctors used an air force rubber dinghy filled with ice during a rare "deep freeze" operation on a Sydney woman's heart.

The dinghy was used to ensure that the woman lay immobile at stages of the "freezing" and "defreezing" process.

The woman was anaesthetized and placed on the inflated rubber dinghy on an operating table. The dinghy was then lifted and filled with iced water and pieces of ice. Her body took 40 minutes to "freeze". Then it was kept at temperature of 98.4 degrees Fahrenheit by 84 degrees.

The operation was performed with the woman still packed in ice. In the critical stage the mercury movement on the operating table would have been zero.

After the operation the dinghy was deflated and the ice removed. Then it was gently pumped up again and filled with warm water to start the defreezing process.

The woman, aged 33, had been resigned to dying within a few years. She was born with a hole in her heart. The hole caused blood to bypass her lungs, thus draining her vitality. Since childhood she had led a dull, listless existence. Now, in her bed at Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, she is making plans for a new and full life.

A doctor said the operation in which the woman's heart was "darned like a sock" was the first of its kind in Australia.

HOT "ROD" POPS

MOUND CITY, Ill. (AP)—State parole officer John Lloyd Current, fetching it while his wife was in hospital, stored his .32-calibre pistol in the gas oven. Mrs. Curren came home, popped a pan of rolls into the oven and lit it. The first shot went off just as Curren asked his wife if she had removed the gun. The couple dashed outside until the five other bullets fired.

Grace Kelly Keeps Curves Under Control With Oatmeal

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Diet-conscious citizens may be happy to learn that Grace Kelly has weight problems, too.

Having heard that she is renting the hillside home of author Gaylord Hauser, I inquired if the lease required her to follow his food fads—yogurt, blackstrap molasses and dulf like that.

"No," she replied seriously. "I like yogurt, but I don't like blackstrap molasses. I don't especially go for the health foods. Health bars depress me."

But she admitted that she has to diet now and then.

How does she keep the Kelly curves under control? It starts with oatmeal in the morning.

"Oatmeal is best," she remarked, munching on a carrot stick. "I have to get up at six to be at the studio on time. Oatmeal keeps me from getting hungry until 11. If you get hungry before that, then you get started on the doughnut routine, and that can be dangerous."

While making films in England she learned the custom of "elevenses." That's when the British film makers stop production for a spot of tea or coffee. She misses the custom here.

She has a light lunch, but usually succumbs to a big dinner, often sometimes she backslides with a heavy dessert, "then I pay for it all week."

AT THE CAPITOL — Blanche Yurka and Celia Adler in Sholom Aleichem's "Tevye's Daughters" which opens Nov. 7, 8, 9 at the Capitol Theatre. This spectacular romantic adventure of Tevye's most popular years is based on the famous stories of Sholom Aleichem and Scholl.

Jersey Joe To Play Role In Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was upstairs in the Hollywood YMCA and two old men were sparring in the ring. One of them was Jersey Joe Walcott.

When an onlooker called "time," Jersey Joe was puffing a little and sweating a lot from trying to knock off 15 or 20 pounds he has picked up since he retired.

The former heavyweight champion is here to act a part in a movie about fooxing, "The Harder They Fall." He gets a trainer but he wants to look in shape for one brief boxing sequence.

As for the fight game, well, Walcott says he won't even watch a bout anymore. He wanted him in the ring at the recent Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore match. Joe stayed at his home in Camden, N.J.

"The way it is," he said, "I'm afraid if I got to watching I'd get overexcited about one of the fighters—some weakness or something—and I might get the idea that I could beat him, that maybe I could make one more fight.

"So, well, I just stay away."

Walcott was reminded that Archie Moore had said Joe, in effect, "run down he had. Rocky down in the opening round of their first battle, Joe grinned.

"I wonder what Moore was doing then he had Marciano down" he countered.

London Couple Die Instantly In Car Crash

LONDON, Ont., (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Allen, both 25, died in their car, crushed beneath the tractor of a highway transport, here on Thanksgiving Monday night on No. 2 highway at the third concession of West Nissouri township.

The London couple died instantly said coroner P. J. Sweeney, who ordered an inquest.

The Allens were eastbound in their car when they collided head-on with the westbound tractor trailer, loaded with three air compressor units, provincial police said.

Driver of the truck, Stanley Archer, 23, of Willowdale, Toronto suburb, was treated in hospital for hurt. He swerved his truck to the right and the Allison service struck out at the intersection. It was at that time the car was under the truck.

Police quoted Archer as saying the car was momentarily passing another car when it met the truck. It was flattened to a height of about three feet, police said.

Traffic piled up for miles in both directions as police with tow trucks worked to separate the two vehicles before they were able to remove the bodies from the car, which resembled baled steel. It took more than an hour to pry the two apart.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 2, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Favorable Moon, Mercury and Uranus rays to inspire those who are truly ambitious and eager to accomplish. But sensible planning and action are always advised. Don't forget lunch.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Business and the professions are both favored now. A good day on the whole, especially if you put forth your best efforts.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—This can be a peak day for mental work, for acquiring new connections of value, seeking and gaining clients, customers. A good day for conferences, thinking, motion.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—There are good chances for achievement now. Don't shy away from any task because it seems difficult.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—You may have to give yourself an extra "push" in some matters but the day generally is stimulating for most interests and activities. Keep alert but don't overtax yourself.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Similar to Gemini. New and unusual ideas and methods may be just what you need now to put your particular interests out front. Be happy; trust in God's help.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—And your day is like Taurus! Much depends upon your obligations and how you handle them. You may have to follow certain rules, advice; do so - - - and find new benefits.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mars' position on this mostly generous day warns one and all not to invite contention or cause needless hurts by a domineering attitude. You can achieve your aims by gentle persuasion.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Grand results if you follow advice to Scorpio. You are so quick in thought and deed that you need to control these tendencies occasionally. A fine day generally.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—This is not a day in which to indulge in whims but one in which to take action based on good plans, knowledge of your subject and thought of future results. You sound-thinking, reliable folk can be progressive, make gains.

January 22 to February 22 (Aquarius)—If you don't achieve all you'd like to this day, don't become discouraged. Pitch into your schedule, co-operate confidently and take advise cheerfully, and you will make some gains.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A fine planetary day - - - to be followed by other promising ones. You may feel an upurge enthusiasm. Good, but do not attempt too many undertakings at one time. Go forward steadily.

You Born Today are purposeful, strong-minded, a seeker of knowledge. Unless tactful and reasonable, you can make enemies, though you may not deserve them. You can cope with difficult people and situations. You have splendid qualifications for achievement, social acclaim, and can handle a position of authority. Much is up to you, how well you develop and use your God-given assets. Trade, industry, finance, any number of professions, or a religious calling are open to you.

Police Chief Of Palmerston Is Discharged

PALMERSTON (CP) — Town council Monday night discharged police chief Albert Cowan after hearing him defend himself against eight charges of disobedience, neglect of duty and insubordination.

The council sent Cowan a list of the charges last week and then asked him to defend himself. After denying all the charges, Cowan was called out to settle a domestic complaint. By the time he had returned council had settled unanimously to fire him and had adjourned.

The dismissal, effective Nov. 30, was a result of charges that go back to November, 1953. Three times previously the council had asked Cowan to resign and finally it resorted to dismissal action under the Police Act, which requires that the officer be given a chance to defend himself and that council pass a by-law to fire him.

Women's Auxiliary Presents 'Isolette' to Trenton Hospital

MIDDLETON PARK — The Royal Canadian Air Forces Women's Auxiliary will pass the ten thousand dollar mark with the donation of the "Isolette" to the Trenton Memorial Hospital nursery.

The "Isolette," considered as the most modern and efficient incubator available, is already credited with saving many infants lives in hospitals where it is in use. In spite of the high cost of the "Isolette," which is $885, the vote on Monday night's W.A. meeting was unanimously in favor of the donation to the hospital.

Dr. Keith Petertin, prominent Belleville pediatrician, attended the Women's Auxiliary meeting to explain the advantages of "Isolette" over conventional incubators.

"The first day of life," pointed out Dr. Peterkin, "is the most hazardous of a young baby's development. The greater percentage of infants die the first day of life than at any other time during their first year. On the average, about 40 percent of births are premature, but the 'Isolette' is a lifesaving machine."

Pack Scouters are again invited to attend the "Akela Course" for Cub leaders to be held November 4th and 5th on RCAF Station Trenton.

A successful "Preliminary Training Course" was held in January of this year with representatives from Belleville and Trenton districts totalling almost 60.

Material Witness In Recent Arrests Is Threatened

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Monday they believe a material witness in recent gun-gangster arrests here who did not reappear in court Monday has been threatened.

Evelyn Nasseau, 29, was released on $200 bail last week after being arrested on a holding charge of vagrancy. Her name was called at the start and end of court proceedings Monday but she did not answer. Magistrate F. C. Cullen ordered her bail estreated and a warrant issued for her arrest.

FREED ON BAIL

The men, Stephen Feron, Charles and William Ingwer and Linus Coghlan, were arrested last Monday on charges of keeping a bawdy house but were released Monday on bail.

Bail for Feron and Charles Ingwer was set at $25,000; William Ingwer, $5,000 and Coghlan, $3,000. They are to appear in court here Nov. 2.

Names of witnesses who testified at the special hearing were not released by police said, there was fear of retaliation.

SPINTEX INSULATION

Spintex, a long-fiber mineral wool, will form a dense barrier in the walls and roof areas of your house. In summer, this barrier shuts heat out; in winter it keeps heat in. And the fuel savings it effects year after year repay its first cost over and over again. For Spintex insulation retains its high efficiency as long as the house stands, and will never need further attention.

For free folder on Spintex insulation see your J-M dealer or approved insulation contractor. Or write to Canadian Johns-Manville, Dept. M-314, 565 Lakeshore Rd. E., Port Credit, Ont.

"BRAN-ANA" NUT BREAD

½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1½ cups mashed ripe bananas
½ cup chopped nutmeats
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
THE NATURAL LAXATIVE

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran, bananas and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Add to first mixture with nutmeats, stirring only until combined. Spread in well-greased 9½ x 4½ inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 hour.

You can't go ALL-OUT IF you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. The strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—try all these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 33

Russia Proposes German Council To Seek Accord

West Likely to Reject Plan; Buffer Zone Proposal Out

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union introduced to the Big Four foreign ministers' conference today a plan to set up an all-German council to bridge differences between the Bonn and Communist East Berlin regimes.

The plan followed in its broad lines ideas expounded by the East German government in a 3,000-word statement submitted to the conference secretary-general Tuesday.

The Russian plan envisages the continued division of Germany for an unspecified period. It also is designed to win recognition for the East Germans from the outset by the establishment of an all-German council consisting of representatives of both East and West German governments.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's proposal contained no surprises and in its form was regarded by Western observers as certain to be rejected by Britain, the United States and France.

Western officials said today said the British government is abandoning its plan for an East-West German buffer zone at the urging of the U. S. government.

The proposal was first put forward by Prime Minister Eden at the July summit conference here. The United States, however, feared the Eden plan would freeze the division of Germany and fix the present status of Soviet satellites in Europe.

As a result of a shift in the British position here in recent weeks, the informants said, Britain, France and the U.S. now support the creation of a buffer zone only after Germany is unified.

HOPED TO CAUSE SPLIT

They said Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov apparently hoped to put Britain and the Soviet Union on the same side of one issue at least, and thus divide Britain and the U.S. and limit adoption of the earlier British plan.

But he apparently did not appreciate that the West again would unite on washing out of the Eden plan before planning for an experiment in disagreement in a divided Germany.

Fresh evidence of Molotov's basic opposition to German reunification, except on his own terms, came in a report from an off-the-record meeting of Communist correspondents by Leonid Ilyichev, the Soviet press chief. Some of those present quoted Ilyichev as saying "there will be no German unification" on this conference. The Soviet delegation later denied he had said it.

CALLED NOBLE MESSAGE

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The official Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano today published the text of Princess Margaret's decision not to marry Peter Townsend, and terms it a "noble" message.

This was the first time that the Vatican daily had mentioned the subject. It made no other comment.

D. BEN-GURION RESUMES POST AS ISRAEL'S PREMIER

Wants to Meet Nasser And Other Arab Leaders

JERUSALEM (AP)—David Ben-Gurion returned today as Israel's premier after a two-year break, and immediately offered to meet Egypt's premier and other Arab leaders at once in order to achieve a peaceful settlement of Middle East conflicts.

The Jewish elder statesman, who also is defense minister of Israel, said in a speech in the Parliament that he wants to meet Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and every other Arab ruler as "soon as possible."

A short time before a Syrian army spokesman in Damascus charged that Israeli army posts, supported by armored boats, opened fire from the western side of the Sea of Galilee on Syrian army posts on the eastern shore Tuesday night. The Syrians said the firing continued for two hours, but that the latest outbreak reported no casualties.

RED ARMS FLOW

In recent weeks Israel has been alarmed by Soviet interest in the Middle East and a flow of heavy arms from Communist Czechoslovakia to Egypt.

The 69-year-old Ben-Gurion said the proposed meeting with Arab rulers could be arranged "without any prior conditions."

Israel was "ready for a lasting and enduring peace settlement and for long-term political, economic and cultural co-operation between us and her neighbors in the area.

"If the other side is not yet ready for that we would also agree to a limited settlement providing for assurance of full implementation of the armistice agreements, mutual elimination of all incidents and hostile acts, boycott and blockade, observance of freedom of the seas and any additional arrangements agreeable to both sides.

"The Egyptian government and other Arab governments have the opportunity to show the world what they really want—war or peace."

WANTS TO MEET NASSER

Ben-Gurion, who was Israel's first premier after the state was established on May 14, 1948, left December, 1953, and went to live in a agricultural settlement in the Negev desert. He emphasized then that no country should be dependent on one man.

But last Feb. 17 he agreed to join Premier Moshe Sharett's cabinet as defence minister.

It was almost on the eve of Israel's parliamentary elections last July that Ben-Gurion wouldn't join the first Sharett government. The Mapai (Labor) party to which he and Sharett belong won a substantial plurality in the voting but not a clear majority in Parliament. Ben-Gurion has spent the time since in consolidating a coalition government. He made his first fresh support Tuesday night when the religious - orthodox Mizrachi party decided to join the cabinet, making it a five-party coalition.

Predicted Budget Deficit Will Be Reduced a Third By Expanding Economy--Harris

NEW YORK (CP) — Finance Minister Harris of Canada today predicted his budget deficit this fiscal year will be at least one-third less than the $150,000,000 he forecast last spring. His reason: an expanding economy.

He made his optimistic statement at a luncheon meeting of New York's Canadian Club in a speech reviewing Canada's economy.

Mr. Harris said Canada's productivity, bounding back from the 1954 recession, now is seven per cent above 1953's high levels.

"Although our rate of activity is high, there appears to be no ground for assuming any change of direction in the predictable future."

He said his forecast last spring of a $510,000,000 deficit for the current 1955-56 fiscal year was made "when evidence of accelerating recovery was not yet clear."

"Events are turning out rather better than I expected and it now appears probable that the actual deficit for this fiscal year will be at least one-third less than I forecast."

The statement was included in textual notes of a speech issued in the press before delivery.

"The federal government had a $152,000,000 deficit in the 1954 year ending last spring, following eight consecutive years of budget surpluses.

"In Ottawa, there have been reports that Canada's total productivity will rise to a record $25,250,000,000 this year — $1,000,000,000 higher than Mr. Harris' April forecast and $2,25,000,000 above last year."

Mr. Harris' speech touched on wide crackdown on speeding and careless drivers is a success."

Magistrates Get Suggestions On Handling Traffic Cases

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General K. Roberts said in a statement today every magistrate in Ontario has received a letter containing suggestions for dealing with traffic violators so they will be influenced by a court appearance.

He said "prosecutions for traffic offences have over the years come to be regarded as of somewhat less importance than many other types of prosecutions" and he is trying to correct the error.

Inspector T. S. Trimble of the Ontario Provincial Police said the Deep-Freeze Unit Saves Life Of Mary Crawford

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto hospital's deep-freeze unit today was credited with saving the life of a 14-year-old girl severely burned in her home Saturday.

Mary Crawford and her mother, Mrs. Reginald Crawford of Bancroft, 60 miles north of Peterborough, were taken to St. Michael's Hospital. Doctors said the girl had third-degree burns.

Officials said the girl's metabolism was too high. The freezing unit lowers temperatures to 70 degrees. Both the girl and her mother who did not take the treatments were reported improved.

Plan Speedway North of Toronto

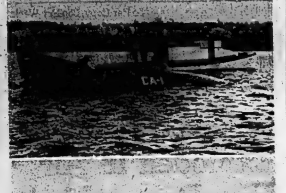
TORONTO (CP) — Hugh Green, a member of the Maple Leaf Auto Racing Club, said today a holding company plans to develop a site at Lake Simcoe for a speedway on the size of Indianapolis Speedway.

Ketchby is 30 miles north of Toronto.

Mr. Green said financial arrangements with United States interests are in their final stages. The track will feature two races a year, he said, "one similar to the "Indianpolis 500," the other similar to the "Grand Prix" which features European drivers.

The track would have a stadium seating "tens of thousands" spectators.

Former Rector Admits Lying In Court Case



LONDON (Reuters)—An 88-year-old retired Church of England rector has told a court that he was bribed "to tell all the lies I could possibly manufacture" in a case in which he was charged of kniling a rival.

"It was all lies," white-haired Rev. Basil Andrews shouted from the witness box. "I am thoroughly ashamed."

Andrews was testifying for the first time since he was arrested on (Spot) Comer, Mrs. Rita Comer and three other persons charged with conspiring to defeat the course of justice at Comer's trial.

COUPLE OF SKUNKS VISITING IN CITY

The skunks, large as life and twice as bold, trotted out for a brief breath of fresh air, and a drink of water from a street puddle. They continued about their business while one car went by but finally took to a nearby lawn as a pair of headlights drew close.

LIONS CLUB PREXY GUEST AT TRENTON

Harry Gibson, president of the Belleville Lions Club, was a special guest at the Trenton club luncheon, when the Cobourg Lions Club was entertained. The Cobourg "tail-twisters" entered the banquet hall to the strains of three bagpipes and as many drums.

PURSE CONTAINING $109 RETURNED

Diogenes would not have to look far in Picton for his honest man, Sunday night Mrs. Effie Gordon of the Prince Edward town lost a purse containing $109. Mrs. Norman Martin of Picton who found the purse returned it to the Gazette office — and Mrs. Gordon recovered her loss.

STUPID TO SHOOT AT SEAGULLS, SAYS SENATOR FRASER

Persons who shoot seagulls will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, Senator A. A. Fraser, Trenton, stated the other day. The senator was seated on the edge of his boat feeding gulls, when a loose boat loomed out of the haze. Its occupants firing two rifle shots at the gulls. The senator stated it was a "stupid, heartless and needless thing to do."

KIWANIANS HEAR CONVENTION REPORT

Weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club yesterday heard reports on the OQK Kiwanis district convention from three of its members.

All three gave separate reports to the club on the district's big event of the year, held in London, Ont.

TPT DEFENCEMAN DRAWS SUSPENSION

"Red" Doran, manager of the Belleville T.P.T.'s, O.H.A. Senior "B" team has received notice sent by O.H.A. business manager Bill Hanley that defenceman Jack Hedderman, Bob Wilson is indefinitely suspended.

Wilson was involved in an incident with referee Ted Topping at the Belleville Arena game here on Tuesday night and received a match penalty at the time.

His case will come before President Frank Buckland in Toronto on Monday, November 7th, with Wilson in attendance.

THREE REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

William J. Keegan, 16, Reginald Bourette, 19, both of Belleville and Robert Cruji, 17 of Brockville were remanded for sentence in a Brockville police court after pleading guilty to the charge of the theft of an office safe, and break-in thereto. Keegan and Bourette also pleaded guilty to forced entry on Oct. 6 at the Belleville YMCA and at the Walker Biscuit plant, Brockville. Sentence will be passed Friday.

TRENTON TO HONOR LIEUT.-GEN. GRAHAM

Citizens of Trenton will honor Lieut.-General Howard Graham, D.S.O., chief of the general staff of the Canadian Army, at a banquet to be held in the Quonaway Hotel, November 17th. The town through council members will officially congratulate General Graham on his elevation to head of the Canadian army.

CANCELS ENGAGEMENT DUE TO ILLNESS

Rev. M. C. Davis, of Walkerville, former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, who was to have given the principal address at the regular meeting of Moira Masonic Lodge this evening in the Temple, has had to cancel his engagement due to illness. Although the turn of events was unexpected, the committee in charge of entertainment has made arrangements for an excellent evening of enjoyment.

RIFLES PERMITTED IN CERTAIN COUNTIES

Lands and Forests Department officials say regarding deer season in southern area from the 9th to 12th of November (both dates inclusive) rifles are permitted for use in this area for the counties of Peterborough, Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Prontenac. In the remainder of this area east and west of the counties as mentioned, only shotguns and bows and arrows are permitted.

NAMES OMITTED

The names of David McDonald and Ewin Brenton, who rode their prize ponies in the parade sponsored by the Humane Society on Saturday last were omitted in the report in Tuesday's edition. The children gave freely of their time for the advancement of this worthy cause.

Police Blotter

James F. Genereaux, 187 Station street, has reported to the city police with theft following his apprehension last night in the neighborhood of the C.N.R. station.

Railway police Jerome and Daniels spotted Genereaux tampering with a car owned by Clifford Vereterfelt of Hillcrest and notified city police. Genereaux is charged with theft of a five-gallon can of oil and a box of shotgun shells.

A prowler was reported at the home of J. Kolver, 239 Foster Ave. Mr. Kolver said the home had been entered by the back door and that part using a key and $20 was missing from a purse. A six-quart basket containing two cans of corn and beans found in the alleyway, was believed left by the prowler.

And an after-hours prowler was also reported at the Capitol Theatre. A side door to the theatre was found insecure and investigation revealed that about $7 worth of merchandise had been taken from the candy bar.

The prowler is believed by police to have secreted himself in the theatre following the late show.

CELIA FRANCA

Celia Franca, described by Dame Ninette de Valois, director of the Sadler's Wells ballet company as "probably the greatest dramatic dancer the Wells ever had" is artistic director of the National Ballet Company of Canada, which opens its 1955-56 Canadian and U.S. tour in Belleville collegiate, Monday, November 14.

Miss Franca is shown as she appears in the company's romantic comedy presentation of "Lilac Garden", which, with "Offenbach in the Underworld" and "Les Sylphides" will comprise the Belleville program.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM TINNEY (Campbellford)

Funeral services were conducted on Saturday from the Beaver Hall Convalescent Home, for Agnes Golden, wife of the late Wm. Tinney, who passed away in Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Thursday at the age of 79.

Mrs. Tinney was born in Mayhooh, but had resided with her children in Campbellford for the past few years. She was a member of the Mayhooh United Church.

Her husband, William, predeceased her seven years ago. Surviving are seven children: Mrs. Arthur Barrett (Ella) of Colborne; Mrs. Ernest Petherick (Annie), Mrs. Wilson Thain, (Sarah) and Albert Tinney, all of Seymour; Alex, Manley and John Tinney, of Campbellford. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Brisenham of Madwaska and Mrs. Fim of Edmonton, Alberta. There are 20 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren.

The Rev. Gordon Whitehorne conducted the service and the bearers were: John and Clinton Thain, Carl Petherick, Carl and Bob Tinney, and Glen Barrett, all grandsons of Mrs. Tinney.

Interment was in the family plot at Zion Cemetery.

MRS. HARRY ANDERSON (Ameliasburg)

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, Belleville R.R. 1, 1st concession of Ameliasburg, died Tuesday at the Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 80th year.

Born at Albury, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peck, she had lived in the district all her life. She was a member of the Redneersville United Church and the W.A. and the Women's Institute. Her husband, Harry Anderson, predeceased her.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Sherman (Mary) Babbitt of Ameliasburg and two grandsons, William Babbitt of the R.C.A.F. and Gordon of Guelph. There are three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Peck, of Albury, Mrs. Flossie Rowland, of Markham and Mrs. Grace Bonter of Albury.

GAVIN MARSHALL (Lindsay - Belleville)

A former resident of Belleville, Gavin Marshall, died in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, yesterday evening. He was in his 75th year.

A retired CNR foreman, he had lived for many years in Belleville and in the railway employ. He then moved to Lindsay, Ont., and retired about four years ago. Mr. Marshall was born in Trenton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Marshall. His wife, the former Helena Ayres, predeceased him some years ago. A member of the Church of England, his death ended an illness of some four months.

Mr. Marshall leaves one son, Jack, of Attleboro, and one daughter, Mrs. C. (Margery) Rouse, Belleville.

Also surviving are one brother and two sisters.

Officers Directed To Make Closer Check on Drivers

In keeping with the Ontario government's all-out war on speedsters, highway patrols in the Belleville area are being directed to make closer checks on motorists, who persist in burning up the highways.

Inspector A. McDougall of No. 9 O. P. P. district with headquarters here said today that he had instructed his highway patrol personnel to do everything possible to cut the number of accidents.

"Statistics show that a large percentage of accidents are caused by speed," the Inspector noted "and every effort will be made to reduce the speed of vehicles on the highway."

While particular emphasis is being placed on checking of speed, all violations of the highway traffic act including speeding, careless driving and other infractions will be prosecuted, the inspector observed.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bellyou of York Road, Trenton, lifelong residents of this community, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at home yesterday among friends and neighbors. Among the messages of congratulations were telegrams from Prime Minister St. Laurent and Dr. Fred Robertson, M.P., Northumberland County.

Shopping Made Easier At Canadian Tire

Canadian Tire Corporation for many years have built their business on a cash basis, but to keep pace with modern shopping habits, they have inaugurated their own Credit Budget Plan. The highlights of this plan are that a customer may purchase any merchandise or service over $20. with no down payment and weekly payments as low as $1.

On accepted accounts there is no waiting, immediate delivery of any goods can be secured. Under this new scheme there are no outside interviews or references required.

As in all of Canadian Tire Corporation activities, they have been successful in setting up this plan with a minimum cost to the consumer. Carrying charges are much below most other companies.

Oct. Rainfall Sets All-Time Record for City

It won't be any news to those unfortunates who had a cellar full of the stuff, but the October rainfall set an all time record.

This was substantiated today by records at the local water purification plant which show that 11.70 inches of rain fell during the past month. And, brother, that's nearly one foot of rain.

In fact October was away ahead of any other period for amount of rainfall. July, 1947, was 7.26 inches of rain, is the closest, while June of the same year ran a close second with 6.22 inches.

All along the line October has contributed to records being rung up in the amount of precipitation.

Precipitation for the first ten months this year has been 36.09 inches. That is more than the average of 35.77 inches for the first ten months during the past ten years.

But with the exception of the heavy rainfall, otherwise October was almost normal. The temperature range was a high of 78 degrees and a low of 27 with a mean of 51.5. One year ago there was a high of 78 and a low of 29 with a mean temperature of 51.2.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices moved narrowly in slow first-hour stock exchange trading today. Industrials squeezed out a thin majority of advances over losses, but the group's index was off a small fraction.

There was selective demand for utilities, papers, manufactures, steels and refining oils. Biggest change was a drop of $2.50 to 39½ by Canada Steamship Lines on a 125-share block. National Grocers gained a point. Hamilton Cotton lost a point.

Most senior base metals moved narrowly, but International Nickel added 1/8 and East Sullivan moved up 25 to $6.70. Coulee was off 11 cents at $1.23 and several other low-priced mines dipped a few pennies.

Golds showed little change except for a 60-cent advance to $7 by Sullivan. Uraniums were sluggish. Lake Cinch was 12 cents firmer at $2.97.

Workman Falls From Scaffold, Not Badly Hurt

Falling 30 feet from a scaffold, which shifted as he was assisting to dismantle it, Cameron Smith, 17, of R.R. 3 Frankford, suffered injury this morning at the Bank of Commerce building and was admitted to Belleville General Hospital.

An employee of Quinte Roofing Ltd., which had completed replacing metal flashing on the bank roof, Smith was assisting his foreman to shift the scaffold to the sidewalk and toppled over. Foreman Bruce MacDonald rode the falling scaffold to the sidewalk and was uninjured but Smith is said to have jumped and struck his arm on the window casing of the bank.

At hospital Smith complained of pain in his arm but was said not to be seriously injured. He is being attended by Dr. Austin Walkers.

Quinte Roofing Ltd. officials said the top section of the metal scaffolding had been removed and the remainder was being taken down when the sidewalk casters allowed the scaffold to shift to the edge of the sidewalk causing it to topple.

Car Occupants Shaken Up In Collision

The occupants of two cars which collided in the village of Shannonville escaped with little more than shaking up early today. Damage to the vehicles was extensive.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Wilkinson, 264 Dufferin Ave. were eastbound on No. 2 highway when a car driven by Patrick Scanlon of Kingston emerged from a sideroad, the collision resulting. There were no injuries outside of a few bruises, Mrs. Wilkinson stated.

Provincial Constables McKenna and Oliver investigated.

Council Proposes Valuation Of Downtown Parking Area

TRENTON (Special) — The answer to the downtown parking problem is closer to being answered today since council last night sanctioned a resolution moved by councillor C. Weaver and seconded by councillor J. MacDonald. The resolution read: "That the report of the committee on Front Street parking in which it is recommended that council proceed to acquire the property without a vote of the ratepayers, be adopted, provided that the two local evaluators be engaged, one appointed by the owners and one by the corporation and that a special meeting be called then to finalize same."

The committee comprising councillors R. Smithrim, Joe Gould and J. MacDonald, was in accord with the principle but the former wanted the people to decide on the purchase. The committee had a report from appraiser George Lister, former member of the Ontario Municipal Board. Mr. Lister valued the B. W. Powers property at $59,000 and noted $60,000 would be an all-round fair purchase price. He valued the Bicycle dairy property at $20,000 noting that he had included nothing for business disturbance. The piece of property north of the dairy belonging to Mr. C. G. "Buster" Alyea was valued at $12,000 by Mr. Lister.

Earlier Mr. Alyea offered to sell the B. W. Powers land for $60,000 and asked $6,000 for the piece north of the dairy. S. O. Graham, owner of the dairy, asked $27,000 for his property and business.

The appraisal by Lister was the result of council questioning whether the asked price of the property for the proposed parking area was too high.

Councillor James McDonald first created interest among fellow councilmen outlining the benefits the town would receive by acquiring the land and turning it into a parking lot to eventually accommodate some 400 cars.

BY-LAW PASSED

Council passed a by-law instructing Mayor Roa Burtt and town clerk O. W. Larry to sign an agreement with Central Bridge concerning the opening up of a 40-foot right-of-way from Creighman Avenue to the northerly limits of the Central Bridge property formerly known as Leonard Avenue. Central Bridge is to contribute a 20-foot strip or half of the right-of-way. Also to open a rightaway from Central Bridge across to Sidney Street on what is now known as Fairbairn Ave. The town consents to convey streets within the boundaries of Central Bridge to that company. Central Bridge will convey to Trenton an interest in West Street and Creelman Ave.

It was announced the right-of-way across to Sidney Street will not be opened until Highway 401 is opened.

Sign painter Edgar Mould has advice for the young cyclists and believes that he teaching them the regulations pertaining to the operation of a bicycle they will become better car drivers in the future.

In a letter to council he suggested that children riding bikes without knowledge of traffic regulations should be asked to read the rules and given a test when receiving their licence.

PRINCESS MARGARET'S DECISION

Princess Margaret's decision not to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend must inevitably meet with full public approval because it was the right decision for her to make.

It is unfortunate, but inescapable, that the public pass judgment on the private lives of public figures. It is understandable when love and the throne conflict with duty and responsibility that there should be a general wish to see duty done but love triumph. The poignancy of this dilemma can only be rendered more acute when it involves a princess who is admired and well liked.

The only bar to Princess Margaret's marriage to Group Captain Townsend was, as the princess said herself, "the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble."

Peter Townsend is a divorced man and divorce is not recognized by the Church of England of which Margaret is a member. It is a measure of Princess Margaret's understanding of her dilemma that her decision not to marry Peter Townsend was based, firstly, on her belief in her church's teaching.

That she was "conscious of my duty to the Commonwealth," shows she truly deserves the title of Princess.

The plethora of speculation and specious debate of the inverse factors of Peter Townsend's age, his ability as a pilot, his courage in combat, his ability to ride a horse and his efficiency as an equerry become even more pronounced in contrast to the precise and clearly worded statement of Princess Margaret's reasons for renouncing him.

With her announcement, and because of the reasons which she has given for it, Princess Margaret emerged from the demeaning and discourteous debate that preceded it with a dignity and good sense shared by none of the debaters.

The loneliness of her decision could only have been enhanced by her realization that the basic issues of her dilemma had been misunderstood. The details of such irrelevancies as the age, good looks and war accomplishments of the man she loved? That the real reasons for her ultimate decision might be completely misunderstood was likely one of the principal factors in Princess Margaret's unprecedented decision to issue a statement about her personal feelings and beliefs.

These can only be admiration for the forthright and clear-headed decision made by Princess Margaret. Perhaps the sense of loss which may be with her in her decision can be lessened to some extent by the knowledge of having done the right thing and by the greater affection which citizens of the Commonwealth extend to her at this time.

UNJUSTIFIED PROTEST

Have you shot any mourning doves yet?

This year the mourning dove is legal game in Ontario. This has resulted in many protests by bird lovers, who have written to editors declaring that the season will result in the birds being slaughtered.

If officials of the Department of Lands and Forests have the straight, these letters prove that the writers may love birds but that they certainly do not know much about them. The doves are migratory birds; they are heavily hunted in many of the states to the south where they winter. As says the department, most of the Ontario doves had left Ontario to face the annual barrage of gunfire in Kentucky and Tennessee before the season opened here.

Looks like another instance of so-called wildlife lovers protesting a reasonable action, but not, in this case, so harmful a protest as some. Recently, protests against an open deer season in certain parts of southwestern Ontario led the Department to cancel the season for a few years ago. Then, during the short that followed, game officials had to cut out slaughter some of the deer, because they were too numerous for the available feed and if the herds had not been thinned most of the animals would have starved to death.

ACTION IS NEEDED HERE

A former Queen's student has been charged as the result of a bottle-throwing incident at Saturday's Queen's-Varsity football game.

Regrettable as this incident may be, it does not have the stinging sense of injustice implicit in another incident at the same game, when two other spectators were struck by paper bags containing quicklime.

What reason could be advanced for taking quicklime in paper bags to a football game, unless these bags were to be thrown, we are at a loss to suggest.

Any person who deliberately plans to throw a bag containing quicklime at another person deserves to be thrown in the pokey, while the key to the cell is sent on a round-world trip by carrier snail.

Throwing quicklime cannot be attributed to an excess of that spirit of college high jinks by anybody with an I.Q. above that of a sub-basement grade moron.

Accusations of immoral conduct by the head of Montreal's anti-vice squad, and revelations of the extent of organized vice in Montreal make one wonder if Vancouver really is the nation's most lawless city.

JUST FOLKS

THE UNSEEN

The trouble with heartache is nobody sees it.
So nobody thinks that good nature might ease it.
The clerk and the customer snap at each other,
Expecting the patience of father or mother.

The clerk is supposed to be happy and healthy,
The customer right, be it poor one or wealthy.

But, since neither knows what the other is bearing,
A sharp word is said and the tempers start flaring.

For granted is taken no need for complaining.
No one wears a sign inward anguish explaining.
Yet, if we could know what so bravely is hidden,
We might excuse much that by rule is forbidden.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

Nov. 2, 1925

Forty-nine Belleville merchants have joined together to put over a community "Boosting Campaign" which promises to be one of the biggest things of its kind ever attempted here. The campaign opened today and will last until December 7. Coupons are being given with each purchase; and the purchasers, if they so desire, may cast the coupons in the person who has entered the contest. The winner will receive a prize of $500, in cash; more than $1200. in prizes will be distributed to the winners at the close of the campaign. The first prize, however, is in the form of a five-passenger touring chandise. The second prize is a waterfall radio, and the third prize is a four-piece walnut bedroom suite; the fourth prize is a Heintzman piano, and the fifth prize is a Locomotive washing machine and the sixth prize is a man's lounge chair. The campaign is being financed by the merchants by a Toronto sales promotion company.

Mrs. Edward Foard and Mrs. Daniel Hanna entertained at a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. Fozard, Bridge Street east, and the affair was most enjoyable.

The Rev. A. Cameron, of Milford, conducted Evensong at St. Thomas' Church Sunday.

30 YEARS AGO

The month which has just passed was the coldest October in some years. The warmest day during the past month was Oct. 4 when the thermometer went up to 88 degrees and the coldest day was Friday, Oct. 30 when the mercury registered 22 degrees. During the month there were twelve days of rain which was an exceptionally heavy rainfall for one month.

The fishing club on Turnbull Street has been given a cost of paint and some necessary repairs have been made.

The Rev. L. S. Wight and Mrs. Wight have returned home from Keene near Peterborough, where Mr. Wight conducted the 50th anniversary services in the Methodist Church.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid in connection with the Methodist Church at Bulpitt a supper was served followed by a concert in which Mr. E. V. Austin of this city took part and his singing was much enjoyed. The proceeds, which amounted to $18, will be donated to the Red Cross Society.

The regular meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board, Mr. John Elliott, manager of the Merchants' Bank here, selling for Major Roscoe Vanderwater, presented the sale with the excellent photograph of the new field kitchen now in use by the 39th Battalion, C.E.F., at Shornecliffe, England, and which was purchased with funds donated by the members of the Board and presented to the 39th Battalion before leaving Belleville.

Mr. N. A. Irvin of this city is visiting friends in Oswego.

Mr. Edward Bunnett at this city is spending a few days in Guelph.

There was a light fall of snow here last night.

A pleasing event took place at St. Thomas' Church rectory, Bridge Street east, last evening when Mr. C. A. R. Wilkinson, who is retiring as organist of the church, was presented with a handsome purse containing a ten dollar gold piece and a silver cross upon which are engraved his initials. The presentation was made on behalf of the members of the choir by Mr. J. P. C. Phillips, one of the choir members. Mr. Wilkinson will sail from Quebec on Saturday for England.

The Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon.

V.P.'s Become Too Numerous

(Manchester Guardian)

American industry has a problem on its hands. According to the magazine Fortune, there are well over a quarter of a million vice-presidents in business. This is worrying some people who say rightly that the title commands the respecte due. The "v.p's" have become the laughing stock of all the television comedians. One of the reasons, it seems for the growth in the number of "v.p's" is the need to explore other satisfactions for "top men" now that taxes take such a large slice of the executive cheque. The process is infectious: nothing less than a vice-president will take another vice-president out to lunch. And it seems that their swollen number has been further swollen by the practice of companies of handing out the title as a pre-retirement present — just as senior service officers step up one rank before dropping from the active list. One result is that the vice-presidents tend to get ignored. Their old friends no longer call them "Joe" or ask them out for a drink, while the really "top brass" still tend to regard them coldly. But there are some consolations. The new vice-president may not get much more pay, but he has less trouble with the tax collectors about his expenses. He may also find that he has more reserved space in the company's parking lot. And there are other prerequisites that may come his way; like the desk into the bellow of this road from which we sought to raise ourselves up to you, a spirit of yourself which we are bringing to you will fall for ever into the abyss."

There was a bend in the road. The carriage went on. The trees, and all their mysterious meaning, had vanished from his memory.

An experience, such as Marcel Proust describes, must often come to the mind of the philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson, in his journal, in October 1872, he was writing:

"Look sharply after those thoughts. They come unlooked for, like a new bird seen on your trees, and, if you turn to your usual task, they disappear; and you shall never find that perception again; never. I say! perhaps years, ago, and I know not what events and worlds lie between you and its return!"

Many years earlier the German historian, Barthold Niebuhr, had had the same experience with the light that shone on the page he was writing: "In a mass of utter confusion, a few words, which above have overlooked, will often strike an observing eye, but which are immediately lost, not retained, because it is an isolated characters of the kind, like slips in spelling, grammar or

Illusive Memories

(Montreal Gazette)

Loss of the most dramatic experiences of memory is when something long forgotten returns. Perhaps year, even decades, have passed. But some chance event—some sight or sound—calls it back again. It returns with perfect vividness, as clear in memory as if it were again before the eyes. Yet in the years between it had vanished, as though lost forever.

If there is a certain perplexing awe about such experiences, there is also a touch of mystery to the sense at times of something almost remembered, the awareness that something seen or heard at the present moment is calling back to something that has retreated far into the past. The meaning is felt, and yet the distant memory never quite returns. It touches the horizons of the mind, and then is gone again, before it can be recaptured.

The French writer, Marcel Proust, wrote often upon such experiences, with their air of far mystery.

He tells how once he was in a carriage on the road near Balbec, and was passing under a steep ridge. He happened to notice the distinct outlines of a little way back from the road, marking the entrance to a wood. They were, to all appearances, little different than the ordinary scenery through which he was riding, but touched something real in memory. "Like a phrase," he afterwards writes; "I could see them plainly but my mind felt that they were concealing something which it had not grasped."

The distant meaning was almost on the very threshold of memory. He placed his hand over his eyes. "Suddenly," he writes, "I was impressed and straightened, he found myself remembering just below the surface. Had he seen them before—or something similar?"

The carriage wheels rolled on. "I was alone, with a shock before his eyes.

"Images or ghosts," writes Proust, "they seemed to be appealing to me to take them with me, to bring them back to life in the darkness of the trees gradually withdraw, waving their dispiriting arms, seeming to say to me, 'What you fail to learn from us today, you will never know. If you allow us to drop back into the hollow of this road from which we sought to raise ourselves up to you, a spirit of yourself which we are bringing to you will fall for ever into the abyss."

There was a bend in the road. The carriage went on. The trees, and all their mysterious meaning, had vanished from his memory.

An experience, such as Marcel Proust describes, must often come to the mind of the philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson, in his journal, in October 1872, he was writing:

Doctors Hit Car Designs

(Milwaukee Journal)

The safety devices being added to many new automobiles for 1956 — dished steering wheels, doors that won't pop open, recessed and padded dashboards, seat belts — are all intended to protect occupants of a motorcar involved in a collision. As such, they indicate a welcome start toward safer vehicles.

But the medical doctors who have made personal observations while patching up victims of the 38,000 highway deaths urging the auto industry to go further. They want consideration also given to persons outside vehicles.

Take a look at the new cars for 1956, Virginia Apgar, doctor and surgeon — or made to look that way — and you'll see, over sized headlights, pointed hood ornaments and protruding bumper guards.

The doctors representing the California Academy of General Practice say: "If automobile designers want to help reduce the toll on emergency hospital, their conscientes would not allow them to design cars with such deadly features."

They propose smooth, rounded front ends and hard rubber bumpers that will absorb shocks, plus a more adequate greater horsepower until braking systems catch up.

Styling, admittedly, is a major factor in auto appeal. The public likes — and buys — rakish models. But is there good reason why designers can't combine beauty with safety that will still sell?

Having made a start toward improving inside safety, auto makers should now give as sincere thought to safety outside.

Why Are Ples Not Square?

(Good Will Journal)

If there is a provable answer to the seemingly innocent question "Why is a pie round"? it appears they will require more research to discover it. Quite possibly, few people have considered the subject before and there is slight furrowing of the brow of a puzzled pie-lover.

And yet — despite the obvious economic advantages of such a change — the cook who dares to serve her family their favorite apple pie on a square plate will risk a roar of protest. Pie just isn't pie if it isn't round.

Why is a pie round? It seems more than logical that it had to be round, because until fairly recently the cook's cupboard held only round pans. With the recent acceleration in world progress, it may require only a scant century for man to become adjusted to eating square apple pies, instead of being compelled by necessity to accept changes of such magnitude.

"Fortune" mentions homelike touches in the office, such as the station that one Omaha banker received along with his promotion. Not least is the confidence and insight which his enhanced status brings. This was explained by the vice-president of a Texan company who said that he no longer sent his wife tens of free boxes. "As you get acquainted you find that they get into their pants one leg at a time."

A Freeman Of London

(London New Statesman)

A very old man got into the carriage. He was carrying a curiously carved stick and wore a black hat of the timber, he said, of one of the Thames barges on which he had been Master. He showed me a list of them. He had been afloat, he told me, for 46 years. He told me about narrow escapes in the fifties.

I said I hoped he had a good pension. No, he had no pension; only the old age pension. I asked and that, it seemed, he regarded as a derisory trifle. Then he took out a wallet and showed me a piece of parchment certifying that 30 years ago he had been made a freeman of the City of London. And, sure enough, there over his head a lot of money, which made him the governor of the Board of Freemen and enabled him to go to various functions without paying an entrance fee.

He belonged to an older generation; it never occurred to him that he had been inadequately rewarded for a lifetime's service.

When we got to Battersea Bridge he jumped up, forgetting for the moment the dignity with that bent his back. "There she is", he said, with a kind of reverent ex-citement, "the finest sight of all the river until she was out of sight.

Suburban life has its advantages — lest you complain about the traffic like a city man and about the weather like a farmer.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE THROUGH DARK GLASSES

A man came home from an automobile trip recently wearing his dark sun glasses. He removed them, and that evening he complained endlessly about the poor lights in the house and declared that he must be losing his eyesight for he could scarcely read the newspaper. At last his wife said, "You might see better if you would clean the dust and dirt off your regular spectacles."

A lot of us are inclined to look at life through dark glasses and then complain about it. Some of us do so because we are born that way. We have what is known as a melancholy slant to our lives. To others the condition is not chronic but acute. An exhausting day at the office or in the home, a poorly digested meal, or an interrupted night's sleep may make the whole world picture to turn dark. We keep blaming everything on circumstances. The truth of the matter is that the fault lies in us. It is in our stomach or in our muscles or in our frayed nerves—and we point the accusing finger at things and say it is their malice or obstinacy or stupidity which makes us so miserable and sad and dark.

The next time you start complaining about the dark world in which you live, just reach up and take off your glasses (if you wear glasses) and see which pair you are wearing. If this doesn't work, try a mood change instead, and the forcing into your mind of wholesome cheerful thoughts; whether you feel cheerful or sad.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Father Quits His Trade

In a kind of symposium we had in this column in the spring of '54 several correspondents told how they just knew they remembered incidents of their early childhood, but I'm still unconvinced that a person's past life in meridian can remember things that happened before he or she was four years old. A thick file of letters from readers, who give details of incidents in their own lives at the ages of three, two, and in one case only a year, with corroborating evidence—such as the amazement of older folks that they remember so clearly, hasn't settled the question.

In my own experience, every incident of early childhood I think I can remember has proved on reflection to be something my parents or others were fond of retelling when I was old enough to spell coming, as in "I'm coming home for Christmas" with two m's. Mother broke me of that before I received my degree. I'm not sorry I was taught to spell very well—it makes me feel superior to correspondents who similarly affected—but I'm unclear as to when I remember things I actually saw and when I remember things I've been told about.

I think I can remember when I was a little over three years old. The philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson, in his journal, in October 1872, he was writing:

"Look sharply after those thoughts. They come unlooked for, like a new bird seen on your trees, and, if you turn to your usual task, they disappear; and you shall never find that perception again; never. I say! perhaps years, ago, and I know not what events and worlds lie between you and its return!"

Many years earlier the German historian, Barthold Niebuhr, had had the same experience with the light that shone on the page he was writing: "In a mass of utter confusion, a few words, which above have overlooked, will often strike an observing eye, but which are immediately lost, not retained, because it is an isolated characters of the kind, like slips in spelling, grammar or punctuations it's fun to sic 'em.

Without precise statistical evidence I can't be sure I actually remember watching my pa hammer horses, smelling the fresh smell of it, nostalgic now, as I waited through the shop when pa fitted the red hot shoe to the horse's hoof, watching him reach for the handle of the bellows, watching the sparks fly as the best the shoe into shape on the anvil. I must have been three, maybe four years old—but I can't prove it.

It's all interesting, friends, but not even the most vivid recollection can prove anything—the most thick file of such recollections attests—to me, that is. I do not mean to imply that your memories of your own early childhood are not entirely accurate. I merely state my own uncertainty.

For association I'd say I was seven years old when Pa suffered multiple fractures in a fall into an excavation. He never made a good enough recovery to get back to work at the trade he was established for a year or more. In that year Grandpa Straub Bradys achieved the proud distinction of being the poorest family watching the sparks fly in the county, not on the county.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LISTEN!

This is a talk to Salesmen. For many years I've enjoyed listening to sales selling my own features. I own a newspaper syndicate. I sell stories, articles, short stories in the newspaper business. I learn confidence when I succeed in selling. One was to listen to the seller, from whom I hoped for an order.

After presenting my case, briefly, I always asked him for the thing I wished to sell impressed my prospect enough, I was young and believed in what I had to sell. But my careful listening to the seller, if I am convinced, did most to clinch a sale.

Often I would stop in the midst of a statement—and listen for an objection, or get the seller's main point. I wanted him to sell himself! Too many salesmen talk too much. I once watched a competitive man at a big dinner and talked in sleep- I followed that salesman and decided I must sell that editor if not over the dinner table. I succeeded. Thereafter I decided that five minutes was enough time to take from a busy editor. After that I was very glad to listen to what he had to say. I made friends—and learned that the other fellow might be right. I never fail to learn something new. Selling is the art of getting a prospect to want to buy what the salesman has to offer. A salesman has to sell himself first! He has to be an expert in faith, too! Sincerity is control.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the hotel dining room at which I had supper last evening there was a party of fifty-year-old men, four of them, all but nine, were glasses.

Those were what were obviously reading glasses which they put on to read the menu or to see their food closely. But the overwhelming majority had spectacles which could see were permanent fixtures which they put on before they set out of doors in the morning and which they took off and placed on the bedside table at night and right before turning out the light.

It is true the majority were nearing middle age or in it. Yet, of the younger ones, half wore glasses. I saw one of the younger children, a girl of about eight or nine, also had the goggles on.

This may have been an unusual or exceptional chance gathering of people in the dining room. But it seems to me the percentage of the spectacled population, especially the young in their twenties, has greatly increased in recent years. The first reason for the increase is to be the fact that the science of optometry has been so greatly advanced along with all the other medical and surgical sciences in the past generation.

The second is that health is a far more popular concern than it was even thirty years ago, and that proportion of the community which would have muddled along with slightly defective vision or partial vision in the twenties or thirties now understands that normal vision is good eyesight.

The final reason may be that there is more to see in the world than it was heretofore. Apart from its movies, TV, its glaring billboards and neon signs, its skyscrapering nerve tension.

Whatever the reasons, there are more damaging to eyesight or not one thing is certain: in this swift, high-pressure, bigger-and-better, technological era, you have got to have good eyesight in order to be nimble enough to survive.

Win $448,711 Keep $64,000,

(Milwaukee Journal)

Everything, they say, gets bigger. And better. Used to be that a radio program attracted millions of listeners with its $64 questions. Now it is $1,000 a week question to attract the same kind of audience.

All of which brings up another matter which certainly cannot be bigger. It's taxes. In order to go home with $64,000, the Wall Street Journal has figured, a contest winner who is single and earns $250 a year would have to win a prize of $448,711.11. Taxes would take the rest.

Two Belleville Nursing Groups Are Inspected

St. John Ambulance Nursing Division No. 150 and Cadet Nursing Division No. 150 were among the St. John Ambulance divisions inspected last week by The Countess Mountbatten of Burma, Superintendent in Chief for Nursing Divisions for Great Britain and the British Overseas Territories.

The inspection was organized by the Kingston Branch Committee of St. John Ambulance. President General Elkins, and was held in the Kingston Memorial Centre. St. John Ambulance Divisions taking part were Kingston, Belleville, Picton, Cornwall, Pembroke, Carleton Place and the Ottawa Valley.

The inspecting party, headed by Lady Mountbatten included Col. Costin of Kingston, Lt. Col. I. M. R. Sinclair of Toronto, Miss M. McLaren, superintendent - in - charge of Canadian nursing divisions of Ottawa, and Mrs. Dingwall, eastern area officer of Kingston. The parade was formed by Sgt. Maj. McConnell of Kingston, and turned over to Mrs. M. Dingwall, area officer, Mrs. D. Ferguson of Kingston, officer in charge of Kingston division, Mrs. McRae, area officer at Carlton Place in charge of eastern area division.

The guard of honor was made up of cadets from Kingston and Belleville. Little Miss Lillian Reid, daughter of Det. Sgt. Harold Reid and Mrs. Reid, of Belleville, presented roses to Lady Mountbatten before the inspection and a Kingston cadet presented her with a gift from the branch committee.

Immediately after inspection of the Brigade, Lady Mountbatten presented Mrs. M. Dingwall, Eastern Area Officer with the Lady Drummond Trophy for Dominion Championship in Home Nursing, which was awarded to Kingston Nursing Division No. 66. Lady Mountbatten also presented the Lieutenant Governor's Trophy for the senior provincial championship to Mrs. Dorothy Ferguson, nursing officer for the Kingston nursing division No. 66. The Kingston division has the honor of being the first division to have their name inscribed thereon. Mrs. Myrtle May Dingwall was presented with her Warrant as area staff officer, and Miss Billie Jean Stagg of Kingston with a priory vote of thanks. Twelve year service medals were presented to Miss Aline Hurdis, Mrs. Pearl McRae and Mrs. A. Weedmark of Carlton Place, Miss Bessie Anderson of Pembroke and Mrs. Constance McKibbon of Picton.

Lady Mountbatten spoke to the Divisions congratulating Kingston Nursing Division on their outstanding achievement in winning the provincial as well as the Dominion trophy for home nursing, expressing the regret of every one present at the absence of the Provincial Nursing Superintendent, Mrs. Ethel Anderson, who is ill in Toronto General Hospital.

After the inspection, the guests and officers and members of eastern Ontario area divisions were entertained by the Kingston Branch Committee at a reception and tea at the eastern Ontario area headquarters officers mess in Kingston.

CHARGED IN DEATH

RHINEBECK, N.Y. (AP)—A 20-year-old college student was charged with first-degree murder Tuesday in the fire death of Mrs. Lloyd Beresford, a wealthy dog fancier. Freshman Wells Van Steenbergh admitted setting fire to Mrs. Beresford's home in Staatsburg, N.Y., to cover up a $3,500 theft. He said he was not aware the woman was in the house at the time.

Students Demand Apology Alleging Affront To Principal

TRENTON (Special) — The student government of Trenton High School has demanded an apology from the Trenton Board of Education for what they consider an affront to their principal.

The students hinted that if the apology is not forthcoming they will take strong measures and hinting at a strike.

The incident which started the protest occurred last week when the cornerstone of Trenton's new high school was laid. George Spencer, present principal, was not included in the ceremony.

According to the students, Mr. Spencer was not invited to sit on the platform with guests, not called on to make any remarks, nor was his name mentioned. He was left standing alone beside the stage and later given a chair beside the stage, the students said.

A petition of protest started by the student council has been signed by 130 students to whom it has been shown. There are 455 at the school.

The student council yesterday released a resolution which it passed unanimously. It reads: "Resolved that the Trenton Board of Education be censured for the omission of Mr. George Spencer on the program of the laying of the datestone. The fact that the man who has faithfully served as principal of Trenton High School for 24 years was not even given a seat on the platform only emphasizes the complete thoughtlessness displayed by members of the school board.

"The man who was instrumental in the fight for a new high school was forced to stand alone and unnoticed during the dedication of the building for which he campaigned so intensely.

"We, representing the students of Trenton High School demand a complete apology from those responsible for this grievous oversight."

When advised of the students' action last night, school board chairman Grant Rathbun said: "It is not fair to ask an individual member (of the board) to comment on this matter. It is not of public concern."

WEEKEND GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Champagne, 4 1-3 Wicket, have entertained her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yott, Mary and Audrey, of Cape Vincent, New York; also Mr. and Mrs. Everett Reid and daughter of Hallowav. All enjoyed a most enjoyable weekend.

Weddings

BLODGETT—BROWN

CAMPBELLFORD. — Gold and bronze 'mums made a pretty setting in Norwood United church, Saturday, when Doreen Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell B. Brown, was united in marriage to James Norman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Blodgett of Peterborough. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. K. Wright.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. A. B. Smith, and the soloist, Miss Shirley Brown, cousin of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love" before the bride made her entrance; "The Lord's Prayer" during the service and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The bride's gown was of imported satin brocade, featuring a pleated bertha collar, and full skirt that fell into a short train. A small matching hat held her fingertip veil of embroidered French illusion and she carried a cascade of pink and white feathered carnations.

Attending the bride was Miss Jean Blodgett, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and Miss Doris Jopling, as bridesmaid. They were cocktail length gowns of crystalette over taffeta in turquoise and bronze, respectively, fashioned after the bride's. Small pleated hats and shoes in matching shades and crescent-shaped bouquets of bronze and yellow Shasta 'mums completed their ensembles.

Little Miss Joan Glenn, cousin of the bride, made a charming flower girl in a floor length frock of yellow nylon taffeta. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow 'mums.

Attending the bridegroom was his brother, Mr. Gordon Blodgett. The ushers were Messrs. Ronald Blodgett, another brother, and Orland Brown, brother of the bride.

Later, at the reception held in the church parlors, the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of iridescent shot taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother also received, wearing a gown of pine green crepe with black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Upon their return, they will take up residence in Peterborough.

HANSEN—BARNES

PICTON—St. Barbara's chapel was the scene of a lovely wedding at three o'clock on Saturday, when Capt. the Rev. J. A. Davidson, united in marriage Mary Margaret Jane, daughter of S. Sgt. and Mrs. S. E. Barnes, 45 Diver Belt, Picton Heights, Ontario, to Sergeant Wilfred Leslie Hansen, son of Mrs. Helen Hansen, South Porcupine, Ontario. Large baskets of 'mums and ferns decorated the chancel, with small white baskets of flowers on either side of the altar.

W.O. F.F. Stevenson played traditional wedding music. Mrs. B. O. T. Higgins sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of embroidered nylon net over net and an underskirt of slipper satin. The jacket was of embroidered nylon net with long sleeves and a Peter Pan collar trimmed with seed pearls. Her veil was held by a crown of matching material and trimmed with seed pearls. She carried red roses and white pom poms.

Miss Elizabeth Barnes was maid of honor for her sister. Miss Marian Anna Patricia Hansen, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and the bride's cousin, Miss Shirley Ann Henry, was flower girl. The maid of honor's was in an "after five" dress of blue moire taffeta with a "V" neckline front and back, made on Princess lines with full skirt. The bridesmaid was similarly gowned. They carried pink and white poms. The pretty flower girl was in pink nylon over a taffeta slip in hoop effect and flowers were embroidered around the hem. The waist featured a Peter Pan collar and she carried a basket of poms. The attendants wore matching blue feathers in their hair.

Cpl. William Walton, RCSA (AA), Picton, was groomsman.

The reception was held in the Sergeants' Mess, RCSA, where pom poms added a note of color. The bride's mother chose an afternoon dress of charcoal grey with long-sleeved jacket and corsage of Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother wore navy blue taffeta with square neckline and a corsage of red roses. The bride's grandmother also received with the bridal party.

A white linen cloth covered the bride's table which was centred with a three-tier cake which was cut with a sword. The staff of the Sergeants' Mess served.

For travelling to Toronto, the bride wore a two-piece sheath dress with grey-checked, red-lined jacket, black coat, red hat and black accessories with a corsage of pink and red roses.

Sgt. and Mrs. Hansen will reside in Picton.

Relatives of the bride from Toronto and relatives of the bridegroom from South Porcupine attended the wedding.

CARLSON—WHITE

THOMASBURG. — The Thomasburg United church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, October 29, at 8 p.m., when Lorna White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White, was united in marriage to Ray Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carlson, all of Thomasburg.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. R. Chapman of Thomasburg United church, with Mr. Fred Porter providing the music for the occasion.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Stage Masquerade

The Spirits of Hallow'en were out in full force on Saturday night, when the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs were joint hosts to about 100 members and friends at the I.O.O.F. Hall.

After the grand march and judging of costumes, a hilarious program of skits under the chairmanship of Mrs. June Carruthers, N.G., of Quinteva Rebekahs, was thoroughly enjoyed.

Those winning costume prizes were, ladies, Bessie Boldrick; teen, John Nesbitt; best all-around, Peggy Lamont.

Following a ghost story and a mirth-provoking trip through the "Hall of Horrors", dancing was enjoyed by everyone with Mrs. J. Hibbard at the piano. Winners of the apple dance were, Mr. Fred Cooke and partner; winners of the balloon dance were, Bessie Boldrick and George MacDonald.

Front Road United Church Holds Bazaar

Front Road United church, yesterday afternoon, held its annual autumn bazaar and afternoon tea in the hall, lovely with its decorations of evergreens. The president, Mrs. Clinton Brown, received. Mrs. Besley, wife of Mr. Bruce Besley, (student minister of the church), welcomed the people and impressively opened the bazaar.

FANCY WORK

Apron and fancy work booth was convened by Mrs. John Botting, Mrs. Malcolm Fitzgibbon and Mrs. Noble Brown. There were aprons of all colors and fancy ones, some in all-over style, some in two-tone. Among the fancy work displayed were dollies; pillow cases, towels, pot-holders and place-mats, and many other items.

DELICIOUS CANDY

The candy table, a delight to behold, was in charge of Mrs. T. J. Brown and Mrs. Roy Clasie.

St. George's Guild Autumn Tea, Bazaar Most Successful

St. George's chapel, Station street, presented an attractive picture yesterday afternoon for the annual tea and bazaar sponsored by St. George's Guild.

Mrs. P. Welch, president of the Guild, and Mrs. W. Pepper received the guests, and accorded each one a most cordial welcome, after which Mrs. W. Beare collected the accustomed dues at the head of custom.

The nicely arranged tables, each with their pretty decorations of entwined ropes of gold and deep green over white, had a splendid display of nice articles. The fancy work which included aprons, linens, knit goods, fancy work, was convened by Mrs. B. Clegg, and Mrs. W. Collyer.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Christmas shoppers had no difficulty in selecting gifts from the Cpl. William Walton, RCSA (AA), Picton, was groomsman. The reception was held in the Sergeants' Mess, RCSA, where pom poms added a note of color. The bride's mother chose an afternoon dress of charcoal grey with long-sleeved jacket and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. J. Williams Minerva W.M. Tea Hostess

In spite of the rainy weather on Sunday afternoon, a large number of members of Minerva Chapter 138 O.E.S. enjoyed the tea at the home of their Worthy Matron, Mrs. Jack Williams, Cannifton.

The tea room hostesses were Mrs. A. Clare and Mrs. Verna Thrasher.

Those presiding at the tea table which was nicely decorated with a centerpiece, candelabra and silver tea services were, Mrs. W. Grey, Mrs. D. Williams, Mrs. A. Jordan, Mrs. Pound, Mrs. A. Wonnacott and Mrs. L. Hunt.

The preparation and serving of the lovely refreshments were in the capable hands of Mrs. D. Henning, Mrs. M. Tugnette, Mrs. W. Marner, Mrs. S. Garrow, Mrs. Brenton, Mrs. L. Fiskin and Miss Barbara Williams.

Children Enjoy H-S Assoc. Masquerade

The Shannonville Home and School Association treated all the village children to a masquerade party at the school on Friday evening. Everything was there from the prominent witch to the blushing bride; devils, both red and yellow were there along with all the hobos and tramps; hula girls, Indians and old ladies, completed the gathering.

Mrs. Stanley McDonald, assisted by Mrs. Ken Vivian acted as judges for the occasion.

Games were planned and supervised by the teachers, Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Henderson.

Everyone dunked for apples.

A treat of apples, candy and peanuts was passed to all.

The happy party ended with a hearty 'thank you'.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT TO TREASURER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When is the right time for a chairman of a banquet—or a card party, rummage sale, or some similar occasion—to turn over the money - receipts to the treasurer, who was not in the hall after the affair ended? Would the chairman be expected to take the receipts to the treasurer's home, or wait until the first meeting after the affair has taken place? — Reader

Since these regulations differ in various organizations, my suggestion would be that the chairman get in touch with the treasurer to see what procedure she is expected to follow. And whether she is requested to take the receipts to the treasurer's home or bring them to the first meeting, should make out, in leave with the money-receipts, some kind of brief report to show the receipts and list any expenses for which she was responsible.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE ESSENCE OF BEAUTY (Part II—SERVICE)

Yesterday—we discussed the exquisitely beautiful part which love plays in bringing radiance to a woman's face—the radiance which far surpasses physical perfection and which cannot be duplicated by the use of cosmetics. Today we'd like to talk about another essence of beauty — service. At first thought, service may seem to be a drab word—a word far removed from loveliness. But, considered well, the word "service" is far from drab. For it, too, springs from love, and through service, whether it is given only to those in one's immediate circle or to humanity at large, a woman acquires not only a beauty of spirit, but a beauty of face as well. One little illustration proves the point.

There's a girl we know whose looks are, shall we say, "just passable". None of her features are "irregular"—but, on the other hand, none of them are outstanding. You'd never give her a second glance in a crowd—even though she is extremely well groomed, dresses well and makes the most of what beauty assets she has. Her skin always has that well scrubbed look, her hair is always shining clean and her make-up is applied subtly and in keeping with her natural coloring. And that's all. Just an average gal until—

The "until" is important. For, in Molly's case, the "until" means "until she starts talking about her "hobby". And what a hobby! Molly is just crazy about kids. She's not married so she has none of her own. But that probably won't be for long since she's recently announced her engagement.

But, until Molly announced her engagement, did she sit around brooding because she wasn't married and couldn't raise a family? Not a bit of it. No kids of her own? Okay, she'd take care of other people's kids in her spare time. And that she did. Well, one thing led to another, and she finally became interested in children who were ill—especially those in hospital wards who had so little to look forward to during long, dreary weeks of sickness. She made arrangements to give two evenings a week to the children's ward to read to the little tykes, to help them write notes to parents who could only come on visiting days, to teach them new games and, in other ways, to make life happier for them.

Most of Molly's friends knew what she was doing and most of them said that it was "just simply wonderful" but she did it, of course, most people didn't have the time either, but she made the time, because she loved what she was doing and she doesn't know to this day that even the friends who marvelled at her "charity" when discussing her, always added, "but it must do something for her. Have you ever noticed how pretty she looks when she's talking about her 'kids'?" It was true, too. When Molly talked about those unfortunate youngsters in the hospital ward her eyes glowed, a new radiance came to her face and she seemed like a different person.

One night, we accompanied her to the ward and it was a revelation. After greeting all of her charges, more or less en masse, she went to each bed and devoted some time to the little individual within it. We followed in her wake as she went from bed to bed, trying to add our bit to the occasion and, without exception, each child said to us as Molly went on to the next bed, "isn't she the most beautiful lady in the world?" And so it came to pass that, in our eyes, too, Molly became "the most beautiful lady in the world."

Fruit Cake Advance Notice AND Two Ways To Bake Squash

By Mary Moore

Ever since December 29th, 1954, I have known the recipe I am going to give you for your fruit cake for Christmas 1955. I am the cake Marianne and I made experimentally before she made an enormous batch for her wedding cake in January ready for the Big Day last April.

All summer long I have been receiving telephone messages and letters asking for that recipe or for the recipe I am going to use for Christmas 1955 fruit cake. They are one and the same. These calls came from those who are very fortunate and get the cake to ripen a long time. But in an effort to be fair to the majority I have resigned you, but next week I will give it here, and hope you will like it.

So you can get your stirring arm in shape and save your stockels to buy the ingredients next week. Okay?

It is a heyday for "squashy" vegetables. They are a joy because they keep well if you are not ready to use them the minute you bring them home from the market.

Remember too that they are one of the famous "yellow" vegetables so valuable for their vitamin B content and their alkalinity.

So often I recommend that you bake potatoes with jackets on. Your doctor recommends them too, for you grown-ups and children of all ages. Baking in jackets is the ideal method for preparing vegetables. Squash is another one of them that is at its best baked in its jacket.

BAKED ACORN SQUASH

Cut squash or squashes in halves lengthwise. Remove seeds, brush with melted butter, place on baking sheet with cut side down. Bake in 400 deg. Fahr. oven about 45 minutes or 1 hour, or until tenderness is tested with fork. When tender, turn right side up; brush again with melted butter and sprinkle thickly with brown sugar and a little salt. Continue to bake with right side up about 15 minutes longer, or until sugar is melted. Note: Acorn squash may be pre-steamed for about 30 minutes, then baked, cut side up. Pass additional melted butter at table.

My cousin Sarah has a small vegetable garden. All the beans, corn, tomatoes, onions, beets are long since gone but her squashes and marrows went wild and grew and grew and the vines reached and spread and squashes turned up in the queerest places—like the lunch pail. She had to hustle to keep up with them. One of her best ways to serve them is

BAKED STUFFED SQUASH

Use pepper, acorn, summer or even small Hubbard squash for this—or vegetable marrow.

Wash a 2-lb. squash, but do not peel. Cook in covered pan in 1 inch of water 30 minutes turning over after first 15 minutes. It should not be soft but crisply tender, or it will break in baking. Remove generous slice from top, scoop out seeds and fibre and discard. Scoop out pulp leaving 1-2 inch wall. Place shell on baking dish and brush inside with butter, and sprinkle with salt and pepper and a little onion salt. To mash the stuffing saute 1 small cut-up green pepper and 1 onion sliced in 3 tablespoons butter or margarine five minutes. Add 1 cup ground raw or ground cooked meat or poultry. Saute gently five minutes, then add squash pulp chopped, and 1-4 cup chopped canned pimento, 1-3 cup fresh breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper. Mix and stuff squash with it. Top with grated old cheese. Bake 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. If it is not brown enough on top, pass under hot broiler for a few minutes. This is a good item for an otherwise meatless meal.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAKE IT CLEAR THAT HE CAN'T COME AND GO AS HE PLEASES

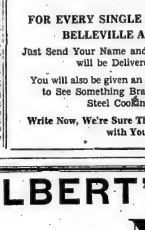
Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been married 18 months, but after six months, my husband just up and left me.

He was constantly trying to pick quarrels with me, and telling me he was going to leave me. I was pregnant when he left, and within two weeks after he went, I had a miscarriage. After I came out of the hospital, I received a letter from him saying that he guessed everything turned out for the best. He didn't pay either my doctor's bill or my hospital bill and has never mentioned it. I still love my husband very much, but all this hurt me so badly that I wrote him a pretty rough letter and told him exactly what I thought of it.

About that time, his mother wrote some of my friends, telling them Jack wasn't going to live with me any more; that he was her boy.

Now he wants to make up with me and have us live together again. He says I was good to him and that it wasn't my fault he left me. I want to have him back very much, because I love him and my life has been miserable since we have been apart. But do you think he might do as he did before, quarrel with me and, if I became pregnant again, walk off and leave me? Would it be right to give him another chance, or tell him I can't live with him any more? — Mrs. J.P.



Dear Mrs. J.P.:

I am always in favor of giving a person another chance, provided he sincerely intends to turn over a new leaf and make amends for the past by doing the right thing in the future. But I think that before you take your husband back you ought to be as sure as possible that he has changed his ideas. Don't let yourself get so emotional that you agree to his proposal on the impulse of the moment. Take time to think it all over carefully and, in addition, make it clear to him that if he is to come back, he will have to agree to certain things.

One of these things should be that he must stop picking quarrels with you; that he must do his part to make the home a happy one. Another should be that he must assume a husband's proper responsibility and take care of any bills if it happens that you need medical care again.

A third thing that should be clearly understood between you is that his mother should not be permitted to interfere with your life in any way. You have not said, exactly, that she does interfere, but what you tell me about the letters she wrote your friends, makes me wonder. Don't bring this point up unless you have reason to feel that your husband is too strongly influenced by her. But if you do have reason to believe this, then, by all means, tell him definitely that you expect him to stand by his wife, and not let his mother tell him what to do.

Finally, it seems to me that it would be well to tell him that if he walks out on you again, for no good reason, that will be the end. If he gets the impression that he can do this whenever he likes, and you will take him back time after time, you will simply be letting yourself in for a life of misery. Take your stand now, as a self-respecting wife who is ready to carry out her rightful share of responsibility but who expects her husband to do the same. If he is unwilling to come back on that basis, then you will make a great mistake to take him back at all.

Club Activities

Sunbeam M.S.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Sunbeam Mission Band convened at Quinte View School on Friday afternoon with the mothers and friends as their guests.

The vice-president, Billy Arthur, presided.

Thanksgiving Psalm 85 was read. The leader also gave a reading, "The First Thanksgiving Festival". The Thank-offering is to be used for welcoming newcomers to Canada at ports of entry. The offering was taken by Iva Drouillard and dedicated by prayer by Joanna Galsforth.

Grades I and II sang a chorus and, "Father We Thank Thee."

"A Thanksgiving Quiz" was read by Gail Goldie, and Iva Drouillard which showed why the Bible was the best book to choose. Vicky Clyden and Sheila Cave sang "Jack-O-Lantern", unaccompanied.

Mrs. Leonard Young gave "The Runaways" a chapter of, "Fig Tree Village" which told of five children leaving the religious gathering to visit Sushila, a sister of Myrla, at "Gates of Hope" a leper hospital.

HUNT PROSPECTOR

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Police are searching in Eby township, south of here, for prospector and trapper Frank Graff, 79, not seen since Oct. 22. They said he may be dead in the bush. A hunter found Graff's cabin unoccupied except for four dogs, three cats and five pigeons, all hungry and thirsty.

Aurora Borealis Latest Thing In Stones for Jewelry

LONDON (Reuters) — "Aurora borealis" is the latest thing in multi-colored stones for costume jewelry.

It is featured by Christian Dior in his winter collection in an antique silver setting for a set comprising ear studs, necklace, bracelet and brooch.

The stone itself appears at first sight to be a cold blue, but changes in different lights through green to warmer tones of topaz.

Another innovation by Dior designed to brighten the coming winter is a musical fob for wearing in the lapel of coat or jacket. In Victorian style, with a large rhinestone set in pearls on the outside, it contains a tiny musical box. This can be wound up and set playing at the wearer's will. There is a choice of two tunes.

A third novelty introduced in this collection is the river pearl, imitating the tudor fresh water pearls which used to be fished out of the Thames. These pearls have a matt finish and satin - like texture, reflecting irridiscent hues, which distinguish them at once from salt water pearls.

(Rose Hall W. A.)

ROSE HILL — The Rose Hall W. A. held their October meeting in the Sunday School Hall on evening of Wednesday the 19th.

Mrs. W. Cunningham presided and opened the meeting.

The president greeted the many members who had assembled and Mrs. Istead, secretary, called the roll with 21 responding.

General business session was dealt with and correspondence and "Thank you" notes read. It was arranged for a community pot luck supper to be held the first week in November.

Mrs. L. McCartney had charge of the devotional exercises and gave a splendid talk on "Thanksgiving".

Mrs. L. Wight, Mrs. B. Reed, and Mrs. Timmerman gave readings after which a contest was arranged.

Mrs. G. Vandusen and Miss Istead were co-hostesses. Refreshments were served and social half-hour enjoyed.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. L. Wight.

Mrs. A. Wannamaker visited in Kingston on Saturday. A great crowd was on hand at Kingston to witness the football game Queens vs. Varsity.

LE. PLANTS BULBS

GARDENVILLE — The Sun- day school children of the Carry- ing Place United church, are meet- ing, November 2, at 2 p.m., weath- er permitting to plant flower bulbs in front of the church. Hopes are high that God's house may be more beautiful next spring, when these various kinds of bulbs send forth their blooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baxter will assist the children in preparing the beds and planting the bulbs.

Church service in the United church was fairly well attended, despite the inclement weather. The Reverend E. V. Cook explain- ed the Lord's second beatitude: "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted."

"We must beware of self-pity and selfishness when we think we are in sorrow," said Mr. Cook. "By 'mourn' Jesus meant 'sorrow for sin'." Quoting an Arab pro- verb, "All sunshine makes a des- ert," Mr. Cook drew a compari- son with that and the soul of a man whose life is all pleasant- ness.

"That man will have no tears to shed with those in sorrow and no tenderness to feel another's heartbreak." "Rather" he con- cluded, "Jesus will send His promised comfort as we share one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of God."

Miss Margaret Harris kindly supplied the music, in the absence of Mrs. William Hendricks, who is suffering with shingles. All wish for Mrs. Hendrick's a quick recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hughes (nee Beverley Walker), have returned from their honeymoon in North- ern Ontario. Before going to their home in Toronto, they spent a couple of days with Mrs. Hughes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walker.

Mrs. J. A. Dymond, Mrs. Allie Kemp, Mrs. Gerald Barber, Mrs. H. Grounds, Mrs. William Hill and Mrs. Jack Baxter were Friday afternoon guests at the Walker home and were shown the wed- ding gifts. Mrs. Hughes served refreshments.

Dr. and Mrs. D. Meakes, King- ston, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Young.

Their nephew, William Garth Bird, was among those qualify- ing for the intermediate diploma, given at the successful comple- tion of Grade X work.

The valedictory address was most challenging and impressive. May the gallant ambitions of these fine young graduates, to make a worthy contribution to the land of their birth or adoption, be realized in the years ahead.

Canada may well be proud of these promising young men and women, as are the surrounding communities from which they come.

Mrs. Ida Chase has closed her home here for the winter months and is visiting her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton French in Belleville.

Mrs. William Hill and Mrs. Jack Baxter and Susan, called to bid Mrs. Chase good-bye on Friday afternoon.

The Sunday school pupils of the United church held another paper drive last Saturday in spite of the wind and rain.

Hallowe'en parties were enjoyed at both the Carrying Place and Young's school on Friday after- noon.

On Monday evening, Trick or Treat' rang out on the night air as the ghosts, tramps, witches and story-book characters paid their jolly calls on their neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Griffin, Bonnie and Jean, of Madoc, and Mrs. Jack Baxter and Susan, were Thursday dinner guests of Mrs. George Landon. On Sunday, Mrs. Landon's children from Bowman- ville, visited her.

Mr. and Mrs. Fransky enter- tained Mrs. Fransky's brother and sister and on Monday evening took them to their place of em- ployment in Bancroft.

Mr. Garth Bird spent the week- end with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Baxter and enjoyed hunting on Saturday, with Mr. Herb. Rollins.

Mrs. J. A. Dymond and guests, motored to Kingston on Thurs- day.

Misses Mary Dymond, Reg.N. and Gwen Hart, Reg. N., attend- ed the Queen's-Toronto football game in Kingston on Saturday.

The ideal fall weather of the past few days has been fully utilized by all to remove and dry the bulbs of summer flowers and to plant those for spring bloom- ing. Storm windows are again be- ing put in place and the leaves send up their final message in the flames and smoke of bonfires.

Mrs. William Hill visited Mrs. B. Bonter and Sheila, on Wednes- day.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mrs. Jack Baxter and Susan, were Saturday afternoon visitors at the home of Mrs. A. Tucker.

Mrs. Fred Clark, "The Moor- ings," is spending a few days in Toronto.

BACK FENCE TALK

The tradition of back fence visits continues in Hometown Ontario even though nowadays the living room is usually the setting. Neighbours visit back and forth and they take a close personal interest in what their other neighbours, uptown, downtown and crosstown, are doing. The truth is, local news is the big news in Hometown Ontario.

So naturally the 27 daily newspapers that serve those centres outside the Metropolitan areas are pretty important. They are the 'back fence visits', the church socials, the town meetings translated to a different media. For this reason, they are just about the best read, most talked about, most influential reading matter that comes into homes in the "billion-dollar-plus" market that lies outside the big cities.

Which means they are the best media for the national advertiser who wants to ring every doorbell, meet every cus- tomer in Hometown Ontario, they tell you talk to your customers in their own homes when they are most receptive. They tell you results that are proportionate to the ultimate local level, where it really counts.

Want to get the most for your national advertising dollar? Then ask your Ad- vertising Agency about getting into the Hometown Ontario newspapers.

HOMETOWN ONTARIO

Danford, Mrs. Harry Clarke, Mrs. Bruce Shipley, Mrs. Harold Chambers, Mrs. Shaver and Mrs. George Jervis attended the afternoon tea and bazaar held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Cooke, under the auspices of West Huntingdon WA. Mrs. Maurice Clancy assisted on the program, by singing a couple of solos with Mrs. Bruce Stapley, playing her accompaniment.

EGGLETON M.B.

The October meeting of Eggleton Mission Band was held on Tuesday afternoon at the school. The meeting presided over by Annamae Clarke, opened by singing hymn "The Church's One Foundation", with the teacher, Miss Marlene Armstrong, as pianist.

The leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, took charge for the election of officers for 1956 as follows —president, Robert Clarke; vice-president, Johnny Madill; treasurer, Paul Bridges; secretary, Allan Reide; program conveners, Annamae Clarke and Grant Reide, lunch convener, Audrey Stapley and Gary Phillips; pianist, Sharon Reide.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Clancy to the retiring officers, who had done their work so well during the past year.

A reading, "Just For Today" was given by Shirley Frest.

The thank-offering was taken up by Wayne McMullen.

Annamae Clarke read the minutes and gave the roll call showing 23 children and three adults at the meeting.

SCRAP BOOK

Mrs. Clancy asked the children to bring pictures of boys and girls of all nationalities living in Canada, so that a scrap book for 1956 could be started.

The older pupils were requested to learn the first ten books of the New Testament for memory work.

Five of the pupils offered to sell boxes of Christmas cards and seals also boxes of cards for various other occasions. Proceeds to go to the church.

WORLD'S SAFEST MILE

DETROIT (AP) — Called the "safest mile in the world," the international tunnel under the Detroit river marked its 25th anniversary today. The tunnel, linking Detroit and Windsor, Ont., has carried 47,900,000 cars with only two fatal accidents.

House Dispute Ends in Court

TORONTO (CP)—A husband and wife dispute following a home-delivered supper of fish and chips ended in court.

William Washington was charged with assaulting his wife after the two ate the meal and settled down to watch tefevision. Mrs. Washington said her husband demanded less.

When she asked him to wait until the program finished he hit her over the head with his shoe, she told magistrate F. C. Cullen. Washington said his wife told him she'd rather throw the tea down the sink.

"There is a duty and responsibility for them to prepare the meals and make tea."

The case was remanded to Nov. 3 for judgment.

Bringing Up Baby
Even the best-natured babies suffer out-of-sorts spells from time to time, for no apparent reason. A few "tried and true" ways to switch baby from crankiness to good humor:
• A short social session in a room other than his own usually works wonders.
• A spot of soft radio music will often lull a baby into sweet tranquility.
• A bit of play exercise often helps baby exchange whimpers for gurgles of glee.
Growing babies need "growing tools" to help Mother Nature do her best. Important "growing tools" are complete proteins best-known source is meat. Gerber Strained Meats are specially prepared to remove nearly all the fat and fiber for extra-easy digestibility. Made of selected cuts, they're cooked with eagle-eye care to preserve natural true-meat flavors and a high proportion of nutritional food values. All 6 varieties are 100% meat, with just enough broth for the smooth texture that feels pleasant on baby's tongue, so easy on baby's delicate digestive tract.
Left or right? Easy to determine which hand your baby is handiest with. Offer objects to baby at his middle-most point. Natural grasping instinct will soon show which hand will take the lead.
For a good source of vitamin A and blood-building iron, you'll want to try Gerber Strained Egg Yolks. A delicate, fresh-egg flavor coupled with a creamy-smooth, custard-like texture make Gerber Egg Yolks ideal for the crib set. Serve by the spoonful —mix with cereal, vegetables or milk. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Ltd., Niagara Falls, Canada.

Eden Declares Government Not Asked for Advice

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons Tues. the Royal Marriages Act of 1772 could not be amended without the concurrence of all the Commonwealth countries over which Queen Elizabeth reigns.

He said the governments "advice was neither sought nor given" in connection with the romance between Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Eden's statement came in the course of sharp exchanges with Lt. — Col. Marcus Lipton, Labor member who had asked Eden "whether he would introduce legislation to repeal or amend the Royal Marriages Act of 1772."

Lipton tabled the question last week and refused a Conservative demand in the House of Commons this afternoon "to have the decency" to withdraw the question in view of Margaret's announcement Monday night she would not marry the divorced Townsend.

TO KILL BUFFALO

OTTAWA (CP) — Five hundred buffalo, representing an estimated 250,000 pounds of dressed meat, will be slaughtered early in December at Elk island national park, 46 miles east of Edmonton, the northern affairs department said Monday. It's a move to keep wildlife population at a level which can be supported by Elk Island's rangelands.

Stirling

NEW OFFICERS

STIRLING.— The River Valley 4-H "Society Gals" held their initial meeting at the school house under the leadership of Mrs. George Heasman and Mrs. Phil Conley. Seventeen girls enrolled for this new project "A Club Girl Entertains".

The leader gave a demonstration on floral arrangements. The members repeated at the close the 4-H pledge, "My health to better living. My heart to greater loyalty. My hand to larger service for my club, community, and country."

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Thompson of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Mack, Port Hope, visited several relatives in Rawdon, before Mr. and Mrs. Mack leave to spend the winter months in Florida.

Mrs. Alton Armstrong, Armitage, Ontario, spent a week with Mrs. Elizabeth Foster and conducted 'Extension Service' short courses in the district.

River Valley Missionary Auxiliary held its October meeting at the home of Mrs. Ralph Ulman. Mrs. Ernest Carr presided and conducted the business.

Mrs. Glenn Bush was in charge of the worship service. She also gave the first chapter of the study book entitled "Coming Our Way".

Mrs. Roy Bush was in charge of the Bible study.

Mrs. Jack Bush gave a report of the recent rally at Trenton, after which Mrs. Stanley Irven read a selection.

Good Remedy For Hangover

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Alcoholics may be sobered up by taking a mixture of fruit juice, sugar and oxygen and then may be freed of the desire to drink for about a year by injections of a drug named euporphin, a Tenner sea doctor reported Monday.

Dr. Maurice Pruitt, Chattanooga, said euporphin causes the patient to sleep, calms anxiety and whets the appetite. He spoke at the sixth annual national states' conference on Alcoholism.

For sobering up, Pruitt recommended a cocktail made of the juice of half a lemon or one orange, one-eighth teaspoon of salt, two teaspoons of brown sugar and enough ice water to make eight ounces.

Several glasses of this mixture will sober the patient in five to ten minutes, he said.

Gross National Product Will Create Record

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal economists now estimate Canada's gross national product—value of goods and services produced—will rise this year to a record $26,250,000,000.

If realized, this would be $1,000,000,000 higher than Finance Minister Harris' April forecast and $2,250,000,000 higher than actual production last year.

Further, they forecast—and this likely will be touched on by Trade Minister Howe in his annual year-end statement next month—that the momentum of Canada's economic expansion will be carried into 1956 and that production will make a further rise in that year.

KEY INDICATOR

The gross national product is one of the key indicators of the country's economic strength and reflects a degree of prosperity expressed in cash and goods on shelves.

For the Prairies, at least, the prosperous side is shadowy since many farmers are stuck with heavy stocks of grain in a glutted market. Many farmers this year may have large stocks of grain in the bin, but little cash.

Nevertheless, the economists feel Canada has made spectacular strides this year as business men and farmers met the challenge of the 1954 recession. The rise in 1955 production volume is expected to be about nine per cent, the biggest annual percentage increase in the post-war era.

TRADING INCREASE

They believe Canada's exports this year will exceed the $3,878,000,000 in 1954 and probably match the 1953 record of $4,356,000,000. Imports are expected to shatter all records, rising above the $4,093,000,000 last year and the record $4,382,800,000 in 1953.

Canada's economic rise has been accompanied by an expansion of credit, but the economists do not feel the credit expansion has caused any serious inflation. Some prices have risen but on the average living costs have shown only small gains.

Republicans and Democrats Set Sights on White House Although Election Year Away

REPORTS TO U.N. ON MIDDLE EAST

Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, U.N. truce chief in Palestine, is in New York to report to the United Nations. He told newsmen that at the present "it does not look like conditions are favorable for negotiations between the Arab bloc and the Israeli government." He also said that he has observed "no particular indication of a heightening of tension" because of the sale of Soviet arms to Egypt.

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The campaign for the 1956 United States election is on the move, with both the Republicans and the Democrats setting sights on the White House, the most glittering prize in the realm of American politics.

Although the voting is still a year away, each week brings a quickening in the undercurrent of political activity, a rise in the tempo and temper of speeches, statements and stratagems aimed at winning support in November, 1956.

For the Republicans, it is a matter of retaining the presidency, won so handily by General Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952, and recapturing the Congressional control lost to the Democrats in the 1954 off-year elections. The Democrats seek to regain their grip on Congress and put a Democrat back into the White House.

ISSUES EMERGE

Favorite - son movements are springing up across the land and the first outlines of campaign issues, always difficult to define in times of prosperity, are beginning to emerge from the continuing war of words being waged by the country's two major political parties.

The increasing certainty that ailing President Eisenhower will not run for a second term has sharpened interest in the campaign, and is shaping up to be one of the most wide-open and longest in years.

For the Republicans, the man conceded to be in the most favorable position at the moment is Vice-President Richard Nixon, the 42 - year - old Californian whom Eisenhower occasionally likes to whom he chose as his running mate in 1952. His office has put him in a good position to build up a political organization.

One man the Republicans would like to see on their ticket, but who has declared himself out of the running, is Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States Supreme Court, one-time governor of California. Warren issued a statement last April saying he would not run under any circumstances, but many observers feel he would forsake the bench if Eisenhower made a personal appeal to Warren's sense of duty.

STIFF COMPETITION

Adlai E. Stevenson, the witty, 55-year-old former governor of Illinois who carried the Democrat hopes in 1952, still is the Democratic speculation. He all but declared himself "in" in a press statement in Kingston, Ont., in October and is expected to announce his candidacy formally later this month.

Stevenson may meet stiff competition from Averell Harriman, 63, the multi-millionaire governor of New York, who has announced his support for Stevenson but who since has been talking about his own future as a potential candidate. If tradition counts, Harriman may have the edge. He lost four Democratic candidacies since 1864 have been succeeded either New York state or New Jersey.

Estes Kefauver, the homespun Tennessee senator who made coonskin cap may rally considerable support. The 52-year-old Kefauver, who won fame for his Senate investigations into big-time crime a couple of years back, will bid for the Democratic nomination in 1952 and lost. He has hinted yet whether he will try again next year.

Plan QE Way Without Crossing In Hundred Miles

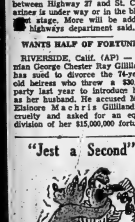
TORONTO (CP)—Motorists will be able to drive 100 miles through Canada's most densely populated area without meeting a stop light or a crossroad within a few miles.

The Ontario department of highways announced Tuesday the plan for a multi-million dollar highway of a multi-million dollar program to make the Queen Elizabeth way between Toronto and Fort Erie a controlled-access highway.

Project of the program is to make four-lane throughway, opened and named for Queen Mother Elizabeth in 1939, one of the province's safest highways. No completion date has been set. When the project is complete, there will be no traffic lights and no access except by interchanges or cloverleafs.

PARTLY CONTROLLED

The highway, also designated as Highway 402, presently is a controlled-access throughway from the western Toronto city limits to Highway 27, a distance of about six miles.



Limited or controlled access means traffic may enter and leave the four lanes only at specially constructed points where the free flow of traffic is not interrupted. This usually involves construction of overhead or under-passes.

Construction of the interchanges between Highway 27 and St. Catharines today was in the blue print stage. More will be added, highways department said.

WANTS HALF OF FORTUNE

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Oil man George Gilliland Star Gilliland has sued to divorce the 74-year-old heiress who threw a $30,000 party last year to introduce him as her husband. He accused Mrs. Elsinore Mayris Gilliland of cruelty and asked for an equal division of her $15,000,000 fortune.

450 Wartime Houses Slated For Hamilton

Agreement for financing of the $2,000,000 project was announced Tuesday by federal Works Minister Winters and Ontario's Planning Minister Nickle. Hamilton will pay 7½ per cent of the cost, the province 7½, and the federal government 15 per cent.

Canada Is Willing to Share Radiation Effects Knowledge

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Canadian government Tuesday offered to share its knowledge of radiation effects with other countries.

At the same time Canada joined Britain, Australia and the United States in sponsoring a resolution to establish a UN technical committee to order that we may share with other member states of the United Nations information on the techniques employed and the results obtained from these studies.

The resolution provides that the committee develop a summary by July 1, 1958, of radiation levels and radiation effects together with an evaluation of reports from various countries and "intentions" of research projects which might require further study.

Commenting on this provision, Martin told the committee it is Canada's view that the 1958 project should not be considered final, "particularly in relation to genetic effects, the study of which may well extend over many years and affect several generations."

"Under the resolution, the governments of Canada, Britain, Australia, the United States, Brazil, France, India, Japan, Sweden and Russia would each nominate one scientist to the committee.

Martin said the UN specialized agencies, such a the World Health Organization, should work with the committee in matters falling within the committee's jurisdiction.

Hog Producers Co-op Wins Farm Federation Approval

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario hog producers' co-operative, its legality questioned by a Stratford area farmer, Tuesday was endorsed unanimously at the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

The action was taken following a report that Theodore Parker of Ellice township said he would go to court against the co-operative on grounds it is not legally established.

The co-operative is an agency established by the province to market hogs collectively. It has been in operation since last June 1.

Mr. Parker said in a statement Monday night that the co-operative did not file an appointment with the Ontario farm products marketing board to operate and that members were not notified they belonged to the co-operative.

Mr. Parker caused a furor in hog marketing circles two years ago when he started court action against the United Livestock Sales and the hog producers marketing board, the agency that preceded the hog producers' co-operative. He dropped the action when the co-operative was formed to replace the hog producers marketing board.

The federation resolved to appoint a committee to study the Canadian freight rate structure and, if necessary, ask the federal government to appoint a commission.

The meeting also asked for a committee to study the question of unemployment insurance coverage for farm workers. The federation supported the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in asking the federal government for a renewal of a floor price of 58 cents for butter.

Earlier president J. A. Ferguson told delegates Canada some day may have to import food if effective land programs are not implemented. He said the greatest hope of alleviating Canada's present agricultural surplus is in the country's ability to sell to western Europe and Japan.

New Zealand Holiday for Princess Suggested to Evade Prying Press

WELLINGTON (Reuters) —New Zealand papers praise Princess Margaret for her decision not to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend. The Wellington Evening Post said "the pity of it was that the romance should have gone as far as it did."

"By her decision, Margaret has made before the world an act of magnificent renunciation." The paper said: "So should end a controversy that, had it continued much longer, would assuredly have done much harm to the Royal Family."

But it said, Townsend "must have foreseen that any close proplonged association with the princess could . . . cause only grave embarrassment on both religious and constitutional grounds."

Publishers Deny Advertising Trust Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers Association Tuesday denied government charges that it conspired to allocate newspaper advertising to a selected group of advertising agencies in violation of anti-trust laws.

The ANPA asked federal judge William B. Herlands to dismiss the case.

Five other defendants were named with the ANPA last May. They are the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the Publishers Association of New York City, the Periodical Publishers Association, Associated Business Papers, and the Agricultural Publishers Association.

The Publishers Association of New York City also filed an answer to deny the allegations. The other four defendants asked and obtained a 90-day extension in which to make their replies.

The ANPA brief denied that it or anyone authorized to act for it is engaged in a conspiracy in restraint of trade, or that it intended to do so by any of its actions.

The ANPA said it has a right to gather and disseminate to its members credit information on anyone placing ads in daily newspapers.

The government has charged that this activity was designed to restrict the placing of ads to a selected group of advertising agencies.

The ANPA denied this, saying the information it gathers and distributes to members "is normally and reasonably available, to the lawful and main purpose of its credit information and credit bureau service." This information is confidential, the ANPA said, and is used by its members "in the free exercise of their individual business discretion."

Slain Woman Coaxed Accused To Go With Her

KINGSTON (CP)—The brother of murder suspect Hilton Campbell said Tuesday that Hilton and his married woman he is accused of shooting visited Toronto together in 1953.

Robert Campbell, 29, quoted Mrs. Bernice Anslay as saying:

"Don't blame Hilton. It's all my fault. I coaxed him to come."

Robert, a farmer at nearby Sunbury, is charged with the July 21 shooting of Mrs. Anslay and her two small children, died outside Mrs. Anslay's Toronto apartment at a nearby quarry.

Robert Campbell said he saw his brother Hilton and Anslay home a half hour before the shooting took place. He said Hilton "didn't look normal" but wasn't carrying a gun.

Earlier, Kingston Hospital guard William Hogan, "a life-long friend" of the defendant, said Campbell told him he was "in trouble with Mrs. Anslay" three years before the shooting.

To questioning by defence counsel Malcolm Robb at the Kingston Assizes, Hogan said he heard rumors" about Mrs. Anslay and that her reputation "became questioned after she moved to Sunbury with her husband."

He said he had never heard Hilton Campbell threaten the woman.

Campbell was a mild type of person, Hogan said, of even disposition. He said he knew Hilton Campbell had never committed a "mean or vicious act of any kind."

Hogan carefully identified he sold the murder suspect a .22-calibre rifle in June, 1954, as recorded in sales order which, he said, carried Campbell's signature.

The trial is continuing.

Canadians Urged Not to Falter In Pursuit of Trade Policies

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

GLENGORRY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canadians have been urged "not to falter" in their pursuit of liberal trade policies.

The advice came from Sir Douglas Ellis, Australian high commissioner to Canada, who addressed the annual dinner of the Canadian Exporters' Association Tuesday night.

"Time," he told Canadians, "is on your side. What have you to fear, you who are in the midst of such great expansion?

"You have to face restraints and the inconvenience of misunderstandings but don't let it deter you from your goal."

No one present, said Sir Douglas, was capable of imagining how much world trade would grow in the next one, two or three decades. The present world population would increase by 1,200,000,000 or by 50 per cent in the next 30 years and, "in the face of this prospect, how can we entertain any doubt that we are on the eve of the greatest period of economic expansion the world has ever known?

Sir Douglas spoke to an audience feeling a mixture of hope and frustration about the current trade situation.

On the one hand they saw Canadian products under aggressive salesmanship.

W. F. Bull, deputy minister of trade and commerce and other officials of the commerce department asked the co-operation of exporters and Canadian industry at large in placing Canadian goods before world customers, especially through the medium of trade fairs abroad.

Future of Peter Townsend Who Loved, Lost Princess Given Much Thought by Britons

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Britons turned today from sympathetic thoughts about Princess Margaret and her tightbed romance to speculation about the future of Peter Townsend the man who loved and lost.

Margaret, after making her decision not to marry Townsend, an RAF group captain and divorced father of two children, spent Tuesday in seclusion with Queen Mother Elizabeth at their London residence, Clarence House.

Tonight the princess will make her first appearance since her decision, attending a service at St. Paul's cathedral. The ocasion is the 50th anniversary of the death of Dr. Thomas John Barnardo, who founded a group of homes for foundlings.

LIGHTEN DUTIES

With a full schedule of ceremonial events stretching before Margaret this week and beyond, Prime Minister Eden's government is reported willing to lighten her load of official duties while she recovers from her shattered love.

The 49-year-old Townsend has found some refuge in this hurried romance with the 25-year-old princess by remaining at Buckingham House, the Sussex country place of his friend, Lord Rupert Nevill.

He is reported sorting through a pile of job offers from prospective employers in Britain and North Americ.

His friends say it is unthinkable that the gentlemanly airman would decide to cash in by publishing details of the courtship. But it is not unlikely that he soon may find his air force career and seek private employment, perhaps in the aircraft industry.

GIVEN NO HINT

Townsend himself has given no hint of his plans. All that is known is that his 21st-year tour of duty as British air attache in Brussels ends in January. He now is on leave which ends Monday.

Talking to reporters Tuesday night at Uckfield House, he said: "I shall be going back to Brussels at the weekend, possibly Sunday. But before I do, I want to spend a few quiet days down here going for walks, perhaps ridding a bike and paying an occasional visit to friends."

The Daily Mirror says there must be no official persecution of Townsend out of respect for the sensitivity which has attended his friendship with Princess Margaret."

U.S. Steel Gets Pipe Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United States Steel Corporation's National Tube Division said Tuesday it has received an order for more than 200,000 tons of large steel pipe to be used in a natural gas pipeline.

The 34-inch pipe will be produced at McKeesport, Pa., and Orange, Texas. It will be used in completing the western leg of the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. natural gas pipeline, which will run from Alberta province to Ontario to eastern Canadian markets.

U.S. Steel said the order is the largest ever placed for steel pipe for a single project. The pipe will be made in 40-foot lengths, will weigh about 353 tons a mile. The pipeline is scheduled for completion in 1957.

Newsprint Price Rise Denounced By Coldwell

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—CCF leader Coldwell Tuesday night said the recent increase in the price of newsprint "is one of the most unvarnished pieces of sheer profiteering we have seen in Canada since prices were decontrolled."

"At another point he told a public meeting here: "The matter is important enough, in my opinion, to warrant a full inquiry."

The statements were included in excerpts of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

"There is absolutely no justification for the price increase—either in the form of increased wages or of any other cost," Mr. Coldwell said.

EFFECT ON PRESS

Mr. Coldwell said he is more concerned, however, With the effect "these continued and unwarranted increases in the price of newsprint will have on the press of this nation—on the local community papers as well as on the big dailies".

Most small local papers were having a hard job to make ends meet already. And daily papers were in little better position.

"They are already too dependent on advertisers for their chief source of revenue. Their independence is threatened more and more with every increase in the price of newsprint. Furthermore, within each city newspapers are increasingly occupying a monopoly position. In more than 50 of our urban centres there is only one daily newspaper.

HAVE "LITTLE CHOICE"

"The people in these cities have little or no choice as to where they may read the daily news, the editorials and the articles and columnists. Indeed there are four cities in Canada which in 1947 had two dailies each, but where today there is only one.

"The Southam Company, for example, owns seven daily newspapers and has substantial interests in two other dailies, as well as two radio and two television station. The Thomon Company, to take another example, owns 18 dailies and two weeklies in Canada and in addition has three dailies and five weeklies in the United States and the United Kingdom."

Separate Trials Denied 3 Youths In Murder Case

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — The trial of three Quebec youths charged with the slaying of a member of a Roman Catholic priest was adjourned Tuesday until Thursday while Mr. Justice Samuel Predman of the Brandon area are summoned for jury duty.

The adjournment by Mr. Justice Samuel Predman in Court of Queen's Bench came after defence counsel was denied an application for separate trials. Counsel Harry Walsh of Winnipeg attempted to obtain the two separate trials for Jean Paquin and Gerard de Tonnancourt, both of Montreal, who were 17 at the time of the slaying of Father Alfred Quirion of St. Edwards, Alta., tried separately.

Mr. Justice Freedman ruled that they be tried jointly with 18-year-old Guy Ferrange of Riviéres des Prairies.

PLEAD INSANITY

Defence has told the court one of the defences of Ferragne would be a plea of insanity.

In the notice of motion for separate trials Mr. Walsh argued that the three are tried jointly, evidence introduced against one might be prejudicial to the others. Crown Attorney W. O. Mcigher of Brandon opposed separate trials on the ground that statements made by the youths to police contained nothing of variation. Three were held by one of the accused and one each by the other two.

Mr. Justice Freedman upheld the crown, saying that variations in degree of culpability, if any, would be more likely to appear in the joint trial.

Defence counsel has requested a split jury on which half the 12 jurors are skilled in the language of the accused.

Hastings 4-H Exhibits Shown At Winter Fair

Hastings County 4-H Club Members again provided keen competition in the Annual Championship Show at the Ottawa Winter Fair, on October 28th. Twenty-six members of Hastings County 4-H Clubs exhibited at the Fair, exhibiting calves, gilts, grain and potatoes.

In the Swine Club show the Grand Champion gilt of the show was exhibited by Harold Harris, of Madoc. Harold's gilts along with one shown by John Sager, Stirling, and Douglas Farrell, Moira, went through to the second prize group in the show. The final county standings were as follows: First, Lennox and Addington, second, South Hastings, third, Carleton, fourth, Renfrew, and fifth, Lanark.

In a class of 80 calves from the counties of Frontenac, Hastings, Glengarry, Leeds, Prescott, and Edward, Douglas Burnside, Madoc, was second, Jack Vermilyea, third, and Bill Vermilyea, fourth. In the same section of the show, the calves of Ralph Detlor, Raymond Ross, Rasburn Robinson, and Allan Franks also placed in the first prize group, while the calves of Glen Broadworth, Ronald Heath, Allan Hamilton, Julia Savage and Ivan Phillips, were all in the second prize group, with none of the calves being in the third prize group.

Billie Vermilyea is to be congratulated on being selected, with one other 4-H club member as being one of the two top showmen in the group of eighty. Although Billie did not win in the final showmanship competition, he certainly was a keen competitor and is to be congratulated on his achievement.

Possibly the keenest part of the entire livestock show was the Holstein Group competition in which groups of three calves from each club compete and in this competition there were 60 groups of three calves representing the Holstein breed. First place went to Lanark county while the Belleville 4 - H Calf Club placed second with Bill Vermilyea, Jack Vermilyea, and Ivan Phillips. Third place went to the Madoc Club with Rasburn Robinson, Allan Franks and Douglas Burnside. The Stirling 4-H Calf Club placed sixth with Raymond Ross, Ralph Detlor, and Ronald Heath. These showmen are to be congratulated, for it is quite a feat to be in the top 15 let alone place 2nd, 3rd and 6th.

In the Grain Club show in competition with 56 other entries of Rodney Oats, Eric Enerson, from the R.C.I.V.S. Grain Club was first and Ronald Hamilton, second, while Douglas Detlor, Stirling, was ninth, and Jack Vermilyea from the R.C.I.V.S. Club was eighteenth.

In the late Potato' Section, Edmund Hickey, Bird's Creek was first, Jack Hickey, Bird's Creek, second, while Orville Burtonyette, Maple Leaf, was fourth, and Ted Burnside, Madoc, seventh.

The Hastings County Council has given a small grant towards this show in the past as well as this year, and we know that the 4-H club members appreciate this support. The actual cost to the Ottawa Winter Fair, including transportation of members and livestock, meals and lodging, as well as prize money, is between $400 and $500 per county. They certainly are to be congratulated on the interest they are taking in promoting 4-H club work in Eastern Ontario.

Dale Carnegie Dies Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Dale Carnegie, author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People," died Tues. at his home. He had been ill for some time.

The author and lecturer, whose book sold approximately four million copies, had for years been giving courses in public speaking.

Carnegie, 66, attained wealth and fame by stressing the value of personality in the social and business fields.

"How to Win Friends and Influence People," based largely on personal experiences, was published in 1936.

Its tremendous popularity led him to describe himself as one of the "most astonished" authors of his time.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was doing my homework, and I said, Hay pop, hay pop, hay ma, did you know this is Child Safety week?

Good, take care of yourself, pop said, and ma said, And not only this week, for land sakes.

We had to write 2 styles for homework on how to cross the street safely, I said. I'll need you mins to see if you and ma can think of any changes. The ferst rule is, dont run in front of a car that's standing still, if the driver is looking the other way, I said.

For f'eet sake, suppose the car is moving, no matter where the driver is looking? pop said, and I said, Then just wait.

I hope you do, pop said, and I said, Yes sir, and ma said, Dont run in front of a car if it's anywhere in the same block.

Yes mam, I said. The 2nd rule is, if you see 2 cars coming from different directions, dont run between them, I said, and ma said, Goodness, one car from one direction is enough.

But heck, me, you cant run between one car, can you? I said, and she said, I can't but there's no telling what you can do.

Anyways, the 3rd rule is, if you see a car coming, it's better to see how fast you can cross the street, and not how slow, I said, and pop said, Yee gods, add one rule for me, will you?

Sure, pop, what? I said, and he said, Be sure you never cross a street without looking in at least 2 directions, and more if possible, and then stay right where you are till the coast is clear.

G, pop, that sounds like a good one, I said, and pop said, Write it down.

Which I did, and I hope I remember it.

British Liberal Papers Assail Role of Church

LONDON (Reuters)—Two newspapers, commenting on Princess Margaret's decision not to marry Capt. Townsend, say the Church of England will suffer as a result of his part in the affair.

The Manchester Guardian and News Chronicle, both Liberal newspapers, joined with many other British papers in expressing sympathy for the princess.

The Guardian says the decision "has plainly been come to after subtle pressures" and declares "England will hardly be won back to the Christian faith by the enforcement of disregarded taboos and the assertion of ecclesiastical authority."

The newspaper forecast that the outcome "will not rebound to the credit or the influence of those who have been most persistent in denying the princess the same liberty that is enjoyed by the rest of her fellow-citizens."

REACTION PREDICTED

The News Chronicle says "there is bound to be a strong reaction against the church and possibly against the leaders of the church."

The right-wing Daily Express voices "dismay that she should renounce a marriage she still so plainly desires." It says "opinion is tired persons . . . have plied on the pressure."

The Communist Daily Worker writes: "The self - appointed holy trinity, consisting of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Duke of Edinburgh (rumored to have opposed the marriage) and the editor of The Times, have sown a wind but will live to reap a whirlwind."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph, however, declares that Princess Margaret's decision "has obviously been reached without promptings or pressure from any member of her family."

PRAISE FOR SACRIFICE

The Independent Times says the princess' renunciation message will "still further deepen" the affection that has surrounded her during the time she was believed to be at

Govt. Approves All-Canadian Gas Pipeline

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the federal government has approved a plan for an all-Canadian natural gas pipeline which involves construction by a crown company of the section through northern Ontario.

The newspaper says it was learned last night that the plan will be announced at Ottawa Wednesday following a final meeting with representatives of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Co. which will build the other sections of the line."

The story adds that the decision is, in effect, a "rejection of the Ontario plan put forward during the recent Dominion-provincial conference. Under this plan Ontario proposed that all the governments involved finance construction of the line, leaving the actual buying and selling of gas to private interests.

PROVINCIAL PART

Ontario will be asked to put up $35,000,000 towards construction of the so-called Ontario bridge which will stretch from the Manitoba border to Kapuskasing, Ont., The Globe says.

The federal contribution to the crown company, it says, will be the balance of the $118,000,000 it will cost to construct the 700 miles of pipeline through the rugged northern terrain.

The pipeline will carry natural gas from Alberta to eastern Canada.

In Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe said the government plans no pipeline announcement Wednesday.

ripe with 'a harsh, personal dilemma."

The Conservative Daily Mail declares: "Princess Margaret has faced her problem by herself. Let us never forget the sacrifice she has made for crown and constitution and Commonwealth.

"If the doctrines of the church had been set aside and the deepfelt beliefs of millions of people flouted, the place of the Royal Family in our national life must have been diminished."

MARMORA

Conference Called By Mine Union

MARMORA — The eastern conference of the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (Canada) is being called in Marmora, during the weekend of Nov. 19 and 20, it was announced here today by Ray Stevenson, eastern board member for the union.

The conference will bring together representatives from the entire jurisdiction of the Mine Mill east of Manitoba, Stevenson stated.

Local 889, Mine Mill, the bargaining agency for the employees of Deloro Smelting and Refining Company near here will be hosts to the representatives of the other local unions in eastern Canada.

National officers of the Union, including President Nels Thibault will attend the conference it is expected, and invitations to other local unions in the Peterborough and Marmora area to send fraternal delegates will be sent out in the near future according to Stevenson.

Suspect Swerves Car Into Tree To Evade Police

TORONTO (CP) — A police constable and two men were injured Tues. when one of the prisoners deliberately swerved their car into a tree on Toronto's east side, police said.

Constable Ronald Byron and the driver, Charles P. Hall, 26, of Ottawa, escaped with bruises, but the second prisoner, Kenneth Bethune, 42, of Toronto was cut about the face.

Constable Byron, a motorcycle policeman, said he had spotted goods he thought might be lost from summer cottages, in the back seat of the two men's car. He got inside and ordered them to drive to a police station.

At the station the constable got out, but jumped back as the pair started to escape by driving away. He drew his pistol and ordered Hall, the driver, to stop.

Hall is alleged to have swerved the car in to a tree and jumped out. Constable Byron chased him, firing three warning shots. Hall was picked up an hour later.

Duke Unveils War Memorial To Dead Airmen

YORK, England (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh Tuesday unveiled a Thanksgiving memorial commemorating more than 18,000 airmen, including 8,772 Canadians, who lost their lives in the Second World War while operating from airfields in northeast England.

Canada was well represented in packed York Minister whose twin towers served as a familiar landmark to the men of No. 6 RCAF bomber group and other fliers operating in the area.

A congregation of more than 4,000 watched in reverent silence throughout the ceremony. The memorial, erected in a chantry in the north transept of the cathedral, takes the form of an astronomers clock, showing the phases of the moon and the solstice and embodying the signs of the zodiac. The elaborate monumental framework enshrining the clock is of solid walnut, unpolished so that it may darken with the years.

CARRIED BY CANADIAN

In a signal tribute to the wartime service and sacrifice of the thousands of Canadians who served in the area, the honor of carrying and presenting the Book of Remembrance was given to Wing Cmdr. H. B. Hay of Edmundston, N.B.

The 35-pound Book of Remembrance is placed on a lectern beneath the clock. Inscribed on its pages are the names of Australian, Canadian, New Zealand, South African, United Kingdom, Norwegian, French, Polish, Belgian, Dutch, Czechoslovakian, Indian and Danish airmen.

High Commissioner Norman A. Robertson and Air Commodore A. D. Ross, air member of the Canadian air staff, headed the official Canadian delegation.

School Children At Athens Strike Over Rioting

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters) — All school children in the Athens area went on "strike" today in sympathy with demonstrators in Patras, who were fired on by police after storming official British buildings there Tuesday.

Police disbanded children who tried to demonstrate at the foot of the Acropolis.

In Patras, where 21 police, 20 school children and seven adult demonstrators are reported to have been hurt, police and soldiers stood by today. Twenty of the 50 persons arrested Tuesday have been detained and charged.

Interior Minister Ioannis Trianfyllis said today that the Greek government will take drastic measures to prevent further disturbances.

The Patras riot was started by children's demonstrations against British refusal to bow to Greek Cypriot demands for union of the Mediterranean colony of Cyprus with Greece.

Driving Habits Of Truckers To Be Recorded

TORONTO (CP)—A record of the driving habits of operators of commercial vehicles will be kept by Toronto city police starting today, chief constable John Chisholm announced.

In throwing the weight of the Toronto force behind the province's new safety drive, chief Chisholm said every commercial vehicle whose driver violates a traffic regulation, however minor, will be stopped and the driver's name taken.

A record will be kept and licence cancellation recommended if such action is thought necessary. As many private vehicles as possible will also be stopped in the all-out campaign against bad driving. Again, drivers' actions will be recorded.

Additional measures to be taken by Toronto police will be discussed today, Tuesday, in the provincial drive for tougher enforcement of traffic laws, provincial police issued summonses for infractions found during checks made of cars on the Queen Elizabeth way.

How to Avoid Famine or Glut Proves Puzzle

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP) — Ways of avoiding either a glut or a short supply of wheat have dominated discussions at the international conference here, it was officially stated today.

As delegates from more than 30 countries entered their second week's work at the Palace of Nations, a press release said the major problem is to avoid an "alternation of short and over-supply."

One possible interpretation is that delegates may ultimately consider some sort of sliding-scale arrangement whereby international wheat prices would fluctuate, probably within narrow limits, depending on available supplies. For the present, however, emphasis has probably been given to methods of regulating production.

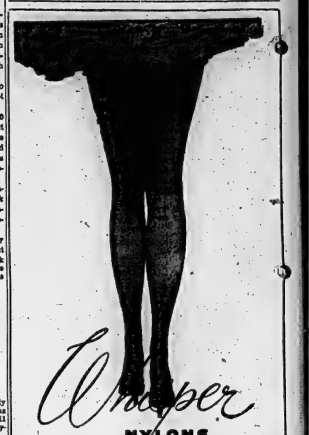
The official statement said: "During its first week, the conference has devoted itself largely to a survey of the current wheat situation.

SHORT YEARS RECALLED

"Much of the discussions concerned the present level of the world production of wheat and the large accumulation of stocks held in some exporting countries and the influence of these conditions on markets for wheat.

"In this connection delegates recalled that a shortage existed only a few years ago and recognized that while surplus supply is the most difficult factor in the present position, the major problem is the inherent one of avoiding an alternation of short and over-supply."

Cocktail Watch Finally Given To His Wife



MEMPHIS (AP) —Willie Kelly brought home his wife's Christmas present Tuesday—more than 11 years after he made the first payment.

The bashful Negro truck driver smiled as he fastened the $395 cocktail watch on Mary Kelly's wrist. A jeweller had held the watch since Kelly paid $2 down in September, 1944.

Kelly had hoped to pay the watch out by the following Christmas. He failed. He then set his sights ahead a year. It's been that way every year since. He was so set on buying that watch that the store made an exception to its layaway policy and decided to hold it for him indefinitely.

Bit by bit, Kelly had paid $382.91. Then, a few weeks ago, columnist Lydel Sims of The Commercial Appeal wrote a story about the marathon layaway. Newspaper readers from all over chipped in to help Kelly make it. One contribution came from King Salmon, Alaska. The largest was $30. Most were for amounts up to $1.

The $105.50 in contributions, plus Kelly's $382.91, left a balance of $58.54 on the original cost plus taxes. The jeweller made up the difference.

Magnetic Iron Sands Again Catch Eye of Mining Men

By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Magnetic iron sands that have lain almost forgotten for more than 40 years along the north shore of the lower St. Lawrence river have again caught the eye of mining men.

Since a flourishing iron industry closed down there late in the 19th century only an occasional government geologist has probed beneath grassy sand dunes where a fortune in ore is believed to exist.

Recently the Aconic Mining Corporation of Montreal announced it had concluded a deal with United States industrialists for the sale of 300,000,000 tons of ore concentrates during the next 30 years.

NATASHQUAN HOLDINGS

The ore would come from the company's holdings at Natashquan, some 530 miles northeast of here on the north shore of the St. Lawrence opposite Anticosti island. Sale price of the ore, it is said, would be a little more than $6 a ton.

Since the announcement, however, Aconic shares were first suspended from trading and later delisted by the Canadian stock exchange at Montreal because the company declined to identify the contracting U.S. parties.

In 1867, the Moisie Iron Works Company, owned by Montreal interests, established a plant with eight furnaces at the mouth of the Moisie river, 330 miles northeast of here.

The industry prospered for eight years but folded up in 1875 when the United States, chief importer of its products, subjected bar iron to a tariff of 1½ cents a pound.

A federal government geological survey of the area in 1911 and 1912 indicated that the ore-rich black sand occurred irregularly and intermittently from the mouth of the Bersimis river east to at least the Natashquan river, about 400 miles.

A fortune in iron ore is believed to exist beneath the grassy sand dunes along the north shore of the lower St. Lawrence River. This map locates Natashquan, 530 miles northeast of Quebec, where Aconic Mining Corporation has holdings. The ore under the dunes is believed to have been deposited there by rivers draining the area's iron trough which straddles the border between northeastern Quebec and the Newfoundland Labrador. Part of the trough, the shaded area extending northward from Schefferville, Que., is shown in this map. (CP Photo).

It is presumed that the rivers which drain the Labrador Trough—where $250,000,000 has been spent at Knob lake by the Iron Ore Company of Canada for exploitation of rich ore beds—carried ore particles to their mouth on the St. Lawrence.

There, tides, waves and winds formed the deposits into the present-day layers.

More recent tests by the federal government with more modern equipment indicated that the sand layers stopped 30 feet below the surface and that no deposits of commercial value were more than 25 feet underground.

BIG DEPOSITS

Geologist George Mackenzie estimated in 1912 that the sands contained at least 500,000 tons of magnetic ore concentrates in the Natashquan area while the later federal government survey upped this figure to 1,776,195. Figures were given in long tons—2,240 pounds.

The only other survey of the area was made two years ago by the Quebec mines department after a request was made for mineral rights on a certain property.

A mines department spokesman said results of the survey have not yet been made public. He added that only about five individuals or companies have mineral rights in the district.

They include Jean Olivier, a Belgian financier, Paul Vincent, a Quebec prospector, and the Aconic corporation.

No one except Aconic has applied for a mining concession permit to begin exploitation, the spokesmen said.

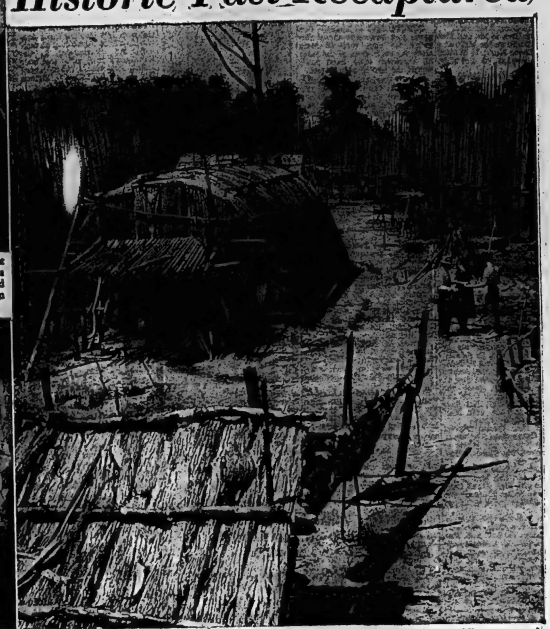
Huron Indian Village
Historic Past Recaptured

Shades of a warlike past are recalled by Anne Shiels seen brandishing a tomahawk in the Huron Indian village at Midland. The palisaded village, which duplicates a Huron community of 1610, has been reconstructed from written records of the first white men in the area and from recent excavations.

Battered hull of the British naval schooner 'Tecumseh' lies at rest near the Fort Penetanguishene museum. Built on Niagara River in 1814 for defence against the Sioux, Tecumseh plied the waters of Georgian Bay till 1819. The ship was raised from the harbour at Penetang in 1953.



Dr. Wilfred Jury, Western University archaeologist who supervised reconstruction of the Huron village, directs summer students digging for artifacts at the 'Forge' site near Midland. This spot is the site of an Indian community thought to be over 400 years old.

National Film Board Photos by Herb Taylor

Visitors to the Indian village examine pelts similar to those the Hurons themselves prepared for trade with Champlain and the coureurs de bois. Interior of the longhouse, winter living quarters, has been furnished with household articles stocked with dried meats, fish, herbs and vegetables.

Huronia, that section of Ontario's Georgian Bay country, once ruled by the mighty Huron nation, lives again to-day in a series of projects designed to perpetuate a colorful chapter in Canada's history. Together, the citizens of Simcoe county and Western University archaeologists have established the Huronia and Penetanguishene museums, have partially reconstructed Fort St. Marie and more recently reconstructed a complete Indian village. Seen above, the village contains bark covered longhouses and summer sleeping shelters, lookout tree, drying racks, a canoe in construction and even a tobacco patch.

Bail Totalling $62,500 Granted To Four Charged

TORONTO (CP)—William Ingwer, one of four alleged kingpins of a Toronto slum empire arrested Oct. 24, was released on $7,500 bail Tuesday. Police did not say who posted the money for his release.

Bail totalling $62,500 was granted Stephen Feros, Charles and William Ingwer and Linus Coghlan Monday but so far only William has been able to meet requirements.

One of the conditions was that none of the slum-area property could be used as bail. Magistrate Thomas Elmore also ruled that bail must be put up by two persons other than the accused. The four men face 22 joint charges of keeping a common bawdy house. Feros and Charles Ingwer are being held for bail of $25,000 each and Coghlan for $5,000.

Monday Feros was convicted of not cleaning up premises as ordered by the health department. He was remanded until Nov. 14 for sentence. Crown counsel Alex McDonald said Feros has been convicted 11 times in the last year on similar charges.

Shunter Engine Strikes Car On Rail Crossing

Damage to Smith's car amounted to about $400, police said.

Smith was northbound on Cannifton Road and told police that as he approached the C.N.R. crossing he looked both ways. He failed to see the shunter engine approaching in reverse from the east and the collision resulted.

Peron Leaves Paraguay For Nicaragua

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) — Juan D. Peron, deposed president of Argentina, slipped aboard a plane at Asuncion's airport at dawn today for a sudden and unexpected flight to Nicaragua, the government press office announced.

Peron was seen off by several Paraguayan officials, none of them of cabinet rank. Interested officials said the trip was arranged at Peron's own urgent request.

Peron's presence in Paraguay had created tension between Argentina and Paraguay and within the Paraguayan government itself.

Argentina accepted Paraguay's offer to intern Peron only after it had prescented a demand that Paraguay expel him for violation of the terms of political asylum. The interaction claimed by the Argentines was Peron's statement in a press interview that he still was Argentina's constitutional president because he had not resigned his office.

Ready to Go to Jail For Parking Offence

TORONTO (CP) — John Orvias will go to jail rather than have somebody tell him he can't park a car in his own driveway.

Orvias Tuesday was fined $40 and costs or 10 days because he broke Bylaw 10042. The by-law says no person in a residential district shall park his car in any portion of a driveway between the main front wall of the house and the street.

"If I go to jail this crazy by-law might be amended," Orvias said.

"The by-law is an invasion on a man's own property," added defence counsel. Orvias asked for a month's grace to settle some business matter. Then, he says, he'll be ready to serve the 10 days.

Unification Of Police Forces Given Approval

TORONTO (CP)—A single police department for metropolitan Toronto after Jan. 1, 1957, was approved Tuesday by metropolitan council.

Unification of the 12 suburban police department with the Toronto police force will be sought by metropolitan council in an application to the Ontario legislature early next year.

The council will suggest that the future metropolitan police department be controlled by a board of police commissioners.

Opposition to unification of the police departments came from Scarborough, Leaside and Swansea. Representatives of these municipalities feared the cost of operating a metropolitan police force would be too high and that less police protection would be provided.

Frail Man Beats Women Garbed For Hallowe'en

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton man was convicted Tuesday of beating up three women — all dressed in Hallowe'en garb and all weighing more than 180 pounds.

Mladen Wuk, 29, convicted after all three women took the stand to say they were punched in the face and kicked in the shins by the comparatively frail Hamilton man.

Said one: "I was dressed in a sheet with a pillow case over my head and he got out of his car and hit me. When we said we were women he hit us all the more."

Shrugging a pair of burly shoulders the 30-year-old woman added: "I tried to get my hand out of the sheet. I couldn't but if I had, would've swatted him good."

Wuk was remanded to Nov. 4 for sentence.

Argentine Govt. Seizes Labor's Two Newspapers

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's provisional government today took charge of two General Confederation of Labor newspapers minutes after die-hard Peronista leaders of the organization had called off an attempted general strike.

One of the newspapers, La Prensa, formerly the big independent daily run by the Paz family, was expropriated by the Peron government in 1951. The other is El Lider.

The labor bosses had called a general strike, effective Tuesday midnight, to enforce demands for the ousting of anti-Peron officials who took over some labor unions when Peron's dictatorship toppled last September.

The strike was called off less than half an hour after it was supposed to have started. The union issued a statement saying they had conferred with Labor Minister Luis Cerrutti Costa and had "reached a solution which is satisfactory to the interests of the working class."

Many workers apparently accepted in good faith Cerrutti Costa's speech Tuesday night in which he said every social gain by labor will be preserved by the new government, and that a strike at this time would be a tragic mistake.

Cocky Archie Moore Is Confident Of Second Try for Marciano's Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Archie Moore is sure he's going to get another shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano next June "because Rocky told me so."

"The night of the fight, Rocky told me 'You deserve another chance'," said Moore Tuesday. "I'm going to hold him to his word.

"Who else is he going to fight? That Hurricane Jackson man eliminated himself the other night, losing to Jimmy Slade. I've got nobody to fight around here but Rocky. Just waiting for the rematch in June."

Moore was in town to agree to terms for a light heavyweight title defence against Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, at Earl's Court, London, Jan. 16. But all he wanted to talk about was Marciano.

A QUESTION

Somebody asked if he thought he had been hurt by referee Harry Kessler's count when Rocky dropped Sept. 21, after Rocky already was standing up in the second round.

"I got a ton of ammunition this high," said Archie, raising his hand up around his chest. "Do you know I can hit the speed bag nine times in one second? How many times do you think I could have hit Rocky in those three or four extra seconds that Kessler gave him?"

No terms were announced for the Moore - Pompey match, Archie's fifth defence of his 175-pound crown. It was understood the split will be 40-20 with the big share going to the champ along with a probable guarantee.

Americans Fail In New York Horse Show

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Humberto Mariles, bobtesan extraordinary from Mexico, said today he can't understand how the United States rides train their horses.

"I stand there and watch them" commented the Olympic champion "and wonder what they do to horses."

Gen. Mariles, who probably could give anyone in the world lessons on how to handle a horse, said he never takes the whip to his own mounts.

"I try to teach my horses to love jumping," he said. "If they make a mistake, I bring them back to Mexico and train them some more. I also teach the other members of the Mexican team not to touch the horse going over a jump."

Gen. Mariles refused to say he thought the American team was wrong in its methods.

YANKS STRIKE OUT

In any case the Americans have been shut out in the first two international events of the National Horse Show which will take the second session of an eight-day run in Madison Square Garden today.

Mexico won the first international test and Ireland the second. The Americans were last among the four teams in the Mexican triumph.

The event, won by Ireland's Lt. P. J. Kiernan, was scored on an individual basis and no Yanks were in sight.

Lieut. Kiernan, astride Ballynonty, won the event in a jump-off with Canada's Maj. Larry Moore of Toronto. Both went over the 10 barriers cleanly the first time around.

Canada lost its chance to win the first event over the eight-jump course when Doug Hood of Toronto, third rider, knocked over the final fence, costing the team four faults.

Dutchies, Bilts Sign Agreement

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchies of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League and Guelph Biltmores of the OHA Junior A League Tuesday completed an affiliation agreement.

Dutchmen broke their affiliation with Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks of the OHA junior A.

Although no affiliation with the Canucks has been automatic, we have always had trouble in getting permission to bring players up for trials during the season," said Ernie Goodman, business manager of Dutchmen.

"We'll even had difficulty in getting players with the team (Canucks) had been eliminated."

TO RONDE JOCKEY

TORONTO (CP) — Mormon (Dude) Foden, one of Canada's greatest jockeys, will be honored Friday at Dufferin race track. Fred S. Orpen, Dufferin's owner, said Tuesday the feature race on Friday's card will be named in honor of the 54-year-old Foden, who has been around Canadian tracks for 50 years.

Hoad's Wife Turned Trick Says Kramer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Never underestimate the power of a woman. That was one of two thoughts expounded Tuesday by tennis promoter Jack Kramer. The other was a firm belief that an old (34) promoted Kramer can beat amateur champion Tony Trabert on their coming world professional tour.

The woman under discussion was Jennifer Hoad, wife of the young Australian tennis ace.

Jack just returned from Australia where he attempted to persuade Lewis Hoad to reconsider and turn professional. Lew and Ken Rosewall, the pair largely responsible for returning the Davis Cup to Australia, both had agreed to Kramer's proposition before leaving the United States last month. Both then changed their minds. Kramer felt Rosewall's amateur commitments were insurmountable. But he thought Hoad might reconsider.

"I thought I had him sold," said shrdlucmwycpcmfwypcmfwpsrdlu Jack recounting events of his recent trip. "I even increased the offer twice. His parents were in favor and I honestly think Lew decided to do it. .."

"But I hadn't reckoned with his wife young wife. Jennifer said no. She was dead set against it."

Loss of Lew Hoad is a blow but Kramer still looks forward to a successful tour.

Sugar Robinson Top Contender In Middle Class

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson has replaced France's Charley Humez as the No. 1 middleweight contender and Cuba's Nino Valdes has moved ahead of Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in the heavyweight class.

These were among the many changes made in the monthly rankings released today by Ring magazine.

Robinson, who meets middleweight king Bobo Olson in a title fight in Chicago, Dec. 9, was second a month ago. Humez was dropped to third because of inactivity; Rocky Castellani advanced to second.

Jackson's loss to Jimmy Slade dropped the Hurricane from third to fourth, reversing positions with Valdes, Slade, unranked for many months, vaulted to fifth place among the contenders. Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Bob Baker of Pittsburgh remained as the top two contenders.

Earl Wilson, the Canadian heavyweight champion, was ranked eighth. He announced his retirement shortly before the rankings were released.

Don Guest Works With Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Don Guest, who has played fullback and end with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Union, is working out with Ottawa Rough Riders but coach Chan Caldwell said Tuesday night the Big Four team cannot play him in the final league game here Saturday against Argonauts.

Big Four rules, prevent transfers from signing new players—Canadian or American—after midnight, Oct. 15, Caldwell said.

But Guest, son of famous Canadian coach Jack Guest, has been invited to work out here so the Riders could take a look at him as a prospect for 1956.

Guest, who stands six-foot fourinches tall and weighs 210 pounds is working out at end position with the club.

"He looks pretty good and has good action," Caldwell said. "But we really can't tell anything till we see how he operates in scrimmage next July."

Ford Company Profits Highest In Its History

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ford Motor Company profits for this year's first nine months topped those of any previous full year in the company's 53-year history.

Ernest R. Breech, board chairman, made this statement in an address prepared for the annual Century of Commerce dinner here Tuesday night. Breech gave no specific figures.

(In the partial financial statement the company filed with the Massachusetts state tax commissioner in Boston last week it disclosed that last year $1,063,584,000 of earnings were "retained for use in the business.")

Breech said Ford's estimated earnings for 1955 will "surpass the aggregate earnings of the company for the entire 21 years prior to World War II."

Sawchuk Proves Sensation With Bruins After Leaving Champion Wings

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SECOND PLACE

Coming up with a scoring punch that was a decided improvement over their home inaugural against the Whitby Dunlops, Danny Cox TPT's delighted almost 1,000 fans with a 7-4 victory over their arch-foes from Reddersville last night. The Teepe scored seven goals and were credited with 11 assists for a total of 18 scoring points, not to be sneezed at in any man's league.

They piggy-backed into second place in the group standing with two wins and a loss for four points, one behind the Dunlops, who as yet unbeaten have racked up two victories and a tie. Brockville is in third place with two points while the Goodyears hold down fourth spot with a tie single point as against two setbacks. Cornwall Colts are in the cellar with no points for two defeats.

The TPT's were put on the spot defensively in the early minutes of the game when Bob Wilson, one of the trio of defencemen, drew the ire of Referee Ted Topping and got himself two minors and a match misconduct. Topping who worked with Crombie, apparently took Referee-in-Chief Pat Patterson's edicts to heart for he thumbed players willy-nilly regardless of color of sweater. Some of the sentences appeared to be borderline affairs.

However, Sam Mulholland, who turned in another brilliant effort and the "Smiler," Bill McMaster, augmented by other players at times, held the fort successfully while generally the TPT's as a whole played sterling hockey going both ways, especially when at manpower disadvantage.

It looked like a rather easy victory in the first two periods when, thanks to Tony Farid's outstanding efforts, the Goodies were held scoreless while Teepe were trying to pick up his third shutout when the Wings meet the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

Sawchuk leads the league in goals-against average, Jacques Plante of the league-leading Montreal goaltender has allowed 17 goals in 11 games, three more than Sawchuk who has played in nine contests. Hall is third with 23 goals in 10 games.

A Toronto win would move Leafs into second place in the standings. They are in fifth spot, one point behind Rangers, Bruins and Black Hawks, all tied for second with 10 points. Montreal is on top with 14 points.

Has Three Blanks in 9 Games Allowed Only 14 Counters For a Goal Average of 1.55

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Terry Sawchuk left Detroit after last season, word went around that his big days in the National Hockey League were numbered; that Detroit Red Wings didn't need him.

It was a comedown for Terrance. It wasn't easy to leave a world champion for a fourth-placer.

Sawchuk made the move to Boston Bruins with little fanfare. So far in the 1955-56 campaign he's been a sensation, just as he was with the Red Wings for five years. The Wings, on the other hand, have been a bit of a bust. They're in last place.

In nine games, the 25-year-old Sawchuk, a native of Winnipeg who won the Vezina Trophy, top goaltending award in the NHL, three times, has allowed 14 goals and scored three shutouts. That's an average of 1.55 goals a game.

NOW RESTED UP

Sawchuk has had a rest since last Saturday when he shut out the Rangers 1-0 at New York. He won't see action until Thursday night when Chicago Black Hawks visit Boston.

In tonight's only game, rookie Glenn Hall, Sawchuk's successor in the Detroit nets, will be trying to pick up his third shutout when the Wings meet the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

Winter Racing A Fond Dream In London

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Winter harness racing at Western Fair grounds here is doomed to remain a fond dream in the minds of an Ontario racing syndicate, fair officials indicated Tuesday, unless the prospective participants can show the fair board that sufficient money is available and that the project would receive the support of the district.

So far, said E. R. McGugan, secretary-manager of the fair, the one has approached fair officials and staff surveys of Ontario racing officials and potential support in southwestern Ontario indicate the project would be a dismal failure here.

OTTAWA (CP)—Names of the seven figure skaters who will represent Canada at the winter Olympic championships at Cortina, Italy next Jan. 26-Feb. 5 were announced Tuesday night by Charles H. Cumming, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Figure Skating Association.

Carole Jane Pachl of Ottawa, Canadian ladies' senior champion, and Ann Johnston of Toronto, runner-up to Miss Pachl at championship competition at Toronto last January, were chosen to compete in the ladies' singles.

FIRST EFFORT

Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden of Toronto, world champion pair skaters for the last two years, are to make their first effort to win an Olympic championship.

The skaters will also compete in the world championships at Garmisch, Germany, Feb. 15-18.

Canada's 1956 figure skating championships will be held at the Galt Figure Skating Club March 22-24, Mr. Cumming announced.

Dutchies Get Overtime Tie With Mercurys

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Buddy Horne and Jim Logan came through in the clutch Tuesday night to earn Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen a 4-4 overtime tie with Owen Sound Mercurys.

The first deadlock of the OHA Senior A season enabled the Dutchmen to maintain a two-point lead over the Mercurys.

Logan, who almost personally wrecked the Mercs in the playoffs last season, sent the game into overtime with a goal with only 79 seconds left in the third period. The Dutchies were using six forwards at the time.

TIED IT UP

Horne tied the score again in overtime while Owen Sound was shorthanded through a penalty to Frank Bergerow. The Merco had gone ahead in the extra session on Jack Hamilton's goal with K-W's Jack McKenzie in the penalty box.

Other scorers for Kitchener were Bill Colvin in the first period and McKenzie in the second.

Johnny Lumley, Tommy Burlington and Ralph Hosking connected for the Sounders, all in the first. The Dutchmen drew nine of the game's 15 minor penalties.

Jackie Robinson May Manage Vancouver Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Robinson, veteran infielder - outfielder with Brooklyn world champions, said Tuesday night "as far as I know I'll be playing with the Dodgers again next year," in response to a report that he may manage the new Vancouver club in the Pacific Coast League.

A Vancouver newspaper, The Province, published the report Tuesday.

Reached by telephone at his home in Stamford, Conn., Robinson told The Associated Press he has not yet signed a 1956 contract with the Dodgers, nor has he been approached directly by the Vancouver club. He added, however, that "if I get the right offer, I'd certainly consider a manager's job in the minors."

Robinson, first Negro to break into organized ball, said the Vancouver club, owned by C. L. (Brick) Laws who transferred the franchise from Oakland last September, could not deal with him directly at this time. "That would be tampering. They'd have to contact the Dodgers first."

A Brooklyn spokesman said vice-president Buzzy Bavasi would be the only club official in a position to comment on the matter and that Bavasi was "en route to New York from Chicago and unreachable."

"I am certainly interested in listening to such an offer. I spent the happiest year of my life in Montreal in 1946 and always have treasured the wonderful treatment I got from Canadian fans."

Negro Junior 'A' Star Scintillates In Canucks 6-3 Victory Over Barrie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Willie, who led the Quebec Junior Hockey League in goal scoring last season, paced Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks to a 6-3 win over Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A' League Tuesday night.

Guelph Biltmores moved into a first-place tie with St. Catharines TeePees as they defeated Hamilton Cubs 6-3 in overtime at Guelph in the other Junior A OHA game Tuesday night.

O'Ree was transferred to Canucks, sponsored by Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, when the QJHL fell apart last season.

TWO AND TWO

He scored two goals and had a pair of assists as Canucks went ahead 2-0 in the first period, held a 3-2 edge after 40 minutes and outscored Flyers 3-1 in the final frame.

Ab Martin, who played senior B hockey with Elmira Polar Kings last year, added a pair of goals for the winners and Bob Duncan and Stan Kijek were the other marksmen. Jack Kane, Dick Cherry and Alvin Norrena tallied for Flyers, who remained in a tie with Kitchener and Toronto Marlboros for fourth place.

Bill Sweeney, Al Cleary and Bryan Webber fired Biltmores' overtime goals. Sweeney and Webber also scored a goal each in the first period after the Cubs had taken a 3-0 lead.

Gord Brown tied the game with the only goal of the second period. John Poe put Cubs ahead and Jack Headrickson scored a pair for a 3-0 Hamilton lead.

LEAFS SIGN REID

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Tuesday signed centre Dave Reid, an engineering student at the University of Toronto, to a professional contract.

Reid was rated as one of the most promising centres in junior hockey two years ago when he played with Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Last season the 21-year-old native of Winnipeg played with Toronto Varsity Blues. In 12 games he scored 17 goals and 10 assists for 27 points, tops in the senior intercollegiate loop. Reid has agreed to play all home games with Leafs and also read games that do not conflict with his studies this season.

TPT's Take Over Second Place In Standing With 7-4 Win Over Kingston

Score Five in Two Periods Then Goodyears Catch Fire With Three in 75 Seconds

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Scoring five goals in the first two periods without a comeback, the Belleville TPTs defeated the Kingston Goodyears 7-4 here last night in take over second place in the Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League.

What seemed to resemble a one-sided affair suddenly took a turn for the best game of the season thus far when the Goodyears took a new lease of life in the third period. They rammed home three goals in 75 seconds after the opening face-off and outshot the TPTs 16-3.

They added another in a desperate drive to cut down the margin but the opportunist TPTs scored a fifth goal to clinch the victory.

The Goodyears were without the services of Londry and Irvine pressing Sanderson a junior player into action. The Belleville crew cut their defensive power when Bob Wilson drew two minors and was given a match misconduct after eight minutes of play in the first period when he took objection to his second minor sentence and attempted to get at Referee Ted Topping.

PARISI BRILLIANT

Tony Parisi was brilliant in the nets for the TPTs scene of his saves from goalkeeper Gregory Goodyear bordering on the sensational. Bill McMaster and Sam Mulholland took the brunt at the TPT defence work with Sedore playing in another brilliant performance going both ways.

The TPTs played at near midseason form. Their performance showed much improvement over their first outing here which they were very effective in scoring position.

Nearly 1,000 fans with victory in their grasp sat almost stunned when the Goodyears, taking advantage of Bill McMaster's penalty in the opening seconds of the third period, scored three times goals almost as fast as they could be counted. Their activity, inspired by the sudden turn of events roared to the attack and the TPT defence was hard put to hold off the storm.

Semler, Goodfellow and White lit the light in quick succession while the TPTs were a man short. They maintained the offensive but at six minutes Doug Day got his second goal of the night on a passing play with Peter Jones and Pat Gilmour.

Douglas and Nicholson got the gate then Dave Jonas and MacDonald got the heave-ho for minor sentences, Day Jones drew another and twice the TPTs played two men short for the space of seconds with no damage being done.

CLINCH VICTORY

The TPTs clinched the victory with six minutes to go when Davy Jones sifted down centre and slipped Vern Goyer a perfect pass. The big centre made no mistake. The Goodyears never gave up trying. Time and time the attack and Samalenko on a three – man foray with Tinkess and Murray backhanded the former's pass bag into the net for the final score of the game. Toppazzini drew a boarding penalty as the clock was ticking away the seconds.

For 50 minutes in the opening period it was a typical Kingston-Belleville game with both teams playing heads-up hockey. Wilson drew the first sentence at 6.31 and he had a second to go when McMaster followed him. He skated on the ice and stepped into a Kingston player, drawing another minor. He took umbrage at the verdict and struggled with team-mates. He was tabbed with a match misconduct.

Keith MacDonald, Sammy Mulholland and Peter Jones did an excellent job of penalty killing and the fast-skating Goodyears were held scoreless.

Sanderson got the nets with no damage done and Goodfellow drew a boarding sentence at 17.18. With the man advantage, the TPTs raced in on the offensive and Vern Goyer scored his only goal of the period when he stopped a Kingston pass-out and fired the puck behind Johnson.

MacDonald put the homesters two up after 34 seconds of the second period after a three-man attack with Goyer and McMaster. Parisi brought the crowd to its feet with brilliant saves time and again to thwart the Goodyear attackers. MacDonald scored his second marker at 14 minutes when he took Davy Jones pass and deked Johnson to part the puck.

Pat Gilmour got the fourth Belleville goal after 15 minutes on a neat passing play with Day and Peter Jones. The same line connected two minutes later with Day stapping home the rubber.

Vern Goyer paced the TPTs attack with two goals and two assists. Doug Day got two and one with Keith MacDonald and Doug Day each scoring a pair. Pat Gilmour scored the other. Don Semler Goodfellow, Gabby White and Fred Samalenko accounted for the Kingston goals.

The teams:

Kingston: goal, Johnson; defence, Nicholson, Goodfellow; forwards, Bellringer, White, Murray, Semler, Samalenko, Toppazzini, Tinkess, Sanderson, Douglas.

Belleville: goal, Parisi; defence, Wilson, McMaster, Mulholland; forwards, Leonard, Fryia, Hill, Goyer, Macdonald, D. Jones, Gilmour, F. Jones, Day.

Referee: Ted Topping. Jim Crombie.

Seven Sarnia Sailors Sit Out; Refuse to Sign

SARNIA (CP)—Seven of last year's Sarnia Sailors hockey players did not show up at practice Tuesday night when all players were required to sign contracts for this season.

The former Sailors are goalie Tom Hodgins, defencemen Ray Moffatt and Clarke Horner, forwards Leo Houlihan, Charlie Gisabb Fred Prew and Dick Bestard. Hesing chosen not to play for ownermanager John Gavrin the seven players will be "frozen" for this season.

There is the further possibility that the OHA will take action with reference to the agreement which these players drew up themselves on Oct. 18. A photostatic copy of the document was requested by the OHA on the condition that the players refused to sign at the last night's deadline practice.

"Faced with the opening game here Thursday night against the Tillsonburg Ian Dricks, TU leading scorer last year, this year a united Sarnia sextet," manager Gavrin said.

Being an affiliate of the Windsor Holidays of Hockey senior A circuit, the Sarnia Sailors will be reinforced from Windsor in time for Thursday's game.

Gerry James To Try Out With Leafs

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry James, torn between football and hockey as a professional sports career, has agreed to try out with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League at the end of Winnipeg Blue Bombers' football season.

General manager Hap Day of the Leafs said Tuesday night that James, outstanding running halfback with Bombers for the Western Interprovincial Football Union, would be given a chance to make the Leafs.

He was an outstanding forward with Thunder Mackbrocs, Canadian junior hockey champions last season.

Ryff's Manager Has Fight Won

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charles Black, manager of Frankie Ryff, already has disposed of Teddy DeMarco in tonight's telecast flight (10 p.m. EST ABC) and is "all set for Bud Smith," the lightweight champion.

"I turned down a June title fight because I didn't want to rush the boy, but he's ready now," said the man in the corner.

DeMarco, who was the champion 20 months ago, may disagree. If he doesn't, his future will be extremely dark. He's 27 years old and not even ranked among the lightweights. The 23-year-old Ryff on the other hand is raied fourth.

Their Noses Clean
Western, McGill Prexies See No Need for Football Oust

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Student rowdyism at senior intercollegiate football games may lead to a meeting of the presidents on whether to drop the game.

The possibility cropped up Tuesday when president Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto said he intends to discuss recent football-game incidents with officials of McGill, Queen's and Western Universities with a possible view to cancelling the remainder of this year's schedule.

Dr. Smith said he is writing to principal W. A. Mackintosh of Queen's for details on a hassle following Saturday's Queen's-Varsity game at Kingston.

Five Queen's students and two from Varsity required hospital treatment after the engagement. A girl spectator was hit on the head with a bottle and several youths required treatment for eye injuries following a fight with paper bags filled with lime.

Dr. Mackintosh and principal Cyril James of McGill declined to comment on the situation. They said they have not heard from Dr. Smith.

President G. E. Hall of Western said, however, he saw no need for cancellation of the schedule. He suggested student governments should be responsible for preventing violence at games.

"I know of no episodes on our campus which would warrant such action. Our students have been extremely well behaved."

Dr. James said he knew of no trouble after any of McGill's games this year.

"In the game against Toronto, the students were certainly jubilant but had good reason. Conduct at other games has been orderly."

Both Dr. Mackintosh and Dr. James said they are willing to discuss the problem with other college heads.

Violent outbursts have punctuated both Toronto-Queen's games this season. At a game in Toronto Oct. 8, Queen's students splashed paint over seats and fences at Varsity Stadium and pulled up the goal posts, which are anchored in concrete. One Queen's student was taken to hospital after he was knocked unconscious in a post-game melee.

'Revenooers' Seize Ball Club For Non-Payment of Taxes

By a Staff Reporter

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The federal government today had something a little different on its hands than baseball club.

The federal tax collector Tuesday seized the assets of the Richmond Virginians of the International League and will sell the club at public auction to satisfy the $18.68 tax claim. It was believed the first time the government has seized a baseball club for back taxes.

An unidentified group, of seven members quickly indicated it plans to bid for the club's purchase. E.E. Haddock, a Richmond city councilman and the group's spokesman, said it would be "premature at this time" to identify the men involved.

MIGHT INCLUDE LUKE

The group met two weeks ago with Frank Shaughnessy, International League president. At that time, there was speculation one of the group was former major leaguer Luke Sewell, Toronto manager of the last two years.

The order seizing the club was directed against Owned by Enterprises, Inc., headed by Harry C. Selbold. Included in the seizure were contracts of 18 players, uniforms, bats, balls, a scoreboard, caterers' trunks, skin guards, a lime spreader and a whirlpool bath.

Clifford W. Glotzbach, Virginia internal revenue service director, said the back taxes owed by the club included $31,558.55 on admissions for 1954 and $47,860.13 for

'Stuke' Incident Still Thrashed In Newspapers

VANCOUVER (CP)—The firing of Annis Stukus as coach of the British Columbia Lions football club is still being discussed in the sports pages of Vancouver newspapers.

Mackenzie was asked if he met with Stukus on three occasions before last Thursday's directors' meeting which voted Stukus out as head coach and told him chances were slim that he would be offered a new $12,000-a-year contract.

MET 3 TIMES

"Yes, we met three times," replied Mackenzie. "I informed him that I wasn't aware of how the vote would go.

"We discussed the possibility of another job with our organization, although Stuke didn't want to discuss any other position than the head coach's job. On each occasion he asked me to use my influence to make his 'pitch' for that job and I assured him that I would ask the directors to grant him that privilege."

After Stukus was relieved of his position by a 13-to-10 vote, he was offered the job of public relations officer. He said at the time he would think it over—"but I don't want to be just an office boy."

Meanwhile, coach Clem Crowe and backfield coach Vic Lindskog left for the United States Tuesday to look over new talent for the Lions, who finished fourth in the five-team loop this season. Crowe headed for Buffalo, N.Y., and Lindskog will cover the south and midwest states.

INCREASE PRICES

MONTREAL (CP)—Prices of all football tickets for the Big Four title game to be played in Montreal Nov. 26 will be upped 25 cents, Vic Obeck, vice-president and managing director of the Montreal Alouettes, announced Tuesday. The Tuesday to look over new talent meet was sanctioned at a recent meeting of Big Four Football Union officials in Ottawa. The Larks will meet the winner of the Toronto Argonaut-Hamilton Tiger-Cat semifinal game.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

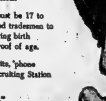
In Prince Edward Island's Garden of the Gulf, quiet Scottish tempers and normal blood pressures rise whenever Joe O'Brien is described as a native of New Glasgow, P.E.I., which he often is by major news services.

For Joe O'Brien, top driver in harness racing's Roaring Grand, was born in Alberton, P.E.I.

It was something of a coincidence that, in this Centennial Year of the island province, Joe O'Brien drove the long-striding Scott Frost to victory in the Hambletonian, richest of all trotting stakes.

New Glasgow, the sporting little town on the east coast of Nova Scotia, probably deserves an anslet, or some other credit mark, in the background of Little Joe. It was to New Glasgow he went after he left home, weighing 100 pounds, with $2.00 in his pocket, and took over Dudley Fields, 1-year-old, that was owned by the Dudley Patch Club, and so was a sort of community horse.

O'Brien cured this horse of quitting by kindness and drove him to the Canadian championship. Thus he came into national attention for the first time. Little Joe now weighs 138 pounds and stands 5 feet 6 inches. In the United States alone he won $1,347,485.67 in purses, not including the racing successes of the present year.



Sep Palin, a famous driver who won the Hambletonian with Hoot Mon when driving for Castleton Farms, wanted a man who could train and drive racers. He hired O'Brien, and not long after, Little Joe won the $50,000 California pace with Indian Land. He left the Palin interests, was quickly matched up by the wealthy Californian Sol Camp, went on to fame. In 1954, he drove horses into $307,777.20 worth of purses, headed by Scott Frost, picked up at the yearling sales for $8,000. Scott Frost was among the few 2-year-old trotters to go a mile in 2.00 flat.

....His dad in Alberton tells of the first race Joe ever drove. "My own dad," said Joe's father, "didn't race horses. But he had a fine trotter and some challenges were thrown at him. Dad wasn't interested, but Little Joe sneaked the horse out of the stable, drove him against one of the challengers in a race on which considerable money was wagered — and won it."

Assume you are south as declarer at a contract of six clubs and the opening lead four west is spade king. What would you discover by a look at dummy? Would you lose no more than one trick?

You might figure on shuffling two north spades on south diamonds. But will you do this before pulling trumps? If not, west will ruff. If you pull trumps first, what will you use for ruffing south spades?

What you must do in this case takes timing. Lock up the first trick with dummy spade ace. Then cash heart ace and ruff a south spade. Now ruff a dummy heart with south club ten.

Lead a small south club and finesse the eight spot for an entry to them. Return a dummy heart and ruff with south club queen. Lead small club and enter dummy again via finesse of the nine.

Ruff the fourth dummy heart with south trump ace and exit the dummy with small south diamond to the king. Now smack down the fourth club king and pick up the west jack, discarding a south diamond.

The last dummy diamond is returned for your south hand to take three diamond tricks. On the last two of these the dummy shuffles two spades. Lose the final trick to an opponent spade. Nothing else.

It looks spectacular to finesse the eight spot and nine of clubs. But the only outstanding higher trump was the jack. Actually it is no different than finessing ace and queen with a king out.

The real point in this play is the making of dummy the master trump hand. This you do by reducing your south trumps by ruffs.

A big mistake is to fear you will make one.

Neighbors, Friends Honor Young Couple

IVANHOE — Huntingdon township hall, Ivanhoe, was filled to capacity on Friday evening when friends and neighbors from far and near gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wickens on their recent marriage.

Mr. Percy Ray acted as master of ceremonies and in his opening remarks said: "I have always found Joedy to be a good neighbor and a good citizen. And judging from the size of the gathering I am confident you all are of the same mind."

The program opened with a round of community singing, led by the chairman with Mrs. Reg. Haggerty at the piano. The following numbers were given:

Duet, "Are You Mine?" Marion and Shirley Broadworth; reading, "Mrs. Murphy and Her Reclining Position." Miss Margaret Wright; duet, "Sit Behind the Barn," by Broadworth Sisters; accordion solo, Carol Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickens were asked to take seats of honor and

Mr. Harry Lovibond read an address extending best wishes for many years of married happiness. A warm welcome was extended to Mrs. Wickens, who is well and favorably known in this district.

PRESENTATION

The presentation of an electric tea kettle, heater, mixette and floor lamps was made by Ted Lee, George Wood and Sid Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickens were also recipients of other lovely gifts, among them a large wall mirror from Trenton relatives.

Mr. Wickens expressed thanks and all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in square and round dancing, with music furnished by Mrs. R. Haggerty and Mr. Joe Beaudie of Springbrook.

Little Miss Sandra Lee Cronkwright, of Trenton, delighted all with her tap dancing.

Mr. Sam Wickens, Mr. Charles Morehand and Mr. Harold Howard of Trenton, gave an exhibition of old time step dancing.

AT THE BELLE — Marilyn Monroe and Tom Ewell play it strictly for laughs in "The Seven Year Itch", new comedy hit, continuing Today and Thursday at the Belle Theatre. Ewell portrays a summer-bachelor with an amorous imagination, and Miss Monroe is a not-so-dumb blonde who considerably confuses Ewell's outlook. Such familiar favorites as Victor Moore, Sonny Tufts and Evelyn Keyes also appear in "The Seven Year Itch."

At The Capitol

"Verdi's "Aida"

An historic new achievement in the performing arts will be unveiled in this city when "Aida", the first great opera film in colour, will be presented at the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Nov. 7-8-9.

A perfect fusion of great operatic singing and distinguished dramatic acting against a limitless background of color, action, splendor and spectacle, "Aida" combines the foremost voices of the famous La Scala with Hollywood brilliant cinematic talents in Italy today.

"We regard "Aida" as a milestone in the fields of music, theatre, opera and especially the cinema.

"Both visually and musically, this production of "Aida" is actually more glamorous and perfect a realization of Verdi's great masterpiece than any production ever staged before. The camera gives us the variety and sweep that Verdi must have dreamed of and that cannot be encompassed within the confines of any theatre. For the first time, too, we are able to appreciate fully the great and moving story of human emotions set against the splendors of ancient Egypt as it is poignantly enacted by an able cast of attractive and accomplished performers."

Verdi's famous opera tells the dramatic love story of Aida, a beautiful Ethiopian princess who is the slave girl of Pharaoh's daughter, Amneris. Both are rivals for the love of Radames, the handsome young Egyptian general who conquers Aida's father, King of Ethiopia. Forced by her father to elicit military information from the man she loves at a court tryst, the lovers are surprised by Amneris who denounces Radames as a traitor. He is jailed to death by Aida for whose love he renounced the favors of Pharaoh's daughter.

Aida is portrayed in the film by glamorous Sophia Loren, runner-up to Gina Lollabrigida as one of the most luscious lovelies of the Italian screen. Others in the cast of thousands, directed by Clemente Fraticasi, include such outstanding dramatic artists as Lois Maxwell, Luciano Della Marra, Afro Poli, Antonio Cassinelli and Enrico Formichi.

20-OUNCE BABY DIES

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Rosemary Christian, the smallest baby ever recorded here at birth, died Tuesday at the age of 10 months. The child weighed only 20 ounces when born four months prematurely last December. Doctors said she died from complications arising from the premature birth.

51 KILLED

TOKYO (Reuters)—Police estimated that 57 men were killed in a gas explosion Tuesday in a coal mine near Yubetsu, on Japan's northern island of Hokkaido. Rescuers have recovered 22 bodies from the mine but police said 35 other miners were still trapped and probably dead.

Social Manners of TV Viewers Have Changed Considerably

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Social manners of television viewers have changed considerably in a few short years.

The pioneer TV set owner was a courageous fellow, you remember. He not only had to invite in the entire neighborhood; he had to provide popcorn and beer as well as Sid Caesar. The neighbors repaid him with awesome attention to the programs. It was a rare soul who scoffed at any program. If he did, he was considered to have a high brow, long hair and an egg-shaped head.

Today TV viewer generally indulges his addiction in the solitary confinement of his own home. Yet there still is a lot of social viewing. And intensive research in this field convinces me that times indeed have changed. This is the age of the living-room critic.

"A critic," wrote James Hupfer, "is a man who expects miracles." The lowly TV living-room critic not only expects them; he demands them in a loud voice that convinces everyone within earshot of his wisdom.

A friend of mine is one of the most vociferous living - room TV critics I've ever known. His favorite expression is a loud "Swooo!" delivered a few minutes after a program gets under way. This shakes the confidence of everyone in the room in his individual opinion. My friend also likes to groan and shake his head and hold his nose. When a program is over he rises, faces the flock, and demands, "Well?" Once someone summoned the courage to express his own opinion and reply, "Good program, wasn't it?" My friend accepted the remark as ironical and bowled with laughter. How can you beat a critic like that?

The influence of such critics has become enormous. They are great moulders of public opinion. You'll hear them authoritatively denouncing a program two days later and making others wonder how they possibly could have enjoyed it.

I got to thinking about this the other evening after my friend had let out a loud yowl. At first I was annoyed, but then I began grudgingly to admire him. He has as much right to his opinions as I to mine. For the first time I crossed words with him in a duel of opinions and we both had a splendid time.

BUZZZZ!

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Someone is trying to break into my house, using an electric saw," a woman screamed into the telephone. Police hurried to her house and surrounded it Monday. No burglar. They found the persistent hearing aid was out of order and was making a noise just like a saw being driven through wood.

Gregory Peck Doing Research For Newest Picture in N.Y.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sociology note: Gregory Peck is back from a field trip to observe the flora and fauna in the canyons of New York's Madison Ave.

The reason for this research is Peck's next picture, "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit." The significance of the title is that such a suit has been virtually the uniform of the eager young men seeking their fortunes in the New York advertising world.

"I got a gray flannel suit back there," he explained, "but I'm afraid to wear it.

"I can just hear what people would say—'Why don't you wear the picture's title on your back?'"

TALKED TO MEN

Peck said that he spent several days talking to young men in two big advertising agencies and one television network.

"I wanted to find out how they lived, what their family lives were like, how much money they earned," he remarked. "I was more interested in their personal lives than in their jobs.

"The men think that advertising is everything. They point out that most of the big cigaret companies are headed by advertising minds. Since there is so little difference in cigarets, advertising is the deciding factor in sales, they claim."

Peck said he didn't notice any of the "huckster" element that was depicted in the book of that name, but that the men he talked to didn't like "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit." They thought "it was stacked" against the net-

"It was an amazing experience," he recalled. "They came pouring out of Madison Ave. into the station. They're all in a sort of comatose condition, a state of suspension between the office and home.

"They all buy a paper, hang up their hats, sit down and read. "During the train ride, they remain to themselves. When I was riding with them, they didn't even give me a tumble."

IMPROVE YOUR DANCING

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, November 3, 1955

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Start this day off with fresh initiative, something new, a twist that will enhance the quality of your work. You can provide that touch that makes the difference.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — What you can make of this day what you will — depending on your attitude, approach to problems, your answers and your own endeavor.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Drinking away from situations you don't want to face will cause more trouble in the long run. Avoid careless companions, and do not be influenced by smooth talk.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Books, duties and other activities be properly and nothing should prevent you from making solid headway. Thrive before acting.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Spending too much time over some tasks is as energy-wasting as being too quick to act. Strike that happy medium to produce results without strain. Accept some things without comment.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Some small obstacles may seem greater than they are. Be philosophical, do your best and, in time, you will humble them.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Emphasize your best judgment, best methods, and be reasonable in all things. These are strong weapons. Don't let pessimism hold away. Build up your resources.

November 23 to December 23 — (Sagittarius) — A good time for trying new devices or new methods to improve efficiency, save time and energy. Progressiveness always pays.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You are likely to be more anxious to get things accomplished now. But don't be overconfident or you may make needless errors.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Review your plans with a view to eliminating possible flaws which could thwart success. Be on time but not nervously rushed. Be wisely moderate.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Your planet, Neptune, promises a highly constructive day if you will go carefully around the pitfalls and listen to voices of experience. Confine your intuition with others' know-how.

You born today have many fine talents. You are kind, helpful, yet able to stand up for your rights regardless of opposition. Once you realize your power, you can go far. But always make sure you are on the straight and sure path. Avoid excesses in gambling, exercise, discussions. Your personal magnetism is a strong point.

Science Shrinks Piles Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue in all parts of the body.

The new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold in drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

GM Strike Enters 45th Day Setting Record

OSHAWA (CP) — The United Automobile Workers' (CIO - CCL) strike at five Ontario centres entered today its 45th day, longest strike in the history of General Motors in Canada.

The previous longest strike was in 1937 when workers at the Oshawa plant, then the only GM plant in Canada, were out for 44 days.

The union expects the current strike to be drawn out. Tuesday night Local 222 at Oshawa issued a bulletin warning 10,000 GM workers there to "dig in" for a marathon strike.

Similar bulletins were issued at four other GM plants at Toronto, Windsor, London and St. Catharines, which together employ 7,000.

NO QUICK END

The bulletin said "what started out in some people's minds as a two-week strike is now in reality a long one and we must seriously change our attitude, tactics and plan and dig in."

Major negotiations began last April 26, but broke off when the walkout began over contract revisions.

Negotiations on local matters at Oshawa are being carried out at Toronto. Company and union officials have announced major overall bargaining will resume when these are settled.

Maj.-Gen. Burns Takes Holiday But Only for Day

OTTAWA (CP)—The UN truce commissioner in Palestine is holidaying at his home in the quiet suburb of Rockcliffe but his respite from the tour of duty began 17 months ago will be brief.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns arrived in the capital by plane Tuesday. He leaves today to return to the Middle East where he tries to keep the peace.

In Montreal, en route from New York where he has been reporting to UN officials, he said it was "desirable that he get back there in a hurry." The situation in Palestine was "pretty tricky." Frequent breaches of the armistice along the Israel-Jordan border could develop into full-fledged warfare.

"But cooler heads must prevail. Neither side wants war." Both parties were equally guilty of truce infractions, he added.

On arrival here he told reporters the truce commission "might have to go on for a considerable time." He said he was glad to be back in the capital if only for one full day.

Missing Witness Found at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Evelyn Nasseau, 29, missing witness in Toronto's slum empire case, was located Tuesday night when police were called to a store in the Jarvis street area to investigate a disturbance.

Police said the woman was arrested on a charge of maliciously damaging a cash register by knocking it to the floor.

Miss Nasseau had been sought by police since Monday when she failed to appear at a special hearing in connection with charges against the alleged kingpins of the slum empire, Charles and William Ingwer, Steve Feron and Linus Coghlan.

TAKING LAXATIVES?

Mrs. E. Pulley of Ottawa, Ont.: "Taking laxatives for months made me tired and nervous. Kellogg's All-Bran helped me feel like myself again." People of all ages find All-Bran an aid to regularity. The great advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. All-Bran, made from the whole wheat kernel, supplies natural food bulk. It's a good-tasting cereal that has helped millions. All-Bran will give gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or double your money back. SAYS SOVIET BUILDING EARTH SATELLITE

Russia has started building a space ship, says Alfred J. Zaehringer, president of the American Astronautical society. He indicated that the first Soviet satellite vehicle, shown in the above sketches, will weigh 75 to 100 tons, with base 120-ton thrust, and will have a range of 1,600 miles. Zaehringer said the two phases of the rocket, which will cost $20,000,000, have already been completed and measure 150 feet. The last phase will add about 50 feet more. At left is a drawing of the first stage of the vehicle. At right is the payload, the cone-shaped frontal section. (Central)

SUES COMPANY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leonard D. Mahan Jr., a convict in San Quentin, sued Columbia Pictures Corp., for $750,000 damages and a share in the profits of the movie "The Night Holds No Terror." Mahan, serving seven years to life for kidnapping and armed robbery, said the film was made without his consent and falsely depicted him as a killer.

HIT GOVERNMENT

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Trades Union Congress Tuesday night emerged from a two-hour talk with the government hierarchy blasting the government's "failure" to protect the nation's economy. Leaders of the TUC, representing 8,000,000 British unionists, attacked as "inequitable" an emergency budget introduced by the government last week.

Sex-Offender's Release Arouses Anger of Parents

TORONTO (CP) —The release of a sex-offender from a mental institution after a six-weeks' stay has aroused the ire of the Parents Action League here.

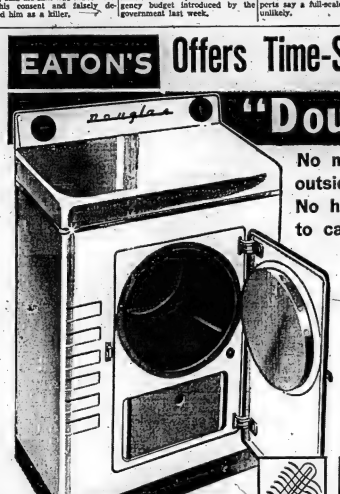
In a letter to the attorney-general Monday, the league asked on whose authority the offender was released.

Lawrence Russ, 19, was convicted Sept. 8 on charges of attacking a nine-year-old girl last April. He was sentenced to nine months in jail.

Dr. K. T. Gray said in May that Lawrence Russ was mentally ill, and subject to the magistrate's approval should be transferred to Whitby Hospital, Magistrate O. M. Martin approved, but said the charge was not withdrawn. Russ was committed May 31.

His release became known when he was due to be tried. The Parents Action League said Russ had been sent to his parents in Vancouver and told to be a good boy.

ETNA BECOMES ACTIVE



CATANIA, Sicily (Reuters)—The sky glowed brilliantly above Mount Etna last Tuesday night as the 10,758-foot volcano burst into life again, hurling molten rocks into the air and sending a trickle of lava down its slopes. The northeastern crater on Etna, Europe's largest active volcano, has been intermittently active all summer, but experts say a full-scale eruption is unlikely.

WARSHIP COMMISSIONED

Navy personnel and government officials line the decks of the new Royal Canadian Navy destroyer, HMCS St. Laurent, as Prime Minister St. Laurent prepares to read the ship's commissioning speech at Montreal. Mr. St. Laurent described the modern vessel as a "world leader." (CP from National Defence).

Torrential Rains Hit Southern B.C. Derailing Train

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian Pacific Railway train was delayed, highways were cut and basements were flooded as torrential rains continued to cause widespread damage in southeastern British Columbia today.

A rock and mud slide near Harrison Mills, 61 miles east of Vancouver, derailed three CPR diesel units and an express car early today. There were no reports of injuries among the 30 passengers and crew members.

The express car was reported to be off the track with mud piled into it. The day coach remained on the track but part of it was buried in the slide.

MAIN LINE BLOCKED

CPR officials said the crack train plowed into a slide of 300 to 400 tons of rock and mud.

The passengers were later taken by bus to a hotel in Harrison Mills.

Meanwhile, another mud slide blocked the CPR's main line near Ashton, about 20 miles east of Vancouver, early today.

The line was reported covered to a depth of eight feet for a distance of 60 feet. CPR officials said a bulldozer would clear the track as soon as possible.

More than 100 miles east of here, a giant mudslide cut the Hope-Princeton highway near Hope, suspending travel into the southern Okanagan valley.

In North Vancouver, Mosquito creek burst its banks, tearing out a bridge and flooding dozens of new homes.

A flash flood at Youbou, about 50 miles northwest of Victoria, forced the evacuation of three families and damaged a bridge.

The deluge, followed gale-force winds of up to 75 miles an hour along the coast, delaying or cancelling operation of small vessels and aircraft.

All major airlines delayed or cancelled flights of small two-engine seals and aircraft.

All major airlines delayed or cancelled flights from Vancouver international airport. Two Trans-Canada Air Lines flights in the area were turned back by heavy rains and conditions over the mountains.

While some relief was looked for later today when high winds and heavy rains, weather officials here forecast still more storm "brewing off the B.C. coast."

KILLED WAITING FOR BUS

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—A 22-year-old farmer was killed by a car Wednesday night as he waited for a bus. The car disappeared from the scene.

Jonquin de Sousa Nunes died in hospital. His friend, Joseph Viegas Bridge, were waiting for a northbound bus when the accident happened. The latter was not hurt.

PIPELINE HEADS SILENT AFTER MEETING HOWE

Sale of Gas in U.S. May Run Into Snag

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Heads of the $350,000,000 project for a natural gas pipeline between western and eastern Canada conferred Wednesday with Trade Minister Howe.

All were silent after the conference which came at a time when formation of a federal-Ontario government crown corporation to build a section of the line was believed in the final stages.

Mr. Howe, in charge of natural gas matters for the federal cabinet, has expressed the government's view with Ontario officials with a view to setting up the corporation to handle the $118,000,000 northern Ontario section of the 2,200-mile line.

ARRANGE LEASING

Part of the discussions Wednesday, it was learned, dealt with arrangements for the government leasing the northern Ontario section to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., which is to construct the remainder of the line between Alberta and Montreal.

The federal and Ontario governments are agreed in principle that Ottawa should put up two-thirds and Ontario one-third the cost of the northern section.

Apart from leasing arrangements with the Ontario government, officials said, Wednesday's meeting discussed general arrangements for building of the line, expected to start early next year.

OPTIONS ARE LEAVY

Things seem to be going along well at this end,' one informant said.

But doubts are held as to how Trans-Canada will fare at Washington, where the United States Federal Power Commission has before it an application to allow purchase in the U.S. of Trans-Canada gas from Alberta.

Sale of this gas is regarded as an integral part of the economics of the cross-Canada line, but heavy opposition is brewing before the FPC.

CONFIRM ORDER

CALGARY (CP)—Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., Wednesday confirmed that it has filed United States Steel Corporation of Pittsburgh with a formal order for 300,000 tons of large, high-pressure steel pipe for the western leg of the trans-Canada gas pipeline project.

The order was described as one of the largest single orders for line steel ever placed in either United States or Canada.

Cost of the pipe has been estimated at more than $30,000,000.

Margaret Attends Service, Wins Plaudits for Courage

LONDON (CP) — Britons today praised Princess Margaret for her quiet courage with which she went through her first public appearance since announcing that she would not marry Peter Townsend.

The press published a host of front-page stories the "courageous" way in which she faced her first public engagement only 48 hours after her renunciation of marriage.

The princess, eyes shining and with an air of dedication, went Wednesday night to a public service in St. Paul's Cathedral attended by 3,000 people.

The congregation was hushed as Margaret, 25, joined in communal prayer before the high altar immediately after her arrival.

It was the first of the scores of public engagements stretching months ahead for the princess, and The Daily Sketch calls her attendance at the service "her bravest hour."

"It would have been so easy to have had a cold. So easy to have found an excuse to stay away."

The service was a memorial for the late Dr. Thomas John Barnardo, who established a group of homes for foundling children.

Margaret's engagement to Peter Townsend, a commoner and a divorced man, was announced Oct. 31 after the congregation wept softly as the princess' sister, Queen Elizabeth, Croydon, Rt. Rev. Cuthbert Bardsley, said:

"To each life, God speaks, calling us all to a life of personal sacrifice."

A few hours after the princess had attended the service, the Archbishop of Canterbury, a central figure in the marriage crisis, spoke his mind silently in a BBC television interview.

He declared that there had been "no church pressure" on the princess to renounce marriage to the man she loved.

"She was seeking all the time for God's will, and when it became clear what God's will was, she did it, and it is not a bad thing for people in general to take note of.

"She said she took this decision alone, and that means of her own free will.

"Of course, she took advice, and she chose whom she took her advice from, and she got plenty of advice — asked for and a good deal unasked for.

"But in the end she took her own decision, and there was no pressure from the side of the church."

His commentator Richard Dimbleby said during the TV interview that the people crowded to the church as timid in its attitude toward divorce.

"timid!" asked the archbishop. "We are fighting against a great principle which is Christianity, and we are winning the battle."

Non-Operating Rail Unions Demanding 35-Cent 'Package'

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Non-operating railway unions today confronted the railways with a demand for a wage-health-welfare package equivalent to about a 35-cent-an-hour pay increase.

The Canadian Press learned that in addition to a previously announced 18-per-cent wage increase request for 2,500 jobs, the unions are asking the companies to pay another eight cents an hour to finance a broad plan of insurance, sickness and injury benefits.

The proposal is likely to be delivered to five major companies today, were estimated unofficially to cost more than $80,000,000 a year. The unions already have estimated the 18-per-cent wage boost —an average of about 22 cents an hour—would cost $70,000,000. The benefit plan might run to another $23,000,000.

Frank H. Hall, negotiating chief for the unions and Canadian head of the AFL-CIO Railway Clerks, today confirmed the employees' health and welfare proposals which he said would be entirely financed by the companies.

They are:

1. Life insurance of $2,000 or $3,000 for each employee, depending on the size of his earnings.

2. Sickness, injury and other disability benefits of $25 a week for third wires and children under 18 years of age.

Among the benefits would be payments towards daily hospital charges, home and visiting nurse costs, surgical costs, medical expenses, including allowance for physicians' visits, x-ray and laboratory services, cost of polio attacks and weekly pay during illness because of sickness or accident.

These would be incorporated in a new contract to replace a one-year agreement that expires Dec. 31. The union proposal, it was understood, is that the benefits would go into effect right after that date under arrangements to be worked out with insurance companies.

The unions have not specified how much each of the benefits in the package, having decided to leave the details to negotiators in the hope of speeding up negotiations which in some previous contract disputes have run to more than a year.

The first set of negotiations — in which the unions asked fringe benefits but no wage increase — is settled by a federally-appointed arbitrator late last year after the railways and unions had accepted arbitration in the face of cabinet determination No call Parliament into emergency session to pass no-strike legislation.

The arbitrator — Chief Justice Gordon M. Sloan of British Columbia — granted the employees relatively-small concessions of five cents an hour pay and an extension in vacations for veteran workers.

At this time, union informants said, they will be prepared to take action which could involve a strike in about four months. Their outline of demands was incorporated in a request that negotiations open not later than Nov. 23.

The request was served on the CNR, the CPR, the Ontario Northland Railway, the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and the Algoma Central Railway. At the first time also Algoma Central has been brought under the concerted demands of the big groups of unions.

STORMS, COLD, STORMS AGAIN CANADA'S FATE

Only Chinook Country Will Escape Unscathed

EDMONTON (CP)—Storms followed by cold weather followed by storms is the weather situation across Canada, except in the Chinook country of southern Alberta.

Temperatures will rise to near 60 today when warm Chinook winds move into the area between Calgary and the International boundary.

The weather office here said a series of weather systems is moving over British Columbia. Snow will spread eastward across the Prairies.

Bad weather was partly responsible for a 10-hour delay Wednesday in a Trans-Canada Air Lines Super - Constellation flight from Vancouver to Montreal. The air liner, carrying 30 persons, ran into severe icing conditions over Hope, 90 miles east of Vancouver, and was forced to turn back.

SNOW FOR ALBERTA

Signs pointed to trouble for prairie residents. Edmonton today will follow a cold spell that gave Alberta temperatures ranging from 12 degrees above to the teens to 24 above in the south. Brisk southeast winds are expected to drift the snow.

Temperatures dipped overnight to the two provinces. However, they were expected to rise sharply with the arrival of new snow.

The storm which brought the season's first heavy snowfalls to Manitoba and northwestern Ontario appeared slowly to be northward over Hudson Bay Wednesday night. But it left inches of snow on the ground. In the north, strong winds caused near-blizzard conditions near the Manitoba shore of Hudson bay.

Some of the overnight lows and today's highs forecast were: Edmonton 10 and 30; Calgary 15 and 36; Lethbridge 20 and 40; Regina 5 and 25; Saskatoon 10 and 25; Winnipeg 15 and 25; and the Lakehead 10 and 30.

Will Appeal Murder Verdict

WINNIPEG (CP) — Counsel for Robert Alfred Bradley, 34, sentenced Wednesday to be hanged Dec. 16 for the murder of a boy, said he will appeal the conviction.

Bradley was convicted of the slaying of August Flatfoot last Jan. 6. Flatfoot's nude and bludgeoned body was found in a north Winnipeg lane.

Evidence during the trial indicated Bradley and Flatfoot had been drinking companions in a local cabal. They got into a fight in the early hours of the morning. A voluntary statement to police he left Flatfoot lying in the lane and fell asleep in a railway gravel car.

250 Are Killed As Egyptians Beat Off Israeli Raid

'Big Three' Start Talks To Forestall New War

JERUSALEM (CP) — More than 250 killed were claimed by both sides today as Israeli and Egyptian forces battled in the demilitarized frontier zone in the worst fighting between them since the end of the 1948 Palestine war.

At the United Nations headquarters in New York, representatives of Britain, the United States and France began a new and "urgent" round of consultations with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in an 11th-hour bid to forestall a new full-scale war in the Holy Land.

Reports of casualties from both sides in the fighting in the El Auja-Nizana demilitarized frontier zone gave a total of 96 Israelis and 154 Egyptians killed in the latest clash, which started Wednesday night.

BATTLE FOR OUTPOST

The battle was for the El Sabha checkpost, which, according to the Egyptians, has changed hands twice. The post is in the demilitarized zone but inside the Israeli territory.

Israelis, complaining it had been occupied previously by Egyptians in violation of the armistice, seized it in an attack Wednesday night. The Israeli foreign ministry today announced the attack had succeeded in "expelling the Egyptian invader" from Israeli territory. A military spokesman in Jerusalem said 30 Egyptians and four Israelis had been killed.

But a spokesman in Cairo said the Egyptian counterattack recaptured the El Sabha post. He said 200 Israeli soldiers had been killed.

There was no confirmation of the counterattack from the Israeli side but UN armistice observers said there was intermittent artillery and mortar fire in the zone today. One Israeli official said the situation was quiet at 4 p. m. after a period of fire which he called "most serious."

DEMILITARIZED BORDER

The Israelis said in addition to the four dead, their casualties numbered 10 wounded. They also claimed capture of 40 Egyptians. The spokesman in Cairo said the Egyptians had taken "some" Israeli prisoners and listed 96 Egyptian soldiers as killed or missing.

Egyptian general army headquarters has taken over command of the Egyptian troops in the area, previously controlled by the Egyptian Palestine department. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egyptian commander in chief, has gone to the front.

A UN headquarters in New York the big three was considering whether to call a meeting of the Security Council in order to try to stop the fighting.

Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser angrily assailed Israel's incoming Premier Moshe Sharett, saying the attack was an "excellent demonstration" of the spirit behind Sharett's recent Wednesday of peace talks with the Arabs. He maintained that the Egyptian forces attacked had been on the

Suggests Israel Be Taken Into Commonwealth

LONDON (Reuters)—James de Rothschild Wednesday night called for bringing Israel into the Commonwealth to counter "the hotheaded ambitions" of Arab countries.

The speaker, a former Liberal party member of Parliament and elder son of the late Baron Edmund de Rothschild of Palin, said that if the latest Middle Eastern country could be brought into the British sector, the integrity of her frontiers would be preserved on the strength of political ground.

He also urged that Britain continue her historic ties with the Arab nations and remain a guide and mentor to "the struggling nations of the Levant."

DEFENDS ATTACK

Army headquarters in Cairo said the Israelis had thrown 2,000 troops supported by armored cars and heavy artillery in Egyptian communique said.

The action by the Israeli defence army last night resulted in the occupation of the Egyptian advancing force," the Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said.

The Israelis claim, which were entrenched in Israeli territory, were supported by other Egyptian posts immediately across the border. In order to accomplish its task of expelling the Egyptian invader, it was necessary for an Israeli attack on these supported posts, he said.

As soon as this was accomplished, the Israeli unit was able to conclude its mission of expelling the Egyptian invader from Israeli territory. There are no Israeli forces across the Egyptian border. It is equally true that Egyptian forces are now back in Egypt where they belong. That was the position at noon today."

Plastic Lung Breathed for 30 Days As Man With 60 Fractures Healed

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
CHICAGO (AP) — Surgeons here are talking of a medical miracle, and the part played in it by a simple new artificial lung.

It began with the horrible moment when a steel worker was crushed by a locomotive against a stone wall. He was a big man, broad — shouldered, weighing 235 pounds.

Yet he was crushed by the monstrous steamroller of force only eight inches wide. Worse, he was slowly rolled into that tight area. Ribs and bones splintered. He had 55 fractures and 20 ribs, breast bone, collarbone, shoulder blade broken, internal organs injured.

Surgeons and doctors met him at the hospital door. He was unconscious, so badly hurt "it seemed there was nothing we could do to survive," said Dr. Edward Avery.

Modern aids of medicine and surgery flew to his defence. But with his crushed chest, even if he could begin breathing normally, the motion would prevent knitting of the wide-spread of his broken ribs.

The simple new lung gave the answer. The story was described to the American College of Surgeons Wednesday by Dr. E. T. Morch, inventor of the lung.

The man recovered, and now is back at work. Since then, the lung has helped polio victims, people with chest injuries, those with breathing troubles after surgery or other causes.

Dr. Morch's lung did the breathing for a month for the steel worker. It blew air gently into his lungs, then let it escape. The man's own breathing muscles stopped working, and his motionless ribs healed.

The new lung is a transparent plastic box, two feet high. A motor-driven piston pumps air through a tube and valve into the normal breathing. The air enters through a valve in the bottom, is forced into the trachea, or air tube, of the lungs. The throat tube is necessary if the artificial lung is going to do a person's breathing for days at a time. For shorter periods the tube can more simply be put into the nose or mouth.

Swivels in the metal part of the throat tube permit the person to turn his head, lie on his sides or back, have full range of movement.

West Presses Reds to Accept German Voting

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The West today brought heavy pressure on Russia to accept the unification of Germany through free elections even though that would mean scrapping the Communist regime in East Germany.

But indications that Foreign Minister Molotov has said at this Big Four conference has indicated that he will budge on the German issue.

The only agreement that appears remotely possible at this top-flight ministers' parley is a broad statement that German unification would be a good thing, and that the four powers will continue to negotiate on it.

Even though the basic positions remain unchanged, this would mean at least that the West has failed to claim the conference was not a complete failure.

St. Lawrence Seaway Reported Quarter Finished

WASHINGTON (AP) — The St. Lawrence seaway, one of the world's greatest construction projects, is reported 25 per cent completed; it was estimated Wednesday by Edward R. Place, information director of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., the agency administering the United States-financed 'half' of the waterway.

Place also reported that the U.S. share of the cost, first estimated at about $90,000,000, now may be $97,000,000. Most major contract awards have been for amounts less than anticipated.

About 90 per cent of the world's cargo vessels will be able to use the completed seaway, Place said the corporation anticipates that the waterway will handle about 26,500,000 tons of cargo each year.

Only Decide if Mrs. Woodward Must Re-enact Slaying of Husband

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A grand jury must decide whether Mrs. William Woodward should be required to re-enact the shotgun killing of her husband.

Woodward, 35-year-old millionaire race horse owner, was shot to death early Sunday in the dark bedroom of their Long Island home by a blast from a shotgun wielded by his blonde wife, Ann, 29.

Mrs. Woodward has told police she fired in panic after being awakened by what might have been the barking of the family dog.

Police said Paul Wirths, 22, arrested and charged with robbing a home in the area, has admitted breaking into the Woodward's station car-garage and a cabana beside their swimming pool last Friday night. Wirths has denied, however, that he had been in the house proper at the time of the shooting.

After Woodward was buried Wednesday, Frank Gulotta, Nassau county district attorney, said he would "do anything the grand jury requests" in the way of reconstructing the fatal shooting. The November grand jury is to convene in next Wednesday.

Mrs. Woodward, former model and radio actress, has been in hospital in New York City since Sunday for treatment of shock.

Wednesday night it was declared that precautions had been taken against the possibility that she might attempt suicide. Nurses are with her around the clock.

Veterans Asked To Set Poppy Day Example

Robert E. Perry, poppy chairman of Zone F-2, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., today issued a final appeal to all citizens, asking them to wear a poppy on Remembrance Day.

A poppy campaign will be held on Friday and Saturday by members of the following branches of the Canadian Legion in Zone F2, their respective Ladies' Auxiliaries, and other veterans' organizations. In Bancroft, Branch 181; Belleville Branch 199; Consecon Branch 209; Desoronto Branch 250; Madoc Branch 262; Marmora Branch 237; Picton Branch 72; Stirling Branch 238; Tweed Branch 428, and Wellington Branch 160.

Mr. Perry called on all veterans to set an example by wearing the Memorial flower, (The Blood Red Poppy of Flanders.)

"Let us show that we remember and honor those who served by our side and gave their lives for Canada," he commented.

"Most people," he said "wear a badge or emblem on their lapel which proclaims membership in one organization or another. Through such emblems they make known their beliefs and principles."

"The greatest belief and principle of all are those for which men die," Mr. Perry concludedr, "therefore I ask for a few days proudly wear the badge of Remembrance which symbolizes our faith in the ideals for which our fellow Canadians died."

Oil Company's Safe Forced Open, $100 Taken

Between police patrol rounds, safe-crackers early this morning forced their way into the office of the Imperial Oil warehouse on South Front Street, blew the door off a small office safe and escaped with cash amounting to slightly more than $100.

The break-in was discovered by Sgt. Roy Milligan and Constable Robert Hall as they made their rounds shortly before five o'clock. A check of the Imperial Oil premises during their previous round had indicated that all was in order.

Police Inspector J. C. Hayes said that the robbers had blown the door off the office safe and carried the door away with them.

Entry to the premises had been gained by forcing the office front door with a jimmy bar. The locked gate at the entrance to the premises had been pushed open, apparently with the auto used by the safe-crackers.

The safe at Imperial Oil is the third one cracked in Belleville in recent months. Two weeks ago the safe at Paul Mercier's Jewellery store was forced open and $28,000 worth of diamonds, watches and jewellery taken.

Several months ago the safe at the A. and P. Store was smashed. Thieves here also carted the safe door away.

(Read, Ont.)

The funeral of Jerry Hannifin was held from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hannifin, Read, Ont. today to St. Charles Church, Read, for requiem mass at 10 a.m.

The Rev. E. Briceland said the mass and the prayers at the graveside in St. Charles cemetery where interment took place.

Members of the Holy Name Society formed a guard of honor at the obsequies.

The bearers were: Messrs Gerald McGurn, Alban McGurn, Eugene McGraw, Terry Remmen, Garry Hupt and Michael Gaffney.

LATE HORACE LAW

The funeral of the late Horace Law was held Wednesday afternoon from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home where service in the chapel was conducted by Archdeacon H. R. Cresgan of Christ Church. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were: Messrs. Lawrence Boyle, William McKenna, Sidney Dempsey, Ronald Dempsey, Harry Haines and John Haggerty.

Deny Rumor Navy Planning Base At Presqu'Ile

A rumor circulating in the Brighton area that the federal government might build a naval training base on Presquille Park was scotched this morning when National Defence officials in Ottawa said they had "no information at all" about any such proposed project.

A rumor to the effect that Presqu'ile Park would be taken over by the Department of National Defence and closed to the summer resort area has been heard in the Brighton area in the past few days. It was said that the defence department might convert the park into a base for Great Lakes naval training station.

Such speculation died completely this morning.

Frank S. Caldwell, M.P., for Hastings South, conflicted the Deputy Minister of National Defence this morning. Neither he, nor officials at naval headquarters had any information concerning such a project.

Here's Cash In Your Hand For Christmas

Items considered useless to you may not yet have outlived their usefulness — if you go about it the right way, you may be able to convert them into cash.

And one of the best ways of going about it is by simply picking up the phone and dialling WO-8-5757 — the Ontario Intelligencer.

With Christmas and all the extra expenses looming nearer on the home horizon many of people have found one way to make some quick ready cash is to unearth discarded but still useful items, from attics, basements and storage rooms.

And the quickest and cheapest way to market these items is to place an advertisement in the "For Sale" column of the Ontario Intelligencer. In the Intelligencer you reach practically everyone in the Belleville district at the same time and results come just as speedily.

Constable Wm. Evans 35 Years on Force

Thirty-five years as a member of the Belleville Police Department, is the record of Constable William T. Evans who joined the local department on Nov. 8th back in 1920.

The lot of a police officer has been improved considerably since the 1920's, according to Constable Evans.

"It was 12 hours duty a day and 365 days a year with no holidays," the constable noted. Constable Evans has served under three police chiefs, first under Police Chief Newton, then Chief Alexander Kidd, and under present Chief Walter Probert.

Constable and Mrs. Evans have two children, a son operating a grocery store at Trenton, and a daughter at St. Catharines.

LAUNCH HOME-MADE SUB

LONG BEACH, CALIF. (AP)—A home-made submarine was christened with champagne and launched Wednesday. The three-man, 41-foot Cetacean, cherished dream of diving-ball designer Edmund Martine, has a 150-horsepower motor and a cruising speed of 10 knots on the surface and seven knots submerged. With the submersible's powerful searchlights and cameras, Martine hopes to explore hidden valleys and caves never seen before by man.

Political observers indicate that he is certain to get his throne back, and in a conference in Paris, the ex-sultan accepted the French formula of French-Moroccan interdependence.

Housing Shortage Produces Scarcity Of Social Workers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Britain's housing shortage poses problems for Canada, one caused a scarcity of social workers, an English social work expert said in an interview here.

Miss Eileen Younghusband, social science lecturer in London's School of Economics and director in the Carnegie course in applied social studies, was here to address a University of British Columbia group.

"Britain has built 300,000 houses a year for the last five years," she said, "but she is still unable to keep up with the demand after the war destroyed 250,000 houses and made 1,000,000 others uninhabitable.

CAUSE OF TENSIONS

"Shortage of homes is a major cause of tensions and emotional upsets that make the social worker so necessary. It leads to many other problems — not least the racial antagonism that resulted from the influx of West Indians into the midlands and London. And we are very short of social workers to handle these problems."

Social work is a vital profession, she stressed. Changes in economic and industrial conditions throughout the world make it essential for a new force to be found.

"The old family system is breaking down in many countries and there is need for workers just as there is need for medical men."

Historic School For Girls Marks 80th Anniversary

MONTREAL (CP)—A milestone in the education of Canadian women will be marked today when the alumni of the Montreal High School for Girls celebrate the 80th anniversary of the institution.

The school was founded while a controversy raged over higher education for women. Private schools for girls were available at that time, but few colleges would accept women students.

The Montreal Protestant board of school commissioners decided in 1873 to open a school to give girls the same educational opportunities as those provided for boys.

In 13 Minutes Girl Acquitted Of Slaying Father

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Helen May Jackson, a 19-year-old farm girl, Wednesday was acquitted of murder in connection with the slaying of her father last Feb. 24.

A Court of Queen's Bench jury took just 13 minutes to reach its verdict. Spectators applauded the verdict and Helen May broke into a loud sob and let the prisoner's box to console her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, overcome with emotion.

The trial, before Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman, lasted two days. Evidence indicated Helen May shot her father, William C. Jackson, with a .22 calibre rifle when he threw her mother to the floor in their farm home and began to choke her in a drunken frenzy.

Mothballs Keep Birds Away From Orchard

OXFORD, England (Reuters) The familiar odor of mothballs hung over farmer Charles Baron's apple orchard today. "Smells, doesn't it?" he said.

"But it's the best way to keep birds from damaging the apple crop." About 1,000 mothballs are hanging with the apples. A farm group is studying the method for possible use throughout the country.

IN MEMORIAM

PERRY. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Robert E. Perry, who passed away five years ago, November 3rd.

Sweet memories are all we have,
To the land of peace and rest,
God has called our loved one home,
Where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed and fondly remembered.
Daughter Marion, son-in-law Orval and grandson George Arthur.

RING. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Ernest Ring, who died at Bancroft, passed away November 3rd, 1954.

Many a lonely hour he spent
Often a silent tear;
Always a cheerful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear.
He fought a long hard fight to fight it,
But God was stronger than we;
But what it was to lose him,
No one will ever know.
—Ever remembered by wife, family and relatives.

CARDS OF THANKS

My sincere thanks to my relatives and friends for cards, flowers and visits, and Belleville General Hospital staff and Dr. Hubbard, also to all the nurses who were so kind to me.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market eased ahead in quiet first-hour trading on the Toronto board today. Base metals led the way with industrials close behind.

Selective demand moved foods, liquors, steels and refining oils ahead. Best individual gains went to Transmounts in Oil Pipe Line and International Nickel, both up $1.75, the latter having added almost $5 in two days.

Most other senior base metals were fractionally higher. Junior gains seldom went beyond 10 cents.

Uraniums were dull. Golds improved irregularly. McIntyre was up ¼ and Sullivan 15 ahead at $6.55.

In a lightly firmer western oil section, Petrol moved back to the high it reached last month at $3.15, adding 15 cents.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—The cattle offering was made up of mostly low-medium and common killers at the Ontario stockyards today. Prime grades are in narrow demand insulting is slow trade.

GM Asks Union Let Contractors Enter Its Plant

TORONTO (CP)—General Motors of Canada Ltd., today asked union officials to allow outside contractors through gates in the Oshawa GM plant to complete changes in its assembly line.

The plant's 10,000 workers have been on strike 45 days—longest closure in GM's Canadian history. Another 7,000 employees in GM plants at Toronto, St. Catharines, Windsor and London also are out pending settlement of contract negotiations.

The company said the desired assembly-line changes are to enable immediate production of new-model automobiles once the strike ends.

If this work is completed when the strike ends, there would be less likelihood of a delay in calling men back to work, the company said. The changeover would take two weeks to complete.

Brig. May Seek Federal Seat

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Le Nouvelliste says J. A. Richard, Liberal member of Parliament for St. Maurice-Lafleche, will retire soon, and Brig. Jean Allard will run as his successor.

If the former commander of Canadian troops in Korea is elected he will become postmaster general, replacing the late Alcide Cote, the French-language daily says in a newspage story.

The story says Mr. Richard may be named to the Senate or may become federal Liberal organizer in the district.

Think Indian Girl Jumped to Death From Truck Cab

TIMAGAMI (CP) — An autopsy on the body of 19-year-old Grace Beaucage, found on a sideroad near Englehart Wednesday, indicated she died of a severe skull fracture, police said today.

Police said they believe the pretty Indian girl jumped to her death from the cab of a truck as it passed through this village the night of Oct. 17.

HOLD CAMP COOK

Albert Joseph Lalonde, 21, a mining camp cook, is being held on a charge of public mischief in connection with the girl's disappearance. Police said there may be new charges.

Ontario Provincial Police, aided by a highways department road foreman and accompanied by Lalonde, recovered the body Wednesday afternoon along the lonely road.

The body, fully - clothed, was found on its back 10 feet from a road seven miles from Englehart.

Discovery of the body ended a four-day search of that area. A reward for information about Miss Beaucage had been offered by the attorney-general's department.

The girl had been missing from her home since she attended a dance here Oct. 17.

SAW GIRL FALL

Police said several witnesses have said they saw a girl fall to the roadway early Oct. 18 in front of a restaurant on Highway 11 here.

Inspector Graham said no marks which might have been inflicted by other persons appeared on the body.

Police declined to say whether Lalonde had led them to the body. They said the discovery was part of a routine search.

Lalonde, held in North Bay, is to appear in court Friday on the mischief charge.

Doctor Goes Chimneying Daily To Insure a Smokeless London

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Almost every frosty morning now a doctor hurries from his office to the seventh-floor roof to look for something he doesn't want to see.

He's chimneying — to see that they don't smoke.

"And do you know," says Dr. C.T. White, a City of London medical officer, "I can hardly see any smoke now. It's extraordinarily good."

The 677 acres that make up the heart of the world's largest city have been declared a smokeless zone. Owners of illegally-smoking chimneys are liable to a fine of £10, and if they continue to be a nuisance a daily £5 fine.

The City, chiefly a business and financial area, is the first of greater London's municipalities to ban smoke. The anti-smoke legislation, approved by Parliament, was put into effect almost three years after the tragic smog of December, 1952.

FOG BLAMED

About 4,000 deaths were blamed on the dense fog that trapped tons of gas, grit and smoke in an immense pall over London.

These five days in 1952 were a warning. The temperature was 12 degrees below the seven-year average, and just about every furnace, grate and hearth was burning. The smoke and sulphur dioxide pollution of the atmosphere was the highest since 1935.

To avert a similar disaster, the City took action and gave ample warning to property owners. Beside eliminating smoke hazards, the City is also helping to ease Britain's coal shortage.

It is estimated that 10,000,000 tons of coal are wasted every year in the U.K. through faulty, careless or inefficient firing. In the City, some furnaces were converted to burn smokeless fuels, but in many cases greater care in firing and maintaining boilers was the only precaution taken.

"The response," says Dr. White, "was astonishing. It just goes to show what can be done by paying proper attention to furnaces."

INEFFICIENT GRATES

But domestic grates, found in most British homes and in many of the old-fashioned City offices, are said to be only 30-per-cent efficient. Most of the fuel goes right up the chimney as grit and smoke.

"A domestic grate just, can't burn coal without producing smoke," Dr. White explains. "So we have made arrangements to get a supply of smokeless fuel for use in the grates."

While the City tackled its problem in determination, elsewhere there is much indifference. A national fuel efficiency service set up more than a year ago to preach coal-saving practices sent out 25,000 circulars to seek support from industrial firms in establishing a correspondence course for Britain's 75,000 stokers.

Fewer than 300 replied. And yet more than half of Britain's boilers are more than 30 years old. Outdated operation keeps them at 60-per-cent efficiency.

The only legal smoke in the City now is from a locomotive passing through. One wag says this goes to prove that the nationlized British railways can still drive a carriage and engine through an act of Parliament.

Archbishop of York Plans to Retire Soon

YORK, England (Reuters) — Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, announced today he will retire early next year.

The 80-year-old archbishop, one of the outstanding personalities of the Anglican Church, said he is retiring because of age and ill health.

Dr. Garbett, second to the Archbishop of Canterbury in the Church of England hierarchy, was at-one time known as "the hiking bishop," serving a purple cassock and carrying a 500-year-old pastoral staff. He was then in his 60s.

Motor League Will Protest 'Crazy' By-Law

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Motor League today threw its weight behind John Orvizs in his protest against what he terms a "crazy" by-law which prohibits him from parking his car in his own driveway.

Warren Hastings, manager of the OML, said the league will appeal Orvizs' conviction for a violation of the by-law. He said the law is "like something out of Alice in Wonderland."

Orvizs, a business broker, said he would rather serve the 10-day jail sentence than pay the $40 fine. He is at liberty for a month to settle business affairs before serving the term.

Mr. Hastings said the OML would have intervened in the case whether Orvizs had been a member of the association or not.

"We would have sought to have the by-law amended or repealed because it is absurb as it stands," he said.

NO DRIVEWAY

Harry Rogers, deputy property commissioner, said at the court hearing Tuesday, that Mr. Orvizs has no driveway because it is not a right-of-way over his property leading to a garage.

He quoted a city by-law which says no part of a lot in a residential district in front of the main front wall of a house may be used for parking. The by-law excepts "canal" parking.

Mr. Rogers said the by-law was designed to prevent persons from hard-surfacing their lawns as parking areas.

HALLOWE'EN—BELLEVILLE STYLE

Chamberlain made only one mistake.
He tried his appeasement tactics with the wrong person.

Instead of going to Munich to meet Hitler, he should have come to Belleville on Hallowe'en. He would have discovered that threats of fines (candy variety) is worth half an hour's elbow grease cleaning soap off windows.

But, had he come, his visit might have been too early. For Hallowe'en has changed. Thank heavens. Today's youngsters, surprisingly enough, prove a relatively well-mannered crowd when they don a witch's cape or a spook's nightgown. Sometimes you hear the old "trick or treat" chorus, but most of them do not even bother with that formality. They know the treat will be forthcoming; few of them appear disappointed that it will be nothing but a policy of appeasement of the excuse to substitute a trick. Tricks, when played, seem mild, compared to those of yesteryear.

And where were all the boys? Most of the candy seekers making the rounds on Monday evening were girls. Or did the boys all gather in some of the outlying districts and play hob with fences and tempers?

Of course, things were different down town. One merchant did a land office business in soap—and had his own windows soaped for his pains. Nobody escaped. But a casual walking-pace survey the next morning of store windows all down one side of Front Street, from the Upper Bridge to the City Hall, revealed only one dirty word legible among the soap scrawls. This is heartening.

Many people were probably disgusted with the way that garbage was strewn about the business section early after all, it was pulp-and-paper night on a Hallowe'en night, what do they expect will happen? Criticism of pranksters who scatter paper comes ill from those who, in their younger days, scattered with enthusiasm and in their younger days, scattered with enthusiasm and in their younger days, scattered with enthusiasm and

O.R.M.T. Assoc. Enjoys Violin Musical

Last evening the monthly meeting of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held at the home of Mrs. F. E. Houston on Pine Street.

Following the opening business session of the meeting, the evening was given over to the talents of Mr. Harnett Taylor, violin pedogogue and his son, Raymond. As solo performer on the violin, Raymond demonstrated his ever growing prowess in his renditions of the opening movement of one of the Viotti violin concertos, and the difficult prestidium and allegro of Pugnani-Kreisler. In both of thes numbers Mr. John Withers acted as accompanist.

Mr. Taylor and Raymond then performed for their due selection the Sonatina in D Major of Schubert, Mr. Taylor violinist, Raymond taking the piano accompaniment) showing remarkable coordination and fluency in their approach to this seldom heard lyrical work.

Windsor To Experiment With City Manager

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor is to try to hire Sarnia's city manager in efforts to discover whether the city manager form of government will work here.

City board of control Wednesday authorized Mayor Michael J. Patrick to ascend Sarnia manager E. Royden Colter to find out if he is interested in a similar position here for an experimental period. The board made no salary proposal.

Mr. Colter Wednesday night said he had received no word from Windsor about the proposal. He has held the Sarnia appointment for more than four years and previously was executive director for the Saint John, N.B., city council for more than six years.

"A TRYING JOB"

"There are a lot of things to be considered," he said. "This is a trying job under the best conditions. I would not like to make any comment yet."

City council Tuesday night rejected a request by the mayor for an immediate plebiscite on the city manager issue, instead it approved the experimental appointment and resolved that the matter be not put to public vote before the December, 1956, city election.

Mayor Patrick Wednesday said he doubted the city could hire a competent man under proposed conditions which allow no change in the present city government system. He said he would go along with the plan, however, if Mr. Colter could be hired.

Students' Council May Not Accept Board of Education Explanation For Alleged Slight to Principal

TRENTON (Special) — The students' council of Trenton high school is holding a meeting after school this afternoon to discuss the action to be taken on a letter received from the Board of Education yesterday.

Earlier the students had sent a strongly-worded resolution to the board demanding an apology to their principal, George Spencer, who was not included in the list of official platform guests at the laying of the new Trenton high school datestone by Senator W. A. Fraser a week ago.

Board chairman Carl Rathbun mentioned that the board had received a petition protesting that newsmen obtain the contents of the letter from them.

Meanwhile loyal parents have rallied behind their sons and daughters and support the student edict.

Already approximately 150 members of the high school students' council have put their names to a petition protesting to the board. Michael Holt and Kathleen Lonergan, president of the students' council, signed the resolution that went to the board.

PARENTS GIVE SUPPORT

Parents, learning of the council's action, volunteered sympathetic support. They maintain that Principal Spencer should have been invited to sit on the platform with the other officials taking part in the datestone ceremony.

At the same time a group of 25 students expressed belief that the Board of Education slighted them by ignoring their principal. Principal Spencer, 34 years head teacher of the Trenton high school, was not asked to take part in the program.

Among the platform guests were A. Cummins, of Belleville, inspector for public schools, who conveyed words of congratulations from the Hon. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, and the Department of Education; Mayor Ross Burtt who extended the civic welcome; Burwell R. Coon, B.A., Sc., architect of the building; Kathleen Lonergan, president of the Trenton high school students' council; Senator W. A. Fraser, guest speaker, who laid the datestone; Rev. H. V. Muxworthy of the Trenton Ministerial Association, and board members Grant Rathbun (chairman), Dr. J. E. Richmond, Rev. A. S. MacLean.

Bay of Quinte Lodge Installs New Officers

PICTON — Officers of Bay of Quinte Lodge, No. 143, were installed with impressive ceremony Tuesday night by S. P. Miller, DDGM, for District No. 49, and staff from Napanee and district.

Installations in District 47 are being carried out by the Napanee team due to the illness of DDGM Russ Gardiner of Picton.

JEWEL PRESENTED

A past Noble Grand's jewel was presented to Ross Jeffrey, who thanked officers and members for their support during the past year, which had been one of progress.

The new Noble Grand, Arthur R. MacDonald, thanked members for the honor and asked each member to do his part to make the year a notable one.

In addition to his regalia of office he was given custody of a diamond die pin which is held by each Noble Grand during his term of office. This was a bequest to the lodge by the late G. W. Waggott.

The installing team consisted of R. P. Mills, DDGM; Arnold Rogers, D.D. Grand marshal; Roy McGreer, recording secretary; Sid Fretts, financial secretary; Wilfred Smith, treasurer; Harold Clark, chaplain; R. Rose, inside guardian; A. McKeown, pianist; G. Oldham, drums; D. Wattingham, H. Barker, R. Huffman, W. Storey, G. McGregor, E. Calver, D. Fraser, Ron Stevenson, guard of honor.

OFFICERS

Officers installed were:

Jr. Past Grand, Ross Jeffrey; Noble Grand, Arthur R. MacDonald; vice-Grand, Rex Hicks; warden, Robert J. Rolston; conductor, Roy Clark; RSNG, Harry Palin; LSNG, George W. Allen; RSVG, Ralph Hubbs; LSVG, Harold Spencer; RSS, Carl Ackerman; LSS, Donald King; outer guard, Amos R. Hicks; inner guard, C. A. Rose; chaplain, D. O. Reynolds.

Drew Is Honored

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP)—Progressive Conservative leader George Drew Wednesday became the 16th honorary citizen of the "Republic of Madawaska," an order formed by Madawaska county residents.

He received the pendant-plaque of the order from Mayor H. E. Marmen at city hall. Mr. Drew is the first national party leader to visit Edmundston since the late W. L. Mackenzie King in 1935.

'Grand Old Man' Of Trenton Area, Dies at Age 101

TRENTON (Special)— Trenton's grand old man and oldest resident, Benaiah Young, died here yesterday. He was 101 and had he lived would have celebrated his 102nd birthday in January.

Mr. Young often said he was a direct descendant of Oliver Cromwell of England. His father's name was Oliver Cromwell Young.

He was born in the pretty little village of Roblin's Mills in Prince Edward County. He spent most of his life in the area.

During the time he lived in Trenton, Mr. Young became a popular resident and acquired many friends. Earlier he was a bridge tender on the Murray Canal. In his younger days he was a farmer.

Mr. Young was fond of old-time music and step-dancing. Up until he reached the century mark it was not unusual for him to show younger people his favorite routine. He was the life of any party he attended. He took part in step-dancing competitions at the Wooler fair when he was 96. He will be remembered for having a keen sense of humour.

Until the last few years Mr. Young was seldom sick. He read the newspaper without glasses and, being a rabid hockey fan, followed Saturday night broadcasts religiously. He was a staunch supporter of the Montreal Canadiens.

Mr. Young was oldest voting Liberal in this district. He took a great deal of interest in every provincial or Dominion election. He was a member of Grace United Church, Trenton.

Mr. Young was taken ill with pneumonia early last week.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. E. (Beryl) White of Trenton, and

RCAF Joins Hunt For Light Plane Lost in Quebec

TRENTON (CP) — Three RCAF search and rescue planes left here this morning to search the dense bush country in northwestern Quebec for three men aboard a missing private aircraft.

A light Cessna plane carrying pilot Lloyd Evans, his brother David and Augustino Ricci, all of the Montreal district, was reported missing Wednesday on a flight from St. Jovite, Que., 80 miles north of Montreal. The plane was bound for the Val D'Or and Amos area where the men planned to do some hunting.

Two RCAF Dakotas and an Otter, carrying 22 airmen, add 10 officers, headed for the area in front of an advancing storm. RCAF officials said they doubted the planes will be up long because of the rising and low ceilings moving in with the storm.

two sons, Blain of Glen Miller and Graydon of Toronto. His wife, the former Jessie Guerchenbush of Carrying Place, died last March. Three children predeceased him.

The body is resting at the Weaver Funeral Home until time of service to be conducted by the Rev. G. A. Puttenham at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Interment will be in Carrying Place cemetery. Six grandsons will act as bearers.

Planning Dept. Offices Opened

TORONTO (CP)—New quarters for the Ontario department of planning and development were officially opened on Toronto's University avenue Wednesday night, Premier Frost officiated.

The move locates the department's offices under one roof in a five-storey building formerly occupied by the Ontario Liquor Control Board. Assisting in the official opening was Planning and Development Minister Nickle, his wife and Mrs. Frost.

Before moving into the new offices, which have been renovated by the works department, the planning department had offices at Bay and Front streets.

The new building is on the southwest corner of the Dundas street-University avenue intersection. A branch of the Province of Ontario savings department is located on the ground floor.

6 Young Gunmen Rob Restaurant In West Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Six young gunmen terrorized employees in a west end restaurant Wednesday night and got away with $300 and two watches.

The men entered through a rear door, one acting as a lookout.

In the restaurant were night manager David Noble, 70; Mrs. Isabel Turgeon, 19, a waitress; Mrs. Marion Gadon, 21, and Mrs. Joan Aylesia, 32.

The youths told the waitress: "We want the money. We're not fooling. Don't anybody move or we'll shoot."

WARD—YOUNG

Baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums and ferns formed a pretty setting on Saturday, October 29, at 2.30 p.m., in Holloway Street United church, when the Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D., formerly of Redneersville, united in marriage Barbara Joan Young, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Young, to Kenneth Charles Ward, of Stratford, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Ward.

Mr. Clifford Templar, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Alfred Hughes, who sang "Because" before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Stanley Young, the bride wore an attractive cocktail length gown of winter white brocaded satin, with green velvet hat accented with rhinestones, green accessories, and carried a white Bible crested with an orchid and streamers knotted with white stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Weaver of Chicago, Illinois, as matron of honor, who was gowned in brocaded green silk, with pink accessories, and carried a nosegay of rose-colored 'mums and yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Robert Mott of Belleville attended the bridegroom, while the bride's brothers, Messrs. Alton Young and Clarence Young, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, which was attractively adorned with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells and 'mums, for the occasion. The bride's attendant, wearing gray silk with turquoise accessories and red rose corsage, received assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy tailored dress with gold colored accessories, and corsage of gold-colored roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a grey-flecked dress with matching topcoat, green accessories, and red rosebud corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside at 3601 South California Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a matching rhinestone set, and to her bridegroom, luggage; the bridegroom's gift to his bride, a silver flatware set, and to his attendant and ushers, gold tie clips and matching cuff links.

Guests were present from Wellington, Toronto, Stratford, Tweed and Chicago.

CONDUCTS FROM CHAIR

MANCHESTER, England, (Reuter) Sir Thomas Beecham, famed British orchestra conductor, received a great ovation at a concert Saturday night after having conducted a concert in his slippers and sitting in a chair. It was announced Oct. 20 that Beecham had cancelled his concert performance over the rest of the month because of illness. He had an operation for a foot complaint—during the summer.

Regis Club Holds Discussion

St. Michael's Regis Club met recently in the Knights of Columbus hall, with president, Mary McDougall, in the chair.

The spiritual committee, under chairman, Jerry O'Sullivan, conducted a table discussion on the "Creation and Fall of Man".

An interesting and informative panel discussion on "Credit Unions" was presented by the cultural committee with Bernard Mascaro as chairman, and Gwen McCarthy, Doug Foley and Dave Kelly as panel members.

A question and answer period followed.

The president reminded club members of the Catholic Women's League bazaar this month and asked for their support in this project.

Bob Burke, chairman of the social committee, conducted an audience participation game, following which members were entertained by Bob O'Brien at the piano and Bernard Mascaro, vocal imitations.

Refreshments were served by Margaret Whelan and Sheila Irvine.

PARKDALE W.I.

Hallowe'en was marked by a fancy parade through the home of Mrs. Ed. Barrage for the October meeting of Parkdale W.I. Eight prizes were awarded to the masqueraders.

Mrs. C. Keeble presided over the meeting. During the business, a thank-you letter was read from Mrs. G. Miller, and volunteers were asked to help buy and wrap gifts for the Christmas party in December.

Reports from the sick committee were heard. Roll call was, "Hints on Preparing a Thanksgiving Meal". There were 20 present with four visitors from South Parkdale.

A sing-song was conducted by Mrs. N. McKibbon. "Current Events" on the humorous side were read by Mrs. A. Robinson.

Mrs. F. Rodgers and Mrs. N. Bazuk conducted two games.

Mrs. G. Palmer gave her report from the Area convention.

Mrs. R. Marry gave a detailed report on the progress of the recreation centre and said she hoped the ladies would urge the men to put forth a little effort so that the roof could be put on before the snow comes.

SETTLE OUT OF COURT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor James Mason and his wife Pamela Wednesday announced an undisclosed out-of-court settlement of their million-dollar damage suit against a columnist who wrote that their marriage was shaky. The suit originally was directed at Motion Picture and Television magazine, owned by Fawcett Publications, and The Daily News, a Los Angeles newspaper. In addition, the suit asked damages from Erskine Johnson, identified as the writer. The Daily News has since gone out of business.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Holds Colorful Bazaar, Autumn Tea

Surpassingly lovely was the reception room in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Wednesday afternoon with its many, shaded lights, sprays of red cedar and gleaming, rose-colored metallic leaves which adorned the walls, for the bazaar and tea held under the auspices of the Quintena Rebekah lodge. This was but a foretaste of the gay colors and attractive decorations which graced the assembly room.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. June Carruthers, Noble Grand, and Mrs. Cress Adams, Vice - Grand, who most charmingly welcomed each and all.

GARDEN OF AFRONS

The first booth to meet the eye was that of the aprons, which were of many colors, fabrics and styles, presiding at garden scene with its yellow and mauve decoration. They filled the booth, with Mrs. Ivan Ackerman as manager. There were aprons of dark blue; white aprons embroidered with "Tea-For-Two"; red, polka dot aprons; dark brown with frills of soft, bright green in pink with appliqued hearts, cubs, spades and diamonds and a dainty apron edged in wine and grey, as well as patchwork aprons. The convener of these was Mrs. Ida Addy, and Mrs. Verna Gilroy as co-convener, who were assisted by Misses Margaret Novinski and Bessie Boldrick; Mrs. Margaret Hagerman and Mrs. Vera Reynolds.

TASTY CHEWS

On the candy booth one could choose from coconut bar, maple cream, divinity fudge, cherry centres, peppermints, peanut brittle, coconut balls, children's suckers and marshmallow creams, either in fluffy little cups, boxes or cellophane bags, all at attractive prices. Mrs. Dorothy Weber, convener, and Mrs. Edith Bushworth, co-convener, were kept busy selling and making change, as were their helpers, Mesdames Rhea Mitchell, Ruby Way, Lillian Latchford and Connie Wilkinson.

The homecooking table was a most magnet for those scrumptious tarts, angel food cakes, date squares, chiffon cakes, lemon, apple, mince and fruit pies, date loaves, brownies, canned goods, salads, jams, jellies, sweet pickles, peppers, and even a tempting basket of glowing McIntosh apples. Mrs. Helen Brenton, was convener, with Mrs. Florence Bird as her co-convener, assisted by Mesdames Gladys Brickman, Cora Steel and Laura Bush.

PARCEL POST

The ever-present Parcel Post Office did a brisk business with its parcels of all shapes, showing that things hidden are ever mysterious and eye-catching. The genial postmistresses were, Mrs. Annis Webb, as convener, and assisted by Mrs. Closs White as co-convener, and Mrs. Georgina Charlton.

The attractive fancywork booth, with Mrs. Myrtle Andrews and Mrs. Lena MacMillan as conveners, assisted by Mesdames Lena Belnap, Jill Empey, H. West, Kay Burton, Irene Mair, Wyn Donaldson, Winnifred Langridge and Ida Juby, was well furnished with crocheted doilies, tea cloths, lovely green centrepiece in pineapple design; tea mats in grey and wine; 4th blanket cozy linen centred with soft collar and cuffs; crochet shopping bag which extended into a sumptuous size; bridge cloths; fancy handkerchiefs and many other items, including a black sateen skirt with white diagonal bands.

CHILDREN'S BOOTH

The children's booth, was most attractively decorated with cascading loops of green, orange, yellow, pink, and mauve from a central scheme of colorful balloons. Here were worn pyjamas, panties with frills of lace; little grey knickers; girls' dresses in plaids; mitts and socks in abundance; baby set in blue; a doll's wardrobe and a lovely doll in pink organdy. Convening this were, Mrs. Eva Judge, and Mrs. Mary Plumpton, her co-convener, with their helpers, Mesdames Cress Adams, Florence Bleakman, Joanna Merry, Helen Shorey, Keitha Fergusson, Dorothy Tugnett, K. Elliott, and c/ the dolls, Mrs. Alice Adams and Mrs. Grace Akey.

ATTRACTIVE NOVELTIES

Convening the novelties which were outstanding in their variety and attractiveness were Mrs. Verna Summers and Mrs. Marjory Large, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Harwood, Mrs. Verna Oliphant, Mrs. Ethel McDonald, Mrs. Doris Ellsworth and Mrs. Annie Dee Mills. Here were shell plaques, costume jewelry, candle holders, comb cases with comb; animal ornaments; a well-filled basket of good things to eat invalid; an array of artificial flowers, including princess feather, pussy willow and pretty shades; metallic Christmas trees in pale greens, and blues with silvered edges, built on tall candle with tip making the tree-top; a silvery, candle holder laden with Chinese Ming tree; and tiny cards and a framed picture of a Chinese boy and girl done in copper, which would be drawn for by lucky ticket.

Nearby was a wishing well whose cords was outlined in silver sprays, into which donations for the Cancer, Polio, and Tuberculosis fund were collected. Those whose hearts were filled with human sympathy, this was in charge of Mrs. Annie Rose.

Mrs. Florence Pollitt and Mrs. Eva Hicks had charge of tickets.

At conspicuous places throughout the room various items drew many; among which were the pink doll, mentioned before with her wardrobe of dainty, dresses; a pair of lovely pillow slips, embroidered with "Mr. and Mrs."; a beauty of a shopping bag in black felt lined with rose, and adorned with flowers; a white vase, and the pals green baby set mentioned above also a box of candy. These were won by the following, baby set, Mrs. Jones, Dundas St.; doll and wardrobe, Miss Irene Muir, 302 Foster Avenue; Chinese boy and girl copper picture, Mrs. Mary Bailey, 20 Russell Street; vase, Mrs. Welch, 321 McDougall Ave.; shopping bag, Mrs. Fry, Gananoque; pillow slips, Miss Irene Muir, 302 Foster Avenue; candy, by ticket No. 19.

EXQUISITE CENTREPIECE

The tea room, convened by Miss Helen Miller and Mrs. Phyllis Pope, was most attractive with its white picket gateway entwined with maple leaves, bittersweet, and fragrant cedar sprays. Inside the little guest tables, with their white cloths, were each centred by a cornucopia with outflowing grapes, both red and green; while the lovely tea table with its big cornucopia filled with luscious fruits, oranges, grapes, grapevruits, pineapple, pears and there a colorful sweet pepper, made an exquisite centrepiece with its wreath of pink, yellow and mauve 'mums and cedar sprays. The work of the convener, Miss Helen Miller). Flanking this, the dual silver candelabra with flickering candles and silver services on the unusual cream-colored, daisy-embroidered, lace-edged tea cloth, made an unforgetable picture.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. Verna Oliphant and Mrs. Georgina Charlton. While presiding at the tea urns were, Mesdames Eva Turvey, Janet Twiddy, Irene Aman, President, LAFM; Stella Wood, Provincial Deputy Pres.; Susan Chesher, Florence Pollitt and Jennie Redner.

Those who served included Mesdames Peggy Laverne, Marjorie Vaughan, Connie Wilkinson, Vera Reynolds, Alice Adams, Ila Addy, Gladys Brickman, Jean Sills, Miss Margaret Novinski, Mrs. Winnifred Langridge, Mrs. Irene McMartin and Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett. Replenishing, Mesdames Phyllis Burley, Jean Mawdsley, Helen Wright, Dorothy Harwood, Verna Gilroy and Eva Hodges. Serving in the kitchen, Mrs. Jennie Redner, Mrs. Ida Godden, Mrs. Beatrice Stubbert, and Evelyn Grahame.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Edith Jose.

Mrs. Georgina Charlton, Mrs. Mary Plumpton and Mrs. Clara Ironside, were responsible for the soft music which added greatly to the pleasantness of the afternoon.

A most attractive and well convened bazaar and tea, bringing appreciative thanks to the conveners, Mrs. Merle Simpson and Mrs. Clara Ironside for a fine event successfully culminated.

Women's Activities

VICTORIA AVE M.C.

The October meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist church was held at the church on Tuesday evening with 30 members present.

The president, Miss Ethel Nurse, presided, and gave the call to worship.

Mrs. C. Campbell gave the "Watch Tower", which contained many items of interest from various mission fields.

STORK CROSS REPORT

After the roll call and minutes, the embroidered report was given by Mrs. J. Z. Madill, who read a letter of thanks from Miss Gwendoline Hall, missionary among new Canadians in Toronto, for the lovely layette which had been sent her for her work, and also a letter of thanks from Mrs. Burgess for the box of food which had been sent to India.

Letters were also read from Mrs. Harris, thanking the Circle for the donation to the Christmas stocking for Orphaned Children in Hong Kong, China, and from Miss Edith Hall, Bolivia and Miss Francklin in Bolivia for the packages of used Christmas cards sent them.

The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. A. Wells and the offering received and dedicated.

Mrs. H. Thompson gave the devotional meditation "The Window Of Stewardship." "We are not our own; we belong to Jesus both in price—and are just stewards of all that we have and are. A portion of our time, should be used in service for the Lord; in talents we are all different but each has some gift to use for our Owner; in possession—"Will a man rob God?" Let us search ourselves and see if it is possible that we are robbing God by not excelling in this matter of stewardship."

The topic, chapters 4, 5, and 6 of the study book, "The Church in India".

The president expressed her regret that Mrs. P. Sprackett, who had been supposed to give the topic and had done much work toward preparing it, was not able to be present. In her absence, four speakers.

The topic was capably taken by Mrs. A. Cox who was assisted by Mrs. M. Robson, Mrs. C. Hay and Mrs. R. Orr.

These chapters dealt with the foundation, building and growth of the Christian church in India. Mrs. Orr had prepared a large poster showing a drawing of a church, with Christ as the true foundation, the rows of stone making up the building as the labors of the various denominations throughout the pages of India's history, which helped to make more interesting the wealth of information presented by the topic.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR PATTERN OF LIVING NEEDS CHANGING

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 26 years old, and have been married four months. My husband is also 26, and a veteran. We were engaged two years before we married, and I was deeply in love with him.

He is going to school night and day to complete his education, while I am working as a secretary to help out. The trouble is, that it seems as if he is resentful towards me, perhaps because I am the breadwinner. I don't know. We only see each other weekends, as I live with my folks so that he can finish school.

Please don't think I'm crying for sympathy. I really like my job tremendously, but I'm so worried about my husband that I'm doing very badly in it. When we do get to see each other, we end up by arguing over silly things. I know he loves me, as he wouldn't even think of looking at another woman, but he ignores me terribly. He never wants to kiss me, and I've been told for fear that maybe I love him too much. I buy presents for him he wants, and, honestly, he's my whole life. I would be so happy if he would only treat me as if he loved me, instead of criticizing me all the time, and forever saying that "Do you think our marriage will work out?"

I feel I must be at fault, as I have no complaints except for the way he treats me. Please tell me, am I wrong in loving him so completely? — Lovelorn.

Dear N.L.:

No one is ever wrong in loving her husband completely, and no one can ever have too much love. But there can be such a thing as showing love in an unwise way, and it's just possible you may be doing that.

In the first place, I think it is an unwise way of living for you to live part from your husband all week, and his only week-ends. In order to make it easier for him to complete his education, I would be confident it of the highest importance for the two of you to readjust your arrangements immediately so that you can be together. And not with your folks, either, but in a place where you will be independent of either family. The early months of any marriage are when under the happiest circumstances, present many difficult problems of adjustment, and for a young husband and wife to be separated during those months, makes them immeasurable more difficult.

Again, I think you are loving unwisely in taking upon yourself the full financial responsibility for the two of you, and in laying "everything he wants." I know that many young wives have worked as you are doing, to help their husbands through, but it seems to my mind, it is infinitely better if the husband assumes some of the responsibility. I am quite sure you are right in thinking that your husband resents the fact that you are "the earner," and here again, my advice would be that you rearrange your scheme of things so that he contributes to your maintenance in some degree at least.

This might be made possible through his going to work after daylights or evenings, but not both, and thus using part of the free time to take on some job, however small, that would make him an earner, too. Also, it is not at all unlikely that to be occupied with things he enjoys would be less fatiguing for him, and that, without his realizing it, this makes him tense, irritable and unreasonable. A periodic change of occupation might easily be required.

So now you have some concrete suggestions with which to begin remodelling your situation. If you approach your husband in a quiet, adult way, saying that you have come to feel that your joint plan of action could be improved so that you would both be happier, and that you have some ideas you'd like to propose, he should be willing to listen. If he is not, then I believe it would be wise for you to go to someone near you—a marriage counsellor, your pastor or priest, or a family advisory service—and talk the whole problem over frankly.

Finally, don't give up too quickly. It will take time, patience and great understanding—as well as that great love of yours—to remake the pattern of living into which you and your husband have fallen. But if he really loves you, and wants the marriage to be a success, he will be as anxious to do it as you are.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

THE ESSENCE OF BEAUTY
(Part II: THOUGHTFULNESS)

In discussing the inner qualities of beauty, as we have for the past couple of days, it is essential to stress the fact that the qualities of love, service and other concomitants of spiritual beauty must come naturally. One cannot pretend love and expect to look as radiantly beautiful as the woman who truly loves. One cannot do one good deed, then rush to the mirror and hope to see an immediate transformation in her face. For her face to reflect the inner glow of spiritual beauty a woman must be truly feel the sentiments she is expressing. She cannot radiate love if her heart is cold. She can not bring warmth to another no matter how good her deed, if it is done from a sense of duty. If she tries to, she will not be "beautiful in the eyes of the beholder." She will mark herself as a "phony." And phoniness never added one highlight of beauty to anyone's face.

We have in mind a situation we ran up against this past summer in a small town. Living in a little cottage not far from where we were staying was an elderly widow known to all of the villagers as "a crank," she may have had reason. One well off, with an adoring husband and several children, she was now alone. Her husband had died, his trusted business partner had swindled her out of her inheritance, her children lived in remote parts of the world and communicated with her but rarely, she was partially crippled with arthritis and what little income she had came from small checks sent sporadically by her indifferent children.

The neighbors were sorry for her, of course, and every once in a while one of them would think to send her over a bowl of soup, some leftovers from a roast or a bag of overripe tomatoes which they couldn't use themselves. Usually they were sent over by one of the children who rang the bell, thrust the "alms" into the old lady's hands, said, "My mother sent you this," and dashed off to their own more interesting pursuits. If she became "terribly cranky," there was hardly any wonder. She was being treated like a "charity patient." She asked nothing of anyone, wanted nothing of anyone and was humiliated at every turn. Except when Helen came around.

Helen a teen-ager, living quite a distance from Mrs. X, used to visit her "on her own." Sometimes she'd bring a bunch of flowers she'd cut from the flower garden. Sometimes she'd bring nothing but herself. And what a self! Mrs. X loved it when Helen came around, for Helen would sit and chat with her, tell her about the latest doings in the Juke-box set, ask her advice on how to select the dye of the latest local hero and offer to do errand that no one else ever thought of doing. She genuinely liked Mrs. X—and she showed it in her natural, charming way. She treated her like a human being—not like the town crank. She was thoughtful and the thoughtfulness was more than fully repaid in the love and understanding and warmth with which Mrs. X responded. And Helen, looking into the mirror, would be terribly surprised if she ever dreamed what Mrs. X said to me one day, after I'd finally met her: "Helen is the most beautiful young girl in this community." Actually, Helen isn't. That is, from the standpoint of facial beauty. But you could never convince Mrs. X of that fact. And who would want to?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SPENCEMAN

THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE GROOM'S PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is engaged, will be married soon. We are extremely anxious to carry out our responsibilities as the groom's parents, both before the wedding and in the wedding. Will you please advise us about every detail of the duties of the groom's parents? — Groom's Mother

First duty of groom's parents: To make that welcoming-into-the-family call on the bride-to-be and her family. This is the correct gesture, the natural gesture, to establish the important relationship between the two families. If distance makes this personal call impossible, the fiance's parents may telephone their son's fiancee. Or they write her a warm and cordial letter, telling her of their happiness in the engagement and, if possible, invite her to visit them.

After this welcoming-bow, either family may invite the other family to tea or lunch or dinner . . . this is not absolutely necessary, however, and depends on the family's inclination toward entertaining. Very often the groom's parents give a party to introduce their son's fiancee to their relatives and family friends.

The bride's family cooperate . . . completely and graciously . . . with all the wedding plans made by the bride's family. (The bride's parents are the hosts of the wedding. The groom's parents are the guests of honor of the wedding.)

Lists. The groom's parents, with the groom, promptly compile their list for wedding invitations and announcements.

Wedding Clothes. The groom's mother consults with the bride's mother about the dresses they will wear at the wedding. "The mothers" wear the same type of costume: the length must be approximately the same; and the colors of the costumes must harmonize.

The groom's father, since he is the man guest of honor, will wear the same type of attire to be worn by the groom and his attendants by the bride's father, the host.

Wedding Present to Bride-to-be. (Usually also an engagement present to her after the engagement is announced.)

Rehearsal dinner: Groom's parents generally are host and hostess at dinner before the rehearsal or the supper after the rehearsal. This is a generous and particularly thoughtful gesture if little else entertaining responsibility from the bride's parents on the very busy day before the wedding.

Arrive for ceremony, Groom's parents arrive at church well before the ceremony-hour, and remain in the vestibule of the church until the head usher comes to seat them. (Just before the bride's mother is seated, the usher offers his right arm to the groom's mother, and he escorts her up the aisle (her husband following) to her seat in the first pew on the right of the aisle.

In receiving-line at reception. Bride's parents usually make the plans for the receiving-line, where groom's mother and father are to stand. Most important duty: graciously to receive wedding guests, graciously to acknowledge introductions.

At table at reception. When there is seated service (parents' table, for example), the groom's mother, the woman guest of honor, sits at right of bride's father, the host.

Oven Dinner Ready on Arrival

By Mary Moore

It was a beautiful fall Saturday afternoon and we wanted to drive to the home of some relatives and go for a hike in their lovely hilly woods — and bring them back to our house to have dinner that was ready.

This meal that I am about to so boastfully describe, would do for you too if you are football fans—and are apt to return home hungry, with friends in tow, after you win the game your son scored a touchdown in!

OVEN DINNER

The times and temperatures given are for automatic oven. If your oven control is not automatic bake the steak and potatoes, covered, at 325 deg. for three hours.

Swiss Steak — Franconia Potatoes
Tomato and Cottage Salad
Raspberry Flan — Coffee

SWISS STEAK

We bought a piece of round steak which weighed 2½ lbs. It is because the slice was very thick and cost $1.69 at 79c per lb. That much steak will serve eight. A 2-lb. piece should serve six. Buy a 2-lb. piece of round steak and pound it with edge of heavy plate or wooden mallet. To 1-cup of flour add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper, dredge the meat on both sides with this and rub it in. Melt 1-4 cup butter or shortening or drippings in hot pan and brown meat on all sides. Add 1 sliced onion, 2 thinly sliced or diced carrots and 2 1-2 cups tomatoes or tomato juice or boiling water. Cover, bring to boiling point and simmer 1 1-2 hours or transfer meat to covered casserole and bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 2 1-2 to 3 3-4 hours.

FRANCONIA POTATOES

These are usually baked around roasting meat but this time we steamed washed potatoes in jackets 10 minutes, then put in casserole with 4 tablespoons melted butter (or bacon drippings), sprinkled with salt and pepper, covered, and baked at 375 deg. Fahr. If we had been home we would have turned these over once or twice.

TOMATO AND COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

To serve four scald and peel medium-sized perfect tomatoes and chill. (That's as far as we went with ours before we left for our hike.) Cut tomatoes in wedges, being careful not to cut all the way through. Gently spread and lave with cottage cheese each. Spread on cupped lettuce leaf. Top with mayonnaise

RASPBERRY FLAN

Shells sent me two flan pans from London, England. Sheila is Dee's bosom pal so since she was one of the guests we used those flan pans to bake a plain bake in. (Forgive me for using a cake mix just this once.) They were baked in the morning and cooled. We found two boxes of fresh raspberries at the fruit market. (Frozen raspberries or strawberries would be good too.) We piled the fruit in the depressions in the flans, just as they do in Cornwall, and topped them with whipped cream. (In Cornwall that would have been Devon or Cornish cream.) Those British relatives of ours loved it, and so did we.

St. Thomas, Parish Guild Bazaar, Tea Most Successful

In spite of threatening skies, St. Thomas' Parish Guild autumn tea and bazaar, which was officially opened at 3:00 p.m., yesterday afternoon in the parish house by the rector the Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., L.Th., who wished the Guild every success and complimented them on their fine showing, was well attended.

The bazaar, which occupied the assembly hall was most colorful and delightfully arranged, with lovely potted chrysanthemums, foliages, and sansavari forming a pretty background for the attractive booths, especially that of the doll emporium.

RECEIVING GUESTS

Receiving the thronging guests were Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector, and Mrs. A. S. Lewis, president of the Parish Guild. The guests, after the gracious welcome, wended their several ways to the enticing displays, which began with the homecooking booth, adorned with glowing copperish 'mums, and crowning with a delectable assortment of pies, lemon, apple, pumpkin, and fruits; date loaves; chocolate squares; lovely white cakes with mounds of boiled icing; chocolate cakes, with whole nut toppings; fruit coffee rolls; angel cakes; delicious homemade bread; almond buns; jars of jellies; pickles; coconaut balls; jams and relishes. Mrs. J. T. L. Hawkins was the convener, assisted by Mesdames Angus, Coe, H. Crowe, M. Davison, N. Edwards, R. Gibson, Henn, W. S. Kane, and J. E. Mastine.

FANCY APRONS

The apron booth, convened by Mrs. J. R. Barnes with her helpers, Mrs. Len Fuzard, Mrs. C. N. Nicholson, Mrs. William Anderson and Mrs. Phil Jeffrey. All of Group B, was overflowing with aprons of nearly every description which included fancy colorful cotton edged with green; Paisley patterns aprons; many of floral backgrounds in green; blues, yellows and mauve, while others were made from terry towelling, and some from a combination of both the towelling and colorful prints; little half aprons were fashioned from yellow marquisette with golden metallic threads; floral organdies.

This booth also showed some fancy costume jewellery including pearl necklaces, rhinestone earrings, pearl brooches; with matching earrings; tumbler coasters; and slipper bags.

TEMPTING CANDY

Convening the candy booth were Mrs. L. Y. Arnott, Mrs. F. A. Evens, Mrs. W. N. Hurst and Mrs. M. L. Sherwood, convener, whose display was not only satisfying to the taste but also to the eye by its artistic decoration of British Columbia honeycomb mingled with pink 'mums. The tasty creams, chocolate fudge, were pleasingly arranged on little picnic plates and covered with cellophane, bearing a red, yellow, or pink rose as the case might be.

There were also cellophane bags of the various kinds; bags of yellow, pink and green popcorn; tasty apples and little fancy bags of mixtures.

MULTITUDE OF DOLLS

A delight to both young and old was the unsurpassed doll booth, with its multitude of dolls, little pink and white crib quilts with appliqued animals; tiny bantettes filled with tiny dolls; little "Hieland laddie" in their tartan; little Bo-Peep dolls in pink; racks of tiny dresses, some of organdy, and others of prints; a little boy doll was all togged out in a pale green knitted suit and cap; little blue-edged pillows; carriage robes in pale pink with blue rosettes, and one in yellow; large dressed dolls in white cot and matching hood, and a host of others, each one lovely as a dream, and ideal Christmas gift for some little girlie. In charge of the booth were: Mesdames P. T. Seibert, convener; J. S. Genet, E. F. Axford, A. W. Simpson, B. Feather, M. J. Wims, H. T. Lloyd, J. Principle, V. Blaxlee and J. Chant.

KNITTING—PLANTS

The miscellaneous knitting booth, plants and post office were under the sponsorship of group "C" headed by Mrs. G. T. Lanning, assisted by Mesdames K. Webster, J. Dyple, A. Wolfenden, J. Lewis, J. McDonald, H. Murray and A. Walters. Here one might purchase anything for the little toddler, and those of older years. Some articles demonstrating the new French wool were shown in this snow-white wool, so white it almost glistened, baby sets; bootees; mitts; sacques. Other articles included stuffed animals; tiny pin cushions made from crocheted wool in pink and yellow with a yellow thimble adorning the centre; corsages fashioned from pumpkin, white and wine nylon tulle; fancy clothes hangers; sachet powders in heart-shaped containers; diamond socks for men, in grey, yellow and blue; a clown-head egg cosy; an exquisite little dress for a three-year-old fashioned from an Egyptian print in plain peacock blue, beautifully smocked in rose and wine; a lovely "Caresse" wool stole in white with "V"-shaped back and fringed edges, were but a few of the articles offered, including two fancy dollies for orders.

Among the plants were: foliages, pink begonias, French marigolds, a lovely bronze potted mum with clusters of blossoms.

HANDICRAFTS

The handicraft booth was both laden with fine articles, as well as having a line full to the overflow, in charge of this booth were: Mrs. W. E. Bray, convener; Mrs. J. P. Clark, H. L. Carruthers, N. C. Fisher, N. D. McNeil and E. H. Randell. Among the many fine articles were felt fireplace mitts, stuffed toys, boxes of Christmas cards, crocheted hot-plate mats, felt bonnet in white with yellow trim, pillow cases with lace edges, quilt basket, hand-painted trays, boxes of rose cheer stationery, white lamb, children's aprons and pretty wash cloths and various sweaters.

CHARMING TEA TABLE

The tea rooms were prettily arranged with chesterfieldsettees and cedar sprays adorning every window ledge, and acting as complements to the delightfully appointed tea table with its white damask cloth, centred with gleaming silver candle holders and with maroon candles flanking a silver bowl of lovely bronze mums. Silver services added their sparkling accent.

The little, blonde quartet guest tables were arranged with white cloths and centred by crystal containers of olives.

Inviting to the tea room were the smiling hostesses: Mesdames R. Pringle and G. M. Miller, while L. Kells, L. Y. Arnott, J. Genet, A. E. Ketcheson and P. H. Wills presided at the tea services. Assisting at the tea table were: Mrs. G. Beamish, Mrs. J. G. Stone, Mrs. L. Kells, Mrs. J. M. Berriand and Miss R. Lazier.

ARRANGING TEA PLATES

Arranging the plates were: Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Mrs. Goddard, Mrs. L. B. Fonger, Mrs. A. Gonin, Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. H. P. Holway and Mrs. C. O. Winter. Arranging relishes: Mrs. W. Hurst and Miss G. Norton. Those who served: Mesdames W. E. Jones, R. Morton, S. T. Leggott, J. A. Snetsinger, J. Lawrence, R. Keel, A. Walkling, W. Vantassell, H. B. Kellar, W. S. Wills, A. E. Purdy, O. Hales, T. Y. Wills, R. McBrien, M. Smith, J. M. McLean, H. Floyd, A. E. Bateman, Miss Mary Lee Wrenshall, Miss Janis Tulk, Mrs. A. Forrester and Miss G. Norton. Mrs. J. E. McKenna and Mrs. M. Johnson were in charge of the tea making.

TEA ROOM CONVENERS

The tea room committee included Mrs. G. M. Miller, Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. T. Wrenshall and Mrs. P. Blaxlee.

Mrs. E. Jones was acting treasurer for the afternoon.

Another delightful tea and attractive bazaar bringing much commendation to its conveners for its successful culmination and untinted praise to the decorating committee: Mrs. R. A. Pringle, Mrs. T. Y. Wills and Mrs. A. E. Purdy.

Jubilee E.A. Entertains Explorers

The Sunday school room of Bridge Street United church was the scene of a happy occasion on Tuesday evening, November 1, when the ladies of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary were honoured as the girls of the Explorer Group, their leader, Mrs. Marshall and her assistant, Mrs. Hodgson, Mrs. Sherry, Mrs. Drysdale, Misses Lois Williamson and Mary Howie.

FRUIT CENTREPIECE

A most attractive centrepiece of fruit and vegetables delighted every and a delicious meal was served by the ladies and her group.

Appreciation to the ladies for their hospitality was graciously expressed on behalf of the Explorers by Meribeth Hodgson.

Miss Gertrude Lazier, president, after welcoming the Explorers and all guests, announced that 13 Explorers will be graduating at an evening service in the near future, and expressed the hope that the Evening Auxiliary may be well represented on that occasion.

Tentative plans were made for an informal reception in honor of Miss Millicent House, missionary to Africa, who will be spending the weekend of November 26, at the home of Mrs. Morden, and who will speak at a pot-luck luncheon in Plainfield on November 23. Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Morden, Miss Kenny and Miss Lazier were appointed a committee to arrange a reception, the date to be made during October. Mrs. Colden, corresponding secretary, reported a number of cards sent.

Mary Musgrove conducted the Explorers in a lovely and inspiring worship service. Scripture was read by Jane Thompson.

$10 PRESENTED

Meg Van Alstine and Brenda Bird made the presentation of the $10 on behalf of the Explorers' Group to Miss Lazier, who graciously accepted the gift on behalf of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Sherry captured the interest of both groups with her reading of the story of "Jan Parma" the organ builder.

Conference Opens In City Friday

Presbyterian Conference on the "Mission of the Church", will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Friday.

Two sessions will be held, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

The conference will be under the leadership of Miss Ruby Walker, regional secretary, Miss Irene Stringer, an overseas worker from the Bhil Field, India, and Miss Ellen Douglas, a hospital visitor from Vancouver.

Judges Urged Be Dignified To Curb Drivers

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario magistrates were urged today to take motherly interest in traffic cases and to appear dignified in court.

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts in a circular letter to them said each traffic case should be treated with individual attention accompanied by a paternal lecture on safe driving.

This is a reversal of tactics in what has been called the government's "get-tough" campaign to reduce Ontario's traffic toll.

Magistrates should wear their robes in courts, Mr. Roberts said. A more dignified atmosphere might have a favorable influence on offenders.

FREES ALL CHARGES

In cases where multiple charges are laid, all charges should be pressed. Often, he said, police drop some charges and go ahead only with those causing least inconvenience to them.

Another new principle would be to charge the driver rather than the vehicle's owner. Instead of mailing summonses to owners, police would stop offenders on the scene.

This, he said, will enable the department of highways and the attorney - general's department to keep an accurate check on offenders. Drivers piled up a series of convictions would face loss of their drivers' licences.

Film Stars Win 'George' Award

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Toronto-born Mary Pickford and 19 other personalities of the silent film days have been named winners in the first annual George Eastman House festival of film arts.

Miss Pickford, Harold Lloyd and Richard Barthelmess are among those chosen to come to Rochester and be honored by their contemporaries at ceremonies in the Eastman Theatre Nov. 12.

They will be awarded "George," citations similar to the noted Oscars, to be presented in honor of the late George Eastman, photographic pioneer.

Winners to be announced today in Hollywood by Jesse L. Lasky, pioneer movie producer, also include: Lillian Gish, Gloria Swanson, Charlie Chaplin, Ronald Colman and Buster Keaton.

Liberals Request Frost Probe CCF Nomination

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The North Middlesex Liberal Association has asked Premier Frost to investigate the nomination of an Independent CCF candidate in last June's provincial election.

The Liberals, in correspondence made public Wednesday, claim a special inquiry is needed to find out how J. D. Jolliffe, defeated unofficial CCF candidate, was nominated with nomination papers signed by supporters of T. L. Patrick, Progressive Conservative who was re-elected as North Middlesex MLA.

During the last election campaign political opponents charged that Jolliffe's nomination was an attempt to "split the votes" in the riding which otherwise might have seen a straight contest between Mr. Patrick and Dr. Lloyd C. Hall, Liberal standard bearer.

Youths' Trial Will Reopen

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Trial of three Quebec youths charged with murder in connection with the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest reopens today after a two-day adjournment.

The trial was adjourned Monday to enable sheriff Don Smith to summons 40 French-speaking persons from whom six will be selected to sit on the split jury. of 40 persons questioned Monday none spoke French and the court has agreed to a defence counsel request that at least six of the 12-man jury speak the language of the accused.

Charged with the gun slaying of Father Alfred Quircin of St. Edouard, Alta., last Jan. 9 are Claude Paquin and Gerard de Tonnancourt of Montreal and Guy Ferragne of Riviares des Prairies, Que.

Abandoned Son, Parents Jailed

TORONTO (CP) — Mark and Mary Cartwright Wednesday were sentenced to six months in jail for abandoning their five-year-old son. The boy was found half-dressed and half-starved in a Jarvis street rooming house, police said.

The 39 year-old mother received an additional six months in jail in Hamilton on four fraud counts. The parents told police they had been in an all-night drinking party.

Plan Speedway North of Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Hugh Green, a member of the Maple Leaf Auto Racing Club, said Wed. a holding company plans to develop a site at Ketilby into an auto race track the size of Indianapolis Speedway, Ketilby is 30 miles north of Toronto.

Mr. Green said financial arrangements with United States interests are in their final stages. The track will feature two races a year, he said, one similar to the "Indianpolis 500"—the other similar to the "Grand Prix" which features European cars.

The track would have a stadium seating "tens of thousands" of spectators.

Trucker Fined For Contributing To Delinquency

WINDSOR (CP) — Jack Elwes, 25, a Toronto truck driver, Wednesday was fined $100 on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency in the disappearance two months ago of a 16-year-old girl.

Joyce Ives, of suburban Sandwich East, disappeared with her cousins Doreen Ives, 19, and Jessie Ives, 15, while staying with them at Leamington, 25 miles southeast of here.

The three failed to return after leaving to see a movie. Police said Elwes gave the girls a ride to Toronto.

BUZZING BRINGS FINE

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Two fliers who blamed "buzzes" in a flock of high-flying wild geese in their plane have paid fines of $62.50 each. Authorities said Wednesday that Edwin J. Neubert and Gordon C. Fisher chased the southbound honkers on Oct. 21. People on the ground saw the plane buzz the birds, which is against state law, and reported it.

Throw Out Four Of Six Counts Against Kamin

BOSTON (AP)—The contempt of Congress trial of Leon J. Kamin, 37, an American now on the staff of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., went on in federal court today on two of the original six counts after Judge Bailey Aldrich ruled acquittal on two counts and dismissed two others.

In throwing out four of the six counts Wednesday, Judge Aldrich asserted that Senator Joseph McCarthy, as chairman of the Senate permanent investigations sub-committee, "had no right to engage in a general 'fishing expedition.'"

The judge ordered Kamin acquitted on two counts which dealt with the defendant's refusal to say whether he knew of any Communists at Harvard, where he was then employed.

The judge dismissed two other counts because they were similar to the two remaining counts on which Kamin was left to defend himself. Those dealt with McCarthy's attempt to get Kamin to name others associated with him.

Kamin admitted at a Boston hearing in January, 1954, that he was a Communist between 1945 and 1950, but invoked the free-speech provisions of the First Amendment in asserting that he would not become "a political informant."

Will Probe Nursing Homes

WINDSOR, (CP)—Board of control Wednesday ordered an investigation into operation of city nursing homes after hearing charges some are "glorified flophouses."

Controller Lawrence A. Deziel told the board he was called by a doctor who was so shocked after visiting one nursing home he asked for action to be taken by the city.

Plan Guelph Plant

TORONTO (CP) — Bucyrus-Erie Co., U.S. manufacturer of excavators and cranes, is negotiating to establish a Canadian branch plant at Guelph, W. M. Hicks, Ontario planning and development minister, announced today.

The company, which has its general offices at South Milwaukee, Wis., has options on a 25-acre site. The name of the new Canadian company and names of its executives will be announced later.

CHILDREN KIDNAPPED SECOND TIME

MR. and MRS. HERBERT McELREA

LINDA

DAVID

For a second time, Linda McElrea, eight, and her brother David, ten, have been kidnapped. They disappeared on their way home from school in Owen Sound, Ont. Police are searching for the children in three provinces, since the last time they disappeared they were found with their mother in Halifax. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McElrea, have been separated several years. (Central Press Canadian Photos.)

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. David L. Francis and their three children, 18 months to eight years old, escaped from their burning home early Wednesday, thanks to a fresh short circuit which caused the door bell to ring and awaken them.

Passengers Out, Liquor Only In At Kitimat

KITIMAT, B. C. (CP) — Reeve Wilbur Hallman, in a drive on bootlegging and excessive drinking in this north coast aluminum town, today called on the provincial government to open a liquor store here to combat a "desperate situation."

"Liquor is coming in in great quantities," he said in an interview, "We are in a desperate situation and until we get a store where the individual may buy his liquor by the bottle, we will have excessive ordering."

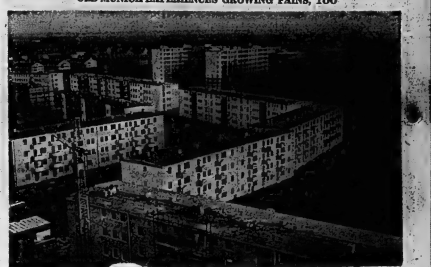
At present, he said, liquor has to be ordered a week in advance by sea or air from Vancouver 400 miles to the south, or by rail from Terrace, B. C., 40 miles to the north.

"At one time last Christmas," the reeve said, "there was 28 tons of liquor on the dock. Planes would book passengers on outward flights only, returning with full loads of liquor."

Construction workers in the last few years, he said, have been ordering their liquor by the case, then selling half of it at $10 a bottle to cover the shipping cost.

Windsor Youth Faces 10 Counts

WINDSOR (CP)—Paul Kisch, 18, of Windsor, arrested Oct. 24 in St. Catharines on three charges, Wednesday was charged with seven further offences in the Windsor area.



Kisch, who was arrested with two other youths, pleaded guilty in St. Catharines to charges of breaking and entering, illegal possession of firearms and false registration at a hotel. He was remanded to Nov. 3.

Windsor city police Wednesday laid charges against him of shopbreaking and theft, shopbreaking and stealing four cars.

WILD JET SHOT DOWN

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A jet plane abandoned in the air threatened an air base and surrounding areas Wednesday, but was shot down before it could do any damage, Capt. Glendon K. Dunaway shot the pilotless craft down in the Gulf of Mexico, five miles from shore. It had threatened the air base on Matagorda island and the civilian population on the mainland after it was abandoned by Capt. Rex B. Knack.

BELLEVILLE WOMAN WINS $3,000.00 YOU TOO CAN WIN!

Values Effective
Thursday, Friday, Saturday.
DOMINION STORES
BELLEVILLE

Here's How to Win!

Get Free Check List at any Dominion Store.

Find the "Fleetime Famous Brand" listed on the check sheet but not illustrated in this advertisement. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $2,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Fleetime Famous Brand". If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT caller, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Fleetime Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a $3.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Mrs. Garfield Carson, 13 Brown Street, Belleville, was the lucky winner of $3,000 in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE HUNT last Saturday night. Mrs. Carson won the Grand Prize of $2,000 by answering her phone "Dominion Stores—Can I Help You?" and also won the additional bonus prize of $1,000 for having in her possession a Dominion Store cash register receipt and a tin of the phantom bread.

MADOC JUNCTION

Hallowe'en Party, Presentation Enjoyable Events

MADOC JUNCTION.—Several of the ladies in the community and ten of the pre-school age children attended the Hallowe'en party held at the school on Friday afternoon under the direction of the teacher, Miss Marlene Armstrong.

The school was decorated in keeping with the occasion and all the pupils were dressed in a variety of lovely costumes. The judges found it hard to decide on the winners.

First the girls circled the platform, with Ruth Stapley dressed as a clown, winning the senior girls' prize, and Sheila Clarke, dressed as a cowboy, the junior girls' prize.

The boys paraded, with the senior boys' prize going to Archie Madill, dressed as a girl with long blonde braids (imitation) and the junior boys' prize to Kenneth Danford, dressed as a Negro boy.

HALLOWE'EN SKIT

A short Hallowe'en skit with the following pupils taking part, Annamae Clarke, Shirley Prest, Sharon Reide, Paul Bridges, Gary Phillips, Allan Reide and Robert Clarke as ghosts, was amusing.

Eight of the junior pupils sang a song with motions.

The senior pupils also sang a song.

All the ladies were asked to take part in a Hallowe'en contest with the prize going to Mrs. C. Fitchett.

Several games for the children followed as "Apple on the String", "Bobbing for Apples" in a tub of water, etc.

Piano solo by Sharon Reide.

Bountiful refreshments of sandwiches, cake, cookies, peanuts, Hallowe'en candies, home-made candy, grape juice and orangade, were served.

PRESENTATION

On Friday evening a large crowd of neighbors, friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke to honor their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clarke, (nee Lois Emerson), who were recently married.

Mr. Bruce Stapley acted as chairman for the following program, community singing led by Miss Grace Clarke with Miss Joanne Reide as pianist; duet by Misses Grace and Annamae Clarke. A humorous poem read by Mrs. Clifford Lansing, and a piano solo by Miss Joanne Reide.

Mrs. William McMullen was called on to read an address, extending congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Clarke for a long and happy wedded life.

On behalf of the community, Mr. Maurice Clancy and Mr. William McMullen made the presentation of two lovely hostess chairs upholstered in wine and green, for which Jack and Lois thanked their friends and extended an invitation to visit them, when they get settled in their home at Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke also received several individual gifts from friends.

Bountiful refreshments were served.

STIRLING

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Delightful Hallowe'en Party

STIRLING.—Last Friday evening, River Valley school house was filled to capacity for the annual Hallowe'en party and pie social sponsored by the River Valley Women's Institute, under the direction of the president, Mrs. Roy Bush and her committee.

COSTUME'S PARADE

The parade of weird costumes was judged by Mrs. Will Ashby, Mrs. Mary Vandervoort, and Mrs. Walter Lindenfield with Mrs. Phil Conley as pianist for the evening.

The first group was all of the juniors of pre-school age and each one received a small prize.

The second group took in grade 2, 3 and 4 pupils with best dressed girl, Cheryl Ulnan; best dressed boy, Peter De Bruyn; best comic, Bobby Morrow.

Third group—grades 5, 6, 7 and 8—best dressed girl, Louise Zuidema; best dressed boy, won by a girl, Gail Morrow; best comic, Dennis Heasman.

Fourth group—adults. The two prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker impersonating a Negro minister and his wife.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES

Mr. Walter Lindenfield was master of ceremonies for the program which followed.

Mr. Jack Bush led the sing-song and conducted a duck hunting stunt.

The River Valley school children, under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. Reg. Coombes, sang several selections. The juniors intermediates and seniors each contributed two selections and the school sang in unison a couple of numbers. These numbers were interspersed throughout the program.

Mrs. Will Ashby contributed a humorous reading and she also conducted a stunt of hypnotism.

Piano solos were given by Miss Gail Morrow and Miss Margaret Morrow and selections were read by Mrs. Glenn Bush and Mrs. George Heasman.

Messrs. Billy Conley, Kenneth Sager and Douglas Kane sang two vocal trios.

Mr. Ross Bush read "The Lazy Farmer"; Miss Elaine Lindenfield gave her address on "Milk" which she had given Thursday evening at Wallbridge, and Garrett De Bruyn gave his address on "Davy Crockett" which was second prize at Wallbridge.

THANKS TENDERED

Mrs. Roy Bush voiced thanks to all those who had helped to make a successful evening.

Sandwiches, all kinds of pie, coffee and freshie, were served in abundance and everyone enjoyed a delightful Hallowe'en party.

CAMPBELLFORD

S.A. Celebrates 71st Anniversary, Dedicates Hall

CAMPBELLFORD.—The Salvation Army Corps in Campbellford celebrated a double event during this past weekend with the dedication of the new Young People's Hall, and the celebration of 71 years of service to God and the Army in the town of Campbellford. The dedication service was held on Saturday afternoon and was conducted by Brigadier A. Dixon, Divisional Commander for this area. Mayor Locke brought words of greeting, and later turned the key in the lock, declaring the hall open to the "Glory of God".

ANNIVERSARY TEA

Members of the corps and their guests later enjoyed an anniversary tea, where Mrs. Ralph Bennett, who has been a member of the corps for 53 years, cut the cake. Messages were read from the Territorial Commander Commissioner, W. Booth; the Chief Secretary Colonel, William Davidson, and the Field Secretary, Lieut. Colonel C. Wiseman. Mayor Locke also spoke briefly at this event.

The Salvation Army Fenelon Falls Band, which took part in the dedication ceremony, was welcomed to Campbellford during the tea. A fine musical program was enjoyed on Saturday night.

The services on Sunday were conducted by Major J. Thorne from Fenelon Falls, with the band taking part in them and conducting open air meetings.

CHOOSES JAIL TO TEST CITY LAW

Nobel Peace Prize Awarded To UN Office for Refugees

OSLO, Norway (Reuters) — The Nobel peace prize for 1954 was awarded today to the office of the UN high commissioner for refugees.

he office was established in 1921 under the direction of Dr. G. J. Van Heuven Goedhart, an Amsterdam editor who formerly was Dutch minister of justice, for the purpose of giving protection to refugees who left their home countries for fear of political, religious or racial persecution. Its headquarters are in Geneva.

The value of the prize is about $36,600.

Making the announcement, the Nobel committee of the Norwegian Stacrting (parliament) said the 1953 peace prize would be held over until next year.

The peace prize is awarded by a committee of five named by the Norwegian parliament. It rarely goes to an organization. The last time this happened was in 1945, when the award went to the American Friends service committee (Quakers) and to the Friends Service Council, London.

Cash value of the prize varied according to the income from the fund established in 1896 by the Swedish scientist Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite. Physics and chemistry awards announced Wednesday were worth about $28,000 each.

Last year, no peace prize was awarded and it was announced that the prize had been reserved until the following year.

According to custom the Nobel committee gave no reason either for their choice of prize-winner or for having reserved this year's prize until next year.

The prize will be presented in Oslo on Dec. 10, anniversary of Nobel's death.

Suffragan Bishop Of Toronto Elected

TORONTO (CP)—Ven. George Boyd Snell, 48-year-old Anglican archdeacon of Toronto, Wednesday was chosen suffragan bishop of the diocese. He is former Dean of Calgary.

Bishop-elect Snell's election was made unanimous after balloting indicated 120 of 245 clerical delegates and 222 of 426 lay delegates had voted for him.

Rector of St. Clement's church here during the last four years, he will be suffragan to Bishop F. H. Wilkinson. His post does not carry the right of succession.

He was born and educated in Toronto.

High Winds Cause Low Water Level In Ship Canal

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Strong westerly winds have dropped water levels in the Amherstburg channel almost five feet, stalling Great Lakes shipping on the Detroit river today.

Winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour have made it impossible for lake freighters drawing more than 18 feet, six inches of water to pass through the Amherstburg channel.

The lightkeeper at the Detroit river lighthouse seven miles south of Amherstburg in Lake Erie is broadcasting low water gauge readings every half hour.

More than a dozen boats are lying at anchor in the Fighting Island channel and Ballard's Reef channel in the river waiting for winds to drop and water levels to rise to normal depth of 21 feet.

At the southeast shoal lighthouse at Point Pelee, the lightkeeper reported gusts of wind up to 60 miles an hour, making passage in the area dangerous.

AT LEAST 400

LONDON (AP) —The Russians have completed a considerable number of new submarines and now have at least 400, the authoritative naval publication, Jane's Fighting Ships, reported today.

70-INCH 85-POUND STURGEON CAUGHT IN GEORGIAN BAY

Biggest sturgeon caught in the Penetanguishene area of Georgian Bay in years is this monster measured by Lyane Crippin and Betty Blake. Caught by John Lepage, it measured 70 inches, weighed 85 pounds. (Central Press Canadian).

Peron Pauses In Brazilian City

SALVADOR, Brazil (AP)—Juan D. Peron, deposed dictator of Argentina, stopped overnight in this Atlantic coast Brazilian city following his sudden departure from his exile in Paraguay.

Peron flew here Wednesday and said he was going to Nicaragua, but there was speculation that his ultimate destination might be Europe. He was scheduled to leave Salvador today for Belem, Amazon river delta city in northern Brazil. When Peron boarded a Paraguayan army plane at Asuncion it was announced that he would fly to Lima, Peru, then on to Nicaragua.

His plane headed east across Brazil, however, stopped three hours in Rio de Janeiro and then flew up the coast to Salvador.

There was no explanation of the change in route. There are several bases in northeastern Brazil from which planes take off for Europe.

Quebec Planning Mining Survey Of Vast Area

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Henry J. Kaiser Co. confirmed Wednesday night that "thorough mineral exploration" may be undertaken in a 14,000-square-mile area east of James bay in Quebec.

The exploration is being considered by the Montreal and James Bay Railway Co. in which the Henry J. Kaiser Co. (Canada) Ltd. holds a major interest.

Kaiser headquarters here issued this statement:

"The department of mines of the province of Quebec has recently withdrawn from claims staking an area of approximately 14,000 square miles east of James bay in the Rupert river basin.

"The department has advised the Montreal and James Bay Railway Co. that such action is to permit the prospecting, exploration, air surveys, geological and geophysical mapping and other similar investigations necessary to investigate the mineral resources of the region, with a view to developing its great possibilities.

PLAN FUTURE ACTION

"The results of all such exploratory work are to be made available to the department of mines.

"Henry J. Kaiser Co. (Canada) Ltd., with head offices in Montreal, has a substantial interest in the Montreal and James Bay Railway Co. and a careful review is now in progress to determine the effects of this withdrawal (of land from claiming) upon the future course of action to be taken by the railway company."

John Orvis, above doesn't like the thought of jail any better than anyone else, but that's where he chooses to go. When he was fined $40 or 10 days in the hoosegow for parking his car, as shown above, in the driveway of his Toronto home, he decided it was time to dig his heels in and fight. So, to attract attention to what he calls a stupid city by-law, he is taking the jail sentence rather than pay the fine. The by-law says cars can't be parked between the house and the street. Mr. Orvis says thousand do so and can't help it since new cars are too wide for many driveways. (Central Press Canadian Photos.)

Prouder to Serve Royal Family After Decision

FERGUS, Ont. (CP)—Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt said Wednesday Princess Margaret's decision not to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend has made him prouder than ever to serve the Royal Family.

He spoke at the opening of the new $350,000 Groves Memorial Hospital in this town 20 miles north of Kitchener.

"What transpired Monday makes me more proud than ever of the Royal Family and their unswerving and unselfish devotion to duty," Breithaupt said.

Bomber Crashes Amongst Homes, Only Airmen Die

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. (AP)—A United States Air Force bomber crashed in a thickly populated residential district Wednesday, killing the two airmen aboard but missing many people in the immediate area.

The crash caused heavy fire damage to one of a compact row of small homes.

The plane was about a mile and a half east of Mitchell field when it crashed in a front yard. Telephone poles and wires border the street, Barbara drive, yet only one wire was broken in the crash.

KILLED WAITING FOR BUS

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—A 38-year-old farmer was killed by a car Wednesday night as he waited for a bus. The car disappeared from the scene.

Joaquim de Sousa Nunes died in hospital. He and Joseph Viegar Sioner were waiting for a northbound bus when the accident happened. The latter was not hurt.

Claim Airliner's Crash Caused By Explosion

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP—United Airlines has hired an explosives expert to investigate the crash of one of its planes near here Tuesday night with the loss of 44 lives.

The announcement Wednesday quoted president W. A. Patterson as saying "all evidence now indicates this accident resulted from an explosion in the air.

"Determination of responsibility for the accident is beyond the authority of United Airlines alone. Federal and local officials are now working at the scene.

"United has retained the services of Charles Wilson, an outstanding authority in the field of explosives who is affiliated with the crime laboratory of the state of Wisconsin. We will search out every possibility, however remote."

Three Remanded On Vice Charges

TORONTO (CP)—Three of four alleged operators of a slum empire here Wednesday made their third appearances in court since their arrest 10 days ago.

Stephen Faron, Charles Ingwer and Linus Coghlan were remanded in custody until Nov. 9, Crown counsel W. R. Langdon said he would ask for a further remand to Nov. 14 and that the trial be that day.

Also remanded in custody to Nov. 9 was Evelyn Nazzaro, 39, who failed to reappear in court Monday to testify against the four men.

Faron, Coghlan, Charles Ingwer and his brother William—released Tuesday on $7,500 bail—face 30 joint charges of keeping common bawdy houses.

Bail totalling $55,000 was also granted to the other three but they were unable to raise the money.

PREPARE HARBORS

LONDON (Reuters)—A defence ministry official, Lord Carrington, disclosed Wednesday that Britain is preparing small harbors for use in case an atomic attack wipes out the island's main ports.

TO START HEARINGS

OTTAWA (CP)—A new phase of Canada's railway freight rate equalization will start Nov. 21 when the board of transport commissioners here opens hearings on the levelling-off of commodity rates.

U.S. Publishers Are Angered By Latest Newsprint Price Rise; Duplessis May Rap Industry

NEW YORK (CP)—Reaction of publishers and newspaper editorial writers in the United States to the increase in the price of newsprint has been bitter. "The last straw," "a gouge," "a hold-up blow," are phrases used to describe the price increases of $3 to $5 a ton announced by six Canadian producers during the last two weeks.

On the other side, comment in the U.S. by manufacturers has emphasized the tight supply situation and the need of a higher newsprint price to help finance increased production.

The U.S. department of justice's anti-trust division has held talks with American newsprint producers in an effort to block a general price increase. A Congressional committee has begun a study of the prospects of expanding U.S. domestic production of newsprint.

Charles Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, recently said the newsprint price rise will cost U.S. daily newspapers $33,000,000 a year.

"This staggering sum is more than any newspaper anywhere can absorb," Williams said. "To stay operating, our newspapers will have to find new and additional income. They have only two sources: advertising rates and the price of the newspaper to readers. These will have to go up if the papers are not to go out of business."

The New York Herald Tribune said editorially: "This is the 10th price increase in the cost of newsprint in a little over a decade, with the result of more than doubling this basic cost factor of a newspaper. . . . A free press exists only so long as the newspaper industry can function profitably. . . ."

A cartoon in the Chicago Daily News showed a hand labelled "Greed" stretching across the international border from a top-hatted figure marked "Canadian newsprint cartel."

On the political front, Representative Emanuel Celler (Rep., N.Y.), chairman of the House of Representatives judiciary committee, said "a tight cartel operating with the connivance of the government of Canada holds the whip hand, and there isn't a damn thing we can do."

"It is up to the publishers to establish a newsprint industry in the United States, utilizing the abundant supply of slash pine and bagasse (sugar cane) that is available. Then, other domestic production has been started, we should restore a tariff on imports of pulp and newsprint."

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis, who has taken sharp issue twice in the past with Quebec newsprint manufacturers over price increases, is expected to outline soon the policy of his government as a result of newsprint announced increases.

The premier Wednesday presided over a regular meeting of the cabinet. Before he entered the executive council chamber he declined to comment on the present situation but indicated he might make a statement at his weekly press conference Friday.

Six newsprint companies—four of them operate in the rich timber lands of Quebec—have recently announced increases ranging from $3 to $5 a ton.

Within the last few years Mr. Duplessis took occasion twice to demand what he called special price considerations for the news papers of Quebec province.

In 1951 he told newsprint companies that his government takes the stand that because forests are publicity, publishers are not the owners of these natural resources.

HINTED AT CONTROL

He said he did not believe in state controls but hinted they might become necessary.

At the time of the last increase—$10 a ton in 1953—Mr. Duplessis again urged special consideration for Quebec newspapers but he did not reiterate his remarks about possible controls. In recent weeks Mr. Duplessis has made statements directly and indirectly relating to price increases in newsprint.

New Brunswick Adopts Traffic Point System

FREDERICTON (CP) — New Brunswick's updated Motor Vehicle Act, its teeth sharpened to snatch dangerous drivers off the roads, will become provincial law Jan. 1, 1956.

Legislation now is awaiting the formality of the lieutenant governor's signature.

New Brunswick will become the first Canadian province to use a points system, replacing the present method of classifying highway infractions as major or minor offences. Under the remodelled act, it's a case of 10 strikes and out. When this total is lodged against a driver, he or she will be ruled off the road for a definite period ranging from three months to a year.

TAKES SUDS TITLE

WINNIPEG (CP)—Carl Ramjit, of Trinidad, has been crowned champion beer drinker in the faculty of engineering at the University of Manitoba. Ramjit drank 6½ fellow students under the table during a 12-hour marathon beer race last Saturday by downing 64 glasses, or 2½ imperial gallons of beer in 12 hours.

U.S. Congressional Mission Urges New Zealand to Enter American Newsprint Market

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — A United States Congressional mission has given strong encouragement to the idea that New Zealand should enter the American newsprint market. After inspecting the industry here, its members said the New Zealand product will sell well on the world market and the industry is capable of enormous expansion.

The mission was headed by Don Hayworth, Michigan Democrat, and John V. Beamer, Republican of Indiana, members of the House of Representatives interstate and foreign commerce committee. The mission has been on a tour of Pacific countries inspecting newsprint sources.

Members declared themselves "mightily interested" in the prospects of supply from New Zealand, after inspecting the big new mills at Kawerau, near the east coast of the north island.

These mills are about to begin newsprint production. They are designed to supply a large part of New Zealand's requirements and leave a substantial surplus for export. Big contracts have been made for the export of newsprint to Australia.

Pulp will also be available for export. This is already being shipped to Australia in substantial quantities by another large firm, New Zealand Forest Products Ltd., which has also just concluded the first contracts for the export of pulp to Britain.

After inspecting the Kawerau plant, Hayworth said: "We are satisfied that in Kawerau you have one of the most economically efficient newsprint and pulp mills in the world.

"Personally I should like to see New Zealand making six or seven times as much paper and pulp as planned—we could use it. We will be only too happy to ship it hall way across the world.

"Kawerau pulp and paper will sell on a world market. We do not intend to buy it ourselves, but leave the job to private enterprise. However, we are open to suggestions on framing special legislation to help import these products to the United States."

On-Spot Tickets For Motorists Being Studied

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario may adopt the uniform traffic ticket system by which motorists are given summonses on the spot, for traffic violations.

The attorney-general's department was reported Wednesday to be investigating the use of the uniform ticket as part of a current campaign to cut traffic accidents.

Ontario is believed one of the few North American jurisdictions where police are permitted to take the licence number of an offender and summon the owner later. No identification of the driver is required.

The system is said to be unwieldy and expensive because it involves the swearing out and mailing of informations.

The province also is investigating the use of a point system, widely used in the United States and now introduced in New Brunswick.

States Export-Import Bank would be well invested in the expansion of New Zealand's newsprint and pulp industry, he said. "Naturally I cannot commit the bank but it would be a useful investment. It is not only a possibility but a probability."

Palmerston Mayor's Wife Is Driven Into Hysterics By Two-Hour Siege of House

PALMERSTON (CP)—The wife of Mayor Samuel Wald was reported Wednesday to have been given medical care after being terrorized by a gang who attacked her house on Hallowe'en.

Mayor Wald said the attack started at about 2 a.m., lasted until shortly before 4 a.m. when with the arrival of Ontario Provincial Police from Mount Forest, the "pranksters" dispersed.

He said the group, comprised of teen-agers and adults, threw stones at the house, barricaded doors with an old chairs and outhouse, then ignited a number of railroad flares and gave the impression the house had been set on fire. His wife became hysterical.

Mayor Wald said police saw none of those taking part in the affair and that no damage was caused to the residence. He charged his wife's nervous disorder was "definitely attributable" to the Hallowe'en antics.

It was suggested the actions of the group may have resulted from council's dismissal of police chief Albert Cowan several hours earlier.

Mrs. Wald said she had called chief Cowan who said "he was having lunch and couldn't get there," but the chief declared he had received a more urgent summons before having had an opportunity to attend at the Wald residence.

Japan Will Buy Canadian Cattle

WOODSTOCK (CP) — The Japanese government has agreed to purchase Canadian cattle, it was announced Wednesday by Wallace Nesbitt, Progressive Conservative MP for Oxford. The amount was said "undetermined."

In a letter to Mr. Nesbitt, Japan's ambassador Koto Matsudaira said "after more than a year my government has decided to buy an undetermined number of Canadian cattle."

Mr. Nesbitt said he paid an official visit on the ambassador more than a year ago as a member of Parliament, soon after the ambassador had taken his post.

Rules Not Whims Should Govern Immigration

MIDLAND (CP)—George Hees, national president of the Progressive Conservative party said Wednesday night the federal government's immigration policy appears to be nothing more than pieces and patches without any direction.

Canada needs a planned immigration program with clearly defined rules under which applicants are accepted or rejected, instead of being merely at the whim of some immigration department official, he told the East Simcoe Conservative Association here.

"What has caused particular resentment," he said, "is the fact that the department of immigration refuses to give any explanation when they turn down applications. . . ."

The statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Canadian School Teacher Visits Europe's Shrines

PADUA, Italy (Reuters) — A Canadian school teacher, Miss Margaret Graffin of Winnipeg, last here for Vincenza on another lap of her pilgrimage on foot to main Christian shrines of Europe.

She is living on bread and water provided by convents and sanctuaries where she spends each night. She carries no money with her, trusting to the charity of religious houses.

Miss Graffin says her pilgrimage is the result of a childhood wish to see Europe and pray at its most famous shrines.

HELP PROVIDED

On her arrival here, monks supplied her with gifts of a warm overcoat, thick woollen sweater and a pair of hood boots. She had hoped that the "sunny Mediterranean" is warm only in summer. She said that on the Alps when the weather was cold she trusted in Providence to help her.

From Vicenza the young pilgrim will walk west across northern Italy to France, where she plans to spend Christmas.

After visiting Spain and Portugal she will end her pilgrimage in Ireland.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG.—The installation of officers for the current year for Crescent Rebekah Lodge, Thomasburg, took place October 24th.

The W.A. of Thomasburg United church, sponsored a successful bazaar and pie social in the IOOF hall last Wednesday. Cooking, sewing and home-made candy was on sale and as well as a white elephant table and a "GIFT table at which the girls sold various articles made by them during the past year.

A varied program of songs and recitations was enjoyed by the audience after which the ladies served pie.

The Oddfellows' Masquerade Dance last Thursday, was well attended.

Music was supplied by the Music-Makers' Orchestra of Madoc.

Installation of officers for the IOOF lodge, Thomasburg, last Friday, was attended by members of the various lodges in the district, as well as by the members of the local order.

The teachers and pupils of Thomasburg school entertained the mothers at a delightful Hallowe'en party in the school on Friday afternoon.

A program was provided by the pupils and refreshments were served.

Treats of candy and peanuts were provided by the teacher for the pupils.

There was no service in the United church on Sunday, as anniversary services were held at the Eggleton appointment on that date.

The Rev. C. R. Chapman was the guest speaker at Carmel United church anniversary services on Sunday.

RYLSTONE.—Clarivari music was heard around Rylstone again on Wednesday night, when the community turned out to serenade Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morton (Jan Ingram).

HALLOWE'EN CONCERT

The Union school pupils and their teacher, Mrs. Cora Reid, held a successful Hallowe'en concert on Friday afternoon. Following is the program: "O Canada" grand march of pupils in costume, winners being Agnes McKeown, dressed as a clown; Sherry Spencer, as a bear; Bonnie Bothwell as Cinderella. Books were given each prize winner. Welcome song by grades one and two; songs by juniors "I Had a Little Monkey", and "Jack O'Lantern"; speech, "Dad's Mistakes," by Laverne Finch; song by Barbara Milne; piano solo by Carol Milne; songs by seniors, "Hey Mr. Banjo," and "Captain Cooley"; reading, "Hallowe'en", by Fred Spencer; guitar music by Laverne Finch; chorus, "The Bible Tells Me So" by Agnes McKeown, Patsy Spencer and Glenn Finch; a ventriloquist by Laverne Finch on his guitar; piano solo, "Ding Leaves" by Sherry Spencer; riddles by Agnes McKeown; contest by Fred Spencer; game of "Graveyard", and "Bean Race", and "Draw the Cat". The prize was won by Mrs. W. Spencer.

Refreshments were served at the close.

GIRLS' CLUB

The Happy Hostess Girls' Club held its third meeting at the home of Mrs. Don Kerr on Saturday afternoon. Miss Fay Irwin, home economist, was in attendance, and showed the girls how to fold serviettes, table cloths, how to set a table properly, and table manners. Home assignment was to keep up their record books.

RED CROSS PARTY

The Red Cross Society of the 9th Line school held its regular meeting and a Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday afternoon, under the leadership of their teacher, Mrs. Murray McMeekin. The program was as follows: "O Canada," Red Cross Society president was in charge of the meeting; the secretary, Dorothy Morton, gave her report; songs by the school, "Hallowe'en" and "Jack O'Lantern"; Reading, "Saturday Morning Stories" by Glen Stewart; costume parade, "Tramp" by Teddy Reid; winners, "Bride and Groom" Carol Heath and Marylin Stewart and "Little Bo Peep" Donna Stewart; Anne Reid played "Marching Thru' Georgia" on the piano for the grand march; recitation "Hallowe'en" by Donna Stewart; piano solo, "Wake the Town and Tell the People" by Anne Reid; recitation "The Hallowe'en Party" by Marilyn Stewart; reading, "That's My Boy" by Mrs. Jam Gray; piano solo, "The Birdlings' Surrender" by Carol Heath; reading by Glenna Gray; quiz game by Jimmie Gray; contest "Bobbing for Apples"; jokes and riddles by Tommie Gray.

Refreshments were served.

What might have been a serious fire was narrowly averted by the presence of mind of Jack Meikeljohn, on Saturday night, when his cigaret lighter exploded, igniting a pair of plastic curtains in the kitchen of his home. He quickly put out the fire, while he went to summon help, thus confirming the theory that water. The fire was easily put out with water, because it had not enough draught to spread. The fire department from Campbellford came to the scene, followed by about 30 cars from Campbellford, and many more from the neighborhood. The fire was out before the fire brigade could get there.

Sorry—To Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Meiklejohn at Campbellford Memorial hospital on Sunday, October 30, a son. Congratulations!

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson, Randal, Tommie and Cathy, and Mrs. Lizzie Thomson, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones on Sunday night.

Regency Council Offers Ex-Sultan Its Resignation

PARIS (AP) — The regency council named to take temporary custody of the Moroccan throne has handed in its resignation to Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, the ex-sultan just returned from exile in Madagascar.

Ben Youssef, deposed by the French two years ago for his nationalist sympathies, took the resignation under consideration.

At the time the four-man council was set up the French government said it had no intention of allowing Ben Youssef to return to the throne. The council, neatly bypassing the Paris government, apparently has left it up to Ben Youssef to restore himself to the throne if he desires.

The council was set up to guard the throne when Sultan Moulay Ben Arafa fled. Col. Ben Arafa now has announced his rights to the throne in favor of his uncle, Ben Youssef.

Congratulations are extended to Raymond Ross, Douglas and Ralph Delker in the high standing they received in their 4 H-Club work at Otawa Winter Fair, last week.

A number of parents and pupils of the Marsh Hill School attended the Sidney Township public speaking contest Thursday evening in Wallbridge hall.

Marketing Yards For Producers Soon Operating

TORONTO (CP) — Within two months hogs will be shipped to marketing yards of the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative marketing agency instead of being shipped direct to processor plants, Charles McInnis, the agency head announced Wednesday.

"The move will strengthen the producers' bargaining hand with processors," he told the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

"Our bargaining powers are weak when the processors already have the hogs," he said.

The stockyards will be opened in Windsor, London, Stratford, Kitchener, Barrie, Peterborough and two points in eastern Ontario, possibly Ottawa.

TO ISSUE ORDER

"An order will be issued for transport to take hogs to the agency's yards," he said. "This will be advertised in the Ontario Gazette and will become law by existing regulations."

Producers from then on could not hire licensed transporters to carry hogs to slaughter or collecting points other than agency yards.

The federation Tuesday endorsed unanimously the co - operative, whose legality has been questioned by a Stratford area farmer.

Newsprint Hike Criticized By CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP)—A recent increase in the price of newsprint is the "paper industries" latest effort to gouge the public," Ontario CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald said.

In an address to the University of Toronto CCF club, he said the Ontario government has "leased over backwards" to keep stumpage fees low for the pulp and paper industry "as a return for financial support for the Tory party."

"The Frost government has for too long refused to raise an equitable amount of provincial revenues from this industry though it has a clear-cut claim to do so," Mr. MacDonald said.

Yet, he said, the province has been in growing need of further revenues. The annual productive wealth of the forest industries was about $500,000,000 of which the net contribution to over-all education and social welfare in Ontario was only $5,000,000. He called for an immediate increase in stumpage fees.

GM Will Co-operate In Anti-Trust Probe

NEW YORK (AP)—Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, said Tuesday his company will "gladly co-operate" with an inquiry by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly sub-committee into GM operations.

Curtice made the statement upon arrival from a month's tour of company operations in England, France and Germany.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem. Wyo.) a member of the subcommittee, said Monday an inquiry into the automotive industry will begin Nov. 8 with public hearings to continue for several weeks.

British Reserves Fall in October But Rate Slowed

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's gold and dollar reserves fell by $48,000,000 during October to $2,297,000,000 at the end of the month it was announced Wednesday.

But the smallness of the decline, compared with big losses in previous months, indicated a recovery in Britain's current economic difficulties.

September debits to the European Payments Union, the central trading organization for Western Europe had to be paid in dollars during October and this lopped $80,000,000 off the reserves.

If it had not been for this debt the gold and dollars holdings would have shown a rise during October.

Three Americans Win Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Nobel prizes in chemistry and physics went to three Americans Wed.

Dr. Vincent Du Vigneaud of Cornell University's medical college won the prize in chemistry. The physics award went jointly to Dr. W. E. Lamb of Stanford University and Dr. P. Kusch of Columbia University.

Dr. Du Vigneaud will receive the $36,720 chemistry award for his work on two hormones that help in childbirth and keep a check on vital body organs such as the kidney. The 54-year-old Chicago-born biochemist is the first scientist ever to take apart and put together a hormone produced by the pituitary gland. His work on the two substances — oxytocin and vasopressin — is described by Nobel authorities here as "a historic feat in biochemistry."

The physicists will split prize money of $36,720 for their work in correcting an error made by a Briton who previously won the Nobel prize. Their work was in connection with atomic measurements.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

When you get a French chef to touch mass-produced, quick-frozen foods with a six-foot spoon—that's a kitchen revolution. Yet some fifty quick-frozen Gaines products are now being marketed by a French company of quality.

We're glad to report that aluminum gets a Cordon Bleu from the gastronome. They use it in conquerors, containers and kitchen equipment; and they use nothing else for packaging their products. They respect the way tasteless, odorless, moisture-proof aluminum respects their art of cooking, keeping their freshness and delicacy of flavor till the magic moment when they reach the table.

TO MAKE AERIAL MAP OF ANTARCTIC

Map of Antarctic they are studying will soon be the on-the-spot director for Captains Jim Greenshields, Toronto, and Christopher Gaven-Robinson, London, England. They are two pilots for Photographic Survey Corps, Toronto, which has been hired by the British government to survey Grahamland, a 50,000-square-mile dependency in the Antarctic. There are ten men in the survey party, using two Canso flying boats chosen for their size and their low landing speed. They will be in the Antarctic from November until April. (Central Press Canadian).

Trying his Antarctic equipment on for size is Harry Lewis, navigator with the photographic survey party. He and his nine companions will set out from Toronto in their flying boats to take aerial photos of the entire ice-bound area and present a complete map to the British government. QE Way Traffic Speed Cut By Highway Safety Campaign

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Kelso Roberts' two-day-old highway safety campaign has changed the attitude of motorists on at least one of the province's main traffic arteries, police said Wednesday.

Concentrating on a 40 - mile stretch of the Queen Elizabeth highway between Toronto and Hamilton, they said traffic there has slowed down.

A radar check of eastbound traffic entering Toronto showed an average speed around 50 miles an hour and some were well below that figure. They said 60 to 70 m.p.h. were the usual speeds before Tuesday.

The crackdown on traffic law offenders had 20 marked OPP cruisers on the one piece of highway where traffic is heaviest in the province.

Police said the campaign will gradually spread to other main Ontario highways.

CHARGES LAID

A number of charges were laid Tuesday against motorists on the Queen Elizabeth way who violated traffic laws, all sections of the Highway Traffic Act are being strictly enforced, following instructions of Attorney-General Roberts.

The attorney-general's department next week will be able to see how the safety campaign is working out. A weekly tabulation of accidents will be prepared and compared with last year's figures.

Attorney-General Roberts has set a goal of a 50-per-cent reduction in the accident toll during the next 12 months.

Indian Girl's Body Is Found Covered in Ditch

TIMAGAMI (CP) — Search for Grace Beaucage, 21-year-old Indian girl from Timagami, ended Wednesday when her body was found in a ditch beside a northern Ontario bush road. She disappeared two weeks ago.

The girl's body was discovered by police in a 10-foot ditch near Englehart, a village 60 miles north of here. Wild raspberry canes and weeds partly covered the body.

Ontario Provincial Police, accompanied by Albert Lalonde, father of the body, Lalonde, 52-year-old lumber camp cook, has been held on a public mischief charge since last Friday. Police said he went dancing with Miss Beaucage the night she disappeared, Oct. 17.

Dr. George Biggon of Englehart, who examined the girl at the scene, said there was a deep laceration in the back of the skull and possible skull fractures.

REPORT TRUCK SEE

The body was taken to North Bay, 30 miles south of here, for an autopsy.

Miss Beaucage had been missing from her home here since she left to attend a dance in Timagami. Several witnesses reported seeing Lalonde's truck in Timagami on the morning she disappeared. An RCAF man from North Bay said he saw a girl fall from a truck. He said the driver put her back on the seat and drove away.

Doctors Top Money Earners And Taxpayers

OTTAWA (CP)—Income tax returns on 1953 incomes indicate that medical doctors and surgeons have replaced consulting engineers as Canada's top money earners and taxpayers.

"The green book"—a 145-page revenue department tax analysis—also shows that the average income of Canadian taxpayers rose in 1953 to $3,383 from $3,288 the previous year. The green book was issued Wednesday.

Average income of medical doctors in the 1953 tax year jumped to $11,252 from $10,522 in 1952. Engineers and architects dropped to second place among taxpayers as their average income fell to $10,289 from $12,266.

Lawyers and notaries retained third place with an average 1953 income of $9,855 compared with $9,222 the previous year. Accountants remained fourth with a $8,006 average against $8,028.

NURSES AT BOTTOM

Nurses remained at the bottom of the 20 occupational classes into which the green book divides taxpayers. Their average earnings were $1,883, a drop from $1,894 in 1952. Their 1953 average was $1,- 157 less than that of Canadian taxpayers receiving pensions whose income averaged $5,040 in 1953 and $5,182 in 1952.

A few other averages with 1953 incomes in brackets: Dentists $7,- 485 ($7,112); salesmen $4,663 ($4,- 509); entertainers $4,254 ($4,503); fishermen $3,103 ($3,732) and farmers $3,869 ($3,967).

The figures were based on tax returns made by 2,389,530 taxpayers whose taxes totalled $1,447,- 000,000—an average of $538 per taxpayer. Some of the report's figures were based on a 10 per cent sample of the returns.

Trail and Rossland, B.C., held the top spot as the cities whose resident taxpayers had the nation's highest average income—$5,853. The two cities were also first in 1952 with $5,789.

OTHER AVERAGES

Toronto's average dropped to ninth from sixth place, although average income rose to $3,543 from $3,455. Montreal rose to eighth from ninth, average income rising to $3,554 from $3,438.

Galt taxpayers—the city 22nd on the list—had the same average earnings as the nation—$3,383.

There were only 250 Canadians in the $100,000-a-year and over income bracket in 1953 compared with 200 the previous year.

The number of Canadian taxpayers earning less than $1,000 a year rose to 33,710 in 1953 from 24,- 500 the previous year.

Hog Producers' Co-op Quarrel Far from Over

TORONTO (CP) —The annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture ended Wednesday but a furious argument over the legality of its Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative was far from over.

The quarrel between co-op officials and farmer Theodore Parker, an Elgin township hog producer, began two years ago when the co-op was organized. Mr. Parker objects to the collection, by the co-op of a 24 cent fee for every hog sold in Ontario. He questions the legality of the group and says he is preparing to contest the issue in Ontario Supreme Court.

CLAIMS IT LEGAL

Federation chairman Frank Perkins maintained Wednesday that the co-op was legal. The hog producers at the convention gave tentative approval to the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative as a marketing agency. It came into being last June.

It was announced that the United Co-operatives of Ontario are building a $600,000 head office and storage plant in suburban Weston, a $600,000 feed plant at Guelph and a $125,000 fertilizer plant in Stratford.

Activities of the United Co-operatives and the OFA will be co-ordinated.

The new president of the OFA is Lloyd Jasper, a Bruce county farmer. He succeeds Jack Ferguson of Port Stanley.

Replying to a question during a panel discussion, Mr. Ferguson said butter production and consumption curves were levelling off. He was asked why Canadian farmers had diverted production to other commodities in view of the large butter surplus.

DENIES REPORT

SARNIA (CP)—Reports that a multi-million dollar DuPont chemical plant would be located in the 200-acre Morrison farm, north of Corunna, were denied Wednesday by both company and property owners. A spokesman for the Morrison family said the land had not been sold and no negotiations for its sale were under way.

Slain Woman's Love Letters Read to Court

KINGSTON (CP)—A woman's love letters to the man accused of murdering her were entered as evidence in the trial of Hilton Campbell, 23.

Introduced by defence counsel, the letters to Campbell were identified Wednesday by Wilfred Anday, 36, as being in the handwriting of his wife, who was found shot to death near her home last July 31.

Anday, employed as a machinist in a stone quarry a few hundred yards from his home north of here, said his sixty-year-old son called him from work and he found his wife 50 feet from the house lying face down with apparent bullet wounds in her chest and right arm.

Mrs. Anday's letters contained affectionate passages. In one she said: "I long to be in your arms again,' and "I love you more every day."

Questioning of fellow workers in the quarry with Anday showed he had been out of their sight for a short period before the alleged shooting.

The trial, being heard by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson, moved into its fourth day today with more known witnesses to be heard.

Campbell, tall, thin and red-haired, is a farmer at nearby Sunbury. Anday said his wife had twice run away with the accused once to the United States for a week-end and again to Toronto for two months.

Asked if he and his wife had ever discussed divorce, Anday told the court that they had not. In further identified another letter which told Campbell that she would never leave him — "that's the last thing in the world I'd do." She signed it: "Yours for always; yours to be."

POLISH LEADER DIES

LONDON (Reuters) — Stanislaw Grabski, Polish leader, member of the wartime Polish government-in-exile and one-time legislator, editor and university professor, has died here, it was announced today. He was 72. He was editor of several leading Warsaw newspapers before the Communists took over the country.

French Assembly Votes to Hold Early Elections

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly early today voted in favor of holding new general elections in France next month, but a cloud of parliamentary confusion hangs over the future of the plan.

Endorsement of the government's bill to end the present assembly Jan. 2—thus advancing the elections from June—came on a vote of confidence for Premier Faure. Support of 88 members of the 96-member Communist group gave the government its 320-to-311 vote victory.

But what happens now is anything but clear. Fate of the bill is up to the Council of the Republic, and if the upper house does not act within the next two weeks the early election project may have to be tossed out the window.

The assembly debated the bill under a government demand for urgent consideration. Under this procedure debate must be concluded within three days. It also requires urgent treatment from the senate.

Some observers believe the Senate will take up the question as soon as it returns to work Tuesday, but others are convinced the upper house will insist on taking plenty of time. Assembly opponents of new elections are certain to be buzzing about the Senate lobbies to encourage such an attitude.

Faure insists that early elections are necessary because important decisions, especially concerning North Africa, must be taken in the first half of 1956. He believes an assembly casting side glances at upcoming elections would be hampered in its actions.

Communist spokesmen made it clear their support should not be taken to mean approval of Faure's government but was an expression of the party's desire for early elections.

REPORT NARCOTICS DEATHS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Police today said overdoses of heroin have killed five people here within 30 days, and expressed belief that a quantity of pure heroin is being sold, "so powerful it's killing the addicts."

BCI Defeats Quintes 11-6

B. C. I. Juniors handed Quinte Secondary School it's initial setback of the year in an exhibition game Tuesday afternoon, winning 11-6 on the strength of Paul Kennedy's two majors.

The winners grabbed a 11-0 lead in the first quarter when a bad Quinte snap gave B. C. the ball on Quinte's 30 yard line. Kennedy completed the offensive drive but the convert failed.

Quinte took to the air and were advancing well with success until Kennedy intercepted a pass quarterback George Musgrove's passes and ran 35 yards for major. The convert made it 11-0 as the quarter ended.

The losers displayed some of their power in the second quarter, driving all the way down the field before Dean Kemp raced over for the T. D. The convert was good.

Neither team scored in the second half as both teams fought to up their totals but found their opponents defence too strong.

Vogelsang, Kennedy, Patterson and Hurst turned in excellent games for the victors while Phillips, Kemp, Green and McLaurin went well in defeat.

Bombers May Be Minus Star In Opener

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders may be without the services of their big-scoring halfback when they meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the opening game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final here Saturday.

Ken Carpenter, the league's top scorer, suffered an injury t olhis left knee last Saturday night in Winnipeg and has been in hospital since Sunday. Carpenter is originally was to have been released from hospital Wednesday but he was still listed only as a possible starter Saturday.

Carpenter injured his knee when he kicked Riders' first punt and was felled on the play.

The forecast for Regina today was bleak as Jer- as football is concerned; a new storm moving across British Columbia was expected to bring more snow to the Regina area this afternoon.

GUARD OUT

Only Roughrider player who definitely won't see action is guard Ray Berryman whose knee is still in a cast. Guard Mario DeMarco and quarterback Gerry Harding have returned to the workouts and are expected to be ready for the two-game, total-point series which winds up in Winnipeg Monday night.

In Winnipeg, the Bombers wrked out n sub-freezing cold Wednesday. It will be the third successive year that Blue Bombers and Roughriders have met in the semi-finals. Bombers won the series 60-23 in 1953 and the second 27-25 last year.

Honor Selke At Kitchener

KITCHENER (CP) — Frank Selke, managing director of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, was guest of honor Tuesday at an informal reunion of the Berlin Union Jacks, class of 1915.

Seven members of the junior team Selke coached to the western Ontario title in 1914-15 attended. They were John Krug, Allen Shirk, Earl Shirk, Henry Krug, Georges Kergyn, Milo Weichel and Irvin Erb.

Selke was presented with a leather writing case as a memento of the occasion.

HORSES BURNED

QUEBEC (CP) — Five horses were burned to death Wednesday night when flames raced through a stable at the Quebec harness racing track. No other injuries were reported.

Some 10 horses were in the stable when the blaze began.

Six were led to safety by handlers but one died a few minutes later of burns. The six-month racing season at the track closed Sunday.

REMEMBER
Wear a Poppy

Little Benny's Notebook

Last week pop cut some pictures out of a magazine showing how to reduce yourself by taking diffrent exercises before you get dressed every morning, and this morning at breakfast ma said, Well, William, I've been waiting patiently to see you start the day by going through those exercises, but up to the present your only exercise has consisted in cutting out the pictures.

There's a reason for that, my dear, pop said, and ma said, I believe it, and I can't guess what it is.

Meaning pop's naturel laziness, and pop said, As a matter of fact I've been doing some additional reeding on the subject, and it seems, after the age of 15 or 16, constant violent exercise reduces the life expectancy as well as the stummick. In fact I know of an actual case where a man insisted on chasing tennis balls for miles every day, in spite of the warnings of his wife and his doctor. He kept it up to the age of 30, and sure enough he keeled over in his own home while he was putting a new pair of laces in his tennis shoes, pop said.

Now William, there was nothing violent about those exercises, and that's exactly what appealed to you about them, ma said. Just a gentle sway of the arms bending and unbending while you breethed in and out, and even so the directions said to begin moderately and increase them by degrees, she said, and pop said, That's just how I intend to work it, but I'm going to use a skeleton of my own. Instead of merely nodding to my frends on the street, I'm going to wave to them, first with my right hand, and then with my left, till I work up to waving both hands at once, he said.

College Title to Be Decided On Golden Gaels' Gridiron

TORONTO (CP) — The sudden-death playoff for the senior intercollegiate football championship will definitely be held in Kingston Saturday, Nov. 12. It was announced Wednesday, provided students vote down their enthusiasm at final scheduled games this weekend.

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of Toronto University, Wednesday reiterated his warning that further violence may force cancellation of future league play.

Queen's Alma Mater Society, student governing body, Tuesday night decided not to oppose the transfer of Golden Gaels from the league. It also decided to put the matter of student discipline in the hands of the students' court. Student police will be ordered to stop anyone entering Richardson Stadium who carries alcohol.

If games this weekend Queen's plays McGill and Western meets Varsity, Queen's is assured of a playoff spot with eight points, but who will oppose her remains a question.

J. P. Loosemore, secretary-treasurer of the Quebec-Ontario Athletic Union, announced that the playoff will definitely be in Kingston. Queen's is raised a good chance of latching onto the league championship something that has eluded it since 1937.

The union based its decision to make Kingston the playoff scene on grounds that Queen's would have a better chance of capturing the elusive championship on its home grounds.

BCI Wins Over Picton 16-0; Enter Playoffs

By BOB VAUGHAN

BCI earned the right to enter the COSSA playoffs by defeating Picton to the tune of 16 to 0 at OHD on Wednesday afternoon.

Pat Smith kicked off for BCI. Cole of Picton, carried to their 50 yard line, where Claxton was forced to kick to Lunn. Henderson intercepted a Belleville pass on the 43 yard line, but some fine defensive work by Smith and Beeby forced Claxton to kick. BCI lost possession of the ball on their 25 yard line.

Fine running by Cole and Lindsay brought Picton to the two yard line where the latter's fumble was recovered by Bedell. Picton forced to the 50 yard line. After several plays Dunne, Hurst, Rowbottom, and Maracle carried to Picton's 35 yard line. Gerald Grills got away a fine kick from the 45 yard line. It was fumbled into the end zone where BCI's end, Ted Wallbridge recovered for a T.D. On the convert attempt Smith picked up a bad snap and raced over the goal line for the extra point.

Rowbottom made a fine run-back of the kickoff to BCI, then successive runs by Gault, Smith, Maracle, and Rowbottom put BCI in scoring position before the ball changed hands. Picton was forced to kick.

Lunn, Maracle, and Beeby again carried the ball into Picton territory. On a beautiful exhibition of broken field running Glen Maracle carried for BCI's second touchdown.

Picton failed to have six men on the defensive line for the kick off and were penalized. Then Smith kicked 7 yards and Beeby recovering BCI's intentions. short kick Gault passed to Hageman at the twenty, then Maracle carried to the 10, where Picton intercepted a Belleville pass.

Dykes and Lindsay carried to 0-ur 45, where Gault intercepted Bauderson's pass. Gault completed to Ted Wallbridge at the 10 on a play called back for BCI's offside. Wallbridge received a painful back injury on the play and was removed to Belleville General hospital.

Play resumed, Gault completing to Lunn on the 11 yard line. Then centre halfback Glen Maracle raced over for his second touchdown, ending the game BCI 16, Picton 0.

Beeby, Dalrymple, Bedell and Maracle were the pick of the fine defensive BCI crew.

Officials—Referee— Cam Buckle; Umpire—Ken Kennedy.

Mustangs Return Varsity Posts Taken by Gaels

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto will get its expensive steel goalposts back. But in a roundabout way.

Originally taken by Queen's University students after a senior intercollegiate football game here Oct. 8, the posts are being returned by University of Western Ontario fans through sports editor Jim Vipond of The Globe and Mail.

The Western football followers got the posts and held them as souvenirs in London after an invasion of the Queen's campus. They are ready to give them up after talk of cancellation of the football schedule because of rowdyism at games.

The $500 posts are being returned through Vipond because the Western students say they want to prevent any outbreak of incidents similar to those at Kingston last week when several spectators were injured and others were arrested.

Fur, Fin and Campfire

Argos Defer Stukus Deal

TORONTO (CP)—Annis Stukus' name came up at an executive meeting of Toronto Argonauts Wednesday night but a decision in whether to offer him a football job for next season was left to the 1956 executive.

Argonaut president Billy Ross said action on "any 1956 policies will be left to the incoming executive."

Joe Wright Jr., Argo vice president, said Wednesday he would propose that the team, in the Big Four Football Union, hire Stukus as a full-time manager and public relations officer. Stukus was fired last week as head coach of Vancouver Lions in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Wright said he would like to see Stukus work with Harry Sonshine, Argonaut team manager, on building Argonauts and promoting the game here.

"What I have in mind for Stukus is a job doing public relations—selling football here in Toronto the way he did it in Edmonton and Vancouver," Wright said.

OTTAWA CHOICES

OTTAWA (CP)—Halfbacks Don Fisher and Avatus Stone Wednesday night were chosen by Ottawa Rough Riders players as the Big Four club's nominees for the Jeff Russel Trophy.

The trophy is awarded annually to the Big Four player best combining courage, sportsmanship and clean play. Each club nominates two players.

Riders, Bombers Open Series On Saturday

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the Western Interprovincial Football Union teams that will open a two-game semi-final series in Regina Saturday, were the top teams this season in total net yards gained from scrimmage. Statistics released Wednesday by Bill Hawrylak of Regina, chief WIFU statistician, show Roughriders with 5,065 yards gained rushing and passing against 5,019 for Bombers. B. C. Lions were third with 4,813 yards while the first-place Edmonton Eskimos were fourth with 4,790. The tail-end Calgary Stampeders wound up the season with a total net gain of 4,643 yards.

The split-T Eskimos showed their superiority along the ground by clubbing up 2,362 yards, a league record. Bombers were next with a net total of 2,311 yards rushing. Esks tried 655 ground plays, another league record, for a 3.2 average.

Stampeders led the way in yards gained through the air with 2,147.

Raschi Retires As Player

CONESUS LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Vic Raschi, at one time one of New York Yankees' standout pitchers, said Wednesday he has retired as an active ball player.

The 36-year-old right hander, who played on six world championship clubs, indicated to the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle that he might be interested in some kind of baseball job but that his playing days were over.

Raschi played part of the last season with St. Louis Cardinals and part of it with Kansas City Athletics. His combined win-loss record was 4-7.

Raschi played nine years of major league ball. He is part-owner of a motel in Orillia, Ont.

Boom-Boom Back In Hab Lineup

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, injured in the first National Hockey League game of the season, will return to the lineup tonight when Montreal Canadiens are hosts to Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Montreal right winger, NHL-scoring champion last year, may be used only sparingly, Coach Toe Blake said Wednesday the Boomer will probably see most action during power plays although he probably will take a few shifts with his regular line mates, Jean Beliveau and Bert Olmstead.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BAD ONE!

The Whitby Dunlops ran roughshod over our TPT's in a high-scoring third period tap in Whitby last night and the Coxmen came home on the short end of a 10-1 score. The fast-traveling Dunlops paced by Fred Kisher, who is well away on a goal-scoring rampage this season, slung home six goals in a frantic third period and looked every bit their third straight victory at the expense of the tired TPT's. The Dunnies were ahead 2-1 at the end of the first heat and rattled in another in the second period's best hockey of the game.

Bob Wilson, TPT defenceman, sat on the sidelines because of a suspensions tacked on him by the OHA following Tuesday night's incident with Referee Ted Topping. Wilson's case will be heard in Toronto on Monday, November 7. If memory serves us correctly, Bur Gagnon drew a three-game suspension for an alleged incident similar to that of Wilson at the close of last season's activities.

The TPT's, thanks to the vagaries of the schedule-makers, were forced to play four games in six nights travelling from one end of the circuit to the other. At the same time the power of the Blairmen cannot be denied. They have beaten the TPT's twice and Bellerive once for their quota of three wins while tying the Goodyears the first time out. They lead the league with seven points, three ahead of the second place Belleville team. The TPT's are idle until Friday, November 11, when they entertain the allegedly powerful Brockville Magedomas here.

MEAN BUSINESS

"We are not going to stand for players pushing referees around, nor are we going to allow any monkey business on the ice. The OHA referees have got their orders to throw the book at any player who starts trouble or invites it. And the Ontario Hockey Association will stand solidly behind its officials."

That is what OHA referee-in-chief Pat Patterson told the Eastern Central Ontario forum at Peterborough a short time ago —and subsequent happenings on the ice bear out to indicate that Mr. Patterson was not telling bedtime stories.

Mr. Patterson's hired help, who blossomed forth this year in black-and-white striped shirts resembling those of football officials and which have drawn some not too complimentary remarks from wagrish fans with a blunted sense of humor in that they refer the officials to that much-maligned animal, the black-and-white kitty, have sighted their targets on players of all squads in the Eastern Ontario senior group, with dire results and rumblings in various parts of the circuit.

It would seem that the day of the player who slyly inserts the handle of his stick into the visor of an opponent, or who looks as though he might perpetrate this nefarious deed, is numbered. From what this department has seen of refereeing here, some of it has been mighty, mighty close to the borderline, but it must be remembered that hockey officials, like their baseball counterparts, are always on top of the play and are in a position to see action that generally is missed by the spectators.

Coach Les Douglas of the Kingston Goodyears, generally a good-natured sort who manages to stay out of durance vile and wants his players to do likewise, carried a seething chip on his shoulder ignent the officiating down Whitby way the other night when the Goodyears played the Dunlops.

What blazed the Douglas mental fuel was not the fact that he drew two misconduct penalties himself and which called for an automatic game misconduct penalty, something unusual for the big, good-natured so-and-so, but that his club captain Ted Nicholson was not permitted to talk to the official.

Said Douglas: "Apparently Ontario Hockey Association officials this year aren't even going to let the captains seek an explanation of their rulings. After all, I don't consider that any players are 'playing the game' if the captains and alternate captains don't do as they are supposed to do.

"Before we knew it," Douglas went on, "Bellringer had been handed a double penalty and when Nicholson asked about it he was assessed a misconduct. Londry picked up a misconduct without saying a word to the referee.

"If Saturday's officiating is an example of what we are going to get over the rest of the season then it's going to be a rough year," he said. Douglas' mental attitude was not improved by the fact that the Goodyears had lost defencemen Jack Irvine and Joe Marzola and forwards Val Walker and Duke Doran. He intimated that Hub Macey would be signed if his release was forthcoming from Belleville and that the Goodies were on the track of a good forward. (Macey attended the Kingston-Belleville game Tuesday night here, but TPT officials were mum on the subject of his release to the Goodyears.)

Belleville fans did not take too kindly to the officiating of Jim Crombie in the opening game here between the TPT's and the Whitby Dunlops. Nor did they relish the sentences of Stouffville's Ted Topping in the tilt with Kingston Tuesday night. The officials were obeying the Patterson edicts strictly to the letter, in fact too much so at times. However, as was said before, the umps see things not apparent to fandom's eye.

OHA officials may be operating on the same system of Bill Klem, baseball's Ole Arbitrator. Klem once tossed a player out of the game and when the allegedly erring one protested and wanted to know what he had done, Klem answered: "You did nothing. You are out of the game for what you are thinking."

Golden Goals for Tod Sloan Who Paced Pack With Pair; Dineen Scores Detroit's Loner

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

To Tod Sloan, a goal is like a pay cheque. Every time he scores this season, he comes closer to picking up the richest salary of his National Hockey League career.

The Toronto Maple Leaf centre took a big salary cut this season because of his drop in goal production in 1954-55. But the Leaf management told him he could add to it by scoring plenty of goals.

That's what Sloan is doing. He picked up two Wednesday night in leading Leafs to a 3-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings in a game that sent Toronto from fifth to second place in the league race. It was his only game of the night.

Sloan now has seven goals in 11 games this season. His performance is great, considering that he has been a notoriously slow starter.

When Sloan, a 27-year-old native of Campbell's Bay, Que., started his season with Leafs, he was the "worst' salary cut of my career but I bet a dollar I'd be richer than richest. My contract calls for bonuses if I get 30 goals, then 25 and so on."

SHOULD GO OVER

The way Sloan has been going he should get over 30 goals before the 70-game schedule winds up next spring. He has in his 1950-51 term but had only 11 two years ago and 13 last season.

Leaf defenceman Hugh Bolton was serving a tripping penalty Balfour opened the scoring at 14:02 of the second period. Balfour took Tim Horton's pass, carried the puck over in front of the goal and fired it between goaltender Glenn Hall's pads.

Sloan's first goal came at 18:56 of the middle frame while John Bucyk of the Wings was serving an interference penalty. Sloan drove home left winger Gil Smith's rebound. Dineen put the Stanley Cup champions back in the game at 8:e best goaltender Terry Sawchuk with a shot from about eight feet out at 3:34 of the third period.

Sloan closed the scoring at 15:30 when he grabbed the puck from wing defenceman Larry Hillman and beat Hall with a short drive.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit assisted on his team's only goal in a 3-1 victory over the hands of Toronto Wednesday and pulled into a tie for fifth place in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Delvecchio has 21 points, the same as Bert Olmstead of Montreal. Dave Creighton of New York and Jean Beliveau of Montreal continue to head the scoring parade with 31 points each.

Habs Won't Help Minor Hockey Beyond $500

KITCHENER (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League have refused to financially help minor hockey here beyond the $500 promised.

Frank Selke, managing director of Canadiens, who sponsor Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, said Tuesday night Canadiens' sponsorship of the minors is withdrawn and no player rights are involved.

Canadiens previously advised the Kitchener Minor Hockey Association they would donate $500, plus 2,000 free tickets to a proposed exhibition game between Montreal Canadiens and the Canuck juniors. Last year Montreal contributed $2,500 to the KMHA.

The KMHA turned down Canadiens' proposition and asked Selke for reconsideration. Selke said there would be no exhibition game here involving Canadiens.

SEES PRESSURE

"I must confess I'm confused by the attitude taken by Kitchener fans regarding Canadiens," Selke said. "It would seem to me there's pressure being applied from other quarters to force us into an awkward position. We must have spent more than $25,000 on minor hockey here, exclusive of the deficits we have faced with the junior team."

Selke, who visited Kitchener Tuesday night, said he would not bring Canadiens here for the exhibition game because he didn't think such a game would draw. "I'm not trying to depreciate the NHL attraction by asking them to play before five or six hundred fans.

"I'd rather give you an additional $5,000 to brush up the junior A team than waste more money on the minors," Selke told the Kitchener-Waterloo executive.

Maroons Tumble Dutchies 6-4

KITCHENER (CP) — Chatham Maroons, cellar dwellers in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A division, skated Kitchener's 6-4 victory over the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen here Wednesday night.

The win put Maroons in fourth place two points ahead of Windsor Bulldogs who had been sharing last place with the visitors.

Chatham led all the way. The Dutchmen, slower than usual, possibly as the result of a tough overtime game in Owen Sound Tuesday night, couldn't sustain a drive long enough to get even.

QUICK REVERSALS

They started to come in the second period while trailing 3-0 but the Maroons came back with a quick goal after Dutchies had cut the edge to 3-2. Then in the final, with Maroons leading 5-3, the home side got two goals in 46 seconds only to have Maroons come right back with their final tally.

Graham Joyce with two goals, Rod McGregor, Ray Dueck, Cliff McArthur and Ernie Dick scored for the winners. Jim Logan, Jack Mc-Cauley, Bob White and Buddy Horne tallied for the Dutchies.

The teams drew three minor penalties apiece.

Name Eight American Players To Ontario Union All-Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Eight American players have been named to this year's Ontario Rugby Football Union all-star team, selected for The Canadian Press by coaches and sportswriters.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who meet Sarnia Imperials Friday in the first game of a best-of-three playoff for the ORFU championship, placed six men on the mythical team. Imperials placed five and Toronto Beaches two.

The extra man was added because of a tie fd the voting for the second tackle position. Toronto's Oatsten Fisher and Kitchener's Jay Fry tied for the second spot behind Jim Burr of Sarnia.

Six players selected for last year's team, were chosen again this year. They are Carl Totzke, Bob Celeri, Fry and Gerry MacTaggart of Kitchener and Bruce Mattingley and Cookie Gilchrist of Sarnia.

The selectors, whose votes were weighted to give equal balloting strength to each of the three ORFU cities, failed to agree on a single player. Last year Celeri was the only unanimous choice but he had some opposition this year from Sarnia's Gino Cappelletti, who caught the eye of three selectors.

The team:

Flying wing—Carl Totzke, Kitchener.

Half—Cookie Gilchrist, Sarnia; John Jacobs, Sarnia; Sam Laverty, Toronto.

Quarter—Bob Celeri, Kitchener.

Centre—Bruce Mattingley, Sarnia.

Guards: Ed Stowe, Sarnia; Larry Cardosick, Sarnia.

Tackles: Jim Burr, Sarnia; Oatsten Fisher, Toronto; Jay Fry, Kitchener.

Ends: Gerry MacTaggart, Kitchener; Eric Graham, Sarnia.

Dunlops Show Too Much Zip In 10-1 Victory Over TPT's; Score Six in Third Period

By CLIFF GORDON

BRITTY (Special) — Whitby Dunlops let four games slip by without a defeat last night at the local rink as they handed the Belleville Combs a 10 to 1 defeat. The Dunlops completely outskated the Belleville lads in the first period as the latter failed to get a rally going at all. Fred Richer and Orvil Wilkins paced the Dunlops' attack with a pair of goals each with assists going to Bobella, Gagnon, Ian Attersley, Ait, DeGray, and Harry Hughes. Bert Hill spoiled Dunlop's bid for a shutout with a goal in the first period. The Dunlops are now on top of the league with three wins and a tie in four starts.

The Dunlops lost no time in showing that they are one of the best teams in the O.H.A. as they opened the scoring at the 36 second mark as Bobella scored one of a neat three-way passing play that had McBeth and Richer in on the play. The teams fought on even terms for the next 18 minutes as the Belleville team showed their best hockey of the night. Richer scored his first of a pair at the 18:48 mark to make it five to 1. Hill blinked the light for the first time in the game behind Dellery for the lonely goal of the game. The boys how ever fought back hard and they came up with another Dunlop goal, a terrific bit of stick-handling and work around McMasters to plant the rubber behind a surprised Parisi. The first period was very clean with only one penalty, that going to the losers.

GONE IN SECOND

The second period was a clip ping affair as goals were concerned, only one being scored as Air score ed on a pass from Bobella. The teams mixed the play up pretty well in the middle frame but nothing too exciting.

The final second was a very one-sided affair as the Belleville team were no match for the fast, hard-hitting Dunlops. The Dunlops pumped home no less than six unanswered goals as the visitors were completely snowed under. The game appeared as if it might live up as it began as the old fighting team of last year got into a set-to as McMaster clubbed Bobby Attersley over the back and Gagnon was quick to score his 4th. The 3rd period although there were six goals scored was not a good period as both Dunlops and things all their own way. The lineups:

Belleville — Goal, Parisi; defence, McMasters, McBeth; centre, Bobella; wings, Pyrie, Hill; alternates, Geyer, D. Jones, MacDonald, Gay. Dunlops — Dellery, sub-goal.

First Period

AT THE CAPITOL — Rivals. An Ethiopian slave girl, played by Sophia Loren, Italy's most luscious screen siren, and the Pharaoh's daughter, interpreted by Toronto-born Lola Maxwell, vie for the love of a handsome Egyptian officer in "Aida", the first real opera film-in color coming Nov. 7, 8, 9 to the Capitol theatre. This spectacular screen achievement features the Ballet Corps of the Rome Opera with the glorious voices of Trebaldi-Campara and Bechi.

AT THE BELLE — Robert Strauss, Tom Ewell and Marilyn Monroe play it strictly for laughs in "The Seven Year Itch". Ewell portrays a summer-bachelor with an amorous imagination, and Miss Monroe is a not-so-dumb blonde who considerably confuses Ewell's plans. Victor Moore, Sonny Tufts and Evelyn Keyes also appear in the happy-time show, showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE ODEON McCARTHY — Rita Moreno proves much more of a prize to Richard Egan than all the riches sought by the Spanish Conquistadores in "Seven Cities of Gold", Twentieth Century Fox's historic adventure drama relating the conquest of California. The Deluxe color film, opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, also features Anthony Quinn, Michael Rennie and Jeffrey Hunter in co-starring roles.

Parking By-Law May Be Changed

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto parking by-law may be changed, Mayor Nathan Phillips said Wednesday, because a resident decided to go to jail for 10 days.

However, John Orviss, who said Tuesday he would go to jail rather than pay a fine for parking his car in his own driveway, plans to appeal the case.

Tom McRae, counsel for Orviss, said Wednesday he will file papers seeking a new trial before a county judge.

Mayor Phillips said Wednesday hundreds of others in the city are doing what Mr. Orviss did. If the by-law was working an injustice it would have to be changed.

Con. Roy Belyea said the by-law is absurd. He recommended it be changed to permit driveway parking out to the street line The by-law states no person in a residential district shall park his car in any portion of a driveway beyond the main front wall of the house.

NO BLOW BY BLOW

NEWARK, Eng. (Reuters)—The old grocery store habit of blowing into paper bags to open them may land store clerks of this Nottinghamshire town in jail, the local health committee said Wednesday. The committee also warned that prosecution may result if shop clerks wetting their fingers to handle wrapping paper for food.

Alec Guinness Is Surprised As Americans Recognize Him

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alec Guinness, star of delightful English comedies, is still surprised that so many Americans recognize him.

The 41-year-old Britain, who went to Stratford, Ont., two years ago for the Shakespearian Festival, is on his first Hollywood visit, having been lured to play opposite Grace Kelly in "The Swan." It's no surprise to Hollywood that he is recognized here, since his British films have been immensely popular.

But to Guinness, a shy, modest chap, it is amazing.

"Of course, they don't always get the name right," he remarked over lunch. "It usually happens this way: A man and his wife walk past me and give a double take. The man continues to stare, then comes up and says, 'Pardon me, but I have a bet with my wife; aren't you Alec Guiness?'

"I confess that I am the person he is thinking of. He relies, not especially pleased that it was, but happy that he had won the bet."

BOUND CONFUSION

He said he gets many different pronunciations of his name. Actually it's pronounced Ginnes, with a hard G, like the stock.

There is some confusion in the public mind about his films, he added.

"In my circle, there is a standard joke that I am always being taken for Alistair Sim." Guinness said, mentioning a British character actor and a good friend. "I never thought it would really happen. But the other day someone said they loved me in 'The Belles of St. Trinian,' in which Alistair appeared."

The confusion of identity may be due to the make-up Guiness wears.

"Yet in the past five years I have seldom worn any," he said. "When I was younger and wanted to be a character actor I used to love to heap make-up on my face. I guess I have rebelled against it recently."

But he admitted that he has often sported different moustaches and hair pieces—in normal life he has a nice head of skin.

The actor, who has performed "Hamlet" and other classics, said that he fell into comedy somewhat by accident.

"It was a coincidence that I happened to make two comedies in a row—'Lavender Hill Mob' and 'The Man in the White Suit,'" he remarked. "Both of them were popular in this country. So more followed.

"If I hadn't been careful, I would have been playing nothing but comedies and would soon be dead and forgotten. But I have been stubborn and insist on doing other things."

He'll have his light moment in "The Swan." He has been taking lessons for two comedy scenes, in which he'll do an old-fashioned waltz and play the bull fiddle.

Boston Honors Bruins, Celtics

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League and the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association were honored at a dinner Wednesday night by some 1,200 sports notables and fans at the Boston Garden.

'NBC Matinee Theatre' Begins Good Daytime Drama Series

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Daytime television has taken a big stride forward with the advent of "NBC Matinee Theatre." No longer is it necessary to wait until evening to see a good hour-long live drama on TV. Just tune in any afternoon from Monday through Friday.

The ambition of the program is rather staggering when you multiply the work involved in one live hour drama by five days a week and then multiply five by the 39 weeks the series will run.

Statistics would ring hollowly if the initial presentation by executive producer Albert McCleery had been a failure. It was not.

"Beginning now," a dramatization of a John P. Marquand short story, starring Louis Hayward, was good TV theatre, and it set a standard of what the daytime viewer can expect.

If "Beginning Now" is a clear indication of what lies ahead on this series of well-produced dramas we can expect intelligent story, good acting and good production too.

It's impossible for anyone to turn out an original work on anything five days a week for 39 weeks and make all of uniform excellence. But many of the dramas coming up this month on the program, including both originals and adaptations, sound interesting. For ex ample:

Today is "I'm Straight With the World," an original by Theodore Apstein. Monday is a repeat of a Kraft television theatre drama, "The House on Wildwood Lane," by George Lowther. Among the story adaptations planned for later this month are "The Aspern Papers" by Henry James; "Roman Fever" by Edith Wharton, "Midsummer" by Nancy Hale, "The Man Without a Country" by Edward Everett Hale.

'Horse Sense Bridge'

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

As a bridge player, work on percentage. With a choice, use the play most likely to be in your favor. A finesse is only 50-50, but odds are two to one that six unseen cards will divide four-two.

There came the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠K J
♥7 6 3
♦7
♣A 9 8 7 6 3

WEST
♠8 5 2
♥A K 3
♦K 8 5 4
♣Q 10 4 2

EAST
♠4
♥Q J 9 4
♦J 9 6 3 2
♣K J

SOUTH
♠A Q 10 7 6 3
♥10 8 5
♦A Q 10
♣5

The bidding was simple and easy and went like this:

South	North
1 Spade	2 Clubs
2 Spades	3 Spades
4 Spades	Pass

The south opening bid promised five tricks. Pile one raise told of a sixth trick. North showed four tricks; one for each raise that is added to his expected basis of two tricks.

Opponents took three hearts fast, landing in east. Return of a diamond from there gave declarer a quick look at impending danger. A losing diamond finesse would sink his contract right there.

So, he hopped right up with diamond ace. A club to the dummy ace cashed a trick. Return of a club was ruffed high in south. Small trump to the nine entered dummy again and another club returned.

Again south ruffed high and got into dummy again by a small trump to the jack. Another club was ruffed high with a south trump and the remaining two clubs in dummy were set up.

A small trump from south was taken with dummy king. Now both the remaining north clubs took the last two tricks. By establishing suit, for stuffs, no diamonds had to be lost.

When east led a diamond to the fourth trick he might have been pulling a slicker from the bag. But why should declarer gamble with it? Percentage is in favor of the four-two club break.

November 23 to December 22 —

December 23 to January 21 —

January 22 to February 20 —

(Aquarius) — Don't can be a generous one if you put forth intelligent, steady effort. Don't be a daring just for the thrill of it. Be cautious in expenditures, signing contracts, any papers.

February 21 to March 20 —

You born today are original in ideas, capable of keen analysis and good judgment; are practical and determined. You may be suspicious by nature, at times permit others to sway your opinions. Usually avoid those who cause you to lose your sense of true values. High principles. You are fond of travel, love the outdoors, sports. You may tend to delay doing things until the last moment, knowing you can come through at that moment and in emergencies. But this, if a habit, is harmful to health, disposition, to family happiness. Birthdate: Guido Reni, Ital. painter; Will Rogers, Amer. humorist.

Commission Asks Reinstatement Of Constables

TORONTO (CP)—Suburban York township police commission announced Wednesday night it has recommended the reinstatement of two plainclothes constables demoted to uniform status after they disobeyed the orders of Chief Robert Alexander.

The commission held a series of hearings after constables George Lawrence and Norman Wright complained they were demoted to uniform and put back on a beat because they railed a wedding reception May 27 against the chief's orders.

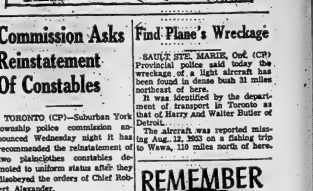
The commission said there was no evidence of gabbling at the reception but added that Chief Alexander had no department about the reception had been "unfortunately worded."

There had been no suggestion Alexander was guilty Thursday of condoning any breach of the law," the commission said.

Two Missing In Gas Terminal Fire

BIRMINGPORT, Ala. (AP) — Exploding gasoline fumes wrapped a riverside gasoline terminal in flames Wednesday night. Two persons are missing.

Destruction of a little village clustered on a hill above the towering fire was averted when three men turned off valves on pipelines leading to huge storage tanks holding several million gallons of gasoline.



The blaze raged for more than three hours before it was brought under control by naval reserve chemical firefighters. An estimate of damage was not available.

Find Plane's Wreckage

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police said today the wreckage of a light aircraft has been found in dense bush 31 miles northeast of here.

It was identified by the department of transport in Toronto as that of Harry and Walter Butler of Detroit.

The aircraft was reported missing Aug. 12, both on a fishing trip to Wawa, 110 miles north of here.

Couple Ordered To Return Home, Care for Animals

SUDBURY (CP) — A Sudbury couple has been ordered to return here from Toronto to care for the animals Humane Society officials said they left on their farm two months ago.

Officials of Sudbury and District Humane Society said they found dead and starving animals on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, five miles east of here.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong have been in Toronto visiting a daughter who is ill. The couple's 14-year-old granddaughter remained on the farm but supplies were not adequate to feed the animals. George Chabot, a Humane Society inspector, said he found a dead fox in a cage, a dead calf and an underfed horse.

RAID SECRET STORE

WETZLAR, West Germany (Reuters)—A gang of 20 schoolboys climbed by ladder 230 feet down a ventilation shaft into a secret underground ammunition store, the French Army discovered here. They stole more than 10,000 rounds of ammunition and used the bullets as slingshot ammunition, the powder for fireworks.

Swiss Offer Course For Canadian Pupils

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian high school children have been offered an opportunity to complete Grade 13 in Switzerland.

A special English-language junior college is being set up in Neuchatel to attract English-speaking students from Canada and the United States. The school will be part of the Swiss public school system.

The college will offer an English program with an opportunity for students to acquire fluency in French by living with a French speaking family.

6 Found Guilty Of Smuggling

WINDSOR (CP) — After nine hours of deliberation, an Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday night returned verdicts of guilty against five men and a woman charged with conspiracy to smuggle cars into Canada.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan remanded all six in custody for one week for sentence.

The verdict brought to an end one of the longest Supreme Court hearings held here, three weeks and two days. More than 70 crown witnesses testified in the case which concerned importation of 10 cars which police said were stolen

Plan Sound System

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government plans to install a sound amplifying system in the legislature.

The public works department Wednesday asked for tenders on a sound distribution system for the House. Deadline for tenders is Nov. 8.

It was believed the department will favor a system of individual desk-speakers and microphones.

In the Detroit area.

Found guilty were: Sherman Lawr, of Windsor; William and Violet Stachuk, of suburban Sandwich East; Donald and Murray Myles, of Leamington, Ont.; and Douglas Weightman, of Aylmer, Ont.

Fund Falls Short

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's Community Chest campaign fell $82,331 of its $3,236,000 goal when the drive ended Wednesday. Officials said they expect the fund will go over the top when late returns are reported.

UN Chief Submits New Peace Plan To Israel, Egypt

No More Action Reported At Scene of Thursday Battle

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel said Egyptian platoons today attacked an Israeli advanced position near the lower sector of the Gaza strip, but no action was reported along the El Auja-Nizana zone border, where a bloody battle was fought Thursday.

An official Israeli spokesman said today's attack was north of the Nir Ishak settlements, about two miles east of the Gaza border. He said the Israelis beat back the Egyptians with rifle and machine-gun fire and suffered no casualties.

Both sides still claimed the right to begin to check post in the El Auja-Nizana zone, scene of a 17-hour battle Thursday described as the heaviest fighting between Arabs and Jews since the 1948 Palestine war. El Auja is about 20 miles south of Gaza.

TRAVEL RESTRICTED

United Nations truce observers in the zone reported that their freedom of movement still was restricted by Israel today, and that they were unable to visit the Gaza Strip frontier area.

An Israeli foreign office spokesman said the UN officials had been informed: "There is no firing, and there will be no firing across the international frontier from the Israeli side unless we are attacked or the Egyptians across the frontier."

The El Sabha fighting brought these other developments:

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, gave Egyptian and Israeli representatives at UN headquarters in New York a new peace plan for the border region, calling for withdrawal of Egyptian troops from the zone and the setting up of permanent markers along the disputed area's borders.

CAIRO PROTESTS

In Geneva, an informed source said British Labor's breach and storm UN condemnation of Israel in the El Sabha fighting. Foreign secretary Macmillan, attending the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting, is expected to ask State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Pinay for a joint appeal to the UN security council for action.

London formally protested the El Sabha attack to Israel.

Washington urged Israel and Egypt to hold high-level peace talks instead of trying to shoot out their "explosive" border dispute.

A Lebanese government spokesman said the Arab countries would act to relieve pressure on Egypt if full-scale fighting developed between the Egyptians and the Israelis.

Both Egypt and Israel acknowledged clashes in the El Sabha fighting, but each sought to distort the other's figures. Egypt disputed was whether the bitterly contested post near the desert demarcation line between the two countries was on Israeli or Egyptian territory. Israel claimed it.

The Egyptian mili. who accused Egypt of occupying El Sabha in violation of the armistice, launched a combined attack on it in Israel's Freedom Wednesday night. Thursday they claimed the "Egyptian invaders" had been expelled and that the post was firmly in Israeli hands.

The Israelis listed casualties in 39 Egyptians killed and 40 captured. They said their own losses were five killed and 11 wounded. The Egyptians said they lost 70 killed or missing but killed 200 Israelis.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cloudy skies persisted over most of Ontario during the night and prevented temperatures from falling too drastically. Milder air, moving through the western states, is expected to bring an end to the current cool weather briefly.

TEN PRISONERS FLEE WALLA WALLA THROUGH TUNNEL

Must Have Dug Weeks To Make Escape Route

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—A mother-murderer and nine other inmates of the tumult-ridden Washington state penitentiary escaped Thursday night after weeks of tunnelling through seven inches of concrete and 30 feet of earth.

The escape was discovered at 7:30 p.m. change of guards, an estimated two hours after the 10 men had crawled through the 30-inch-wide tunnel to liberty just outside the west wall.

Despite a widespread cordon of scores of police assisted by four bloodhounds, no trace of the men had been found this morning, except trunks half a mile from the gaping hole in the prison side.

Stir in the prison the guards found a neat circular slab chiselled from the seven-inch-thick concrete floor of one of the cells. It led into an unused dirt-floor basement. The 10-foot tunnel started there, running straight as a die to the exit point.

Only a few hand-made digging tools were left behind. The dirt apparently had been flushed down prison toilets a bit at a time. Guards said the 10 men must have dug the passage they had been replaced each day by the felons after a night of digging.

SHOT HIS MOTHER

One of the men who escaped was William R. Dewey, 20, who shot his mother at Tacoma two years ago when she refused him the use of the family automobile. His wife serving 30 years.

Another was Earl Odie Wiles, 42, sent up seven years ago as a habitual criminal after a life of crime in Washington and Oregon. The others all were serving 15 years or more for crimes ranging from grand larceny to robbery.

Three of the convicts, including Wiles, had escaped previously from the state penitentiary at McNeil Island. Two were Kensler, 32, and Ralph Elmer Lockerby, 25. Another, William Lee, 24, had escaped twice before after an escape from the state reformatory at Monroe.

The mass breakout was another in a series of riots, fires, strikes and escapes at the prison which have rocked the prison in the last several years.

An almost steady stream of convicts has escaped through the brick and concrete institution which houses 1,600 prisoners. Two years ago more than 300 prisoners were caused when hundreds of inmates rioted.

BC Rivers Flood After Rain, Damage Runs Into Millions

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Rivers swirled their destructive power into streets and homes today in a wild charge from mountain to sea, adding to damage already estimated in millions of dollars.

Provincial government recognition of North Vancouver as a disaster area sent 500 militia men to the aid of volunteer flood fighters. Regular army men were standing by.

More than 100 families were evacuated from homes threatened by three rivers which climbed 12 feet above normal level under torrential rains.

Main trouble spot was the Seymour creek area where man-made dams caused severe damage six years ago. But civil defence officials said the 1955 flood was a "picnic" compared to the present rampage.

In neighboring West Vancouver, separated from here by another deep river, the Capilano River, angry stream, the Capilano River, damage to homes and property was estimated by a public official at $1,000,000.

There was no firm estimate for North Vancouver but damage here as well, if anything, more severe.

North and West Vancouver across Burrard Inlet from Vancouver proper, only a few minutes away by ferry.

Everywhere in the B.C. lower mainland and on Vancouver Island the story was the same — reported. North Vancouver recorded seven inches of rain in the 36 hours before midnight, when the downpour eased.

But while weather officials predicted the rain would turn into occasional showers today, another moisture-laden storm was reported barrelling in from the Pacific.

The new storm was not expected to reach the coast until the weekend and some respite was expected today.

The estimate that damage in West Vancouver alone would "exceed $1,000,000" was made Thursday by municipal manager Niah McDonald.

Despite the high dollar cost — which was not confined to the north shore communities — no lives were lost and no injuries reported.

On sparsely-settled Vancouver Island, a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter lifted six people to safety from a second-storey window as families were evacuated in flood-threatened B.C. and Washington areas.

At Haney, B.C., 35 miles east of Vancouver, 100 families were evacuated from their homes, hit by the overflowing Alouette river, a tributary of the Fraser.

At South Westminster, across the Fraser river, 400 homes were cut off from main highways by a flooding lake.

Elsewhere in southern B.C., there were similar stories of destruction as the province experienced its worst rain storm in its history.

The Trans-Canada highway, about 100 miles east of Vancouver, a mammoth mud slide poured down from the 1,500-yard shoulder road. The highway has been closed indefinitely.

Early Thursday, 170 slides cut the main Canadian Pacific line at Cotton Bluffs, 61 miles east of Vancouver and slides in the Fraser Canyon at Hope, B.C., near the CNR lines.

Service was maintained, however, as both railways reported trains leaving Vancouver on time.

LAKE SHIP'S HIT BY FIERCE STORM NOW NEARLY OVER

Cottage Areas Flooded, Snow Covers Big Area

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A fierce autumn storm was expected to blow itself out today 24-hr. lashing waterfront property, disrupting Great Lakes shipping and bringing snow to a great portion of Ontario.

Winds reached gale force Thursday. Water levels in canals were lowered. Many fishing boats were smashed against piers, a relaining wall gave way and several cottage areas were flooded.

Lakes Superior, Huron, St. Clair and Erie were the hardest hit. Skippers of several freighters on Lake Superior ordered that temperature had dropped sharply and heavy snow was falling. The captain of one ship wondered by radio if the worst he had seen.

At Little Current on the north shore of Manitoulin island, five fishing boats were smashed.

Ships found it impossible to pass through the Amherstburg channel near Windsor when the strong westerly winds lowered water levels about five inches.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour were reported by a lighthouse keeper at Point Pelee on Lake Erie, making passage in the area dangerous.

The Dominion public weather office at Toronto said a mild to heavy pressure area would push into Ontario Thursday and would continue on towards Hudson bay today. Highest temperature forecast for the province was 38, with low down to 10 for the James bay regions. The disturbance was also expected to bring rain from time to some northern areas.

Strong southwesterly winds ripped part of a retaining wall on the Niagara parkway near Fort Erie, causing flooding into the road. There was some flooding but damage was described as slight.

Shipping moving into the Welland canal from Lake Erie was delayed but southbound traffic was not hampered.

During the fierce storm the freighter Joseph Morrow lost a rudder on Lake Huron. Ships and ships were forced to drop anchor in the Detroit river.

Young Mother, 21, Her Three Sons And Man Perish

Husband Is in Hospital Due Shock, Loss of Blood

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Five persons were burned to death in a house fire here early today.

Dead are Mrs. Doris Potter, 21, her three sons, Tommy, 3, Raymond, 2, and Bobbie, eight months, and Jack Crowder, believed to be about 60.

Mrs. Potter's husband, William, is in hospital suffering from shock and loss of blood.

Gerald Ellis, 23, a boarder, escaped with slight burns.

Their two-storey frame house, nine miles north of this Muskoka district town, was burned to the ground, police said.

Police said Potter told them he was awakened by his wife about 2 a.m. and she told him the house was on fire.

FLAMES BLOCK HALL

He raced downstairs to get Crowder, who was partly crippled, but the flames drove him back.

"I ran back up stairs and broke a window and yelled to my wife to bring the children.

"She didn't come.

"I went along the hallway but couldn't get near the bedrooms because of the flames."

Mrs. Potter was in the bedroom she and her husband slept in. Two of the children were in another bedroom and the baby was in another.

Police said Potter either jumped or fell through an upstairs window. He was found by neighbors, who called firemen and a doctor.

Sgt. Everett Hicks of the Ontario Provincial Police said he thinks the house was heated by a kerosene stove and presumes it became over-heated.

Crowder was sleeping in the living room near the stove.

The house was a two - storey frame dwelling converted from a combination garage and lunch room when the new Highway 11 was built some distance away.

The Potters were renting.—Mr. Potter is a scrap dealer.

Jack Crowder Jr., his wife and two children who live in one of three cabins at the rear of the house, said they were awakened by a call for help from inside the burning building.

"By the time I got to the place it was all in flames," Crowder said.

Ellis had got out through a window and then ran, naked, down Highway 11 to get help. Provincial Police Constable Bert Allen, Gregory Cooper, Gosen Geary and Gordon Cooper, OPP, investigated.

Molotov May Fly to Moscow During Lull in Conference

GENEVA (Reuters) — Vyacheslav Molotov, the Soviet foreign minister, may fly to Moscow Saturday for consultations with his government during a three-day recess of the Big Four foreign ministers conference here, Communist sources said today.

There are no conference sessions after today until Tuesday.

Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state, leaves Saturday for Vienna, Austria, and then for Portugal island with President Tito of Yugoslavia on Sunday.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan leaves for London tonight by way of Paris to attend a House of Commons debate on Monday on the disappearance, presumably behind the Iron Curtain, of former foreign office officials Donald Maclean and Guy Burgess.

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay likes to go to Switzerland for his week's rest in a special cabinet meeting and another meeting with ex-sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who is expected to return to Paris Saturday.

A stalemate seems certain to mark the two-week session ending in the conference despite a solemn warning from Britain's Foreign Secretary Macmillan on the urgency of German unity. He said Germany powers will face an "increasingly explosive, situation" in Germany if a basis for unity and a peaceful solution to the unification problem.

Not more than two hours of argument Thursday failed to produce any evidence that Russia thought such a solution may be found here.

Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov bombarded his statesmen that the Western alliance must be demolished before Germany can be free to agree to German unity.

The Western Big Three restated with added determination their contention that a reunified Germany linked with the West is the only basis for peace in Europe.

Auto Union Loses 800 U.S. Members

DETROIT (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers union has lost about 800 members to independent unions as a result of dissatisfaction with skilled workers with the general contracts signed earlier this year by the UAW and industry.

The latest loss occurred Thursday when the union's executive at the Detroit Chevrolet force plant voted to withdraw from the UAW. The decision was conducted in the last six months at Michigan plants the UAW has lost more than 500 skilled-worker members.

The membership loss, however represents only a small percentage of the 250,000 skilled workers in the union's total membership of 1,500,000.

Boy, 7, Describes Seeing Man Shoot Kingston Woman

KINGSTON (CP)—A seven-year-old boy testified today that he saw a man in the playground of the Regina Public School shoot Mrs. Bernice Azulay, also 25, near her small home here on July 24.

The boy pointed a stubby finger at Campbell, and identified him as the man he said he saw "put the gun up close to her and shoot her."

Under cross-examination young Peter Azulay said that he did not give his testimony under oath because he did not realize what an oath was. He said he told John A. Wilson ruled.

The child said he had never seen Campbell before the day of the shooting.

The boy explained he had been told the man's name was Campbell by Melvin Azulay, the victim's six-year-old son.

At one point the youngster mentioned the word murder. "Do you know what that word means?" asked Malcolm Robb of Toronto, the defence counsel. "Did you learn what the word means at school?"

The schoolboy sent the packed courtroom into laughter when he replied: "We don't talk about murder in school."

Border Clash Is No Surprise To General Burns

LONDON (CP) — Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief United Nations truce supervisor in Palestine, said on his arrival from Canada today that Thursday's serious Israeli-Egyptian border clash was no surprise."

"I am sorry to say that it did not surprise me," said Burns, who flies to his Jerusalem headquarters Saturday. "The clash took place after a United Nations peace appeal had been made to both sides."

Burns was meeting today with Anthony Nutting, British minister of state, to discuss the explosive Middle East situation. Before flying here from Montreal he also held a number of discussions with Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general, in New York concerning the continuing series of Israeli-Egyptian incidents.

"DOCTOR" SENTENCED

KITCHENER (CP)—W. Eugene Ford was sentenced Thursday to 2½ years in jail when he was convicted on two charges of indecent assault. On an additional charge of breach of the Medical Act he was fined $25 and costs or 14 days in jail. Evidence showed Ford represented himself as a medical doctor who could perform miracle feats with his "electrified" left hand.

Remembrance Poppy Redesigned First Time in Past Two Decades

OTTAWA (CP)—The first new design of the Remembrance Day poppy in 20 years will be worn Nov. 11 by millions of Canadians.

The Canadian Legion expects to distribute about 5,500,000 poppies and 56,000 wreaths between now and Remembrance Day and to raise some $880,000 for legion welfare work.

This year's poppy has a better quality paper than those of former years, is of richer red and is more lifelike. The new flat, double-sided paper but won't curl up or run. Poppies of the last two years have been made or cotton or silk.

At one time, there used to be as many as five different types of poppies on sale immediately before Remembrance Day.

Legion officials said the poppy sale thus became more and more a matter of straight merchandising. Variously sized poppies led to discrimination, particularly a mong children. These and similar factors, the legion said, contributed to the loss of the poppy as a symbol of remembrance.

Now there will be only a single, uniform poppy.

About 250,000 persons representing 2,000 legion branches across Canada will offer legion poppies on the street.

Local legion branches keep more than 80 per cent of the funds raised through sale of poppies. This money is used for ordinary legion branch operations but must go to helping needy veterans. A veteran need not be a legion member to receive such help.

The remaining portion of the poppy fund goes to provincial commands and the Dominion command for welfare work and to cover the cost of the poppies, made by some 40 disabled war veterans of Vetcraft Ltd.

EXPORTS STRESSED NOW SAY BRITON

Emphasis in Britain now is on export trade, says Sir Ernest Goodale, head of Britain's National Industrial exhibition, which is now on a tour of Canada. Sir Ernest said that British manufacturers consider the Canadian market a tough, fiercely competitive one. One of the purposes of his trip is to convince Trade Minister Howe to arrange a Canadian exhibit at the British exhibition. (Central Press Canadian).

RCAF Increases Search Squadron To Five Planes

TRENTON (CP) — The RCAF increased to nine today the number of aircraft searching for three men lost in the rugged bush country of northwestern Quebec.

Three planes searched Thursday but no trace of the aircraft which disappeared while on a flight from St. Jovite, Que., 90 miles north of Montreal, to Amos and Val D'Or, a distance of about 100 miles.

Missing are Pilot Lloyd Evans, his brother David and Augustine Ricci. They were on a fishing trip.

'Hydrogen, Hate Go Ill Together,' An Explosive Mixture'--Pearson

NEW DELHI (AP) — "Hydrogen and hate go ill together," Canada's minister for external affairs said in a New Delhi speech today.

"They are an explosive mixture," L. B. Pearson told the Indian Council of World Affairs. "Because of the revolutionary age in this field in the highest places, there has been of late a tendency to put more emphasis which could snap us into oblivion.

"Real peace is not yet with us, but if we show imagination as well as wisdom we may secure it."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was formed because of fears of aggression in Europe, and "it follows that circumstances change if the fear of war can be removed and if the United Nations can effectively discharge the security functions visualized in the charter,"

"There—but only then—should NATO or any other defensive security system which represents a temporary coming together of countries concerned disappear."

Pearson said Canada's interest in international amity and tolerance at this time of grave international danger was "plain," and that "with the stakes so high it is more necessary than ever that good sense and moderation control our actions."

This morning Pearson placed a wreath on the Gandhi memorial here, along with Escott Reid, Canadian high commissioner to India.

Today's ceremonies included the planting of maple trees at the Gandhi memorial and on the grounds of Canada House. At the formal planting Pearson commented: "I hope this is more successful than my home gardening."

Don Kingdon Made Manager Of Lake Ontario Development Association, Starting Jan. 1

Donald W. Kingdon, secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce for the past three years, has been appointed general manager of the Lake Ontario Development Association. He assumes his new duties on January 1, 1956.

Directors of the Association announced their choice Thursday night following a meeting in Peterborough in which they interviewed 15 men selected from the 95 applicants for the position. The announcement was made by Peterborough Alderman W. Gordon Powell, president of the association.

The appointment becomes effective subject to the approval of the Ontario government. Head office of the association will be in Peterborough.

Duties of the general manager include promotion and development of the industrial, tourist, agricultural and commercial interests of the area.

The Lake Ontario region encompasses the eight county area from Bowmanville to Napanee and includes Victoria, Northumberland, Peterborough, Haliburton, Lennox and Addington, Hastings and Prince Edward counties. There are 282,000 people in the area and 22 per cent of Ontario's people.

Those from the Quinte district present Thursday night in Peterborough were, P. C. McGuire of Belleville; W. H. Larry of Trenton; Sam Gentile of Picton and Harold Lasher of Napanee. Belleville is now the president of the association, city council having rejected affiliation.

HERE THREE YEARS

Mr. Kingdon will assume his new duties three years to the day that he became secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Kingdon was born and educated in Peterborough and during World War II served in the RCAF in Canada and overseas.

Following the war he attended Peterborough Business College. He was employed for a time as a teller in the Peterborough branch of the Victoria and Grey Trust and Savings, and was manager of the Kingdon Barrel and Shingle Company.

While he was assistant secretary-manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce he graduated from the Institute of Board and Chamber Secretaries which is sponsored by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at McMaster University.

While in Belleville Mr. Kingdon has been secretary of the industrial committee as well Chamber secretary-manager.

He is married to the former Jean Allison of Port Hope, and is the father of two boys.

He is a member of the Belleville Rotary Club.

"I have enjoyed living in Belleville and working with the citizens and the committees of the Chamber of Commerce," said Mr. Kingdon this morning.

"Working with the city council as secretary of the industrial committee has been a valuable experience and I appreciate the opportunity of working with them," he said.

New Travel Record Likely As Canadians Seek Fun, Sun In Europe and United States

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians, bitten harder by the travel bug each year, are heading for their biggest spending spree abroad.

Reflecting national prosperity, travellers Canadians last year spent a record $382,000,000 on trips outside the country. But figures compiled by the bureau of statistics for the first seven months of 1955 indicate they are spreading the dollar more than ever in foreign countries this year.

The bureau estimated that 20 per cent more Canadians travelled overseas and, about 10 per cent more overseas folk visited Canada last year than in 1954. Figures are not in for 1955, but it is apparent that more Canadians are flying to Europe than ever before and more are visiting the United States.

The United States is still the favorite visiting place of Canadians. Of the $323,000,000 of the total $382,000,000 spent by Canadians on travel outside the country last year. And although its share of this year's increased spending by Canadians is not yet known, the bureau says it is rising along with Europe's share.

Between January and June this year, Canadians spent $165,000,000 compared with $164,000,000 in the same period of 1954. The higher outflow of dollars, the official said, was running to both the U.S. and Europe.

Most of the money Canadians left overseas last year went to the United Kingdom—$120,000,000. Other European countries attracted $23,000,000, sterling areas other than the U.K. drew $7,000,000 and all other countries $3,000,000.

A bureau official said that of the $7,000,000 spent in sterling countries other than the U.K., more than half went to the tropical lands of the West Indies and Bermuda as many Canadians went south to escape the winter.

The amounts spent in all five categories of countries for which the bureau compiled statistics were up in 1954 from 1953. Most marked was the amount spent in the U.S. It rose to $313,000,000 from $307,000,000 in 1953. Canadians spent $31,000,000 in the U.K. in 1953 and $35,000,000 in 1954.

In 1953, Canadians spent $18,000,000 in continental European countries. They boosted this figure to $23,000,000 last year and it is expected to be pushed still higher this year.

Air travel to overseas countries is increasing. Bureau of Statistics figures show almost half the 73,000 Canadians returning to Canada from overseas last year came by air. That gave the airlines an increase of 32 per cent over 1953 in the percentage of Canadians returning directly to Canada from Europe and other areas across the seas.

Americans are not far ahead of Canadians when it comes to spending money in Europe. The bureau said U.S. travellers left behind $600,000,000 in 1954, last year compared with $35,000,000 from Canadians. On a per capita basis that put residents of Canada in a higher spending bracket than Americans while away from home.

In continental Europe, Americans last year spent $298,000,000 compared with Canadians' $23,000,000.

Travelling Sixty Police Car Flips And Hits Another

TORONTO (CP) — A police chase after a speeding motorist ended spectacularly early today when one of the cruisers flipped on its side at 60 miles an hour and skidded into a second police car.

JAMES R. WOOD
(Resident in this area all his life)

James R. Wood, R.R. 3 Crookston, died at his home Wednesday. He was in his 64th year.

Mr. Wood, who was a retired farmer, was born in Crookston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wood. He also had lived in Springbrook for a number of years and was a member of the local LOL there. His death followed a brief illness. Mr. Wood attended the United Church.

He is survived by one brother, Wilbert of Campbellford, and one sister, Mrs. Pearl Howard of Crookston.

Resting at the McKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. WILLIAM RANNIE (Campbellford)

CAMPBELLFORD — One of the oldest living residents of this district, Mrs. William Rannie, in her 104th year, has buried in Burnbrae cemetery on Thursday afternoon after an illness at three weeks in Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Rannie, born Mary Hurtis Hume at "Humeshaugh," Seymour township, on April 20, 1851, was the last of a family of eight children born to Thomas Hume and wife Jane Hall Masterson. She married the late Wm. Rannie in 1876 at the age of twenty-four and settled on the family homestead.

The largely attended funeral service, held from the home of her daughter and son-in-law, D. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnston, together with the many beautiful floral tributes, testified to the widespread esteem in which the deceased was held by friends and neighbors in the district.

Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church and Rev. Gordon Whitehorne who conducted the funeral service referred to Mrs. Rannie's fine Christian life, her unselfish circle of friends and her unselfish service to the community. She was made a life member of Hoard's United Church W.M.S. in 1930, and was an honorary director of the Ladies' Division of the Agricultural Society.

Mrs. Rannie is survived by a family of three children: Mrs. Roy Walker, Elm Tree, Ameliasburg and John Rannie, all of Campbellford; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. A daughter, Eloise, predeceased her in 1898 at the years of six.

Bearers were: Harold Milne, Osborne Rannie, Wm. Hume, Ronald Clarke, Harold Pierce and Morley Fetherbird.

Among relatives and friends attending the funeral from out-of-town were: Mrs. Ethel Hume of Windsor; Mrs. James Hume, Mrs. Ethel McGuire, Donald Hume, Mrs. Ernest Clayton and Mrs. Blake Totten, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Johnston and J. Alex. Hume of Ottawa; Mrs. John Brownlee, Mitchell of Tweed, and Mrs. Wm. White, of Roslin.

Invite Canada To Join Tourist Promotion Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canada is participating in the tourist promotion work of the Organization of American States, the organization's council meeting was told.

It approved a resolution asking the Inter-American Economic and Social Council to invite Canada to participate in the work of the four technical committees of the Inter-American Tourist Congresses.

Canada, in fact, has participated in the tourist congresses and conferences but has not acted with the four technical committees, which function within the economic and social council, and has been questioned Canada is not a member of the organization.

The resolution approved Thursday, however, would offer Canada the chance to participate—both voice and vote in the technical committees. The committees function in the interval between the inter-American congresses, and make recommendations for promoting tourism.

In Ottawa Canadian government officials said Canada's Leo Dolan—a past president of the congresses—said acceptance of the invitation was under study and was a matter for government decision. He said Canada's participation in the congresses and technical committees had been "most advantageous" to the country.

An external affairs department spokesman said acceptance of the invitation would not change Canada's relationship with OAS. Canada had participated actively in the work of the technical committee for several years and the invitation undoubtedly came because the conferences became part of OAS some time after their formation in 1939.

James R. Stanley Serves Eaton's Quarter Century

A quarter-century of service with one company was hailed at the Club Commodore last night when the Belleville branch of T. Eaton Co. Ltd. honored its manager, James R. Stanley.

JAMES R. STANLEY

Marking the occasion, A. S. Armstrong, general manager of the company's branch system, inducted Mr. Stanley into the Eaton Quarter Century Club. Official recognition of the company came in the form of a diamond ring and a letter of congratulation to Mr. Stanley from Eaton's president, John David Eaton.

Well known in the community, both as a company official and for his work with the Kiwanis Club, Mr. Stanley has managed the Belleville branch of Eaton's since 1933.

He joined the company in St. Catharines in 1930 and within four years became assistant manager of that branch. In 1937 he was promoted manager of the Pembroke outlet of Eaton's, where he remained for 15 years before being transferred to Belleville.

During his stay in Pembroke he joined the Kiwanis Club, becoming president in 1941. He continued his membership with the organization in Belleville and Belleville and now is an active member of Kiwanis here.

Keenly interested in sport, as a youth he was a playing member of the senior O.H.A. team in Lindsay, Ont.

Over 150 guests attended the banquet last night, company representatives and friends being present from Peterborough to Pembroke.

A lazy-boy chair, token of his employees' appreciation, was presented by Frank Johnson to Mr. Stanley, while a bouquet of roses was given to Mrs. Stanley by Miss Smith.

Following the presentations a cabaret show was presented with a bill of local entertainers being headed up by Marion Northrop Stratton, accompanist, of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

The evening ended with dancing.

Police Blotter

Brake failure of one auto resulted in a two-car collision at the intersection of Bridge and North streets last night causing minor injuries to two persons and damage of $700 property damage.

Twomey Bissel, 281 Bridge St. East, was eastbound on Bridge, Victor M. Leavitt of Cherry Valley was northbound on North St. The brakes on the latter car were said to have failed.

Leavitt suffered a bruised right leg, while Graham Gould, 273 Ann street, suffered a cut lower lip and cuts to both knees.

Thursday afternoon a car driven by Mrs. Margaret Lucas, R. R. 4 Belleville, went out of control on Dundas street, East. Proceeding west the car cut across the boulevard and across the east lane, went down an embankment and cut across two lawns in Meyers' before coming to a stop in the middle of Second Street.

This morning in city magistrate's court James E. Genereaux, Sidney street, was given suspended sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on a charge of stealing five gallons of oil and a box of shotgun shells from a car parked near the C.N.R. station.

Pacific Coast Bicycle Tour Film Enthalls

"Adventure in the Northwest", Stan Midgley's technicolor film account of a delightfully informal bicycle trip through Oregon, Washington, southern British Columbia and northern California captivated the Kiwanis World Travel and Adventure series audience in the BCI auditorium Thursday evening.

The "Evergreen Playground" of the fabulous Pacific northwest proved to be a land of rugged and beautiful scenery, familiar names, lakes, white-capped peaks, running streams, beautiful waterfalls, pounding surf, brilliant flowers, rain forests and dazzling panoramas of mountains, sea and sky filled Mr. Midgley's picture with beauty.

Whether spinning down a mountain road on his bicycle, bouncing down the Rogue River in a skiff, or pushing his bicycle across snowfields, Mr. Midgley radiated an air of gaiety and evident joy that drew his audience right into his adventure.

The great cities of Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Victoria; rolling farmlands of the Hood valley; Grand Coulee dam, Paradise valley, lodges, all received a wild fluency and the tailored loveliness of Victoria's Butchart gardens overpowered the greatness and the grandeur of one of North America's most spectacular areas.

An added feature was a 15-minute film on the 1953 Rose Parade.

On his third visit to Belleville as a photographer - narrator Mr. Midgley has established a standard of entertainment that is difficult to meet and nearly impossible to excel.

Masons Hold Ladies' Night At Temple Here

Members of The Belleville Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 126, and their wives last night entertained in Temple for one of the biggest Ladies' Nights, ever held here.

Nearly 300 members, their wives and visiting Masons were present for the event.

One of the highlights of the evening was the conferring of a degree on a Belleville Mason by the Golden Rule Lodge of Campbellford.

Following the ceremony the gathering retired to the dining room for a banquet presided over by Wor. Bro. Ralph Plumpton. Grace before meat was said by Wor. Bro. Rev. Nicholas Morant, special photographer for the Canadian Pacific Railways, who accompanied slides of American landscapes with a commentary. Landscapes of the south-western U.S. and its Indian areas, were shown together with Canadian scenes.

The speaker was introduced by Bro. Arthur Allen and thanked by Rt. Wor. Bro. R. M. Gunsolus. A toast to the visitors was proposed by Wor. Bro. E. Fairman and responded to by Bro. Sid Hopping.

C.C. Hears Industrial Report, Plans Jubilee

CAMPBELLFORD — The monthly meeting of the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce was held on Friday evening in the Council chambers with the president, Ross Laird, in the chair.

R. D. McDonald reported for the Industrial Committee, stating that his committee had answered some inquiries as regards to Campbellford. He was hopeful something would result from these. A vigorous discussion followed as to means of better attracting companies to locate in town.

The president, who represents the Chamber of a committee for an organization of the celebration of the Golden Jubilee and Old Home Week, gave a report of a meeting held recently. It was decided that the celebration be held on Sunday, July 1st, to July 7th, 1956. It was anticipated that on the opening Sunday there will be a drumhead service in the show grounds. It is hoped that different organizations will undertake to be responsible for functions or days during the week. A meeting is to be called for November 24th, to which all interested organizations are to be invited to further plans for what would be a real week of celebration and homecoming.

MOVIE PARADE

It was decided to have a special meeting of the Chamber, together with all other interested citizens or organizations, to be held on Friday, November 18th, at 7:30 in the Council Chambers for the organization of the annual Santa Claus parade, which the Chamber will sponsor again this year.

The next meeting will be a dinner meeting with a special speaker.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ¾ per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate 99¾ cents. Pound sterling $2.79½, against $2.79⅝.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices posted a slim advance in quiet first-hour dealings on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Papers led industrials ahead with a string of fractional advances. Also in demand were financial institutions, gold, liquors, manufactures and refining oils. Price changes were limited to about a point. Algoma Steel, Rayrock Steel, General Dynamics, Bank of Nova Scotia, St. Lawrence Corporation and Steico were a point or major fractions higher. Page-Hersey and Canada Malting eased a point.

Senior base metals improved fractionally. Hudson Bay and International Nickel added ¼. Gains of 10-15 cents were marked up to Bathurst, Cassiar, Consolidated Fenimore, East Sullivan and United Asbestos. Losses were all most all under 10 cents.

McIntyre added $1 among golds. Light action in uranium saw Beaucage up 20 at $2.70.

Western oils moved narrowly with few advances of more than 10 cents.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) —Churning cream and butter prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was quiet on large and offerings were in excess of poor demand. Other grades were steady.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 53; A medium 47; A small 42-43; B 43; B undergrade 38; B fall: A large 38; A medium 52; A small 47-48; B 44; C 38.

Butter solids: Ontario, first grade, undersale 58; non-undersale 57¼-58; western 56½ (nominal); one lot of first grade, 40 score butter at 58¾.

Townsend Returns To Brussels Post

LONDON (AP) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend, rejected suitor of Princess Margaret, left England today to return to his post as British air attache in Brussels.

Townsend drove from Uckfield House in Sussex, where he and the princess spent last weekend as guests of Lord and Lady Rupert Nevill, to Lydd airport in Kent and boarded an Army service plane to Le Touquet, France. He is expected to drive on to Brussels.

His leave from Brussels expires Monday. Townsend previously had told reporters he didn't intend to leave England until at least Sunday.

Townsend came home Oct. 12 from Brussels and saw the princess nearly every day until she issued her statement Monday night saying she was placing duty to God and country before her love for him, and that they would not marry.

He did not see her again before his departure.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to 25 cents a hundredweight higher this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were unchanged. Hogs lost $1.50 a hundredweight, while lambs were 25 cents a hundredweight higher.

Cattle receipts were about 600 head less than last week and 700 head more than the same week last year. Cattle received from western Canada were 2,394 head, an increase over last week of 79 head.

Calves totalled 1,859 head, as compared with 525 head last week. The easterns were mostly replacement cattle. There were no shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers and no export to the United States.

Feature of the week was the active demand for a scant supply of good and choice slaughter steers and heifers. Despite the continued heavy runs, the numbers of good and choice grades were too few to fulfil buyers needs.

Contrary to this fact was the heavy volume of low-medium and common killers offered. These latter grades were offered in far too numerous amounts for the trade to absorb, resulting in a draggy week-long session.

Good choice heifers sold steady throughout the week. However, these grades of steers were 2 cents lighter. Although cow numbers were heavier than in the past few weeks, this class met an active demand selling at steady prices and in some cases sales were higher than last week's close.

Bulls were also in brisk demand and all-round top prices were unchanged, this class was actually higher on sort. It was estimated 1,500 common killers and stockers would be unsold at the close. Well dressed beef trade was reported as only fair.

Prices:

Choice Steers $20-21, with sales to $21.25; good steers $18-20; medium $16-19 according to quality; common $13-16; good choice offed yearlings $21.50-22.50, with sales to $23; good fed yearlings $20.50-21.50; mediums $17-20; good cows $11-13.50; some sales to $12; good light heifers were up to $13; canner and cutter cows down to $6; good heavy bologna bulls $13; common and medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement Cattle: This class were generally slow at easier prices. Receipts were sharply increased over last week. Heavy short-keeps weighing upwards of 800 pounds were in narrow demand with the few sales made on these weights selling considerably lower. Weights selling less than 800 pounds were slow at easier prices. Good stockers were mostly $18-19 with odd sales to $19.25. Some good stock calves sold up to $20. Mediums were $16-17.50 with commons $14-16.

Calves were fully steady with good and choice vealers selling at $23-25, with sales to $26 and more. Mediums were $15-22 with commons $10-15. Grass calves sold for slaughter were $9-12.

Hogs were up to $1.50 lower and closed at $23.50 for grade A, with a few loads out at $24. Sows were $18 dressed. Slags $13 dressed.

Lambs were 25 cents higher. Good ewes and wether lambs were $19.50. Bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight. Buyers sorted and heavy lambs near the close at $2 discount. Common and medium lambs were $13-17. Feeder lambs were $14-17. Good light sheep were $8 with common and heavy sheep down to $3.

Students Decide Not to Press Differences With Bd. of Education

TRENTON (Special) — Students of the Trenton high school have closed the book on their differences of opinion with the Board of Education for the time being at least.

At a special meeting of the students' council yesterday the students unanimously decided to stop campaigning for an apology for their principal, George Spencer, who, they claim, was "snubbed" by the executive of the board who arranged the new high school datestone ceremony.

The students' council managed to get 316 signatures on the petition circulated to back up its action. Michael Holt, executive member of the students' council, said more signatures could have been obtained. The high school enrolment totals 435.

STATEMENT TO PRESS

After the meeting of the students' council yesterday the following statement was issued to the press:

"We, the students of Trenton high school do not accept the letter sent by the Board of Education as an apology. We feel that the reasons given for the omission of Mr. Spencer from the program of the laying of the datestone were irrelevant and immaterial. We believe that the school board should render a public apology to Mr. Spencer in order to avoid further bad feeling between the board and the school and to restore any loss of the measures towards gaining an apology. Signed: The Students' Council."

A day earlier the students' council received a letter from the Board of Education in which the writer endeavored to explain reasons why the high school principal was not invited to sit on the platform with the officials taking part in the datestone ceremony.

The letter, replying to a resolution demanding a public apology for their principal, went in their messages towards gaining an apology. Signed: "

IS THE AIR FORCE OBSOLETE?

Could it be possible that the air force is already obsolete?

Has the fantastic acceleration in weapon development which created supersonic fighters and intercontinental bombers already left them far behind the trailing fumes of rockets and guided missiles?

The importance of the answer is not strictly academic since the air force in Canada receives the largest share of defence spending which, itself, encompasses 60 per cent of annual federal expenditures. And, if military aircraft are obsolete, are defence systems such as the DEW (defence early warning), mid-Canada and Pinetree lines also obsolete?

Operation of supersonic aircraft is becoming more and more automatic. Navigation and combat procedure is becoming more and more the task of electronic devices. Newest developments include an "electronic brain" that not only searches out enemy planes but carries out necessary combat manoeuvres, fires the guns and/or rockets and does evasive action when necessary. About all that is required of the pilot is temporary control of the aircraft during takeoff and landing.

The guided missiles, such as Nike, which can be launched from earth, are swifter than the aircraft which they are designed to destroy and have "homing" devices which practically guarantee delivery of the warhead against a target plane.

Intercontinental guided missiles are in an advance stage of development in the United States and in England, and presumably in Russia. These missiles, reported capable of carrying an atomic or hydrogen bomb, travel at speeds in excess of anything attainable by present interceptors. Ranges of 2,000 or 3,000 miles are said these missiles reduce the time factor between launching site and target to such a degree that warning systems capable of detecting them offer too little chance for persons in the target area to disperse.

Professor J. I. Jackson, of the RCAF Staff College, Toronto, in the current issue of "Current Affairs" says that the hydrogen bomb may prove rather than the United States or Russia, not just the country's ability to fight, but its very "civilized order." Combat defence against aircraft armed with atomic bombs is not optimistically set at 90 per cent. That is, defence officials think, nine of every 10 planes attacking North America can be destroyed before accomplishing their mission. That means that a striking force of 400 aircraft could deliver 40 bombs if the defence was 90 per cent effective; a number of bombs sufficient, says Professor Jackson, to destroy the United States as a living nation.

Training crews for supersonic bombers is a costly and complex job. U.S. Air Force authorities have stated that the training of a pilot for an intercontinental bomber costs $60,000. The wastage of lives and money entailed in committing fighter and bombing planes to massive air assaults when unmanned, cheaper guided missiles are available capable of delivering nuclear weapons with greater speed is a fact that seriously challenges the continuing existence of the air force in its present form.

The answer is not to be found in our headlines until 1957. Because aircraft and weapons capable of attacking and destroying this continent are possessed by a potential enemy it is apparent that any weaknesses in the defence system guarding us be strengthened in all possible ways.

It is ironic that the means employed in our defence, spectacular as they are, could be obsolete even before the defence system is complete.

The days of military aviation, as a fighter and bomber force, may already be numbered.

JAIL SENTENCES NEEDED

"There is food for thought in a remark by Sheriff Clarence Hall of Surry County, Michigan," says the Hamilton Spectator. "He was at the scene of a highway accident in which three teenagers had been killed and five injured. Asked his name agency for comment, he said: 'If the habitual, careless teenaged driver were jailed instead of letting his daddy come down and pay the fine, you'd have a lot less of this'."

There is food for thought in that remark, all right, but there seems little good reason to limit jail sentences for habitual careless drivers to teenagers.

Someone sent a letter to the Hamilton Spectator appear to believe that, because it is daddy and not the teenager who pays the fine, this form of punishment makes little impression. In many cases, though, we would hazard a guess that a fine paid by daddy is a greater embarrassment to the careless driver than in a fine paid by the driver himself.

In many cases fines for traffic offences represent no real punishment to the careless driver. In other cases, of course, they are a heavy penalty, but this penalty may fall more on the dependents of the driver than on the driver himself.

There is unquestionably a place for fines in the enforcement of law, but many times, no matter whether this place should include serious driving offences. When carelessness is habitual, whether or not the offender is a teenager, jail sentences would appear to be the correct answer. Only jail sentences can be sure that the penalty will prove a deterrent to the repetition of such offences.

Mr. Joseph Blackburn, well-known young business man, who has been manager of the long established branch store here of the Dandi Stroud Company of Montreal, has assumed full control of the Stroud business in this city and will carry on the business under the Stroud name which has been so well known here for years. Mr. Joseph Blackburn succeeded his father, the late Albert Blackburn, as manager of the Stroud Store many years ago.

Lord Tweedsmuir, the new Governor General, and Lady Tweedsmuir were welcomed at Ottawa station by Premier Bennett. They will proceed to Ottawa shortly and will be tendered another reception there before proceeding to their official residence at Rideau Hall. His Excellency, prior to his elevation to the Peerage, was known to readers of John Buchan, famous author.

Going north today for the deer hunting season were the following: Dr. V. Blakelee, R. J. E. Graham, Fred Smith, Stanley Hagerman, W. E. Rowsome, Garnett Rowsome, R. B. Hannah, W. Lumsden, A. E. Purdy and Major A. Pratt.

"Coal is scarce in the city owing to the continued state of the coal miners. The price quoted for what anthracite coal is available is $18.50 per ton.

Mr. A. C. Weir, who has been appointed manager of the Bank of Montreal here to succeed the late H. A. Tolley, will arrive here tomorrow.

The Rev. C. E. Clarke, rector of Christ Church, gave a very interesting and informative address at the meeting of the members of Eureka Lodge A. F. & A. M. last evening. His subject was "Ancient Temples" with special reference to Solomon's Temple.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Harris have returned home from the Old Country where they visited friends.

Mrs. P. O'Neil has left for her home in St. Louis, Mo., after visiting friends here.

Messrs. Boyd and Parliament have opened a first class grocery store on Front Street, opposite to the Dominion House.

The Belleville Amateur Minstrels have been invited by the Stirling Village council to open the new hall in that village some date to be selected near the end of this month. The invitation has been accepted.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my nice nieces had a baby girl the other day and asked me what I thought of Jennifer for a name.

Jennifer! For Pete's sake, Jennifer is a variation of Guenevere, and Guenevere was Queen Arthur's wife phantom. We don't want phantoms in the family.

"Look!" I said to her. "Where are all the pretty names that were in fashion when I was a girl? Lulu, I haven't met a Lulu for thirty years.

"And Belle! This girl that sat next to me in the First Book-grade knew you all it now—was named Belle, and what a nice girl she was. Let me see now. What were the names of the other girls in my class? There was Nellie and two Bessies, a Violet, two Annies, a Sadie, a Lil, this Olive, two Roses, a fat one and a little very pretty skinny one; there was Ruby, the teacher's pet, and one Minnie."

"Ohhhh!" said my niece.

"Sophie!"I cried. "There was a Sophie! I sat next door to her, twice across the street there were three sisters, Abby, Lola and Etta. What happened, what on earth has happened, to all the pretty names of yesterday? What happened to the Lulus and the Daisies and the Nellies? Didn't you have Bessies? Bella and Aunt Lulu and Aunt Sophie! And if they became aunts, they must have been born. Now I come, if no one ever named a baby in this generation after them?

My niece was sorry for me; she explained that no doubt Lulu became Louise by the time she was grown up to be Henrietta, and Annie became Anne, and Nellie went back to Helen, and so forth.

"Okay, then," I said firmly. "How about Bella?

But they compromised by calling the new baby Heather.

MODERN IDOLATRY

Idolatry continues in every age to be the greatest evil in the realm of the spirit. There is almost as much idolatry in civilized countries today as there is among the primitive tribes in the jungle—only it is of a different form. Millions of people in the world regard with derision the circumstances which cause a naked savage to prostrate himself before an idol, turn around and prostrate themselves before idols that are probably more despising than anything the savage and his idol-smaker ever conceived.

Look at the business circles in which you move today. There are plenty of idolatry there! Think of what people will do to satisfy their appetites. Look upon the multitudes who would regard nothing so fraught with pleasure as the opportunity to be able to loaf the day away with no responsibility whatsoever.

For some people pride is an idol. There are people who make so much over family and social distinctions that they would not, without protest, allow a son or a daughter to marry outside a certain social class. There are others who thirst for vengeance. Husband and wife may hate each other in a deep and abiding fashion which makes their life together an affront to God. For these people their venomous dislike for each other becomes a poison which they clutch with much brooding.

Idolatry—that is the primary issue in the spiritual life.

East Waupoos Mill

(By Judith Robertson in the Toronto Telegram)

The freshets of a hundred and sixty-four springs had bettered the stonework at the corner of the little mill.

The way to fix it right, the carpenter said over the stonemason agreed, was to pull the whole corner right out from the inside-out, tear down and build her up again solid. That way you'd have something to work on down.

They pulled her right out, dumping the lion's share of the mess back, handy for building her up again solid. Then the rain came.

It rained for five days liver for a night and rained for three days more. Before it ended all the roofs in East Waupoos were leaking. Rabbit Creek was sliding in a solid sheet over the plank of the weir, the foot-bridge at the end of the lower pond was washed out and the old mill-race was no longer dry.

Like the creek-bed, it was three feet deep in tumbling water and, where the dam from the mill-race corner dammed back the flood, three times as wide as it ought to be.

Returners to the mill discovered it with horror on the evening of the fifth day when the carpenter's tent end-timbers over a roar of waters. Between them and the tent, where dawn found them, nothing but empty air surrounded by a jonery lattice-work of four-by-eight listed slightly; it was collared high up by a hardpushing frill of mill-stuff, and it was all that held up the end of the mill.

I'm sure would, the carpenter agreed, be bad luck if she went out. Too much weight on her. Then it was agreed by the president A. R. Walker. The report of W. Jeffers Diamond, the secretary-treasurer, showed a balance on hand of $74.22 after all obligations had been met. The following officers were elected: president, A. R. Walker; first vice president, W. Used to be flood gates in this corner, he reported after a thoughtful clearing, one in and one out and a channel right across here under the floor and that's what we'll give her again, in the sense fighting water. Better go down with it like the old fellow did that built this mill. Likely this corner might have been good still had them gates had been cleaned and working like they should the time before that if they came down. We'll make the new sluices wider to be safe.

Then while he was widening the lower sluice the one in the end wall came the wheel housing that the stonemason uncovered the wooden post. A short stub of a post with the foot in the water. It had been built, with the beam it supported, right into the stonework of the old wall and had outlasted both.

Nothing left of the cross timber, the stonemason said, and we'll have to get the top of the post off. If we went to make her solid.

They got it out at last in three pieces, with the help of a pry-bar and a sledge, and the stonemason guessed. Nothing but red cedar that he knew of would last a hundred years in water and in half out of water half its life. Then rolled up one of the broken pieces.

Yep, he said. Red cedar all right.

It was hardly necessary to lean it leveled. For it was a fine piece. Fresh as a board sawn yesterday, pungent as woodsmoke, fragrant as sunlight. Red cedar that had been imprisoned since 1791 took the air like a drink of water.

John Graves Simcoe was appointed governor of the new province of Upper Canada in 1791 and the year the new mill was built at East Waupoos. It was a mill considered enduring in his day, very little comes unchanged in time, whether vocation by water alone. Just split a post that was there beside Rabbit Creek when George the Third was king and there it is.

It was a no moral, and the stonemason says it's on account of the red cedar preserved in water; sort of petrifies on the outside and holds the smell in.

Irish Horses Beat

(New York Times)

In the dimly lighted pubs of Dublin the old-timers still speak in awed tones of the legendary horse named Barcaldine. From the time he was foaled in 1878, through his racing career in Ireland and Great Britain in the Eighteen Eighties, the Irish speedster never lost a race. He was a big chestnut with a stout fleir eyes become slight with excitement and whose head turned ed with awe while they tell about him. Barcaldine is which the mighty Barcaldine gave a fifty-yard head start-8-Blackness, winner of the Cambridgeshire, and then ran away' from him for an easy victory.

There has been no horse quite like Barcaldine developed in Ireland since he died. There have been so many other racers and jumpers of outstanding ability produced there that horses have become that nation's richest export. According the auburn-haired five "The Irish Horse" more races are run in Ireland per square mile than in any previous year for which figures are expected to rise higher this year. New Yorkers will have an opportunity to see Ireland's horses in action at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden. For the first time since the organization of the polo squad will ride their home-bred horses in competition against the world's outstanding military jumping teams.

The universal respect for the quality of Irish-bred horses was demonstrated in 1954 in a remark made at the Garden horse show by Major Hans Von Heydekampf, captain of West Germany's international jumping team. "Irish horses are the secret of Ireland's success! The rugged terrain of the little island certainly has been a factor. The sturdy mounts must possess natural cleverness to cope with the stone walls that they must stretch across the fields of Galway, the deep ditches of Meath and Union country, the high and narrow banks of Wexford or the wider ones of Tipperary."

The Government's interest in a horse-breeding industry amounted to $1,700,000 in exports to United States alone as has done much to improve the quality of the National Stud not far from Dublin, in the Kildare countryside, where valuable properties. In an ancient castle overlooking the estate lives the star boarder, a handsome red roan named "Tulyar, Irish-bred' paid $700,000 to the Aga Khan for this horse after a spirited debate in the Irish Legislature over the "luxury" purchase price.

But money alone does not produce great competitors. The fine Irish Army horses trained jointly by the Irish Army's jumping team has been with the assistance of horses that were bought at prices far below those usually paid by other competing nations. Unlike many horses in the Irish Army when they are 4 years old they are broken and make the grade are sold at auction. The promising colts, brought to the McKee Barracks in Dublin for schooling, are kept busy in local hunts to train them for combat muscular. Later the horses are trained to timber jumping and tried at provincial meets to accustom them to noise and crowds.

Like the cowboys, the men in the Irish Army also must start from the scratch. Riding is a required part of the basic training of an army officer, some members of the Irish team have been with it since boyhood only joined the Equitation School. The officer-cadet trainees receive a three-month course in horsemanship and those who show aptitude for the sport are advanced and encouraged. The Irish Army maintains schools to develop riders of international calibre. Who will be seen at their best to match the reputation of the noted teams of the Nineteen Thirties.

How To Tell A Gentleman

(BBC Bulletin)

"You can always tell a gentleman, he takes his shoes off first", said Blondini the strong man. "His crystal remark referred to the different people who stand on his head for their livelihood. Anyone while he is lying in a bed of nails to show his remarkable strength. To thirteen Blondini and his youngest sword swallower in the world, they must be sure that they be prepared for them getting even worst by lying on a bed of nails — a mere hundred or so.

Another little stunt is to pull cars along by the teeth: a man is tied on to a car, a knot is made in the rope and Blondini takes the end between his teeth and pulls. He does it with a flourish, and for a change lets any one who wishes to do so break a paving stone on his chest with a sledge-hammer.

He recently celebrated his thirtyfifth birthday by sleeping one night lying on a bed of nails on Brighton pier, followed by a breakfast of safety razor blades, electric light bulbs and a gramophone record.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Why Is A Dish Towel?

"Oh, Grandma, you have to eat a peck of dirt before you die!" We used to reply when Grandma'd saw us diving into the water - melon after a summer's drought. One-old-cat. "Tch, Tch, child, those hands!" But grandmother smiled.

Today's grandmother ought to know better. Today's housewife certainly should. But do you? Even educated persons have the mistaken notion that if the water is hot enough, the dishes will be clean.

True enough, boiling the dishes for three minutes would sterilize them, but no tap water can do that trick. It's the soap, madam, the soap and plenty of it, that does the cleaning. Soap is a detergent. Detergs means to cleanse.

Now you may scrub your dishes with soap, but what of the smiling and grievous bodies standing by with the tea-towel you used yesterday for wiping up spills? What better has the gift of fate request a guest to wash his hands before helping him with dishes? You wash: the guest who just wiped up the dog dishes. The guest who came to your party or though he should have stayed in bed with his "cold" putting the dishes away. By now the jig is up. If you power your family to the insurance they might realize, here is what to do:

Brush dishes clean of food particles. Wash in very soapy water. Rinse in hot water. Leave to drain dry. Wash hands with soap before washing dishes. Wash hands before handling dry dishes. If you insist upon drying, use a towel freshly laundered, not one you've used to wipe the dog's paws or your face.

Table - setters need freshly washed hands. Waiters and waitresses should not handle money and menus with the same hands used to serve your plate. No reputable restaurant or home would allow glasses to be grasped by tip of drinking rim. If you see this done, look for a straw. Ever accept a glass whose rim is noticed, cracked or otherwise a harboring place for lipstick and associated germs.

And remember, soap is the cleansing agent. Soap, not hot water. If you prefer one of the available detergents to soap it is equally efficient as cleanser and disinfectant.

Must Explain Civil Defence

(Vancouver Sun)

Letters from readers reaching The Sun make it clear that the authorities must work out a major plan by which the public can be told how civil defence against bombs or disaster is necessary.

The great official confusion on what form of civil defence should be used, whether it is to be undertaken on a federal-provincial basis or by communities, whether there shall be deep shelters or none, whether evacuation is possible on a large scale, whether there are effective devices against the effects of radiation or not, is emphatically one which requires arrangements to set up civil defence are hopelessly inadequate. It is not even settled that there will bear what share of the cost. Residents of cities have not been settled basis, and still bears some-thing of the "wait dog-out" stance which always marked leadership in peacetime military or semi-military set-ups. Information is scarce, probably out-of-date just as the military establishment is, if present it. These things make for confusion.

But there is no reason why a propaganda program explaining why we must have civil defence should not be undertaken by the government immediately. Sadly written pamphlets, the old book for sale, occasional news releases are not enough.

The government has a government-owned radio and TV system, the cheapest and most effective it employ. It has a large bureaucracy in department which could be used for the task of informing the public.

Almost all assembly in emergency is panic. The effects of panic on whole untrained populations have been seen by all men and women who have experienced war. The effects of discipline on men and women have been seen by all who have experienced war. The disciplined crowd remains calm, slips into the job appointed to meet emergency, saves life and survive running, saves his own and his family's life.

We believe this is what the government may have in mind in its hesitation about the matter of civil defence. If it is so, we suggest the time surrounded by doubts is about panic and its terrifying effects.

The threat of war will hang over men's heads until world disarmament is the only thing about . . . am this cannot be soon.

Therefore we demand that the government immediately tell the Canadian people why we must have civil defence. We suggest it is to promote national confidence that we may all remain calm if there should be attack, that the government must hammer at this point until every citizen knows that to run blindly is to die. At the moment, too many people have no inspiration to CD.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TAKE THE TIME!

I have two hobbies at least that have given me joy and recreation for more than thirty years, but of late I have told some people about them, and showed the results that I have made so much to me, that so many cases I get this remark: "But where do you find the time to do these things?" My answer is that I take time.

I have a friend who talks beautifully and fluently in French. One day I asked him how he learned about. He replied that he took the time to study the grammar and read everything after evenings from his newspaper dudge, for he was a reporter. He took the time necessary to him many an assignment that he would not have had otherwise.

We can do so much in a little time! I once intrigued a reader of mine Telka into reading a single book that I suggested. He had never read a book, and never read after he wrote to me and said he had read and enjoyed a fine library of 400 books! He just took the time that brought this result about—with it a joy he had never expected.

What a familiar phrase that one is these words: "Oh, I never have the time to do such things." We have far more time than many of us ever I have told some people about them, and showed the results that I have made so much to me, that so many cases I get this remark: "But where do you find the time to do these things?" HOLLOWAY STREET UNITED CHURCH - W.M.S.

The regular meeting of Holloway Street W.M.S. was held in the church parlors on Tuesday.

After a word of welcome to all present the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. G. Coulter.

The worship service was conducted by the reading group. Scripture from St. Luke's gospel was read by Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Bunnett, Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Potter.

Mrs. Cook read an article on the work of the Indian, giving a full report on the eight Indian mission fields in Canada.

Mrs. Townsend gave an inspiring and interesting message on "Christian Stewardship" and also favored with a solo entitled "Peace Perfect Peace".

The book entitled "Hope Rises From the Land" was introduced by Mrs. P. Wetherell.

Mrs. Steers told of some of the accomplishments made by the United Nations during the past ten years.

A memorial service followed for four recently deceased members. Flowers were presented by Mrs. Steers in memory of Mrs. Linnen; by Mrs. Milbank in memory of Mrs. Beal; by Mrs. Potter in memory of Mrs. Livesey and by Mrs. Coulter in memory of Mrs. Bell.

Mrs. Weese reported 43 calls on the sick and shut-ins.

A gratifying financial report was brought in by the secretary, Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Bunnett read a letter from the superintendent of Ethelbert hospital in the West, thanking the society for a bale recently sent and telling of the wonderful work being done there by Dr. and Mrs. Ross Green.

At the close, refreshments were served by the reading group and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

MARSH HILL W.M.S

MARSH HILL — The November meeting of the Marsh Hill W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Berson Mitts with 13 members and one Mission Band member present.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Finkle, opened the meeting with the reading of what the Woman's Missionary Society seeks to do.

The members reported making three house calls, sending 13 cards and one hospital letter.

Mrs. Berson Mitts, Mrs. David Hollinger and Mrs. Fred Campbell were appointed a nominating committee.

BALE SENT

Mrs. Hollinger, supply secretary, reported sending the bale and read the list of different articles sent.

Mrs. Bartindale literature secretary reported that the Study books for the Mission Band and the W. M. S. had been received.

Mr. Fred Campbell, Christian Stewardship secretary, told of the ban on liquor in Delhi, India.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle gave a report of the Autumn rally of the Belleville East Section of W. M. S. which had been held at Carmel.

PROGRAM

Mrs. E. R. Finkle was in charge of the program.

"The Tale of a Bale" was read by Mrs. David Hollinger.

"Peter Cross" Japan's only Negro Collegian, was read by Mrs. Bartindale.

Mrs. Charlie Ross read, "The Church Across the Street" and Berson Mitts, "A Door of Understanding" which was "Questions on Racial Brotherhood", and discussion.

Mrs. Finkle was assisted in the worship service by Mrs. Alex Thomer and Mrs. Harold Detlor, the theme being "The Call to Fellowship."

After the Benediction, the hostess served refreshments.

WALLBRIDGE W.A.-W.M.S.

WALLBRIDGE. — The monthly pot-luck dinner of the W.A. was held in the church dining hall on Wednesday, with a good attendance.

Proceeds of the dinner were over $20.

After dinner, the meeting was opened by the 1st vice-president, Mrs. Sam Nicolson. Mrs. Douglas Thompson read Scripture lesson from John 14:1-14 and Mrs. Sam Nicolson gave lesson study, "The Way". Mrs. Edgar Lane presided at the piano.

A reading "Eternity" was given by Mrs. Frank Harris. Devotional part was closed by the Rev. W. E. Dovey.

Business was discussed and it was decided to hold a quilting in the hall. All were asked to come and help get the quilts finished.

The regular monthly pot-luck dinner will be held on December seventh.

Secretary gave her report, and a card was acknowledged from Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson for flowers and cards sent at the time of her

Wolf Cubs Held Enjoyable Party On Hallowe'en

Tramps, Indians, spacemen, ghosts, goblins, pretty girls and all sorts of weird characters came to a Hallowe'en party for the 6th Belleville Tabernacle Wolf Cub Pack on Wednesday evening.

WINNERS

A large circle formed for the grand march with the leaders judging the best costumes. Winner for the most original was Roque Taylor, in a spaceman suit; for the "prettiest girl", Francis Rose and for the best-dressed man, Donald Douglas.

For the funniest costume, the first prize went to Billy Bell, dressed as an Indian; the second to David Kingston, as a tramp, and the third to Stephen Turner, as a pirate. Prize-winning leader was assistant, Jimmy Stansfield.

Prize-winners for a game of "Pass the Broom" was Paul Williams.

The Cubs were divided into their "Sixes" groups for a peanut relay, which consisted of each Cub in line rolling a peanut to the finish line with his nose, while on his hands and knees. Winning groups were the yellow, blue and white Sixers.

LEOPARD STORY

While the Cub Pack sat crosslegged in a large circle, a story was told by Rickl. (Joyce Babiak) about a man-eating leopard and a hunter who tied two young goats to a tree and watched from a platform, built high up in the trees. After several nights, he finally saw the leopard and shot at it, but the animal escaped. With twenty natives carrying pine torches to light the way, he followed its trail, but when they found it, ready to charge the natives fled. By the remaining light of burning pine, dropped by the torch-bearers, the hunter shot the leopard and the natives returned to carry it back to the village, where everyone was now able to sleep without fear from the man-eater.

Assembled in their Sixer groups, the Cubs were served refreshments of sandwiches, cake, ice cream and soft drinks by the leaders.

grandfather's death, Col. W. Ketcheson.

The treasurer's report was also read and a good sum has been already taken in by collection instead of holding the chicken supper. Three flower baskets and a container were donated to the church by Mrs. Robert Latta, in memory of her husband, Robert Latta.

Mr. W. Dovey moved a vote of thanks to all who helped with the pot-luck supper for Girls' Club.

The W.M.S. meeting followed with Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson taking charge and opened with questions, answered by reading verses taken from Luke, by Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. McNaught.

The treasurer's report was read and a number handed in their Thanksgiving envelopes. It was decided to have an afternoon tea on December 14, at the home of Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson, each one to take home-cooking, cookies, or candy, for sale and to exchange gifts. Proceeds for the W.M.S.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton are shown signing the register following the wedding ceremony at Christ Church, Belleville, Ont. (Photo by W. Riley Studio, Belleville.)

HAMILTON—LATCHFORD

Tall standards of white chrysanthemums formed a lovely setting for a double-ring ceremony on Saturday, October 22, at 2.30 p.m., in Christ Church, Belleville, when Rose Marie Latchford of Cannifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Latchford, became the bride of George Lewis Hamilton of R.R. 6, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hamilton.

Archdeacon J. R. Cresgan, rector of Christ church, officiated.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the choir boys, who rendered "O Perfect Love" prior to the ceremony, "Psalm 67" during the ceremony and "Brother James Air" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was a lovely picture in a ballerina length gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin. The strapless lace bodice was molded, while the lace skirt had flounces of nylon tulle over satin. A long-sleeved jacket with a Sweetheart neckline and Queen Anne collar topped the bodice. Her fingertip veil of French illusion bordered with lily-of-the-valley was caught to a pleated tulle bonnet trimmed with pearls. She also wore her wedding gift from the bridegroom, a single strand of pearls with matching earring and carried a cascade of American Beauty roses with satin streamers.

Mrs. Lloyd Cone of Cannifton, as matron of honor, was attired in a ballerina - length gown of blue net over nylon with matching feather headdress. She carried a bosegay of white, yellow and bronze mums cofsured with yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Arthur Hamilton, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Robert Latchford, brother of the bride, and Mr. Albert Simmons, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held at the parish hall, Christ church, which was decorated for the occasion with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. The bride's mother received, wearing a navy blue crepe dress with red accessories and a corsage of red and blue carnations, while the bridegroom's mother, in a grey taffeta dress with coral accessories and corsage of coral roses, assisted.

The bride's table was prettily appointed in white lace and centred with a three-tier pedestal cake topped with five rosebuds and flanked by the bridal bouquets.

For travelling to Cornwall, Watertown, Niagara Falls and around the Lake, the bride wore a blue suit with beige accessories. Upon their return, the young couple will reside at R.R. 6, Belleville, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Ronald Putman of Cannifton, Ontario. Girl friends at the Bakelite Company, of which the bride is an employee, presented her with a wool blanket following a supper in her home. The office staff of the same plant presented her with a large mirror.

Theatre Guild Presents One-Act Play

This week's meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild was highlighted by the presentation of a workshop one-act play "The Rehearsal for Macbeth." Written by Marlin Baring, the play is built around an imaginary situation at a rehearsal for the original production of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" in London's Globe Theatre.

The Guild production took full advantage of the period setting to come up with colorful costuming designed for the play by Helen Keeler.

THE CAST

Among the cast Rube Freeman acquitted himself well as the hard-pressed stage manager, desperately battling to get a production knocked into shape. Assisting him in his set-to with the players was Harold Bankier, as the producer.

Gord Leggat played Shakespeare, rattling off immortal prose at the drop of a plumed hat, only to have it derided by his players, Judy Cain as Lady Macbeth, brought off her part well.

Others in the cast were, John Ryan, as the doctor; Barbara Robb, as Banquo; Joy Wannamaker as MacDuff and Harry Mulhall as Macbeth. The three witches were played by Nancy Morritt, Margaret Arnott and Edna Clifton.

Stage manager for the production was John Morritt while make-up was handled by Mary Doyle, Nicki Thomas and Wilsome Lewis.

Chairman for the regular meeting of the Guild was president, Ronan Cambridge.

St. Margaret's Guild Plans Carnival-Bazaar

The home of Mrs. P. Wills and Mrs. F. E. Clarke were scenes of activity recently when the members of St. Margaret's Guild met to make further preparation for the Christmas Carnival bazaar which is to be held the latter part of November.

Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed after each work meeting.

The next meeting, November 7, is to be held at the home of Mrs. S. Sillito.

Homemakers' Club Discusses Formal Teas

The fourth meeting of the Plainfield Homemakers' club was held last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Jack Salmon.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Roll call was answered by "one duty of a hostess toward her guest."

Formal and afternoon teas were discussed.

A demonstration on the making of fancy sandwiches was given by Mrs. Salmon. Each member then judged the sandwiches.

After the meeting closed tea was served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs O. Bertrand.

City Residents Observe 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Sopha, Pinnacle Street, Belleville, recently reached a milestone in their lives when they celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

A family dinner for them was held at the home of their daughter, Dorothy, (Mrs. L. A. Button) at which time 20 members of the family were present. These included: their children with their families, also Mr. and Mrs. Bert Parks, from Toronto, Mrs. Sopha's mother and father, and Mrs. Tompkins, mother of Mr. Sopha.

During the evening, many friends and relatives called on the happy couple and wished them another 25 years of happiness.

They received many beautiful gifts and bouquets of flowers.

The highlight of the evening came when Jimmy and Kay cut the beautiful wedding cake, everyone singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Refreshments were served by their three daughters, Mrs. Ron Smith, Mrs. Laurie Button and Mrs. Sam Morgan.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

...ING AND DELIBERATION ...CALLED FOR HERE

...atrice Fairfax:

...e nearly nine months, I have ...n dating a man of M. I am 45 ...d 18.

...met this man at a party, and ...was very honest with me from ...beginning, telling me how ...he had been married, had two ...l children, and has been dri...ced for over two years. He said ...that he and his former wife ...were young when they mar...ried and didn't know what they ...were doing. I liked him from the ...first, so I consented to date him. ...We get along well, and he is very ...kind to me.

...I have been dating since I was ...20, and I have always dated boys ...who were a lot older than myself. ...By this and I was never really ...happy. He is willing to ...marry me if I finish high ...school.

...My family liked him when they ...first met him, and they didn't ...have in mind that he had been ...married. But now that we are ...talking about marriage, that is a ...different story. They tell me that I ...will be unable to forget he has ...been married and will throw that ...up to him, I don't believe it, be...cause I have already accepted that ...fact. They also tell me that if I ...married him I would be living in ...misery, according to the Bible. But ...I believe that everyone makes mis...takes and that God doesn't keep ...striking them.

...What would you advise me to ...do?—C.

...Dear C.:

...What I would advise you to do is ...move very slowly and very ...cautiously in this matter, for more ...than one reason.

...I certainly agree with you that ...a man's marital mistake ...couldn't be held against him for ...the rest of his life, and that the ...mistake would be no reason for ...saying him any further chance at ...happiness. But it is your own hap...piness, not his, with which I am ...concerned, and from that view...point, I would not be prepared to ...give wholehearted approval to ...your marriage quickly.

...For one thing, I know nothing ...about the man, except that you tell ...me he was honest with you about ...his marital status; that you get ...along well with him, and that he ...is good to you. These, I admit, are ...important points. But they're not ...enough to make it possible to judge ...either or not he would be the ...right husband for you.

...For another thing, it is my belief, ...that a man with one experience of ...marriage already behind him, and ...so has children to be considered, ...is the most suitable husband ...in the world for a girl still in her ...teens. I grant there may be excep...tions to this rule. But usually when ...kids and boys marry very young, ...they do far better, and holds out far ...better, and holds out far more ...promise for a successful marriage, ...than they are approximately the same ...age, and approach the experience ...of married life from the same ...viewpoint, so to speak.

...You may be one of the excep...tions. But I think more time should ...pass, and more serious thought ...could be given to every angle of ...the matter, before you commit ...yourself. I also think that during ...the year of waiting which you say ...he would be before you mar...ried, you should not limit yourself ...to the company of this one man. I ...think you should go out with other ...young men frequently, and be fair ...enough, and wise enough, to give ...yourself a chance to see what hap...pens to your feeling and attitudes ...about it. You are not yet out of ...high school, and you may find ...many new ideas coming your way ...before you finish.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

I have hurry-up letters from Mrs. Oscar S., Mrs. E. J. W., and Mrs. F. R., for menus or quantities for large gatherings such as wedding receptions and church suppers. All of these I have mailed a reply, which appeared here August 27 of this year giving quantities for 50 people—which they can multiply.

Mrs. Oscar S. wants to know how much bread and butter she should provide for 350, also if she should serve celery when she is having 4 different kinds of meat, pickles, tray of cheese, six different kinds of cookies, coffee and wedding cake? Bread: 1 1-2 lb. loaf of bread has 24 slices. 1-2 butter will spread this. So you will need 18 loaves of bread to give everybody two slices each, and 8 lbs. butter. If you think they will eat more than 2 slices per person, increase accordingly. If you omit the celery I think you should substitute large bowls of cole slaw. I will give you the recipe for

COLE SLAW (For 50)

Two cups mild vinegar, 2 2-3 tablespoons salt, 2 teaspoons pepper, 4 teaspoons dry mustard, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-3 cup butter, 3 beaten eggs, 1 cup cream, 24 cups (almost five quarts), shredded cabbage—very finely shredded and cold. Heat vinegar, seasonings, and butter to boiling point. Slowly stir hot vinegar mixture into beaten eggs. Cook until mixture thickens, remove from heat and beat in cream. While mix is hot pour it over the cold shredded cabbage. Chill thoroughly and serve cold. If necessary this may be kept very cold overnight.

To Mrs. F. R. who asks about quantities of fruit cup to serve 120 guests I would suggest that she buy No. 10 tins of prepared fruit salad (this is restaurant size). Three 10c.-oz. tins serve 100 people in 1-4 cup serving each in small stemmed glasses. One gallon of ice cream serves 20 to 32 people, but must be served from a regular ice cream dipper.

LETTER:

When the first new apples transparents, duchess, wealthies, appear I make Apple Ale. It may be made by ladies are requested by Mrs. Ed. D. but I can recommend it as a substitute. It is thoroughly enjoyed through the winter by the family.

APPLE ALE (Courtesy M.D.)

Twenty large apples, wash, remove stems and blossom ends. Quarter apples and place in preserving kettle. Cover with water. Let stand 2 or 3 hours. Add grated rind of 1 lemon. Save the juice for later use. Place kettle on heat and cook slowly until fruit is thoroughly cooked. Stir occasionally as fruit might stick. Turn into jelly bag and let drip hours or overnight. This makes about 15 cups liquid. Add lemon juice and 3 cups sugar. Place on heat and let boil 5 minutes. Bottle at once in hot sterile jars. This juice makes a refreshing drink. It also makes a jelly dessert with gelatine added.

APPLE BUTTER (Courtesy M.D.)

Put apple pulp remaining (from apple ale) in jelly bag, through the sieve. Heat, stirring constantly. Add 1 cup sugar. Stir until sugar dissolves, about five minutes. Bottle while boiling in hot sterile jars. This is in demand as a spread on bread for after-school snacks. It is also good for puddings and since it may be made without sugar is good for diabetics.

P.S.—Do you ever make simple grape jelly? Take stemmed washed grapes (Concord) in quart jars. To each jar add 1-2 cup sugar. Fill jar to top with hot water. Seal and store. In three months juice is ready to pour off grapes and serve.

ANSWER:

Thank you M.D. especially for the Apple Ale. Let us help you some time.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GIFTS FOR WHEN YOU GO VISITING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am soon going to visit some friends of mine, a married couple. I have known for a few years. Could you suggest an appropriate gift to give them? And will you also tell me, please, whether I should take the gift with me, buy it there, or send it after I return from my visit?

2. If we should go out to dinner a few times, should I always offer to pay? Or if we don't go out to dinner, should I take them out to dinner at least once? —.

1. Since you aren't able to think of anything that would be particularly appropriate to give these friends, I suggest that you take them a simple little gift when you go . . . a good-looking box of special candy perhaps, or a box of various kinds of sweets (mints, bonbons, nuts, crystallized fruits, and so forth), or a packaged selection of hors d'oeuvres, or a collection of glasses of interesting herbs, or jars of jellies and jams or conserves, or a box of various kinds of cheeses. Or, if you are sure of their taste in music, take one or two special records, or an album, if you wish. Then plan to send later some more important present, if you wish.

The wisest way to decide on the perfect guest-gift is to keep your eyes and ears wide open while you are on your visit, and so be aware of something that your hosts may really need and would enthusiastically welcome. It might be something extremely useful . . . a gadget for the buffet-serving, or it may be something charmingly decorative for their home. Or, if they have a garden, some bulbs or packages of seeds. Or you might hear them mention a book (a much-talked-about biography or autobiography, or a new book about gardening, or a new cook book) then you will know definitely what is right for their tastes, or a do-it-yourself book, or a thrilling new cook book. Or perhaps you'll hear of a pair of lovely French prints or etchings would be "just perfect", or one or two perfect cushions, now a very popular house-gift.

2. You certainly shouldn't always offer to be hostess at dinners out of their home, but although some hostesses prefer not to have guests offer to be hostess, I think it would be very thoughtful and generous for you to plan to be hostess for at least one occasion . . . perhaps a Saturday luncheon or dinner with a movie or concert afterward.

INVITING FAMILY FRIENDS TO SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married in June. At the reception following the ceremony there will be only the attendants and the members of the immediate families. Since it will not be possible for us to invite our friends to the reception, would it be proper to invite them to a shower in their honor?—Reader

Who is giving this shower? If it is to be given by a member of the family of the bride-to-be, it would look like another "bid" for gifts from these friends-of-the-family. But if it is a general shower given by a intimate friend of the bride-to-be, or a group of her friends, it would be quite all right to invite their family friends, if the hostess-to-be wish to.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE ESSENCE OF BEAUTY (Part IV — GAIETY AND SPONTANEITY)

When it comes to beauty the prase "Be yourself" is worth a great deal of consideration. It's a pretty obvious, of course, that if "being yourself" means being petty, being gloomy or constantly going around with a chip on your shoulder, it's not going to get you anywhere socially. But, from the sheer standpoint of beauty, these characteristics, along with any others which are generally disliked, are definite liabilities. Each one puts revealing lines into the face which the finest cosmetics on the market can never erase. How important, therefore, to cultivate those qualities which bring sparkle to the eyes, a glow to the complexion and such an uplift to the mouth that "the world laughs with you." And thinks you're beautiful at the same time!

Today we're thinking particularly of the person we know. She's not "beautiful" by the accepted standards. Her mouth is a little too wide, her eyes are on the small side and she's inclined to-ward plumpness. But no matter where she goes no matter whom she's with and, most especially—no matter when she entertains in her own home, she's the proverbial life of the party.

No, she doesn't clown. She's not an exhibitionist. Her clothes aren't expensive or conspicuous. She doesn't, a lot of money, make can't "outdo" her contemporaries when it comes to serving the "eats." It's just a quality she has that makes every guy and gal in the gang think she's "just beautiful!" The quality? It's a natural gaiety and spontaneity.

Dot instinctively knows what will make people happy because she genuinely loves people. She can serve cokes and ham sandwiches and make folks feel like they're having caviar and champegne. And it doesn't make any difference if she's entertaining her contemporaries or her parents' best friends. It's that warm, outgoing smile that does the trick. She's the kind of girl who knows instinctively how to bring the shy boy and the shy girl together. She's the girl who knows at just which moment the argument over last Saturday's football game is getting "too hot" and deftly turns the conversation into other channels. She's the girl who notices if a quiet quarrel between a couple of "steadies" may become serious and unobtrusively gets their minds on other things so that they're laughing happily together again. In other words, she's thinking of her guests all the time, with a natural and spontaneous charm that will make her a fabulous hostess in the years to come. Inborn, you say? And every gal can do it! You're wrong. All you have to do is to "forget yourself" and think of others. They'll not only love you for it but think you're beautiful in the bargain.

Cokes and Ham Sandwiches Seem like caviar and Champegne When the "Perfect Hostess" Serves.

Man Slays Self After Skeleton Of Girl Is Found

MANCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—A quiet, well-respected advertising executive killed himself on a lonely beach Thursday shortly before authorities would have arrested him on a warrant charging him with the murder of a Pennsylvania girl two years ago.

The body of William R. Turner, 40, married and the father of a daughter, was found while Pennsylvania state troopers were on their way to his house in this fashionable suburb north of Boston.

The troopers had a warrant charging Turner with the murder of Dorly Hatch, 23, who vanished two years ago from her home town of Cambridge Springs, Pa. Her skeleton was found Tuesday in a Connecticut woodland.

After Turner's body was identified, the troopers said: "We consider the case closed."

"SORRY FOR TROUBLE"

Turner left two notes. One was addressed to his widow, Diane, and said only: "Sorry for all the trouble I have caused you. This is the only way out."

Contents of the other note were not disclosed.

Miss Hatch had worked for Turner on a part-time basis when the latter operated a hardware store in Cambridge Springs, a farming community in northwest Pennsylvania.

Her skeleton was found Tuesday morning by a hunter near a lovers' lane in Stafford Springs, Conn. Identification was made through a gold wrist watch and dental charts.

Four days after Miss Hatch disappeared, Turner came to Manchester to settle down.

He returned to Pennsylvania, however, to be questioned by police about Miss Hatch's disappearance. Police said no suspects ever were held because the girl's body had not been found and there was no way of telling she had been slain.

Plan New Road In York County

NEWMARKET (CP)—The province of Ontario will consider a plan to provide an east-west highway across York county, Highways Minister Allan told a banquet of more than 100 municipal representatives from York and Ontario counties Thursday night.

Mr. Allan said the province would undertake 50 per cent of the cost of linking Highway 9 at Schomberg with Highway 7 at Greenbank, 25 miles to the east in Ontario county. The scheme would involve taking over a number of secondary roads.

Gladstone Ridler, chairman of the county roads committee, said such a route would be to the advantage of the south-central section of the province.

BOOST FARES

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Transportation Commission Thursday announced a 25 per cent increase in Montreal bus and streetcar fares, following protests from Mayor Jean Drapeau and labor bodies. The increase becomes effective Dec. 3. The fare will be raised to two tickets for 25 cents from the present three for 30 cents in the central zone which includes Montreal. Cash fares will increase from the present 12 cents to 15 cents. Mayor Drapeau said increasing the fares is the worst possible solution to the financial problem of mass transportation. The MTC reported earlier it is losing $100,000 a month.

Receive Pensions While Absent From Country

OTTAWA (CP)—The welfare department said Thursday about half of the recipients of old age pensions and family allowances who leave Canada on trips receive federal money to which they are not entitled.

The department, in a statement appealed to pensioners and parents receiving allowances to notify authorities when they leave the country and when they return.

Many Canadians, the department said, apparently are unaware that allowances and pensions are not payable outside Canada. Their failure to advise the department of absences from Canada was causing "headaches" to officials and serious difficulties for recipients.

The department said money received by recipients while they are outside of Canada must be repaid. Many absences were not discovered for several months and some families found it difficult to refund the overpayments.

Two Groups Sell Toronto Poppies

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto veterans' organization will learn Saturday whether its poppy-selling campaign has been crippled by the Canadian Legion's mailbox invasion.

The Toronto Poppy Fund Inc., only body licensed to sell the red flowers of remembrance on Toronto streets, will have 3,000 sellers on the job starting at sunrise.

But fund officials are worried that a campaign by the legion, which already has mailed out 300,000 poppies to citizens here, may cut into their street sales.

"If poppy day is a complete flop," said fund secretary William Hilton Thursday, "it will be very difficult to make up the deficit."

Both organizations use the proceeds of their poppy sales for helping disabled veterans and relations were harmonious until last year when the Toronto group, which formerly bought all its poppies from the legion, balked at the price.

MAKE OWN CHEAPER

Lt. Col. E. A. Oliver of the Poppy Fund said the poppies cost the legion $7.25 a thousand and the price to the fund was $17.30. The Toronto organization, said Col. Oliver, can make its own for $10 a thousand.

The switch deprived the legion of any revenue from Toronto poppy sales and it retaliated with the mail campaign. It enclosed a coin card with the mailed copies for returning contributions.

Patrick Biggs, secretary of the legion's Ontario provincial command, said however that the legion is "not so concerned about receiving money for them. We only want everyone to wear an official Veterafi poppy.'

'And the poppy fund said it has not taken any measures to fight the legion's move.

"We hope some good may come fromthis evil," said Mr. Hilton "And by Saturday evening we may be over the top."

God Have Mercy On The Church

By ROY L. SMITH

A very kindly and a very wise Roman Catholic priest once said, "God have mercy on the church when the poor cease knocking at its door."

There is a constant and an insidious temptation, always present, to make the church a class institution which serves the respectable, the successful, and the educated. Such people need the spiritual ministry of the church, of course, as do all men. But no church can be called Christian which does not maintain a constant and anxious concern for all men, even if they are the unsuccessful or the defeated.

The stories of Jesus' healings constitute a serious problem for the scholar, but they constitute no problem for those who have an accurate understanding of the mind of the Master. The records that have come down to us may have been corrupted in some part along the way, as they were copied and recopied. But what we have in the New Testament is an eloquent testimony to the impression that the young prophet from Nazareth made on the generation of which He was a part. Those people knew Him as a friend of sufferers!

The story of His healing of the leper is a typical case in point. His pity for the unfortunate man was more than pity. It was sympathy in action. Many another might have said, "Too bad, isn't it? And there are so many of them. Somebody ought to do something. Maybe we ought to have a law!" Or still another might have said, "Yes! A very pathetic case! It gives me the creeps. But as I was saying, we Jews will have to stand "up to the Romans some of these days and it. . . " and thus the matter was dismissed.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for November 6: "Jesus Meets Human Needs", Luke 5:1—6:16.

But Jesus did something about it. And, also important, He did it inside the established customs of the times. He sent him back to the priest for certification. Jesus was no rebel against organized society, even though He was critical at times. And if the church is to be Christian it must do something more than deplore the evils it sees about it.

We might as well admit the truth in the matter. Levi was a contemptible sort of person. In the first place, he had bought the tax-collecting concession for Capernaum and was, as a consequence, aligned more with Rome than with his own people. He made his money by gouging self-respecting citizens. He had to have an elephant hide to stand all the contempt the community heaped upon him, and there is something just a little loathsome about the person who is content to live outside the pale.

But Jesus saw something good in him, as He also saw something good in most people. The censorious, the self-righteous, and the people with the superior complexes irritated Him, but the weak and the wistful always made a great appeal to Him. Matthew must have been a very lonely man. His kind usually are. Jesus was probably the first respectable Guest he had ever entertained and the dinner! It was probably something out of this world! Having nothing else to offer, Levi could serve good food. And there was something pathetic about it all. His friends? Just more of Levi's kind. No one else would come, except Jesus.

What an experience. It would be in some churches if the people who need its ministry most should happen to appear next morning and ask to be admitted to the worship service—the poor, the slovenly, the down-and-outers, the lonely, the defeated, and the contemptibles. Suppose, in estimating our success, we began keeping score on the number of the deplorables there are in our average worship service!

Paper Challenges Archbishop's Denial Statement

LONDON (AP) — Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard has challenged the Archbishop of Canterbury's statement that the Church of England brought no pressure on Princess Margaret.

The editorial kept alive a controversy surrounding the church as a result of Margaret's termination of her romance with Peter Townsend.

Stirred up also were ashes of dispute that surrounded the abdication of King Edward VIII in 1936.

The archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, is the ranking prelate of the Church of England. He said Wednesday night Margaret renounced plans to marry Townsend without pressure from the church—although, he added, she "got plenty of advice—asked for, and a good deal unasked for."

The archbishop also denied that his predecessor, Dr. Cosmo Lang, had taken any part in the crisis when Edward abdicated to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson.

SAYS MEMORY BAD

Dr. Lang's biographer, J. G. Lockhart, and the Duke of Windsor himself have pictured Lang as one of the important characters in that drama. The Evening Standard said:

"Dr. Fisher's memory on this point is faulty. So is his version of recent events.

"For the archbishop now makes the curious statement that 'there was no pressure from the church' on Princess Margaret.

"Yet, quite apart from a number of minor prelates and church dignitaries who gave their views on the matter, the archbishop himself, on two occasions when Princess Margaret was known to be making up her mind, gave his own version of the church's view on divorce."

The Church of England frowns on the remarriage of divorced persons.

SUPPORT FOR PRIMATE

The Church of England Newspaper, an unofficial publication widely read in Anglican circles, congratulated Princess Margaret and said:

"Talk in some sections of the press, of the Archbishop of Canterbury having brought pressure to bear on Princess Margaret is very wide of the mark. All the evidence shows that the primate has done no more than his plain duty in presenting the case to her fairly and squarely. . ."

The princess gave every indication she will follow her royal ceremonial grounds without a respite now that she has made her decision.

MOROCCANS CELEBRATE RETURN OF SULTAN BEN YOUSSEF

Here is part of the Arab crowd that demonstrated in Casablanca to hail the news that former Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef had arrived in France from his exile on the island of Madagascar. Moroccans now are confident that the ex-sultan will soon be returned to the throne from which he was ousted by the French nearly two years ago. The Arab world is currently celebrating the "Feast of the Prophet," which this year has been dedicated to "the glory of Ben Youssef." (Central Press Canadian Photo)

Farmers' Federation Plans To Seek Increased Tariffs On Cheese and Milk Powder

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture, winding up its annual meeting here, resolved Thursday to ask the federal government for higher tariffs on cheese, milk powder and dairy products equivalent to the protection granted other industries.

The federation also recommended a tighter inspection of cheese milk and a price increase.

Resolutions to have government relief and insurance as compensation for crop failures were sidetracked by voting tabled.

A resolution directing the federation to ask the federal government to produce a health-insurance plan in co-operation with provincial governments, was adopted.

The federation also set up a committee to study the freight-rate structure as it affects Ontario farmers.

Part of the argument for the resolution was "it would appear that under certain freight rates in Eastern Canada, foreign-grown commodities enjoy a preference." A federal commission should study commodity freight rates, it was recommended.

Canada Will Copy U.S. Move Easing Trade With USSR

OTTAWA (CP)—If the United States relaxes controls on export of peaceful goods to Russia, Canada will likely follow suit.

"We welcome the American move and will match it," a trade department official commented Thursday on a statement by Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks that his department is preparing an initial roster of non-strategic goods which may be shipped to the Soviet bloc without advance application for a licence.

"I cannot say exactly what we will do until I know the nature of the American relaxation," the official added.

SHIP AMERICAN GOODS

The officials said the main effect of Canadian relaxation of controls would be to permit trans-shipment from Canada of American goods no longer on the ban list. There would be no relaxation of regulations banning export of strategic materials.

Canada's present regulations are designed to prevent strategic materials and American - originated goods subject to a U.S.-export ban from reaching Russia via Canada, the officials said. Without the Canadian controls, U.S. export regulations could be broken by exporters using Canada as a trans-shipment point.

Exporters must have a permit from the trade department for all Canadian goods shipped behind the Iron Curtain. But the department's policy has been to grant a permit if the goods have no strategic value and are not of American origin subject to control.

The official said he does not think relaxation of current controls would do much to increase Canadian trade with Russia because "for most non-strategic materials, Russia had ample supplies of goods which could be shipped from Canada.

7-Member Committee Named To Study Way to Streamline Province's Municipal Act

TORONTO (CP)—A seven-member municipal advisory committee has been set up to study methods of streamlining the Ontario Municipal Act—a legislative bible to municipal officers throughout the province.

Municipal Affairs Minister Goodfellow said Thursday members of the committee have been chosen for both their municipal knowledge and geographic considerations.

Elmer Brandon, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for York West, and a former reeve of Swansea, will be chairman of the committee. The group will act in an advisory capacity to Mr. Goodfellow.

The committee will supersede a provincial-municipal committee set up in 1951 to advise the government on changes in the Ontario municipal board, although no official announcement of the dissolution of the first group has been made by the government.

DAILY INTERIM REPORT

The provincial-municipal group has not met since last year and made only an interim report. The system of unconditional grants to municipalities was drawn up from the report.

All existing acts and regulations dealing with municipal affairs and assessment matters will be reviewed by the new committee. The Ontario Municipal Act contains sections which were adopted before Confederation.

Other members of the committee are: Prof. Grant Crawford, director of the Institute of Local Government at Queen's University and a former member of the Ontario Municipal Association; Eric Hardy, president and secretary of the OMA and director of the bureau of municipal research; J. W. McBrien, clerk - treasurer of York township; Ross Richardson, clerk-treasurer of East York township; William G. Manning, clerk - treasurer of Ontario county, and E. C. Reid, St. Thomas city clerk.

Canada May Give Half Million To Relief Agency

OTTAWA (CP)—Subject to parliamentary approval Canada will make a $500,000 contribution to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine refugees, some $300,000 of it in the form of wheat.

The external affairs department also announced Thursday that Canada will contribute $125,000 to the United Nations relief fund for the 1956 program of the UN high commissioner for refugees, also subject to parliamentary approval.

The announcements were made simultaneously here and at a meeting of UN agencies negotiating committee for extra-budgetary funds in New York.

UNRWA was established by the UN general assembly in 1949 to provide for the relief and resettlement of some 850,000 Palestinian Arabs rendered homeless or jobless as a result of hostilities in Palestine in 1948. In addition to its annual regular budget of about $25,000,000 the agency has a $200,000,000 long-range program for the resettlement of these refugees.

New Vaccine Against Grippe Will Be Tested by U.S. Army

BY FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new vaccine against grippe may be tested this winter on 10,000 American military recruits.

Public health service doctors disclosed the possibility Thursday, but said they must first (1) make additional safety and potency tests of the vaccine, and (2) get official military approval.

The new vaccine is designed to protect about three of the 10 or more APC viruses which cause some respiratory cold-type illnesses. Doctors say the vaccine is meant for those that "most people refer to as the 'grippe' rather than the runny-nose, non-fever common cold."

Tentative plans for the new test were announced along with a report that another vaccine had provided "substantial protection" against one of the three viruses.

NOT ON SALE

The researchers said neither of the vaccines is available commercially, and "there is no prospect" for production of the vaccine for public use in the near future."

The APC group of viruses gets its name from the adenoidal pharyngeal (throat) and conjunctival (eye) tissues which they usually attack. Discovered several years ago, they constitute only one group among many different germs which can cause cold-type illnesses of varying degrees of severity and many different forms.

The vaccine already tested in humans—with indications of providing "substantial protection"—is designed against only one of the APC viruses—type 3. But this type is a common cause of respiratory illness, marked by fever, sore throat and conjunctivitis, or "pink eye."

The new vaccine is designed against types 2, 4 and 7 which, said Dr. Robert Huebner of the health service, "have been shown to be responsible for a large part of respiratory diseases occurring in military populations." That is the reason for the proposed military testing.

Ontario Govt. Is Not Happy With Federal Pipeline Plan But Is Ready to Accept It

By STEWART ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government, it was learned Thursday, is far from happy with the way the federal government plans to build the projected trans-Canada pipeline.

But, to have the project realized as quickly as possible, a Queen's Park source said, Ontario is ready to swallow its misgivings if necessary and go ahead with Ottawa's proposals.

Estimated cost of the 2,200-mile natural-gas pipeline from Alberta to Ontario is from $350,000,000 to $360,000,000.

The federal government has proposed that the line be built from Alberta to the Manitoba-Ontario border by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., and from the border to Kapuskasing — 675 miles — by a crown company to be set up by the federal and Ontario governments.

GOVERNMENTS ONLY

The northern Ontario section would cost $118,000,000, of which $70,000,000 would be paid by Ontario.

Thinking at Queen's Park is that the pipeline might better be built entirely by governments, with Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Ottawa, and possibly Quebec, entering the scheme.

There has been no report that Ontario recently unsuccessfully submitted such a proposal to the federal government.

One source said Thursday Ontario's attitude is that it might eventually find itself with a pipeline without a beginning or end; that Trans-Canada might not be able to fulfill its part of the bargain.

Queen's Park officials say that under their scheme their government conceivably could buy gas in Alberta and sell it elsewhere. But it doesn't want to do that. No government, they say, wants to get into the gas business.

BUILD CHARGE FEES

In alternative to that governments would simply provide a transmission line, a common carrier to be paid for by fees.

Another is that the line could be leased or rented to any party. The carrier idea apparently is favored here.

At a recent meeting of provincial, federal and company officials, it was disclosed Trans-Canada needs $250,000,000 to enter the federal government scheme.

"To raise the money it requires a permit allowing it to sell gas in the United States through a branch line from Winnipeg to Emerson, Man. Only the United States federal power commission could issue it. And its answer might be no.

"Sources say there will be no decision on the permit application before April 30, 1956. The whole operation therefore, would be held up until there is a favorable decision—if ever.

The advantages of Premier Frost's proposal, the sources say, are independence of the U.S. commission, cheaper money through lower interest rates to the crown company than to a private company and an immediate start on the project.

One thought is that the Ontario proposal should find favor with Alberta producers and Ontario consumers because the cheaper money would probably be reflected all along the line.

Premier Frost is reported willing to put the $35,000,000 into the federal scheme to get it started, but that would be the province's limit.

However, if the pipeline were to be built according to the Ontario plan, the province might be willing to put up as much as twice that amount.

BOOST PRIZE VALUE

NEW YORK (AP)—The television show, "The $64,000 Question," has changed its consolation prize—for those who take the big chance and lose—from a car to cash. Spokesmen said Thursday the consolation prize from now on would be $16,000, instead of an expensive automobile, a change aimed at encouraging contestants to try for the top money.

PLAN CIVIC CENTRE

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A civic centre may be constructed to relieve crowding in the city hall and county buildings, it was announced Thursday by county council. The committee has hired architect Wilson Salter to survey space requirements.

Motorist Tells Of Giving Lift To Three Accused

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — A Brandon motorist told Thursday how he picked up three Quebec youths, now on trial for murder in connection with the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest last Jun. 8 after they flagged him down on a highway.

Edmund Robinson, Brandon insurance agent and his wife Ella, identified in Court of Queen's Bench the accused—Claude Paquin and Gerard de Tonnancourt, both of Montreal and Guy Perrapoz of Riviere des Prairies, Que.—as the youths who were trying to push a car out of the ditch.

Mr. Robinson said that after the boys got into their car, one of the boys said "we're still nervous."

"I took this to mean it was because they had run their car into the ditch," said Mr. Robinson. "And I told them 'you have nothing to be nervous about, you are safe.'"

DIDN'T WANT TOW

Mrs. Robinson said her husband offered them a tow.

"They preferred to come to Brandon with us so we took them," she said.

Mrs. Robinson said he saw no blood on the rear seat covers of his car until three days later when a RCMP took them away.

Earlier, Brandon customs officer Joseph W. Hall told the court that the body of 44-year-old Rev. Alfred Quinton of Montreal, found in a car standing on the highway near here, "had priest's head wrapped around it."

Dr. Frank Purdie of Brandon, who performed the autopsy, said he found two bullet punctures in the man's right arm. One bullet smashed through the arm and lodged in the muscle between the heart and lung. The second bullet, he said, caused death was internal hemorrhage from a tearing of the lungs and heart.

RESIGNS PRESIDENCY

MONTREAL (CP)—The resignation of Leo H. Timmins as director and president of Chromium Mining and Smelting Corporation was announced Thursday.

Mr. Timmins said he intends to devote more time to his mining developments."

Lapointe Holds Two Posts, Is New Postmaster-General

OTTAWA (CP) — Veteran Alsace Minister Lapointe has joined Trade Minister Howe as the holder of two Canadian cabinet posts.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Thursday, following a cabinet meeting, that Mr. Lapointe was to be sworn in immediately as postmaster-general, the post held by the late Hon. Alcide Coté.

Mr. Lapointe will hold two portfolios but will be paid for only one. He will receive $15,000 a year as a cabinet minister, $10,000 as a Commons member plus $2,000 automobile allowance.

Trade Minister Howe, who is also minister of defence production, is paid for only one cabinet post.

The move was the first cabinet change since the general shuffle on July 1, 1954.

Mr. St. Laurent also announced that a by-election is to be held Dec. 19 in the Quebec riding of St. John-Iberville-Chambly, the seat resigned recently by Mr. Coté from June, 1945, until his death last Aug. 7.

There has been speculation that Mr. St. Laurent wants to bring into the cabinet Brigadier Jean Allard, 42, commander of the 3rd Infantry Brigade at Valcartier, Que.

If he should run and win, the prime minister might then relieve Mr. Lapointe of his postal duties and turn them over to Brig. Allard.

The cabinet meeting also discussed a progress report on St. Lawrence seaway construction, particularly the need of shoreline protective works.

Mr. St. Laurent also told reporters he has received letters from two provinces in connection with federal suggestions for relief payments to provincial rental arrangements. A conference of premiers was held here-Oct. 3-4 but the prime minister said no new plans as yet for calling another one.

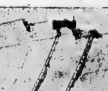
The government also had no immediate plans for naming members to the commission to study Canadian radio and television policy, he said. The interim report of the commission was announced at the last session of Parliament.

The Liberals likely will put up a very strong campaign in the St. John-Iberville-Napierville by-election.

There have been 16 by-elections since the present Parliament was elected Aug. 10, 1953. Liberals kept nine seats, lost two to Progressive Conservatives and one to the CCF. Conservatives retained three seats and Social Credit one.

Present Commons standing: Liberals, 169; Conservatives, 51; CCF 23; Social Credit, 15; Independents 4; vacancies, one; total, 263.

St. Laurent Talks With Frost About Pipeline Plans



OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost of Ontario Thursday talked by telephone about arrangements for constructing a natural gas pipeline from the West to eastern Canada.

But Mr. St. Laurent later declined to tell reporters what points had been discussed or when they will talk again. He indicated it would be until next week at the earliest.

Plans are going forward for Ontario and the federal government to join in a crown company that would build the $115,000,000 section of the line across sparsely-settled northern Ontario and lease it to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Need New Type of Airplane For Use in North Howe Says

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe told the Canadian Aeronautical Institute and the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences that Canada's north is ideal for testing aircraft have an important part to play in northern development.

Some centres, including Yellowknife, Beaverlodge and Port Radium in the Northwest Territories are served entirely or almost entirely by air, the trade minister told the groups' joint annual meeting here Thursday night.

"Bush flying has not taken a back seat in Canadian aviation," Mr. Howe said. There now were about 700 aircraft engaged in bush flying in Canada but they were getting "fairly ancient."

He urged Canadian aircraft builders to develop a plane to develop transportation in the north. DeHavilland Aircraft Company of Toronto had developed the Otter and Beaver planes but a larger carrier also was needed in the north.

John H. Parkin, director of the government aeronautical establishment in Ottawa, delivered a lecture paying tribute to the work of aviation pioneer Wallace R. Turnbull of Rothesay, N.B., who died last year at the age of 84.

He described Mr. Turnbull as one of Canada's foremost pioneers in aviation and also one of the least known. By his research on propellers and aerodynamic theory Turnbull—named an honorary fellow of the Canadian Aeronautical Institute before he died—had done much to advance the cause of aeronautics.

Bizarre Story Told by Wife

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Murder charges were filed yesterday against a wealthy Texas woman who said she killed her husband of a month on a lonely island and buried him in a grave he intended for her and her child.

Mrs. Sunny Carolan Worden, 43, claimed Don Worden forced her at gunpoint to dig a grave on the island Oct. 22 and directed her to kill her five-year-old daughter and herself. She said he intended then to burn their bodies with kerosene and bury them in the grave.

When the child screamed and ran Mrs. Worden took advantage of her husband's attempt to catch the youngster and shot him in the head and then buried him in the grave, she said in a statement to officers.

A pistol studded with 18 diamonds and bearing a plaque reading "Sunny Canales from Pvzales" was recovered from the spot where Mrs. Worden said she hid it. The woman said the .22 colt automatic was worth more than $1,000 because of the jewels.

700 BILLION MILES OF PROOF

PRESTONE BRAND ANTI-FREEZE IS BEST

Best for cooling system protection

Best for peak engine performance

Since 1927, over 700 billion miles of driving under all kinds of conditions have proved one thing—the best protection against the engine hazards of winter driving is "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze.

Here's why: "Prestone" Anti-Freeze gives your engine much more than just freeze-up protection. Typical of the unique full protection of "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze is its special Polar Film inhibitor. This Polar Film coats every part of your cooling system with a thin, rugged layer of protective oil, sealing it against rust, corrosion and deterioration.

It stands to reason—if your car's cooling system is kept clean and tight, its engine will work efficiently all winter long. When spring rolls around your engine will be in better condition . . . will give you better performance next summer*.

To give every inch of your car's cooling system the full protection it needs . . . and to get peak engine performance this winter and next summer . . . ask for and insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze. The only anti-freeze that's backed by 700 billion miles of protection proof!

For peak performance next summer, drain your anti-freeze in the spring and replace it with water and rust inhibitor, as recommended by all automotive authorities.*

REMEMBER . . . there's only one "Prestone" Anti-freeze

it's time for PRIME GAS LINE ANTI-FREEZE

"Prime" Gas Line Anti-Freeze and Conditioner protects every inch of your car's fuel system from freezing . . . stops engine stalls caused by carburetor icing—a problem in modern cars even at temperatures 20 degrees above freezing. Prevents corrosion from water condensation, winter and summer. Use a can with every tankful of gas!

a word of CAUTION

No matter what anybody tells you—there's only one "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze. There's no other anti-freeze like it. Insist on "Prestone" Brand . . . and you can get it . . . anywhere!

"Prestone", "Prestolin" and "Prime" are registered trade-marks.

SERIOUS ACTION?

Queen's University officials are taking a serious view and possibly despite action of the rah-rah revelries that attended the Queen's-Varsity football game last Saturday when lime-bombs and bottles were tossed causing injury to students.

The college alma mater society, student governing body is not looking at the hoodlum tactics with tongue in cheek. C. G. Summers, of Belleville, society president, at a meeting held this week said all matters of discipline in such cases are handled by the student court.

Individual students, Summers said, would have all opportunity to appear before the court and submit pertinent facts in Saturday's incidents. If none appeared the court could then charge the entire student body. A possible result, Summers said, if the offence were considered serious enough, could be a recommendation to the Queen's Senate that senior football be suspended.

While it seems hardly fair that a lot of the innocent of Queen's student body should pay for the roweyish tactics of a few, some punitive action should be taken against these irresponsibles. The fool that a young man is attending a university should not make him immune to punishment if he resorts to hoodlum capers. It will be interesting to note how many—if any—of the culprits are man enough to come forward and admit they took part in the affair.

MINOR HOCKEY

Since the inception of minor hockey in this city, each season need from 400 to 600 puck-chasing moppets ready and rarin' to go when the powers-that-be sound the call to arms.

Belleville, under the supervision of those who have the hockey interests of the kiddies at heart, has done yeoman service in organizing and administering the puck wants of the kiddies.

For those of us who have long since reached manhood, sports are primarily a source of relaxation and diversion (except the sportswriters) from the gruelling pace of life whether we participate or are spectators.

But sports and games belong pre-eminently to youth. To them it seems that games are the most important part of their day. Everything else seems humdrum in comparison with the excitement and challenge of baseball, hockey, softball or other games in which the youth of the land participate.

Sports play a role in the life of a boy which nothing else can play. They provide the obstacles which will assure for him a healthy body. And he learns courage, perseverance, patience in temporary defeat and generosity in victory. He learns to abide by the rules of the game and leave the punishment of offence committed by others to those appointed to authority.

There are those who would do away with organized sports for the youngsters of the land. There are those who would revert to the days when the kiddies were forced to rely on the dangerous stretches of lake, bay or river for their hockey enjoyment, and the corner sandlot or backyard for baseball and softball activities.

That would be a sorry day indeed. Organizations like the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the parent body of the minor associations all over the province has a record in which it is justifiably proud. It is the largest organization of its kind in the world and under its aegis many minor players have blossomed into upper bracket stars.

Members of the OMHA executive body of this district, Doug Patterson of Stirling, and Albert Watkins of Peterborough, have rendered invaluable assistance to officials of the district organizations under their supervision.

And the men of the various minor bodies who give of their time, effort and sometimes funds, deserve an extra pat on the back for a job well done.

Minor hockey in this part of Ontario, as well as others, should experience a boom season this year. With more arrive-lal ice plants being introduced in various small centres, the opportunity for minor hockey enjoying a full, healthy season is assured.

Here in this city, President Bill Gault and his trusty henchmen of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association have called a special meeting tonight in the city council chambers starting at eight o'clock.

Rush men as "Rod" Doran, Orlff "Heiter" Lloyd, Harry Rollins, Percy Gault, Frank Brandamo, Mel Roberts and others whose names we cannot recall at the time of writing are the "old reliables," on whose shoulders the brunt of organization and administration work falls. In season past they have done a wonderful job. Too much praise cannot be heaped upon their efforts. But they cannot do it all. Help is needed. Men who can assist in a managerial, coaching or officiating role will be cordially welcomed.

The season will be getting under way shortly. Before the crowd of puck-anxious moppets climb over the boards there is much work to be done. Many willing hands make a tough job easier. And organizing kids' hockey and getting ready for the season is a tough job, there's no doubt about it.

There is no financial remuneration for doing the job, making a kid happy is not measured in dollars and cents. The remuneration comes in the smiles of happiness and pleasure of those youngsters when they are part and parcel of an organized team. For a man is never so tall as when he stoops to help a child."

Leafs Snatch Draw from Habs As Boston Deadlocks Hawks; Blues, Wings Scrape Out Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For all the headway they made Thursday night, the six National Hockey League teams might well have stayed home.

When all the excitement was over the three games had ended in ties. It was only the third time in the last six seasons that a full night's schedule finished with the six teams evenly splitting points.

Ron Stewart scored with eight seconds left in the game to give Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-3 draw with Canadiens at Montreal. Bruins fired three goals in five minutes of the third period for a 3-3 deadlock against Chicago Black Hawks at Boston. At Detroit, the Red Wings and New York Rangers played to a 3-3 stalemate.

CANADIENS HOLD LEAD

The standings, of course, remain unchanged. Of the result of the games, Canadiens are on top with 15 points, three better than Leafs. Rangers, Bruins and Black Hawks are knotted in third place with 11 points and Detroit holds down the cellar with eight.

Centre Ron Stewart scored a pair of Toronto goals—his second such feat in as many nights—and Bernie Geoffrion thrilled 13,801 fans at Montreal Forum with two goals. Right winger Floyd Curry set up the other Montreal marksman.

Stewart opened the scoring at 6:15 of the first period as he completed a play started by George Armstrong and fed to Rick Duff.

Eight minutes later Curry slapped in Doug Harvey's drive bound to even it up. Sloan sent Leafs ahead again at 5:48 of the second frame with a low shot which beat goaltender Jacques Plante. The goal was Sloan's ninth of the season, tops for the league.

BACK IN ACTION

Geoffrion fired his goals in the third period to give Canadiens a 5-2 lead. His first was at 10:45 and the other at the 15-minute mark. It was the right winger's first game since he was injured in the season's opener at Montreal against Leafs, Oct. 6.

With 21 seconds left to play, Habs' Dickie Moore was given a spearing penalty and Toronto's power play clicked when Stewart tied the game at 3-3.

Referee Frank Udvari handed out 15 minor penalties and two 10-minute misconducts in the game which St. Catharines threatened to break out in a donnybrook in the final frame. Sloan and Cahan were given the misconducts.

Jack McIntyre, Harry Watson and Nick Mickoski gave Chicago a 3-0 lead before the first two periods before 10,982 fans at Boston. But Doug Mohns, Vic Stasiuk and Cal Gardner scored in the final period to give Bruins a tie.

McIntyre put Black Hawks ahead 1-0 at 10:12 of the opening 20 minutes when he took Red Sullivan's pass and beat Bruin goaltender Terry Sawchuk with a long shot.

In the middle stanzas, Watson and Mickoski scored two Chicago goals within 17 seconds. Watson's came at 6:36 and Mickoski's at 6:53.

BOTH SHORTHANDED

With the teams shorthanded a man each, Mohns gave Bruins their first goal at 16:24 and Stasiuk made it 3-3 at 5:46. Gardner, veteran Boston centre, took Lorne Ferguson's pass and shot behind Hawk goaltender Al Rollins at 8:34.

All the scoring at Detroit took place in the second period. Red Kelly, a Red Wing veteran defenceman who played forward throughout the game, gave Detroit forward the lead, but Wings a temporary 1-0 lead but right winger Eddie Litzenberger put Rangers on even terms.

Lorne Worsley played another standout game for New York. He kicked out 37 Red Wing shots while Glenn Hall in the Detroit cage handled only 13.

Kelly scored at 7:09 while Ranters were two men short. He drilled a 15-foot screen shot at Worsley, who didn't have a chance.

The scoring was completed at 16:44 when Horgeshoe-to-be Gordie Howe and Dave Creighton set the play up.

There are no games tonight but six are scheduled for the weekend.

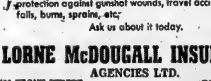
TWO NOMINATED



MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes Thursday night announced that quarterback Sam Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson are the Big Four club's nominees for the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy.

The trophy is in recognition of both playing ability and good sportsmanship. It last year awarded annually to Big Four players since 1928 in memory of Russel, who played for the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association team and was killed in an accident not connected with football.

Etcheverry was the trophy winner last year. It has never previously gone to the same nominee twice.

Alouettes' Band, Majorettes Will Feature Grey Cup Final

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—It was no accident the day the scarcely uniformed band cut loose with "You Are My Sunshine" sounding 20,000 football fans into whoops of laughter. The band itself is no accident either.

The Montreal Alouettes band of 45 pieces is the only professional band belonging to any sports organization not only football—in North America. It represents a lot of work by those behind it and by the musicians themselves.

The band is only part of the big show that is staged at every game in Montreal's big Civic Stadium football club. There are also 18 young, good looking majorettes who perform along with the band. Their routines are the most professional starts in February, six months before the football season.

TO GO TO VANCOUVER

This is the colorful show that will represent the city of Montreal at the Grey Cup final in Vancouver, whether Alouettes are one of the teams in the classic or not.

That all-thrilling introduction of "You Are My Sunshine" was not the only time the band, under Wally Newman, has indulged in some good-natured kidding at the expenses of the players. It happened the day general manager Harry Sonahine sat glumly on the bench of the French Army, watched his team taking a terrific lacing.

The band picked up on the alertness of the band, prepared by regular practices to meet almost any situation as well as to play the latest numbers.

The band and the majorette corps are the brain child of the Montreal Alouettes football council and more particularly that of J. G. Carrique. He is a member of the executive committee of the council—a group of business men and others who lend active support to the football club—and is chairman of the band and special events committee.

Up until last season the Alouette management arranged for band performances, usually by a military band, at each home game. Carrique has no objection to military bands but he thought there should be a more distinctive show.

PEP UP INTERVAL

"I had always found the half-time interval incredibly dull," he said. "I thought we could do something in it in a more attractive way. So it would be a lot of fun more for the musicians, man for man. Then to enhance the show we decided on having majorettes."

The result has been an eye-opening delight for the football customers. It now costs $14,000 to $15,000 a season to present the show. The musicians are all professional, union men. The girls are recruited from the city largely from high schools. Now many of them have advanced to colleges and business schools or have jobs. They are volunteers in the corps of majorettes.

The musicians were got together by Newman, a man of a band of his own that does a lot of television and radio work. The musicians work in night clubs and on TV; some work in other businesses and earn extra money playing in bands and orchestras.

At each game bandsmen, plus director and a drum major, are dressed in cardinal white tunics and white trousers. The majorettes wear the same colored jackets and abbreviated skirts.

At each game the band plays 25 to 30 numbers. There is a two-hour rehearsal for every show and a dress rehearsal the day of the game. Altogether they put in 80 hours a week preparing for each show.

BOOKS AFTER MARCHING

Bandsman Alex Block, who is also the band librarian, is the man who designs the marching maneuvers. On signal, the band, still toting arms, can form a letter or other emblem.

The 18 majorettes, double the number of last year, are the pride of Brian Macdonald, on of the top choreographers in the country. Macdonald, a top dancer himself, performed in ballet until he broke his arm in an accident. He does choreography for CBC television shows.

The majorettes' ages average 18 to 18. Throughout the football season they put in five to nine hours a week rehearsing. But there's a reward. It has been become established policy that from their number will come the selection annually of Miss Alouette.

Last year Joy Dibble, the majorettes' leader, represented Alouettes at the Grey Cup game. This year the choice is Nancy Roland, a 17-year-old brunette beauty.

TiCat Status To Be Discussed After Season

HAMILTON (CP)—Future status of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats football club will be discussed this fall at a post-season meeting. There were reports Thursday night it may be changed from a non-profit organization to a private business enterprise.

Ralph Cooper, president of the Big Four and a director and franchise-holder of the Tiger-Cats, said "a change is administration" will be among the points discussed at an executive meeting, probably immediately after the Grey Cup game.

Cooper said he has heard that "some people" are interested in buying the club but didn't elaborate. He estimated purchase price would be at least $150,000.

he club now is a non-profit corporation made up of local business men and civic leaders.

There were reports that Cooper himself, also with Tiger president Jake Gaudaur, treasurer Frank Gibson and coach Carl Voyles, are interested in purchasing the team.

Fontana Plans World Tour

TORONTO (CP)—Doc wey of seeing the world is through a tennis racquet.

At this case it's the big racquet of Mexican-Dan Fontana, Toronto's contribution to Canada's current Davis Cup team.

Fontana takes his big service and other machines on the road Dec. 1 for an extended tour westward around the globe to London and Ottawa Rough Riders finishing in Australia.

It will be Montreal at Hamilton and Toronto at Ottawa Saturday in games that will decide the Big Four's off odds. The Argos and Ticats clash in the semi-final round the following Saturday with the winner meeting Montreal Nov. 19 to decide the East's Grey Cup contender.

The penalties of taking it easy, pointed up clearly last year at Ottawa, are still strong in the memory of coach Pinkard Walker of Montreal. Als sent out a second-string squad for the final game, lost 14-13 and suffered serious back-field injuries because of a vulnerable line.

"You can't afford to fool around in football," says Walker, "It never works out."

The Riders would like to make Argos the victims of a last-ditch whipping like the one they handed Alouettes last year although their injured ace, Tom (The Bomb) Casey, will be available only in kick converts. Coach Than Cald-well said he intends to use many of his young Canadian players.

Mustangs will be concentrating on Varsity's passer-runner-punter-defence—in their attempt to knock their old rivals out of the inter-collegiate playoff spot.

"Even if it comes up rain," said Western coach Johnny Metras, "we expect to throw a lot of passes."

Mustangs are hungry for a victory, something Hamilton hasn't been able to pick up in five trips this season. With his regular quarterback, John Girvin, in hospital, Metras will probably use freshman Art Turner who was impressive in the McGill game last Saturday.

Varsity, on the other hand, will present its strongest lineup of the season. Halfback Rich Stanlick, who missed all previous league games because of injuries suffered in exhibition play, will be back in a defensive role. Halfback Jack Rogers, who missed last week's Queen's game, will also return.

Prospects of cold weather and a slow field is expected to keep the OHA game mostly on the ground.

On the basis of the season's record, the Dutchies are favored to take the league title for six meetings to date, Kitchener won four, tied one and lost one.

Playoffs Dominate Grid Scene Big Four Will Kill Time

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Playoffs dominate the Canadian football scene this weekend except for the cut-and-dried Big Four which will just be killing time.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, third-place finishers in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, go to Regina Saturday to open their two-game, total - points semi - final against the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

That series winds up Monday night in Winnipeg with the winner advancing against the league champion Edmonton Eskimos for the right to meet the Big Four representative in the Grey Cup game at Vancouver Nov. 26.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union opens its championship play-off tonight at Kitchener with the Dutchmen defending their title against Sarnia Imperials in a best-of-three series.

It will take two games Saturday to decide who meets Queen's Golden Gaels from the Senior intercollegiate crown. Queen's, who already have first place sewed up, will tangle with McGill Redmen at Montreal while the University of Toronto Varsity Blues are assigned to the cellar, meet Varsity Blues at Toronto.

Only a win by McGill coupled with a loss or a tie by Varsity can keep Redmen into the playoffs. Otherwise it will be a University of Toronto crew against the Gaels in the sudden-death affair at Kingston next Saturday.

The Big Four race was settled last week with Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, London Lord Sanuts and Ottawa Rough Riders finishing in that order.

It will be Montreal at Hamilton and Toronto at Ottawa Saturday in games that will decide the Big Four's off odds. The Argos and Ticats clash in the semi-final round the following Saturday with the winner meeting Montreal Nov. 19 to

Kitchener Canucks Whip St. Michaels Hamilton Edges Bilts for Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's a good bet that Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks will be stronger this season than last.

Canucks finished at the bottom of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League last spring with only 16 points to win their second. They played only two games in the 1955-56 campaign, Canucks are in a three-way tie for second place, one point out of first.

Canucks defeated Toronto St. Michael's Majors 5-1 Thursday night to win their second game. Hamilton Cubs moved into first place by one point with a 4-3 victory over the Biltmores at Hamilton in the other junior game.

Biltmores and Cubs, Canucks, Teepees, each with four points, are the only teams undefeated so far while St. Michael's is in fifth place, one point behind them.

Right winger Wayne Bradley, an import from the defunct Quebec Junior Braves, scored second two goals for Canucks. Irwin Spencer, Ken Gribbons and Stan Balukin were also marksmen.

Bradley took only 39 seconds to put Canucks out in front. Spencer scored at 9:10 and Gribbons at 18:30 to give Kitchener-Waterloo a 3-0 lead after the first period. Majors made it 4-0 at 2:10 of the second period and Bradley closed the win-

Ted Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs moved into first place in National Hockey League action Thursday night to take over the leadership in that department with a total of nine.

The winger's effort advanced him into a tie for seventh place in the individual scoring race with three other players. Sloan's goals plus an assist gave him a total of 9 points, the same as Detroit's Ted Lindsay and Montreal's Maurice Richard and Dickie Moore.

Dave Creighton of New York Rangers and Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens continue to lead the "big seven" with 14 points apiece.

Denies Getting $25,000 From Canadiens Club

KITCHENER (CP)—Pat Roberts secretary-treasurer of the Kitchener Minor Hockey Association, denied Thursday that his group had received $25,000 from Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Frank Selke, managing director of the Canadiens, said here Tuesday: "We have donated more than $25,000 to minor hockey in Kitchener." He made the statement to the executive of Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Selke rejected a request from the minors for a $2,500 grant, the same amount the minors received last year from Canadiens, at the meeting Tuesday.

"We have realized over $10,000 from the Canadiens," Roberts said Thursday. A meeting of the KMHA executive will be held next Tuesday to clarify the situation.

Roberts said, "We are now in the position of being blamed for spending money we didn't get."

"The year the auditorium was built, our budget was high—about $2,000—but we had to buy ice time at other rinks in the district. The next year it was down to about $1,000 and in the last three years we received about $4,000."

Two Good Shows at Same Time Poses TV Viewing Dilemma

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In some respects the small minority of American television viewers who can reach only one station on their sets are lucky people. They don't have to decide what they want to see.

It's a matter of a viewer's personal tastes, of course. Some may fall to see where there are any difficult choices to be made. Personally I find quite a few.

On Saturday evening Perry Como on NBC is matched against Jackie Gleason on CBS. How can anybody who likes both programs bear to more than one of them?

HARD ON SULLIVAN

But the biggest dilemma for me personally will weekend comes on Sunday evening when both ABC and NBC enter the lists to tilt against Ed Sullivan's show on CBS. Simultaneously we have these two excellent British films which are never before have been shown in this country.

On NBC at 7:30 p.m. is "The Constant Husband," billed as a "sophisticated comedy," starring Rex Harrison and Kay Kendall. On ABC at the same hour is the first part of "Caesar and Cleopatra" by George Bernard Shaw, starring Claude Rains and Vivien Leigh. The second half of the film will be shown a week later on Nov. 13.

About the only viewers who won't have some dilemmas this weekend are opera lovers. There is only one opera appearing on television. It is "Griffelkin," a new opera in English by Lukas Foss which will open the NBC opera theatre season at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Many a TV viewer who never has seen an opera should take a look at this one. It concerns a lovable devil named Griffelkin who comes to earth and raises a lot of—uh—trouble before a happy ending is reached.

Husbands whose wives have been affected by the costumes of Christian Dior might be interested in knowing one thing before watching Ed Murrow interview him on "See It Now" (CBS-TV) tonight. When Dior was an infantryman during the war he was known as the worst-dressed private in the French army.

Amateur Athletic Union Names Six Canadian Athletes to Hall of Fame

SASKATOON (CP)—Accomplishments old and new—in running, shooting, golf and swimming—have carried six athletes into the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's Hall of Fame.

Swelling the number of Hall-of-Fame members to six are marathon runners Harold Webster of Hamilton and Gerard Cote of Hyacinthe; rifle shot Gilmour Boa of Toronto, the late Walter H. Ewing of Ottawa, a trapshooter; weightlifter Gerald Gratton of Montreal and swimmer Bev Whitfield of Montreal.

They were named to the Hall Thursday at the 62nd annual meeting of the AAU. Sessions continue today and Saturday.

Webster performed from 1924 until 1945, competing in the 1928 British Empire Games and starring at the age of 42. He was named to two Canadian Olympic Games teams and appeared in the Olympics himself during international competition he amassed 32 firsts.

MANY WINS

Cote is a four-time winner of the Boston marathon and won the U.S. championship three times. In 1948 he won the Boston, Canadian and western hemisphere marathons. He won 123 races during his career.

Boa has been shooting since the age of 14 and has ruled as Canadian small-bore champion five times. He captured the world tournament at Venezuela in 1954.

The late Ewing was an Olympic claybird champion when the event was held in Geneva in 1906. He starred in many Canadian and international shoots.

Gratton took part in Olympic games and won the middleweight crown during British Empire Games at New Zealand in 1950 and then took light-heavyweight honors in the games at Vancouver in 1954. He holds several North American records.

Miss Whitfield was the outstanding swimmer during the recent Pan-American games, where she won three silver medals for relay competitions plus two other events. She set four Canadian records in 1954 and 1955 and was a star on the Canadian team during the 1954 British Empire Games.

Unknown Horse Wins Turf Cup

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A new gale to next Friday's Laurel International was opened today and Dodja R. Small's Aeschylus walked through it for a chance to make a rags-to-riches story of the turf.

Laurel decided this week to make the winner of its Turf Cup handicap an automatic eligible beacon for the International, provided the horse is U.S. born.

Aeschylus won the Turf Cup last Saturday before this plan was announced. His entry is the third for the U.S. and Dora the field for the fourth running of the $65,000 International at a score, two more than ever before.

Aeschylus was an unknown outside of his own backyard before he won the Turf Cup. It was only his second victory of note and the $17,000 he won more than doubled his earnings for the year.

Aeschylus joins Clifford Moores' Traffic Judge and Mrs. Richard Lunn's Misty Gus as the U.S. representatives against nine horses from England, Ireland, Canada, France, Germany and South America. Horses from England, France and the U.S. won the first three Internationals in which the entries are handpicked.

Money Means Nothing to Todd, Lives Like a King When Poor

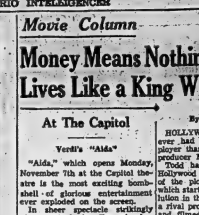
At The Capitol

By BOB THOMAS

Verdi's "Aida"

"Aida," which opens Monday, November 14 at the Capitol theatre is the most exciting bombshell of glorious entertainment ever engulfed the screen.

In sheer spectacle strikingly photographed by Ferraniacolor, seductive feminine lure, sensitive acting and gripping story, the first real opera film more than holds its own with even the greatest of non-musical pictures. When, to all this, one adds Verdi's immortal voices in Italy, the beauty, power and soaring sweep of the finest and pounding sweep of the film leaves one breathless.



Unlike former screen operas, which were mostly photographed stage productions, "Aida" was made as a picture on the scale of the most grandiose film spectacles. The screen fairly blazes with the color and splendor of ancient Egypt, clanging battles, charioteer charges, capture of screaming captives, triumphant marches, palace scenes of music, dance and barbaric ritual.

One can safely say that never, since the Cinerama was first born in Verdi's mind, has an audience ever seen an Aida like Sophia Loren. One of Italy's most famous glamor girls, the superabundantly endowed, voluptuous, nineteen year old screen siren ares greatly enhances the exotic costumes of the Egyptian court. As talented as she is beautiful, Miss Loren reflects not only the physical seductiveness of the slave girl princess who gladden with Pharaoh's daughter for the love of an Egyptian warrior but also the passion, pain and moving drama of one of the world's most tragic stories.

Among others in the cast of thousands, Canada-born Lois Maxwell, handsome, muscular Luciano Della Marra and Afro Pult, one of Europe's best dramatic actors, turn in performances with bite and conviction. The apparently director Clemente Fracassi has created colorful, dramatic realism from his cast and they responded magnificently to his inspired direction.

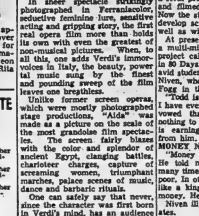
The superb quality of the singing and instrumental music has undoubtedly never been matched in all the many previous performances of Verdi's most popular operas. Since sound track recording does not require the simultaneous presence of all the singers, the voices of Gino Sinimberghi of La Scala and Rome operas as Renata Tebaldi, Ebe Stignani, Giuseppe Campora, Gian Giacomo Guelfi Nori and Enrico Formichi unimpeachable to assemble for any stage production—have been perfectly synchronized to the actions of the visual cast.

Supported by the Italian State Radio Orchestra of Rome under the direction of Giuseppe Morelli and the Italian Ballet Corps of the Rome Opera with principal dancers Alba Arnova, Wanda Tettamanzi and Clio Di Pardo, these illustrious singers and actors have put on a performance dazzling alike to the eye and ear, which has been acclaimed by the annals of opera, stage and screen.

AT THE BELLE — Cary Grant and Grace Kelly are entangled in a web of danger and romance in Alfred Hitchcock's greatest suspense-thriller, "To Catch A Thief". The VistaVision, Technicolor drama, opening Today at the Belle Theatre. Filmed in the glorious vistas of the fabulous Riviera, presents a tension-packed story of an incredibly beautiful and exciting setting.

"REAR WINDOW" HITCHCOCK DOES IT AGAIN! . . .

Alfred Hitchcock, alchemist of suspense, mixes extraordinary elements — and strange things happen.



These are the extraordinary elements: the greatest suspense romance in years—the camera magic of VistaVision—"The Most glittering setting in the world, Monte Carlo—and the two most exciting personalities ever to grace the screen.

And this is the strange chemistry: When Cary Grant and Grace Kelly meet in "To Catch A Thief" the reaction is explosive. The screen brightens to the blaze of some truly incendiary love scenes!

This is the Hitchcock picture with a difference. Above and beyond the excitement and suspense for which his name has been a synonym from "39 Steps" through "Rear Window", this picture portrays an exciting love story. While the weight of danger and desperate moments has the marrow freezing in your bones, the emotional intensity of the affair between the thief and the lady with the jewels will have the blood roaring in your ears as well.

When they meet . . . your emotions are in for a pounding!

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your luck is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Nov. 5, 1955

March 21 to April 20—(Aries) — Highly favored this day are artistic professions; dealing in women's apparel; jewelry, millinery or other accessories; handling of unusual activities. More care needed in routine matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Sunmidi Venus and Uranus assists are favorable to your special interests and to activities for which you are by nature well equipped to handle. Your accomplishments at this time.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — There is no day for hesitating — now you know what to do and how to do it. But be sure of facts, and others' suggestions into kind consideration.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Now is a time to "stay". Not slow down, but stop. Look carefully for new places; make "check" your motto; try a new method if need be. But don't be discouraged.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You can do more with this day than you may think at first. Note that errors could occur; apply yourself wherever necessary — promptly. Tact, too!

August 23 to September 22 — (Virgo) — Meet unexpected situations squarely. Plan so as to obtain waste motion and to keep industry has new impetus.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Do not indulge in restlessness or make drastic changes in plans during this somewhat mixed period. Be careful in judgment and decisions.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Your gentler, more persuasive qualities are the ones to get you farthest and fastest now. Work requiring skill, home, family affairs, artistic interests most favored.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Those unique ideas and projects could pay off today, especially if handled with deftness and skill. Patience may be required in certain personal matters.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — You will have better returns from efforts if you are not too anxious or hurried. Some matters may be harder to complete than others, but "don't shy away from them.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Gains promised for work well done. Give a smart twist to the usual or humdrum — and watch the results!

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Sudden, unpremeditated changes not advised. Well thought out and smartly planned matters will yield more in the end, even though they move slowly at first. Showy returns don't always mean success.

You born today, are magnetic, likeable, talented and usually a worker after knowledge, perhaps adventure. You must not go at too strenuous a pace; neither should you act in spurts, hurried and harried, then idle and worried. Mentality a matter of balance. You have talent, capability for almost any profession, trade or business you like and for which you will become properly trained.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. The Vendor does not guarantee the title to the property but makes no representation and gives no warranty with respect thereto or as to any other matter whatsoever, and the Purchaser shall be entitled to have relied entirely upon his own inspection and knowledge.

2. Sealed tenders marked "Notice of Sale" shall be received by the undersigned at his Chambers, Court House, Belleville, Ontario, and shall be in his hands on Thursday the 1st day of December, A.D. 1955, at the Twelve O'Clock Noon. Such Tenders as have been received shall be opened by the said Judge, in the presence of such of the Tenderers or their Solicitors as may attend for the purpose, and the Tenders shall be dealt with in the presence of all those who may attend.

3. Every Tender shall be in writing and shall contain:
(a) The name and address of the Tenderer;
(b) A Statement to the effect that the Tender submits to the conditions of sale and that the same were part of the Tender;
(c) The amount of the Tender.

4. Each Tenderer shall, with his Tender, deposit with the said Judge a certified cheque payable to the said Judge, or C. Anderson, Esq., Q.C., for $1,000.00. And if his Tender be accepted, such deposit shall be deemed a cash deposit and the purchase money shall be paid in the manner hereinafter provided. The remainder of such deposit shall be applied in part payment of the purchase money. Otherwise, such deposit shall be returned to the Tenderer.

5. Subject to a reserve bid fixed by the said Judge the highest Tender shall be the Purchaser.

6. If any Tender is accepted by the said Judge, then he shall notified to the said effect by registered letter addressed to the Tenderer at the address given and after the date fixed for the opening of Tenders, by declaring in the prepaid registered post.

7. The Purchaser shall not call for any title other than the Vendor's and shall make any objections to the title in writing to the Vendor or his Solicitor within fifteen days from the date of approval and acceptance of the Tender, and in default of such objections the title shall be conclusively shall be deemed to be accepted by the Purchaser.

8. All adjustments of Insurance, Taxes, Local Improvement Rates and Assessments to be made as between the Vendor and the Purchaser shall relate to the date of completion of sale when possession shall be given.

9. If the Purchaser fails to complete the purchase according to the terms of this deposit and all payments thereon made by him shall be forfeited to the Vendor, and shall be in addition to any other remedies to which the Vendor may be entitled, be applied on account of the damages sustained by the Vendor by reason of the default of the Purchaser.

10. The Purchaser shall take the property subject to the first Mortgage to the Ontario Loan and Debenture Company, which amount is now $6,000.00 approximately and Two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars ($2,200.00).

11. The Purchaser shall pay the Vendor's Solicitor's fee of $25.00 for expense and tender, the same for execution.

JUDICIAL SALE

OF
NUMBER NINE ELMER STREET
IN THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE COUNTY OF HASTINGS

IN THE MATTER OF the Partition Act, being R.S.O. 1950 Chapter 266.

AND IN THE MATTER OF the property and premises situate on the West side of Frank Street, and North side of Moira Street in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, being Number Nine Elmer & Frank Street in the City of Belleville.

B E T W E E N :

HELEN IONIS POOLE,
Applicant,

— and —

FREDERICK CHARLES POOLE,
Respondent.

PURSUANT to the Judgment in this cause dated the 30th day of April, 1955, and to the direction of the Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings, sitting locally in accordance with the Consolidation of Orders and Rules, I will offer for sale by Public Auction on the 1st day of December, A.D. 1955, for the property or any parcel of all the property of the Respondent described in the Certificate of Lis Pendens dated the 18th day of April, A.D. 1955, registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Hastings at No. 24, as Number 5-1278 being Number Nine Elmer & Frank Street in the City of Belleville.

UPON which premises are situated in the conveyance is erected a one and one-half storey brick house. The side walls are stucco, the roof is asphalt shingles. The interior of the house consists of a kitchen, living room, two bedrooms, there are six rooms and a bathroom. There is a forced air heating system, an oil furnace, and the floors are hardwood and tile. The plumbing is of copper throughout. The foundation is of poured concrete one. The house is serviced with hydro, water and gas. The lot is level and the grass is cut.

The terms of sale shall be $500 down payment, balance on closing charges except as otherwise specified in the Conditions of Sale.

A full description of the property, including an inventory of the furnishings and equipment, and permission to view the property may be had and obtained at any time prior to the sale from the Auctioneer, Harry Surby, 287 Front Street, Belleville, Ontario.

West Is Winning Battle Of Words At Geneva Parley

May Be Reason Molotov Makes Long Flight Home

Living Costs Rise for Fourth Straight Month

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose for the fourth consecutive month in September, boosting the consumer price index by one-tenth of a point to 118.8 from 118.4, the bureau of statistics reported Friday.

Higher costs for fuel, shelter, medical and dental care offset declines for some food and other items. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

The food component was the best yet stretch of increases since mid-1953. The index rose by one-tenth of a point in June, jumped another four-tenths in each of the two months of July and August and then followed with another one-tenth of a point in September.

However, the index is 1.1 points below the record 118.2 set in December, 1951.

In September, the shelter column rose to a new high of 130.2, up a fifth of a point as both rents and home-ownership costs increased.

FOOD CHEAPER

However the food column, which had been rising steadily for the previous three months, dropped by a fifth of a point in September to 113.2.

The clothing index remained unchanged at 107.8 for the fourth consecutive month.

In the business of running the house, rises in fuel prices rose along with some items of furniture and supplies, and the column increased by one-fifth of a point to 116.1.

Doctor and dentist fees also rose in September along with gasoline prices as some inter-urban bus fares, offsetting declines for radios and personal care items to boost the miscellaneous component by one-fifth of a point to 118.1.

Vancouver Folk Ordered to Boil Drinking Water

VANCOUVER (CP)—Flood-damaged North Vancouver was ordered today to boil its dirty, discolored drinking water as a precaution against epidemic.

"There is absolutely no question about it," said Dr. Bernard Wilson, greater Vancouver health officer. "The water in North Vancouver is dirty and full of silt and must be boiled."

The order followed 48 hours of torrential rain that washed out streets and caused major breaks in water mains in the stricken suburb, forcing Seymour Burrard link from Vancouver.

Meanwhile, weather officials said a new storm was moving in today from the coast, was still moving toward the mainland.

Skies cleared Friday for the first time since Monday's lengthy storm struck and officials began planning ways and means of putting roads, bridges and homes together again.

About 100 homes were damaged in West Vancouver and North Vancouver where individual dwellings were valued as high as $30,000.

Damage in roads and bridges was estimated at more than $200,000 while loss in North Vancouver was estimated at $1,000,000 by Andy Grey, civil defence co-ordinator.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — An intense Hurricane is moving slowly up the Atlantic coast towards the Maritimes this morning, while another area of low pressure approaches Lake Superior from the west. Southern Ontario lies in the relative calm between these two systems. The western one will move through the Great Lakes region Sunday.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers appear to have won the Big Four conference battle with Russia up to this midway point. American sources said today.

That may be the real reason that Foreign Minister Molotov is making the long flight to Russia and back this weekend for consultations with his government.

News of his trip aroused speculation among Western diplomats here that he will seek new instructions from Soviet leaders. If the speculation proves true, Western circles hope the instructions will modify Molotov's stand against action on German reunification at this time.

Whatever the true purpose of Molotov's Moscow mission may be, the record of the Geneva meeting so far shows that the Western Big Three foreign ministers have been almost constantly on the offensive, and that Molotov has been most frequently in a defensive position.

The latest example of this comes from the lips of United States Secretary Dulles, acting for the West, confronted the Soviet foreign minister with a proposal for German-wide elections next September. Mr. Molotov has turned down all the Western unification programs.

Molotov reportedly indicated that he would reject the proposal.

The ministers held their seventh session Saturday and will meet again until next Tuesday. Thereafter they will have two days free of conferences to go before adjournment of the conference, tentatively set for about Nov. 16.

MAY NOT BE FINAL

Since the Russians normally do not make concessions or spectacular moves until after much hard bargaining, the position of the West thus far by Molotov is not necessarily final—although it has not far fought hard to defend it. But the ultimate results of the conference cannot be known until the final hour.

With the three-day recess in prospect, all four ministers made plans to quit Geneva today.

Foreign Secretary Macmillan left for London to confer with the British Cabinet on the Middle East situation.

Foreign Minister Pinay headed for Paris and Dulles scheduled a trip to Vienna to attend the postwar reopening of the Vienna State Opera tonight.

STEEL INDUSTRY OPENS FIGHT FOR HIGHER TARIFFS

Demand Being Opposed By Big Steel Users

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the biggest tariff fights in history, and battle of the basic steel industry for higher protection against some $10,000,000,000 worth of annual imports, opens before the tariff board Monday.

Major steel users, such as the auto industry, have already indicated they plan to put up a stiff fight against upward revisional moves which they would boost prices of a host of products to Canadian consumers. Most commodities used in Canada is imported.

The board, requested by Finance Minister Harris to investigate demands put on behalf of the 30-year-old steel tariff structure, has no far received some 40 letters from manufacturing industries opposing changes.

CHANGES NEEDED

But Mr. Harris observed in his budget last April that duties on steel were worked out many years ago and are "badly" in need of an overhauling.

The board may take a year to complete its investigations. Hearings will be held in this city. The first begins Monday when the steel industry's case is presented as to why it needs the revisions, and the second probably early next year when the board will get down to a study of industrial tariff items.

Argument on behalf of the primary iron and steel producers of Canada will be presented by the big four: Algoma, Dominion Foundries, Dosco-Sidbec, and the Steel Company of Canada.

The industry argues the tariff structure is archaic and hasn't kept pace with economic expansion.

It also maintains that specific and ad-valorem rates of duty are out of date because the duller's purchasing value has declined over the years.

The industry further argues that the Canadian steel tariff was evaded by Canada's entry into the European coal and steel pacts and Trade which was accompanied by further reductions in steel duties.

All these developments have farreaching influences which few people realize, the industry maintains. In 1951, the last year for which data collected on all primary steel products imported was slightly under eight per cent of total imports from Britain only 1½ per cent.

BLACKMAILED GIRL

HAMILTON (CP)—Merlin Bruce Pickering, 22, today was sentenced to three months in jail, convicted, of blackmailing his ex-girlfriend. Evidence was that he fleeced a 21-year-old switchboard operator of $150 by threatening to show her parents love letters she wrote him.

Ontario and Federal Govt. Reach Accord on Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP) — A conditional agreement has been reached between Ontario and the federal government for light, heavy oil and a $118,000,000 northern Ontario section of the proposed trans-Canada natural gas pipeline.

The condition, imposed by Ontario, is that first there must be federal assurance for the completion of the remainder of the proposed 2,800-mile, $530,000,000 pipe line that would carry Alberta gas to the East.

Ontario provincial Treasurer Porter said in an interview Friday night that in talks held here with Trade Minister Howe he had proposed that Ontario would join in a crown company to construct the expensive section from Winnipeg to eastern Ontario providing federal assurances were given that the rest of the line would be built.

"It's up to them," he said, referring to the federal government.

Ontario would put up no money for joint crown control of the Ontario section until the assurances were forthcoming. At the moment, the minister said, the federal government could not make them because a "number of loose ends" remain to be dealt with.

Following his talks with Mr. Howe, Mr. Porter left for a trip to Regina without commenting on the outcome of the conference.

The federal government has proposed that remaining sections of the line between the Alberta gas fields and the Ontario-Manitoba border be built by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., a private company. It is now expected federal officials will ask some sort of guarantee from Trans-Canada that it would be ready to start the project within a reasonable time.

Estimates of the cost of the entire project range between $350,000,000 and $360,000,000, with the $75-million section from Winnipeg from Ontario's western border to Kapuskasing set at about $118,000,000. If Ontario joined the federal government in building this section it would shoulder about $33,000,000 of the cost with the federal government picking up the remainder.

The plan is that the crown company would lease the northern Ontario section to Trans-Canada.

Rail Unions Plan to Press For Fast Action on Demands

MONTREAL (CP)—Rail unions will press for fast action on their new demands on the railways for more than $90,000,000 a year in wage increases and fringe benefits.

Statements from union leaders indicate that, in the absence of a satisfactory offer, they will be cleared for possible strike action by February or March.

The 16 non-operating unions, representing 150,000 workers, served their demands on the companies this week. They want an 18-per-cent general wage increase plus company contribution of eig t cents an hour for an insurance and health plan. The package amounts to about 33 cents an hour on the average.

"Our committee is going to do everything to expedite the proceedings under the law, and we hope to bring everything to a conclusion within the next period of three or four months," Frank Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee said Friday.

Stan Eigbeson, senior negotiator for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL), said at the same time that rail workers "are in no mood to tolerate longdrawn-out negotiations."

Eigbeson also said that "proposed or threatened arbitration will be bitterly fought."

Last year, the strike-threatening unions submitted to arbitration under a cabinet threat to bring Parliament into emergency session to pass legislation outlawing a general rail lleup.

Conferences Outside UN Tend To Weaken It States Pearson

NEW DELHI (CP) — Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson told a press conference today that conferences outside the United Nations—such as the Geneva summit" meeting and the African-Asian conference in Indonesia earlier this year—tend to weaken the world organization.

The Canadian minister and Prime Minister Nehru met reporters after two days of talks in the Indian capital. Pearson arrived in India after attending a Singapore conference of Commonwealth Colombo plan for aiding under-developed Asian areas. Earlier he had visited Russia.

Answering questions by reporters Pearson said he did not advocate that discussions which could be held within the United Nations framework are being held outside it.

The apparent reasons were that the UN had "become a Cold War battleground," and that many of the world were not represented.

"However," Pearson added, "I am happy to see that efforts are to get things back into the United Nations. The Geneva summit meeting is an example."

Pearson also said Canada has had "some useful difference" with other members of the Indochina commission, but has maintained its responsibility regarding elections in Viet Nam.

Canada, India and Poland have representatives on the commission supervising the cease-fire in Indochina, Laos and Viet Nam.

The Canadian members of the commission were "not making a big issue over the differences, but Canada does not feel that the commission to take responsibility for any kind of election in Viet Nam, no kind we have in India and Canada."

Nehru joined with Pearson in expressing the belief that the Russian leaders and their people are strongly desirous of a period of peace in which to develop their resources and social order.

Pearson also told of new Colombo assistance to countries for India, including the $3,000,000 gift of diesel generators for rural electrification, an aerial survey for petroleum and other minerals using the magnetometer method and the gift of two Canadian aircraft for insect spraying.

The minister also announced that Canada will grant a $100,000 gift of medical and other supplies for sufferers from the recent floods in India and Pakistan.

Open Campaign Against Autos With One Light

TORONTO (CP)—Now it's ghost cars versus the "one-eyed Jews."

Ontario traffic cops "will crack" after cars operating with only one headlight as they extended a safety-driving campaign Saturday to the needless highway deaths and property damage.

Eric Silk, senior solicitor in the attorney - general's department, said Friday that the only effective headlights has developed in the province "and must be stamped out. He called them one-eyed Jews. Such vehicles are easily discovered the road and drivers can be charged under the Highway Traffic Act.

As police prepared for their blitz, reflective lights, used by officers were pleased with results of the campaign, which started Oct. 15.

So far 779 traffic violators have been charged. Violations included drunk driving, speeding, defective brakes, unreadable markers, failure to report an accident, address failure to produce licenses, no help and illegal parking.

DRIVERS CHARGED

They also picked up two stolen cars, in each case the driver returned over to municipal police for prosecution in their home areas.

Motorists have been asked to check each other. Attorney-general Dana Porter Friday invited citizens to advise police in writing of incidents which they feel should be investigated.

Mr. Roberts said he will also study a suggestion that professional drivers—chauffeurs, taxi and bus drivers—be appointed as highway vigilantes to report violations.

Nearly 3,000 vehicles have been stopped by police for mechanical tests. Defective inspection and violations of the Highway Traffic Act. Officials hope to reduce the number of accidents by half.

The drive has spread to highways other than the Queen Elizabeth way. Also under close scrutiny are Highway 7 east of Peterborough and west of Lindsay, and Highway 401 between Toronto and Oshawa.

FOUR MEN FLEE FROM B.C. PRISON, TWO RECAPTURED

500 Hunting Pair Armed With Home-Made Guns

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gunman serving a life sentence and his bank-looting companion were at free today after four men, armed with firearms possibly fashioned behind prison walls, escaped from the British Columbia penitentiary Friday.

Five hundred armed men ringed the swamp and woods surrounding the prison in neighboring Burnaby, where the desperadoes are thought to be hiding.

Of the four who made the break from the penitentiary, two were captured soon after—in the warden's back yard—when the brewery car of a civilian partially blocked the escape attempt.

THE RINGLEADER

Still at large were John Wasylenchuk, 44, and Robert Lewis, about 30. Both were convicted bank robbers awaiting transfer to the federal penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C. Prison officials described them as the ringleaders in the break and the most desperate of the quartet. Wasylenchuk was sentenced to life and Lewis to 10 years for separate robberies.

On their trail were 500 police policemen, RCMP and prison guards. Patrol leaders were armed with automatic rifles and carried walkie talkie radios. Through the night searchlights were played over the prison area.

Police received several reports Friday morning that a car used by the hunted men had been seen in the Vancouver suburbs of Burnaby and Burnaby.

Timing of the break led police to consider the theory that the underworld may have given them aid by staging a diversionary bank robbery.

A guard said the convicts were armed with two pistols which appeared to be home-made" and two sawed-off rifles, a .30-30, and a .22.

Police officers described the escape as "very carefully planned."

Orville Richardson, the gate guard who looked into the barrels of escaping guns, said the prisoners were released from the main cell block at the prison's exercise yard. Wasylenchuk and Lewis pulled guns and forced the yard guard's .30-30 calibre rifle.

They threw a sweater over the barbed wire fence and climbed over. Richardson opened the gate under threat of guns.

FORCED FROM CAR

Outside the gate, the four met another guard busily engaged in work. They forced him from his car and then the ringleaders ordered a little terrene when a civilian, Augus MacDonald of Vancouver, drove his car through.

MacDonald jumped into his car and started to drive away when he fired a rifle at him. The shot smashed the windshield and shattered the driver's left arm.

MacDonald rammed his car into the car and the convicts shot and forced it against the prison wall. The escapees left behind the car, MacDonald said, and one fired at him with a home-made pistol.

MacDonald leaped from the car, saw an abandoned rifle, seized it and aimed at them.

The gun misfired and the men sprinted for the woods across from the prison farm.

U.S. Brewers Foam With Indignation At Suggestion Canadian Beer Better

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States Brewers Foundation, the trade association that's busily foamed at the edges, has indignantly challenged reports that Canadian beer is superior to the American brew.

The foundation launched an attack on Canadian restrictions against the import of American beer and contested Canadian assertions that the Canadian product is "better" because it has a higher content than the American.

It said: "In fact, the American brewers can out-brew the Canadians anytime, and every generation of Canadians is growing up without an "opportunity" to sample the U.S. product.

The foundation, representing more than 85 per cent of U.S. brewers, placed its case in Washington's argument Thursday before a congressional committee considering a request by U.S. tariffs on ale, porter, stout and beer. The foundation said it was against that and, furthermore, it wanted to "open up the problem of getting American beer into the Canadian market.

"Surely that really put a head on the brewers' indignation was the claim Canadian beer never had the opportunity to taste it unless they happened to have visited the United States."

The foundation cited figures to show that exports of American brew to Canada since the end of the Second World War totalled only 155,000 gallons while Americans, on the other hand, had imported more than 30,000,000 gallons of the Canadian product. No American beer had gone across the border at all in 1954 and 1955.

Egyptian, Israeli Envoys Confer With U.S. Officials

Heavy Exchange of Fire Reported in Gaza District

GAZA (AP)—Israelis and Egyptians exchanged heavy fire for 45 minutes south of the Khan Yunes Gaza coastal strip, this morning, as Egyptian spokesmen reported.

The Egyptians claimed nine Israeli armored cars approached the demarcation line and fired on Egyptian positions, but withdrew after the Egyptians returned the fire. No casualties have yet been reported.

United Nations observers have gone to investigate.

At 23 Sabaq, in the demilitarized El Auja-Nizana zone—scene of a 17-hour battle between Israelis and Egyptians Thursday — fresh Egyptian troops are digging in in the face of hills to the east overlooking Israeli positions.

The terrain shows little trace of the bitter fighting in which the Israelis claimed they killed 39 Egyptians. The Egyptians said they killed 200 Israelis in counter-attacks.

Correspondents visiting the Egyptian side of the line have seen no signs other than mortars. There was no evidence of two big Sherman tanks which the Egyptians claimed they had used in the fighting, and which the Israelis said had been knocked out.

SAW MINE BLAST

Only one of the correspondents noted in the area Friday was the explosion of a land mine in the direction of the Israeli traffic control station.

With other Arab states offering aid to Egypt if needed to meet an attack, the Western Big Three are urging Israel and Egypt to accept a United Nations peace plan for the El Auja sector.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, head of the UN pacifistic truce commission, conferred Friday in London with state minister Anthony Nutting on moves to achieve Arab-Israeli peace. Burns is due back in Israel after reporting to UN headquarters in New York on the Middle Eastern crisis.

Awaits Reunion With 'Monty'

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

DENVER (AP)—The start of his seventh week in hospital found President Eisenhower encouragingly better today and happily awaiting a conference with British Marshal Montgomery.

The two old comrades-in-arms of World War II parleys at Fitzsimons Army Hospital, where an x-ray examination Friday showed that the president's mending heart "rpr" main normal in size.

Doctors were very pleased" at the lack of any enlargement of the heart, they termed it "satisfactory" and encouraging after the sitting up and walking the president took on this week.

The report strengthened prospects that Eisenhower will be able to fly to Washington next Friday for a meeting on his return to Gettysburg, Pa., a few days later.

Latin-American Bloc Fights U.S. Atom Study Plan

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y (AP)— The 20-country Latin-American bloc in the United Nations is beginning to split with the United States over the handling of peaceful international committees to study the effects of atomic radiation.

The first showdown arose Friday night in the UN political committee, when U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth surprised Latin-American delegates by announcing he would reject an appeal from Ecuador to enlarge the proposed committee of experts group. Ecuador wants two Spanish-speaking countries included among the seven.

Wadsworth said the U.S. felt that a committee of more than 11 members would be unwieldy and could not function efficiently on the project.

Latin-American diplomats later said privately that, unless the U.S. changes its views, it cannot expect their support for the Washington-backed proposal to set up an international committee of scientists to study the dangers of atomic radiation.

FIREMEN HELP WOMAN GET INTO HER HOME

City firemen turned to one of their frequent Good Samaritan tasks Friday afternoon as they helped a woman in distress. A Bayview Heights woman found herself locked out of her home and after other ideas in the middle had failed she had to resort to calling the fire department.

The only other call for firemen on Friday was to the Bakelite plant on Fox Island shortly east of the city where an electric fan was giving trouble.

Rugby Player Is Recovering From Paralysis

The condition of Ted Wallbridge, a football player for the BCI senior rugby team who was injured last Wednesday night is improving steadily.

Young Wallbridge, tackled from behind while catching a pass was paralyzed in both legs from the hips down following the collision. On Thursday he moved his legs and slightly and Friday got out of bed. He was unsteady on his feet and has been confined to Belleville General Hospital for a few more days.

He is being attended by Dr. F. B. Ross.

Belleville OPP Halt All Traffic For Safety Check

Belleville district motorists had their first experience Friday afternoon with the stepped up drive by Ontario provincial police to reduce highway accidents.

From two to four in the afternoon a group of six traffic officers from the Belleville headquarters stopped all traffic for a complete check of drivers' licences, lights, brakes and windshield wipers, and other possible mechanical defects.

Generally speaking passenger cars were found to be in good condition with brakes and lights in good shape. Highest percentage of defects was said to be found among trucks where in a number of cases directional and clearance lights were not in accordance with regulations.

The stepped up drive against speedsters in the Belleville area is under the direction of Sgt. R. H. Devereaux from the Belleville O.P.P. headquarters and Traffic Corporal Harry Barker.

'The Regiment' Adds Lustre To Honored Name

'AN APPRECIATION

"The Regiment," by Farley Mowat. A History of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

For Canadians, who take pride in their fighting units called "The Loyal Old Province of Ontario," to read Farley Mowat's book, "The Regiment" is a must. It adds lustre to the name.

Farley Mowat puts on paper, for all to read, the pride and tradition of this old U.E.L. district, and rightly names it "The Spirit." which was, and is, the spirit of corps of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and the Canadian Militia.

In 1939 that "spirit" called, 6,000 volunteered, and 4,000 fought in the Hasty P's.

Before the sword can be drawn, the "spirit" must flower, as flow. ers do in the spring. Between 1920-1943, drawing its strength from the Old Loyal Province, served, (militia), and the 49th Hastings Rifles, (militia), to fight for the glory of Canada and Peace, which is their heritage.

Colonel Lord Tweedsmuir Hast. & P.E.R., in whose honor the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental association tendered a recent dinner, said, "Everyone added its share when I was going to leave. I told them, 'I leave for Tibet in October 20th, but the most important is, I leave for Home to the Hasty P's on October 20th."

The "Spirit" of the Regiment Wednesday night, was present.

This book should find a place everywhere, and should be read and read in all the sons and grandsons, many of whom now proudly wear the Regimental wings and Prince Edward flashes, the uniform of our gallant young Queen so when duty calls they may draw strength from the "Spirit" of their forefathers, for only that "Spirit" will cause them to volunteer to die.

Yes, Farley, as you say, when the Regiment was born only the scabbard could be seen, for when fighting ended, the sword—a sword of justice—was to be the glowshare from which it had been beaten, ready as ever to be reshaped when the "Spirit" of the Regiment calls.

Aye, "Read it all -- lest you forget."

Colin Hepburn.

P.S.—The idea of publishing a Regimental History was conceived and brought into being largely through the efforts of Major Bill Graydon, M.C., and Major Angus Duffy, late of the P.E.R., during the periods when they headed the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Association, which comprises some 2,200 members. Captain Peter Stone, whose theme the "Spirit" of The Regiment manifests the setting, wrote the book. His was I.O., the 1st Bitn. C.H.

COLD WEATHER FOR WEST

Most of Western Canada can expect below-normal temperatures for the next 30 days according to this map prepared on the basis of the United States Weather Bureau long-range forecast. Central Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes may have near normal and above-normal temperatures. The Pacific coastal area, Alberta and Manitoba are expected to have much-below normal readings. Remnants of Ex-Kilties Band Stage Reunion in Chicago

A link with the misty musical past of Belleville was forged recently when nine of the fifteen surviving members of the famous Belleville Kilties Band held a dress-parade reunion in Chicago.

The sole Belleville representative from this city was Billy Grant, who still plays his drums and xylophones. The remaining eight ex-members hailed from all parts of the United States from Minnesota to California.

All nine of these members of a famous musical organization are retired. Herb Kling came from Chicago, Bert Teale from San Francisco; Dale Connin from Byron, Ohio; Fred Welagh, Gosport, Indiana; Dick Mattice from Liverpool, New York; Jarmo Hiltula from Florida; Vane Kensinger from Ferndale, Michigan and Wray Hillier from Marshall, Minnesota.

Among the missing were Jamie Clark, well-known piper of Belleville and Billy Summerville, of Toronto. The late Reg. Hinchey was a member of the band. Others live in Toronto and other parts of Ontario while one Gene Lockhart is a famous motion picture star in Hollywood.

The reunion was held in the Green Room of the Oak Palms Hotel, Chicago, where the former kilties reminisced of a world tour that took three years of visiting 32 countries and travelling 70,000 miles with more than 100 days at sea. During this time 1,000 concerts were given and the band met twice commanded to appear before the King of England.

With the band travelled the famous Clan Johnstone Troupe of Belleville headed by the late Albert Johnstone. Billy Grant and Jamie Clark were members of this troupe.

Prior to its world tour, the band travelled through Mexico and in 1908 was organized in Belleville by the late Thomas Fourneyron. It toured Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania and after conquering durkness it was decided by the band's great showman and manager "T.F.J." (Power), to continue on around the world.

The band journeyed on to Ceylon, India, Asia, the Orient, Europe, the British Isles ending the long journey in New York with a performance at the American Legion Stadium.

Modes of travel were train, ship, camel, stage coach and elephant. The musicians visited the wonders of the world including the famous Taj Mahal in Agra, India.

The Chicago reunion would have been more joyous if the "darling of the band" the then Zita Power, later Mrs. Zita Ryan who owned and operated the Oak Palms Hotel here for many years, had been present. Mrs. Ryan was a young girl at that time.

On more than one occasion the Kilties Band ex-members' organization was entertained at reunions held in the Oak Palms Hotel where Mrs. Ryan was the host.

Two years from now, all living ex-members of the band are invited to hold another reunion at the Belleville Ranch." San Fernando, California as guests of Bert Teazle.

Top Dancers, Musicians With Ballet Co.

Canada's largest touring theatrical attraction, the 62 dancers and musicians of the National Ballet Company of Canada, open this season's North American tour in Belleville, Monday, November 14, at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium.

"Offenbach in the Underworld," "Les Sylphides" and "Gala and Carden" will comprise the program.

Heading the distinguished company is Celia Franca, artistic director and leading ballerina. Miss Franca, a star of Sadler's Wells Ballet of London, England, for four years, founded the National Ballet five years ago.

"Probably the greatest dramatic dancer the Wells ever had" is the opinion of Miss Franca held by Dame Ninette de Valois, director of the Sadler's Wells.

Lois Smith and David Adams, featured dancers, also have fashioned impressive reputations.

Miss Smith, Canada's first native-born prima ballerina, toured the U.S. in the musicals "Oklahoma" and "Song of Norway" before joining the National Ballet in 1951. She won a featured award at the CNE in 1952 and 1953 and has been seen in several television productions. Her New York debut in the dual role of Odette-Odile in "Swan Lake" last year took Manhattan's hardbitten critics by storm.

David Adams, principal male soloist with the National Ballet was with Ballet Theatre, Ballet and toured Europe with the Metropolitan Ballet of London before returning to Canada in 1951. In addition to dancing leading roles in England and in Canada Mr. Adams has choreographed a number of ballets for the National Ballet as well for television.

George Crum, musical director, made his debut as a concert pianist before joining the National Ballet. He has conducted performances of the Opera Festival Association in Toronto, spent two seasons with the National Opera of Central America and in the summer of 1952 was coaching for the Canadian Ballet Festival at the Salzburg Festival.

He has conducted concert orchestras of the Royal Conservatory of Music and the Toronto under Nicholas Goldschmidt and has conducted operas in Guatemala, Mexico City and Costa Rica.

Kay Ambrose, artistic adviser to the National Ballet is an international authority on ballet having written eight books on the dance which have been translated into 18 languages and sold hundreds of thousands of copies. She has designed costumes and decor for the company.

Tickets for the single performance may be procured by writing: The National Ballet Company, P.O. Box 91, Belleville, or by visiting the box office at 10 Bridge Street East after Monday, Nov. 7th.

Two-thirds of the seats for the performance have been sold already. Prices are $3.50, $3.00 and $1.50.

Group to Meet For Discussion Of Great Books

Do you enjoy fast-paced discussions with intelligent persons and do you've always meant to read? If your answer is yes, a Great Books discussion group may be the activity you are seeking.

Belleville and area residents are invited to take part in a three-session Great Books orientation to be held at the Corby Public Library on Wednesday evenings, November 16, 23 and 30, from 8 to 10 p.m., it has been announced by Miss Olive Dezinny, chief librarian.

Great Books discussions have been a part of the library adult offering since 1952. Advanced participants completed three years of discussions last spring. Because of interest shown by new participants, it was decided to form a beginning first-year group this fall.

For the initial readers, the three orientation sessions will be conducted by Dr. Martin Bailey of the staff of the Great Books Foundation. After these sessions the group will continue to meet fortnightly under local discussion leaders.

"There are no formal education requirements," Miss Dezinny emphasized. "All that is needed is th exhibity to read and a willingness to exchange ideas with others."

Readings will be provided for the orientation sessions. Registrations, limited to 25 persons, may be made by visiting, writing or telephoning the Corby Public Library, WOodland 8-7536.

Shopping Made Easier At Canadian Tire

Canadian Tire Corporation for many years have built their business on a cash basis, not to keep pace with modern shopping habits, they have instituted their own Credit Budget Plan. The highlights of this plan are that a customer may purchase any merchandise or service over $10.00 for no down payment and weekly payments as low as $1.

Credit Budget accounts there is no waiting, immediate delivery of any goods can be secured. Under his new scheme there are no outside interviews or references required.

As in all of Canadian Tire Corporation activities, they have been successful in setting up this plan with a minimum cost to the consumer. Carrying charges are much below most other companies.

IN MEMORIAM

CRIS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Steve Cris, who passed away November 5th, 1954.
Calm as I peaceful he is sleeping.
Sweetest rest his fellows take
We who loved him sadly miss him.
But trust in God to meet again.
—Ever remembered by wife Thelma, daughter Lorraine and friends.

ROSEWORTH. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Isabel Roseworth, who passed away November 5th, 1953.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Unseen by man, but seen by God.
—Ever remembered by family.

GREEN. — In loving memory of Carrie Green, who passed away so suddenly on November 5th, 1951.
Beautiful memories are all we have left.
Of him we loved and will never forget.
—Sadly missed and lovingly kept
A broken link we can never replace.
And the hearts that loved her best
Still sadden on the sorrow fall.
Memories live on and they can treasure.
Death left a heartache nothing can ease.
—Always remembered by Maddine, Jorre and Barbara.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Pre-Civil War days brought a wave of evangelism to Philadelphia. The city was fired in 1858 by a far - reaching spiritual revival which men and women remembered for years afterward as "the work of God in Philadelphia".

One of the most zealous of the rivalists was the Rev. Dudley A. Tyng, a young preacher whose sermons won wide interest as the crusade progressed. Tyng made a great impression with a noon-day sermon which he preached one day in a down-town hall to more than 5,000 men. He took for his text the passage in Exodus 10:11—"Go now, ye that are men, and serve the Lord". Nearly 1,000 of his hearers were converted.

Less than a week after that memorable service, the youthful evangelist was fatally injured when his arm was crushed in a corn shelling machine. As he lay dying, he asked a group of friends who had gathered at his bedside to join him in a farewell hymn. He himself led in the singing of the hymn, "Rock of Ages", and, when the song was done, his father asked him whether he did not have some message to leave with his comrades.

The young face on the pillow lighted up and the brave soldier of the cross whispered:

"Tell them to stand up for Jesus!"

Dr. George Duffield, a member of the bedside group, remembered that message. Before the week was out, it became the inspiration for a stirring hymn and on the following Sunday morning, as he finished preaching a sermon for his friend in the Presbyterian church of which he was pastor, he read the verses of "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus" to his congregation.

STAND UP FOR JESUS

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the cross;
Lift high His royal banner,
It must not suffer loss;
From victory unto victory
His army shall He lead,
Till every foe is vanquished,
And Christ is Lord indeed.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
The trumpet call obey;
Forth to the mighty conflict
In this His glorious day;
Ye that are men, now serve Him
Against unnumbered foes;
Your courage rise with danger,
And strength to strength oppose.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
The strife will not be long;
This day the noise of battle,
The next the victors song;
To him that overcometh,
A crown of life shall be;
He with the King of Glory
Shall reign eternally.

Then, as the hymn relates, the young soldier of the cross was "promoted to glory".

Duffield's hymn was published in the Presbyterian Banner and was widely sung in churches throughout the country. Then, in 1860, it was published in a collection of hymns and was sung by the Union soldiers in the Civil War.

Tyng made a complete recovery from his injuries and lived to be 81 years old. He was pastor of the Church of the Covenant in Philadelphia for 30 years and was a leader in the Presbyterian Church for more than half a century.

A Lift For Living

The Magic of Courage

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

I hesitate to write about courage because those who talk most about it usually have the least of it. Brave men seldom advertise their virtue.

Genuine courage is marked not only by modesty, but by magic. The brave spirit succeeds in doing things which defy explanation. A dashing heroic deed like that of Lindbergh arouses the jaded spirit of a world which has become fed up with artificial and materialistic comforts. That common, every-day variety of courage, called pluck, perservres in the face of disasters until they are transformed into triumphs.

When, in recent months, devastating floods struck many of our eastern states, the grandeur of individual courage higher than the surging waters. The American people responded in the hours of crisis.

Thousands of victims had lost everything, including the lives of their loved ones. One man stood in front of his shop, surveying the ruins. A reporter questioned him. "What will you do now?" he asked. The man smiled wistfully and replied, "We gin to re-build." Yes, all was lost—save courage.

KEYSTONE OF CHARACTER

This magic quality of courage is the keystone of strong character, for without it other virtues are of little avail. What good is honesty if you haven't the courage to use it?

In the first place, courage has the magic power of clarifying our vision. Fear befogs and befuddles the mind. In the mind, as on the high seas, fog ties up traffic. We cannot see our way through. Our resolutions come to a halt.

Now what does courage do for us in those hours of mental fog? For one thing, it helps clear the atmosphere. Our minds are sometimes like our closed cars on a wintry day. The air inside the car becomes so saturated and impure that the windows are filmed over with vapor until we can hardly see out.

So it is with our minds. We keep breathing over and over our vague indecisions, our half-settled resolutions, our unresisted temptations, our shadowy suspicion until the window of our minds are filmed with fear. Into such a situation courage comes like opening a window to clear the air.

OPENS THE WAY

The brave spirit not only helps clear the air, but aids us in finding a way through the mist. We sometimes say we are so bewildered we don't know what to do next. But in reality, we seldom, if ever, get into such a puzzling situation and if we do the duty immediately next us it usually opens the way leading to the one which follows.

Moreover, courage has the magic of contagion. We are quite aware of the contagion of fear, and have seen how quickly a crowd can be infected with it.

This summer, on our return trip from Europe, our ship was hit by a storm of near-gale proportions. The wind struck so suddenly that the liquid ballast could not be pumped quickly enough to counteract the blast. Seasoned travelers, accustomed to rolling ships, were alarmed by the list of the boat. Rumors began to spread.

All this happened in the dusk just before dinner. But those of us who were able to go down to the dining room smilingly seated at his place at table. The contagion of his confidence soon spread through the ship and fearful passengers grew calmer.

"STONEWALL" COURAGE

In the first battle of Bull Run, Confederate troops at one juncture found themselves hard pressed. General Lee, seeking to encourage his troops is said to have cried out, "Look at Jackson—there he stands like a stonewall.

That saying stuck to General Thomas J. Jackson. His unshaken courage, combined with his brilliant military skill and deep personal piety, made "Stonewall" Jackson the most beloved war hero of Southland next to Robert E. Lee. Recently "Stonewall" Jackson was honored as one of the three persons elected to the Hall of Fame for famous American—the highest honor accorded to America's sons.

Bulletins From Birdland

BERRIES FOR SALE

Many berry-bearing bushes grow north of settlements in Canada, quite out of our reach. What becomes of all the fruit left hanging on the branches in autumn?

Is it wasted?

No indeed, because our north also harbors many berry - eating birds. If you doubt the birds' capacity, watch a flock of migrating robins as they tackle a mountain ash tree weighed down by large bunches of bright red berries. In no time, the tree is stripped.

High-bush cranberries share the same fate. Dogwood berries, both white and red, seldom are allowed to reach maturity before they are devoured. They disappear while still green. Wild, black, and choke cherries are all wonderfully attractive to birds.

In wild strawberry season in our districts of scattered settlements, there is a race between human berry pickers and birds—and the birds usually win. Before the strawberries have a chance to ripen, robins, bluebirds, or scarlet tanagers have taken little bites out of them.

Raspberries are very tempting to brown thrashers, and thrushes. Crossbills are particularly fond of bittersweet berries. Even Goldfinches, song sparrows, and white-throats (all definitely seed eaters), kinglbirds, warblers, and vireos (all really insect eaters) take a little wild fruit.

TASTE FOR BERRIES

Catbirds actually live on small, soft fruits, such as blueberries and blackberries. Cedar waxwings like all kinds of berries, including sumach, alder, elder, snowberries, and wild grapes. Mountain ash berries rank high as favorites with both these birds, besides robins, purple finches, waxwings, evening and pine grosbeaks.

Wandering Waxwings, the Bohemian, eat any dry, waste fruit they can find still hanging on bushes and trees. Canada Jays, which live beyond civilization, blue jays, which are found near towns and villages, and cardinals of southern forests all make a meal of berries.

It is a fact that the great majority of birds never touch cultivated fruits as long as there is any wild. A few individuals seem to have a taste for our cherished varieties, but the best protection for cultivated fruits is to plant mountain ash trees, Russian mulberry bushes, bittersweet and the like.

Perhaps the most destructive in the mixed group is the insectivorous Baltimore oriole, whose propensity for puncturing cultivated grapes has brought protests from owners of vineyards. But as its stay in Canada ends before our grapes ripen, there should be no complaints here.

Now is the time that all these berry picking birds are getting their fill of the fruit we neglect.

THE AGES OF BOREDOM

The Montreal Gazette raises its editorial eyebrows in surprise at learning that students of teen-age problems say that boredom is one of the major causes of teen-age delinquency. After a moment's reflection, though, it concludes that "it is natural result of the environment in which they live, an environment built and maintained by adults.

"The great lack, it is pointed out, (by students of teen-age problems), is the child's failure, in today's system, to learn ways of entertaining himself and discovering, too, that the entertainments in which a person participates are enormously more satisfying than those which are supplied merely by turning a switch, or paying an admission fee."

There is much wisdom in these words from the Gazette, and yet it is doubtful whether the problem of boredom, and cure, is all that simple.

Boredom is probably not a new disease, although modern conditions may have made it easier to recognize, in some cases.

Nor do we believe that boredom first enters the individual's life in the teen years.

It is probable that more marrying babies bawl from boredom than from the irritation of wet diapers or the pain of an open safety pin. Certainly the presence of boredom can be estately detected a few years later. Compulsions called away to an early supper, the romping child trudges forlornly into the house, flops on the chesterfield, pouts and wails "I've nothing to do!"

That type of boredom, though, is short-lived and easily cured. But the age, boredom is not easily sustained when two youngsters are gathered together, and if there are three or more the result is more likely to be bedlam than boredom.

Advancing years, though, wipe some of the magic off of company and by the time the teens are reached boredom can sometimes thrive in a crowd.

The Gazette seeks some remedy. Sometimes, as the Gazette notes, the relief from boredom takes the form of delinquency. It might be pointed out that, in these cases, the lure is the danger in spite what students of his problems advise, "discovering that entertainments in which a person participates are enormously more satisfying than those which are supplied merely by turning a switch, or paying an admission fee."

We must conclude, therefore, that while learning to entertain oneself is desirable, the nature of the entertainment is important, too. Nor should all "admission fee" cures for boredom be scorned. One of the oldest and best safeguards against boredom is a love of reading, and what is the price of a book but the admission fee into a world of wonder?

"Boredom," says the Gazette, "is usually associated with adults, and with adults of a particular type. It is patently a think thing for those who have time and too much, have seen too much or known too much, or perhaps with those whose standards are too high to enable them to be satisfied with the averagenness of most living."

This is an accurate statement of the common conception of boredom, but a moment's reflection will convince most of us that nothing could be further from the truth. Of course, there are many types of this and who are bored, but there are just as many who suffer from boredom and who yet lack wealth, have seen and experienced little and are by no means "jaded" by high living.

One of the most confusing things about boredom is that it is impossible to detect it with any real degree of accuracy. Some may be sitting in their chair silent as a ball game; one may be bored, the other absorbed. Or two women may be attending the opera, one delighted, the other only half alive. Boredom can even overtake a man while fishing, or a woman while buying a hat. Even a kiss may turn to a yawn.

But if boredom can make its abode in the most unlikely places, it can be evicted by the same unlikely conditions. The secret, of course, is easy to explain but difficult for the bored to apply. All that is required is a spark of interest, a willingness to participate, a giggle or the merest touch of ire, to make boredom flee.

Strangely enough, and contrary to the beliefs of many, destiny, curiosity, mirth or anger frequently are easier come by and more admirable.

The child is moved to any or all of these very easily, but they disappear as fast. The teen-ager comes by them more slowly, but once gripped are considerably stronger.

But, it is the comparatively young adult who finds the cure for boredom most difficult to grasp, perhaps because he has been so expert over the years in dressing intensity in these emotions, expecting them to drag him along, willy-nilly. The wise amongst older men and women, having learned the remedy for boredom, do not wait for intensity to sweep away disinterest, but apply the whip to the first stir of interest, regaining by design that zest for living which to a child comes so naturally. But the adult has learned to nurture what the child lets die so easily.

The child is enthralled and bored in rapid succession. The mature adult is more likely to be bored all the time—or never. Well . . . hardly ever.

AN EXCELLENT FIRE RECORD

The bush fire season ended officially on Monday of this week. Records for the Tweed district of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests show that there were exactly 100 fires in the district this summer. Campers are blamed for 27 of this total and smokers for 17. Railways started five, settlers three, logging operations two, prospectors two and clearing operations one, while there were another 8 fires from miscellaneous causes. Manmade fires thus totalled 65. The remaining 35 fires were caused by lightning and were thus unavoidable.

This 1 park of 100 fires may reflect little credit on man—but the fire rangers came to the rescue. The hundred fires, 49 in the Bancroft division and 51 in the Deere division, burned only 304 acres totalling only 104 acres. This speaks highly for the efficiency of the detection and fire-fighting services. It more than redeems man's responsibility for almost three hundred acres of the fires. It would appear reasonable to suppose that, but for the fire-fighters, the 36 fires started by lightning would have swept over a much greater area than a mere 104 acres.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 5, 1935

Merchants, who are members of the Retail Merchants' Association here, have decided to close their stores during the morning of November 11th until one o'clock, under that the proprietors and employees may assemble at the Cenotaph.

This fall so far has been mild, in fact quite warm; store doors are still left wide open. Oldtimers declare they have never so warm at this season of the year.

The old curling rink on George Street, south of Bridge Street, near Dundas Street, is to be moved to the city yards on South Church Street, where it will be used for the storage of equipment, building material and other supplies required in the work of the public works department. It is believed the move the rink has been provided at a cost of $150.

One Belleville student and two Tweed students are the winners of the Carter Scholarships in Hastings County; John H. Moore of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School has been awarded the first prize of $100 cash; Miss Mary A. Kinlin of the Tweed High School, won the second prize of $50 cash, and Hilliard Varty of the Tweed High School won the third prize of $40 cash. In deciding the awards the judges based their decision upon the writing off of ten Upper School subjects in one year. The highest aggregate was then taken. Only one student of the Belleville school was in the competition.

Belleville residents, who recall the cold snap which ushered in the fall season, and who noted the early and unseasonable advent of Indian Summer, may be interested to know that his phenomenon is not uncommon. It has been established recently that the winter of 1925 will be the royal palm and several other tropical birds. Word in regards to the variation in the weather in this district. Alonzo Spencer, farmer, living 18 miles north of Belleville, drove to the city and reported to his home in a cutter on October 21, 1887, and spent Christmas and the day before the new year of the same year, with the sled ploughing.

The potato crop is a failure in all parts of the province from Atlantic to the Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Herberton of Marsh Hill, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding on Tuesday last. Mrs. Herberton, prior to her marriage, was Miss Sarah Bird. They were married by the Rev. Jacob Howell at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bird, Halloway. They received many congratulations and expressions of good wishes from many friends.

The ninth annual banquet tendered by Mr. John Elliott, manager of the local branch of the Standard Bank, to the members of the Belleville Cheese Board, was held at the Anglo-American Hotel yesterday. Many cheese men, residents of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties were present. Mr. F. C. O'Flynn, barrister, occupied the chair.

The "Idle Rich Club" has been dissolved and in its place the Midinnacking Club has been formed with the following officers: President, Allan Maughan; vice-president, H. Barrett; secretary, Hugh Rogers; treasurer, W. Boyce; executive committee, H. Bateman, G. Kyle and H. Hoole.

Mr. C. M. Stork, manager of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has returned home after spending a few days in Windsor, Ontario.

Sunday was a great occasion for the good people of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here for on that day the "Kirk" attained to the ripe old age of 74 years and the members of the congregation, together with many visitors had the privilege of listening to one of the most powerful and eloquent sermons ever delivered from a Belleville pulpit.

The preacher was the Rev. Dr. Milligan, minister of Old St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, a name is a household name among Canadian Presbyterians. It is stated forty years since Dr. Milligan preached here.

The members of the Orange Order and kindred societies attended the morning service at Holloway St. Methodist Church on Sunday and were addressed by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Leitch. During the service Mr. Morton Gordon sang a solo in excellent voice.

Spelling Not Science

(Christian Science Monitor)

The head of the Los Angeles civil service department says that of the 11 words most frequently misspelled by applicants for city jobs, six begin with the letter "a"; incomposable, accumulate, all, all right, already and aqueduct.

A little over 30 years ago England's professor Dr. Easley S. Jones with his assistants, examined the spelling of 10,000 words, words written by high school graduates. He found that just 20 words accounted for 50 per cent of the total misspellings. And not one of these words begins with the letter "a".

Which simply goes to show that this sort of thing hasn't become an exact science.

Pastoral Humor?

(United Church Observer)

A Kansas grandmother was persuaded to come to town to attend a vaudeville show which headlined a magician the first one she'd ever seen. During his act the magician covered a newspaper with a heavy flannel cloth and read the print through it. Then he covered the paper with a blanket and again read it accurately. At this, granny rose hastily, whispering: "I'm a-goin' home. This is no place for a lady in a thin calico dress."

THE WAILER

Leave your hurts upon a shelf.
Don't be sorry for yourself.
If you're troubled, don't complain.
Fall, and then get up again.
Just remember—friends or foe—
No one wants to hear your woes.

Asked about your health, reply: "Feeling very well am I."
That is quite enough to say.

Then go striding on your way.
None would waste the time you'll take
To describe your every ache.

Nothing of your miseries tell.
Just pretend that all is well.
If you have to live in pain,
Do it when you are alone.
While you have the strength to strive,
Bear in mind you're still alive.

Music On The Railroad

(By W. Harry Colclough of Vancouver writing in the Saturday Beacon-Herald)

"Please Mr. Murphy, won't you turn off that music?" we pleaded with the conductor as the train sped on the fast daylight run from Winnipeg to Fort William in one of the new, already-getting-old stainless steel trains.

"Sorry, sir," snapped the official, "these programs are arranged in Montreal, and we are not allowed to make any changes — and, in addition, practically everybody wants the music." He hustled down the aisle, refusing further discussion.

For three solid hours the music had blared along at 60 miles an hour without a break, with four hours to go. "Copying the Yankees who have music on some of their trains," growled a dark complexioned man, obviously wishing that the man in Montreal had taken a course in correctness, rather than on how to furnish music on a transcontinental train.

All this called for a bit of strategy, as we were travelling in the day-coach, to find a number who wished "the . . . thing" was turned off. The same situation in the tourist section — and when we called back to the diner, the semi-elite back in the drawing rooms and the roomettes, we uncovered the fact that seven out of eight passengers had the music turned off. We forgot about the train from end to end and discovered that the music was being sent away from "The Sidewalks of New York" or "Beethoven's First Movement" and that you had to fix yourself a corner in the train where you could hear it, or else join the cruel musical world. It made no difference where you went — Dutch Treat, Dixieland, Country, Coffee-Bar or Observation Coach—whether you like it or not, you were compelled to listen to another man's idea of entertainment.

As a group, the officials were sympathetic to the numerous complaints. Said one, "Well, either," commented one of them, "and we turn it down or we turn it on. You'd do us a favor if you would write direct to Montreal."

"It takes the public to find the answer," he said. "The manufacturer used to say when releasing a new model — and the same applies to the new 'pile' television dollar trains. And there are only 'bugs' in these new trains, even though we have had the advantage of copying the American models.

"The new cars are expensive. They are a vast step in transportation, and you will see evidence of heavy traffic, but you will notice that the day has gone when the average Pullman passenger gets as much for his money as he used to get in the old cars. In fact, you will find that the new all-steel Pullman berth in the new cars. Time was when, by booking ahead, you could get number 6, 7 or 9, pretty much in the centre of the car, but you pay plenty above the old rate for such a location in the new equipment. There are only four Standard sleepers in the car, and you get a berth right over the wheels and pushed close to the end of the car. The result is that it is not so hard to take as a Gosling-gunlike banging from the couplings and the clattering and wheezing every time the car hits a pitch-and-toss takes a curve. The old-fashioned washer is now which used to be an effective noise-absorber, are gone.

At the far end of the car, where the duplex roomettes are located, you run into more money, and the same difficulty. The first two or three roomettes are not as comfortable as Nos. 1 or 12 in the old Pullman, and they cost more. We have received complaint sometimes from those who occupy these roomettes, and the officials one of the officials "and, whenever you hit a curve you're closer to the centre." This all goes to show that there are about five percent of her sex. Then there's the new car, and you have, on occasion, to share it with a strange person—excuse me, I should say personages, for the lady is usually with obvious pleasure on the rigid protocol which determines the duties of secretary, secretary to the lady did not indicate just where a friend might be seated, if at all.

New Ordeal For Rioters

(Windsor Star)

Rioters in Cyprus have no advantage over British and British soldiers in that a sort of kid-glove treatment is evidently the controlling them. Guns are not used. But British authorities have resorted to a new tactic that can cause the rambunctious ones no end of embarrassment.

They mark the rioters with an indelible dye, to facilitate a later roundup.

A great deal of useless scrubbing will be done, no doubt, in vain. And while they will be none the worse for this, psychologically it can be dampening to revolutionary ardor.

For the complete social and political efforts it will be necessary to certain principles which are held by all people at all times. The thing which the heart of man most wants and which the Bible assures him he can have is the forgiveness of sins.

How do we obtain this forgiveness? How are we reconciled to God? Solely by faith in God's promise that He will forgive our sins, a faith which leads us to accept the gracious offer. Do we have to be worthy to receive this

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now that the autum leaves have fallen and all the woods stand bare, it would be impossible to speak a little critically about them.

There is no splendor, whether of mountain or sea or city, that compares with the autumn coloring of trees in maple and beech and birch, pretty generously from coast to coast in our country. In some regions, their glory is more striking that they take on almost a religious force, like a prayer or a great choral compositions. They have the heart stand still.

Yet here's a funny thing. Come the autumn and I always try to pick one branch of lurid flaming yellow or rich purple and one of mahogany, the Dolphin leather of oak, and when do you find?

From a distance of a mile, the forest appeared to be an illuminated lion in praise of bending over God. At a hundred yards, it glowed with the passion and beckoning of a sacred fire.

But at five feet, right at hand, you can't for the life of you find a branch of a bough you really want to pluck as a memento of glory and take home in the car.

There is something wrong with every one of them. The leaves are a little dry, or not quite red enough, or they're dangling from a higher there, fifteen feet up, is set with a smile longer. The new limb and hook it down. But it, too, on closer inspection, is somehow not quite right for the mantle. With a sense of curious frustration, you go back and look at the whole tree, hailing the car time and again at the bewildering beauty of the whole. It seems to represent the splendor as a whole. But no luck.

Now I think the autumn glory is true of life itself, of humankind, and of God's love for humankind and is, and has been, a many-splendored thing. But it's hard to come up with one quick an individual of a cluster of us and say: this is a splendid man, or a splendid woman.

Usually our noblest specimens, when we get close at eye level, turn out to be not quite as good as they appeared at a little distance. Usually we are aware of power and glory to the mass.

TAKE IT—AND SMILE

Life is a problem, and each of us is a problem, but it remains for each one of us to make the most of the problem that is his or her job to take it—and smile! We are bound to have many a problem come our way and much trouble will beset us, and many times it will get us down—but we can find time to take the punishment—and smile.

Disappointments come to us when least expected. We face losses in business, in love, in what is a friend. At the time, so sudden is the impact, we hardly know what to do, but we can take it—and smile. All events pass, and every disappointment is a lesson. The hurts of the mind and heart heal in time.

Great characters are created out of the disappointments and even tragedies. We must have faith and courage so as to take such as it comes and smile.

Don't Rankle — Take A Walk

Except in B movies, tired films of gangster life and westerns, a civilized person can't bounce out of the chin of a character whose behavior or conduct irritates and annoys him. On the other hand, he can help to just sit or stand there pretending to be unperturbed, ceaselessly tapping the arm of your chair or drumming your fingers on table or desk or your foot on the floor, nor even to pace the floor. Such repressed or inhibited reactions cannot absorb the surge of energy released by the emotion.

What else than a sudden release of a surge of energy can account for the rise in blood pressure and the increased rate and force of the heart beat? No amount of breeding, civilization or culture can "control" the instinctive, natural or autonomous reactions to the emotions.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD'S GREATEST GIFT

The greatest fact in our religion is the assurance the Bible gives us that God forgives our sins. People read a lot of modern philosophy in which the idea of sin is ruled out. The Bible is neither modern nor ancient, but perennial. It lays down principles which are true for all people at all times. The thing which the heart of man most wants and which the Bible assures him he can have is the forgiveness of sins.

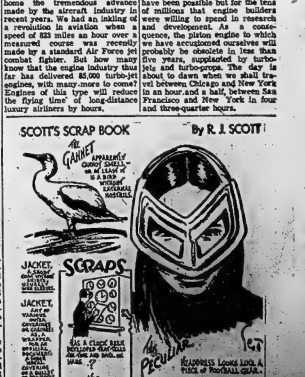
How do we obtain this forgiveness? How are we reconciled to God? Solely by faith in God's promise that He will forgive our sins, a faith which leads us to accept the gracious offer. Do we have to be worthy to receive this gift? No; the most unworthy, the most debased sinner is offered full advantage of this heavenly bounty, if he offered it while he is still a sinner. But he must renounce his sins if he claims the divine gift. The Bible calls this renunciation "repentance." If we remain in our sins we have not accepted God's forgiveness, our acceptance has not been sincere and the value of our acceptance is destroyed.

Let us examine ourselves confidently upon God's grace, that sense of the love and favor of God which comes to us through the Bible and rescue us from despair and shield us in the hour of temptation.

Such has been the faith of the Christian church in every generation. Freedom from guilt and burden of sin is the greatest gift God has to offer us.

The power developed commanding submarines, according to Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, president of the Admiral Submarine Corporation, a modern jet bomber (the compansion would undoubtedly find good use for 500 horsepower (gasp) weighing only a hundredth as much as a 500 horsepower piston engine. It would take twenty-five such steam engines to match the full power of only six engines of a 600-mile-an-hour jet bomber.

The impending revolution in commercial aviation would hardly be possible without the free lessons of millions that engine builders were willing to spend in research and development. As a consequence, the piston engine to which measured course was recently made by a standard Air Force jet bomber. But how many people know that the engine industry thus far has delivered 85,000 turbo-jet engines, with many more to come? Engines of this type will reduce the flying time for long-distance luxury airliners by hours.



Great Strides In Aviation

(New York Times)

The plane ordered on Oct. 11 by Pan American Airways for forty-five jet airplanes to cost $200,000,000, is followed by that of United Airlines for thirty at cost $175,000,000. These two orders drive home the tremendous strides that made by the aircraft industry in recent years. We had an inkling of such a situation when the speed of 623 miles an hour over a measured course was recently made by a standard Air Force jet bomber. But how many people know that the engine industry thus far has delivered 85,000 turbo-jet engines, with many more to come? Engines of this type will reduce the flying time for long-distance luxury airliners by hours.

Baldness Is His Business

By JEREMY BERNARD

"Men are getting bald much earlier than they used to do," says America's topmost wig maker, Sam Lidoff, who here reveals some of the secrets of his profession.

The bald, it might be said, are like the poor, always with us. But there is more to it than that. An American statistician would have us believe that there are more bald headed men about today than in any previous generation.

It is difficult to know how he arrives at this conclusion, and certainly there seems no way of checking the facts, but the reason given for the alleged greater incidence of baldness today, "the strain of modern living," is perhaps as acceptable an explanation as any.

A man who knows a lot about baldness—not so much how it is caused as how to remedy it, at least artificially—is Mr. Samuel Lidoff, of Washington. Since he performed his first professional task, which was combing and cleaning wigs worn by the world famous French actress Sarah Bernhardt, Mr. Lidoff has progressed to become America's topmost wig maker.

When he was a boy of tender age, his longing was all for the theatre. He yearned to be an actor, and when his father, a Kiev silversmith, wanted him to become an apprentice in the trade, Samuel ran away from home.

RECLAIMS WIGS MAKER

Eventually he reached America, where in 1904 he became an assistant to a stage hairdresser. He did not take Samuel long to develop into an efficient wig maker.

"Men are getting bald nowadays earlier than they did in the pre war times," Samuel asserts, "I suppose wars, the cold war, and generally troubled times have something to do with it."

Quite a number of his clients have come to him because of war injuries, head wounds and scars. "Nothing on earth," smiles Samuel, "is more gratifying to me than noticing these people; once their baldness has been covered up, regain their self-confidence. It helps in the hunt for a job, as well as in their private life. Their joy and gratitude are simply touching."

A full wig, a transformation, or toupee may be used to hide thinning hair, bald spots, or be hair whatsoever. Lidoff explains. A "transformation" is something between a wig and a toupee.

Kept dry and frequently combed, a transformation may last as long as five years. But wearing it while swimming in the sea is unlikely to increase its possible longevity, we are warned.

WAVE BAKED IN

Human hair, fresh from the barber's shop, is ideal for achieving that natural look. But before it can be woven into a toupee or wig, it has to be boiled on curlers for 24 hours, then baked an additional 24 hours. Treated like this, the hair shows the true "permanent wave" which can never again be straightened.

On the whole, it is a protracted, complicated business to produce a really life-like and durable wig. No wonder that prices are high.

Mr. Lidoff numbers among his clients Hollywood stars, Broadway actors, politicians, and "bigwigs" who pay him as much as $200 or so for a wig, but of course they can be had much cheaper than that, even when made by a skilled artist.

Samuel Lidoff, like all his colleagues, is discreet to the extreme. None of his clients is ever in fear of being "found out".

There are quite a few men, Samuel admits with a wink, who have managed for years to keep their bald pates secret, even to their nearest and dearest.

United Church Observes Anniversary

SHANNONVILLE — The anniversary of Shannonville United Church was observed on Sunday with the Rev. R. A. Rowley, minister of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, as the guest speaker for the morning service, and the Rev. T. Hogerward, the minister of the church in charge of the evening service.

Each minister brought thoughtful and challenging messages.

Suitable music was provided by the choir at each service. The soloist for the morning service was Tom Hinchey who sang "Bless This House." Mrs. Damon Hinchey and Miss Marion Hatherwick favored with a duet at the evening service.

This was the first service to be held in the church since it was redecorated.

Baskets of flowers and ferns adorned the front of the Church.

The heavy rain did not prevent the services from being well attended as there were many members and visitors present.

St. Jo[illegible]'s 63rd Anniversary

TWEED— Large congregations both morning and evening attended the 63rd anniversary services at St. John's United church, October 30, with the Rev. William S. Herbert, B.A., associate secretary of the Department of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, in charge of both services, despite the very bad weather.

The junior, intermediate and senior choirs, under the direction of Mr. S. H. Connor, prepared special music for the occasion.

At the morning service the senior and intermediate choir sang as an anthem, "Praise The Lord, Ye Heavens Adore Him." The congregation was requested to rise and join the choir in singing a hymn which concluded the anthem.

Mrs. Harry Barker, soloist, sang "The Holy City". The junior choir accompanied by Mrs. S. H. Connor at the piano, sang as an anthem "Heaven, My God, to Thee". Solos were rendered by Freda Smith and Margaret Clark.

Mr. Berry chose for his morning sermon "Five Marks of a Christian" and for his evening sermon "Christ or Chaos."

The senior and intermediate choirs sang an an anthem at the evening service, "Watchman What of the Night". Mrs. W. C. Pace favored with a solo, another solo "O Lord Be Merciful" by Miss Carol Connor.

The junior choir sang as an anthem "An Evening Hymn" (3-parts).

Mr. Fred Porter presided at the organ for both services.

The people of the congregation showed their gratitude to God for His goodness, by generous support of His church during all these years.

On October 25, the ladies of the church served a turkey dinner to a large attendance from the villages and surrounding district.

Wellington On The Lake

NOVEMBER DAYS

The brown leaves gaily dancing
Before the autumn breeze,
A ragged remnant clinging
Fast to the orchard trees.
A bright breeze idly fanning
The surface of the lake
Whereon the shining ripples
A hum of music make.

These are but signs and symbols
Of sere November days,
When trees that crown the hill-top
Are veiled in purple haze,
When autumn fields are sleeping
Marked by golden furrowed brown,
And autumn woods are sending
A shower of leaflets down.

Silent the birds' glad voices,
Gone is the summer dear,
But still a mystic music
The spirit now can hear—
Above the wind's soft sighing
Is heard the voice of Jordan,
As memory wafts the music
Of summer days again.

— Helen B. Anderson.

"The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year,
Of wailing winds and naked woods
And meadows brown and sere."
wrote the American poet, W. C. Bryant. Many trees along the street are now bereft with but a cluster of trees at the rear of the garden still retain their colored leaves. And the beautiful spruce trees planted by a young lad who resided here some years ago are always green and beautiful in spite of wind and weather. And what a picture they make when decorated with snow!

The canning factories have now finished canning operations and many of the workers are now employed in Canners Seeds.

Major Homer Townsend of Ottawa, was in Wellington this week and called at his old home on Maple Avenue.

Miss Hyatt, of Niagara, was the guest of Mrs. Alberta Smith for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughter, Toronto, were week-end guests of his mother, Mrs. Mabel Bell, later spending a few days in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wannamaker and baby son, also Mr. W. Wannamaker and family, Rossmore, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wannamaker.

Miss Marjorie Blakely with Mrs. Edna Platt, Mrs. Ernest Bond and Mrs. Harry Carley spent Friday in Belleville.

Mrs. Ed. MacDonald who has been very ill at her home here is now a patient in Picton hospital.

Guests of Mrs. Edna Platt at dinner Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley and Miss Marjorie Blakely.

Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys returned home on Monday after spending a few days as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley, Springfield, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morden spent a few days in Picton, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Morden.

Wellington visitors to Picton on Monday included: Mrs. Edna Platt, Mrs. Arnold Vandewater, Mrs. Harry Carley, Marjory Blakely and Miss S. E. Blakely.

Anniversary services will be held on Sunday, morning and evening in the United Church with the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter, in charge and Rev. W. G. Berry, associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service as guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adshead are leaving on a visit to England on Friday on the S.S. Saxonia, from Montreal. Their many friends wish them a pleasant voyage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Adams were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Adams, Campbellford.

CENTENNIAL CONCLUDES

The historic church at Sowerman's, which celebrated its centennial last summer with a wonderful Sunday service with Rev. F. G. MacTavish, guest speaker, completed the celebration Wednesday night by a tempting supper in Allisonville hall. Among those attending from Wellington were Mr. and Mrs. Barton Cronk, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nash, Rev. and Mrs. Poulter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carlton, Mrs. Edna Platt, Miss Marjorie Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gibson and others.

MY MAIL BOX

A letter from the chairman of the Restoration Committee of the U.E. Loyalist Association, Toronto, tells of plans for the restoration of the U.E.L. burying ground at Adolphustown, concluding with the following words:

"Does not long-delayed act of recognition of the U.E.L.'s arouse your patriotic ability?"

Although thrilled with the thought of the honor to be conferred on the memory of the Loyalists I wonder if I could adequately express the thoughts in verse.

The Misses Gillespie, Picton, who recently returned from a trip to Europe were recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. A. Vandewater.

RAWDON

250 Attend Sumptuous Church Supper

RAWDON — Approximately 250 people from Marmora, Stirling, Carmel, Salem, Mount Pleasant and other points enjoyed a delicious supper Wednesday evening served by the ladies of Springbrook W. A. in the Orange Hall at Springbrook.

The tables were pretty with pine boughs and orange bittersweet and there was an abundance of everything, platters of ham served with hot dressing and vegetables, scalloped potatoes, jellies, plates of cheese, sweet apples, salads and pickles, topped off with an abundance of pie of different varieties. Everyone was loud in praise of this fine appetizing meal served so efficiently.

PROGRAM

A program was enjoyed at 8.30 p.m. which was completed at 10 p.m. with the Rev. H. Beare as master of ceremonies.

The music was provided by Miss Carol Sine, of Salem, piano accordionist who contributed four selections. Mr. Bob Sanderson, trumpet solos, and Mr. A. Wynalowski, cello solos, both accompanied by Miss Barbara Melklejohn, piano, and all three from Marmora.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mount Pleasant, contributed three readings, one of which was a sacred number.

The Stirling male quartet, Messrs. Bryce Philp, Grant Richardson, Jack Bush and Harry Brown, with Mrs. Bruce Glendening as accompanist, sang four selections.

The pastor expressed both welcome and thanks and "The Queen" closed a successful evening.

Madoc

MADOC — Mrs. Frank Dafoe left this week to spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis are spending a few weeks with their son, Grant, and Mrs. Lewis, at Columbus, Ont.

Weekend visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Carmen's were: Miss Hazel Thompson; Miss Jane Smythe, of Belleville, and Miss Muriel Mutton, of Peterborough.

Dave Kernohan (J. P. at Whitby and Mrs. Kernohan and children visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kernohan, during the week.

Gable Will Not Be Father

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Clark Gable's wife, the former Lady Williams Spreckels, Thursday lost the baby she was expecting about May 1.

It was a sad blow to Gable who recently had proudly announced the expected child, his first, at a Hollywood party. Dr. Richard Clark, who attended Mrs. Gable, said both the actor and his wife were "pretty upset." Mrs. Gable is doing well and will go home from hospital sometime this weekend.

Gable and Mrs. Spreckels married last July 12. He is 54, Mrs. Gable 37.

CALGAR Y(CP)—The marriage of G. Maxwell Bell, publisher of The Albertan, and Mrs. Frank (Agnes) McMahon of Calgary, took place in Grace Presbyterian church here Thursday. Dr. F. S. Morley officiated.

Calgary Roars Over Change In Lions' Names

CALGARY (CP) — Somebody's pulled a name switch and Calgary's mayor isn't amused.

The city presented two lion cubs to the London zoo. They left here named "Cal" and "Gary." But apparently when they checked in at Regent Park in London they had become "Rikki" and "Tina."

The cubs were presented to Sir Seymour Howard, then lord-mayor of London, by Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary, when Sir Seymour visited the foothills city several weeks ago.

"I'm going to ask the Royal Zoological Society to open an official board of inquiry immediately," Mayor Mackay said Thursday.

"This is a serious business. If necessary we shall petition the Queen."

Weddings

GOODFELLOW—READ

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail of Foxboro United church, on Saturday, October 15, at 4.30 p.m., for a lovely autumn wedding when Dorothy Eileen Read of Foxboro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Read, became the bride of James Douglas Goodfellow of Carrollton, son of Mrs. Harold Goodfellow of Carrollton and the late Mr. Goodfellow. The Rev. R. B. Patterson, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Frederick S. Foxboro, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Parth McCreary of Belleville, who sang before the ceremony, "I Will Be Faithful" and during the signing of the register "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. John Read, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle illusion, featuring a fitted bodice with matching jacket having long sheath-like sleeves pointed over the wrists, and flowing circular skirt. The bouffant skirt of tulle over satin was caught with a pearl-pointed lace. Her veil of tulle illusion was caught to a tiara studded with pearl beads and rhinestones, again and she carried a semi-cascade of chrysanthemums and stephanotis centred with orange satin ribbon. A single string of pearls and matching earrings were gifts of her bridegroom, and completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Edmond Hilton of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, was gowned in elephanese green velvet fashioned in gold-colored taffeta styled with shirred bodice and wide circular skirt. She wore a bandeau headdress of gold feathers and carried a bouquet of Gloire de Dijon roses tied with green and white pom pums.

Little Miss Gloria Moore, as flower girl, was dressed in ever-so-fine diaphanous frock of green chiffon velvet with green taffeta with matching bandeau floral headdress and nosegay of yellow and white pom pums and roses.

Mr. Donald Goodfellow of Carrollton, attended his brother, while Mr. Edmond Hilton, Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. William Read of Sudbury, brother of the bride, acted as ushers.

For the wedding reception, which was held in the church hall, the bride chose blue crepe with old rose shoes and corsage of Sweetheart roses. Mrs. Goodfellow was attired in cocoa brown crepe and lace and brown accessories and corsage of bronze 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, North Bay, Sudbury and Algonquin Park, the bride chose a grey all wool ensemble with red and black accessories, and corsage of red roses.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by several showers: a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Ronald Putman and Mrs. Harold Satchford at the former's home; a shower was held at the home of Miss Nettie McGrath, with Miss Ethel Palmer and co-hostess; and a miscellaneous shower given by the girls of Walker Hardware with Miss Roy Taylor as hostess. The Walker Hardware Company and staff, of which she is a member, also presented the bride with beautiful gifts.

GARVIN—MASTERS

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, October 22, at 10.00 a.m. for a pretty wedding, when the Rev. Peter Murphy united in marriage, Karen Marie Masters of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Masters, to John Bernard Garvin, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Garvin. White mums and ferns formed a lovely background for the ceremony.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist. The soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, accompanied by Miss Grant, sang before the ceremony "Ave Maria" and during the "Prayer" and during the signing of the register "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a charming original gown in period style of ivory satin, fashioned with portrait neckline outlined in seed pearls and bugle beads. The beautifully draped skirt hung in deep circular folds. The veil of Brussels net was caught to a lace shell headdress encrusted with seed pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of coral and white sweetheart roses.

Miss Jean Garvin, as maid of honor, wore blue velvet and Miss Barbara Morton as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in waltz length princess style autumn rose crystalette over taffeta with matching headdresses of rose-colored velvet ribbon. They carried hand bouquets of yellow dasies centred with blue 'mums.

Little Sharol Hall of Campbellford, six-year-old cousin of the bride, was a pageant flower girl, in her shepherdess frock of pale blue crystalette with bandeau of baby 'mums, and carried a basket of yellow daisies and blue and coral shaded 'mums.

Mr. Roy Garvin, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Donald Masters, brother of the bride, and Robert Kitchen, both of Belleville, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held at Club Cedars, Canadiana. The bride's mother received, wearing an almond-green gown of imported surrah silk with matching accessories, and corsage of shell-pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a dusty rose regency crepe with misty pink accessories, and corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

For the wedding trip to New York City, via Toronto and Buffalo, the bride wore a navy box coat with mink trim, black accessories, and corsage of red roses. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Garvin will reside in Bellefair, at 23 Greenlawn Avenue.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Kingston, Campbellford, Sydenham and Ottawa.

Going Places
Hints on Camping, Tips, Tots

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Frequently the mail brings individual travel problems which is typical of those of many other readers. In the next series of them herewith in the hope the answers will be of value all around:

(Q) "My husband and I love to take weekend outings in our car. But we stay home more often than we like because we can't afford the expense. We have a car the seats of which can be made up into comfortable beds and we would like to use it.

"Our problem is, where would be the proper place to park for the night when there are no camping grounds in the vicinity when night comes?

"To park in a secluded, wooded area off the highways would be nice but there is always the fear of intruders. Then, too, how can we keep the dew off the windows protecting too much attention from passersby.

"Would it be too bold to enquire as to just a few simple suggestions if we may park in back of his station? Of course, we would purchase gas before we actually left."—Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Woodcock (Ont.)

(A) These folks have given a good summary of the arguments which confront the car owner in search of approved camp grounds.

Unfortunately experience has been that an early start is always best with or without children, but especially with children as they are apt to be cranky or so of traveling, she'll be really hungry, wide-awake enough to say properly, and perhaps concerned with the process of choosing a restaurant.

Many children of this age are already sensitive to the ritual or process of getting your daughter fed and in breakfast may be important.

(Q) "A couple of years ago my sister and I went to a large city hotel. The doorman took our bags and carried them to the desk where we registered. How much would he expect for this service?

"How much would the bellboy expect for carrying our bags to our room? And what tip would be required if we requested low rates, understanding that we are for taking our bags down and hailing a cab for us?

"In a small hotel, where the proprietor takes a suitcase to the room himself, is it proper to offer him anything?

"In a private car on a train should the porter be tipped for carrying our bags and showing us to our reserved seat, and how much should he be tipped for taking the bags off the train?"—M. F., Brantford, Ont.

TIPS ON TIPS

(A) The doorman should get about a quarter for two bags and the bellhop the same or a bit more for two pieces. If there is a charge for the ice water, it actually goes into the bellhop's pocket so the tip is necessary, but if there is no charge, a quarter is plenty. He should not, of course, get a dime more for taking your bags down plus another quarter or dime for getting you a cab.

Never tip the proprietor or any executive employee of a hotel such as the assistant manager or desk clerk.

A station porter usually gets a regular fee of 25 cents a bag, depending on what part of the country you're in, plus a tip of at least ten or 15 cents a bag on top of that. A train or Pullman porter gets at least 50 cents a day per person.

(Q) "We have a two-month-old baby. What can we do for a vacation?"—Mrs. J. K., Syracuse, N.Y.

(A) Almost anything, if you'll just select a month. Most babies go off formula at about three months and have developed more of the alert characterizer was children and lost some of their infant helplessness. They are usually surprised at some of the changes that have taken place by three months.

Without the formula to worry about (assuming your doctor has approved regular milk by three months) you can make a rather pleasant auto tour equipped with a bassinet or car bed, bottle warmer, disposable diapers and a supply of baby foods. We've done it, and we can tell you that three months they can sometimes be considerably less trouble than at three years.

Bridge St. WMS Hears Fine Talk On 'Evangelism'

The November meeting of Bridge Street W.M.S., was held in ladies' parlors on Thursday. Mrs. Denyes opened with the hymn "Lead On, O King Eternal" followed by prayer.

Mrs. McArthur read the minutes of October meeting and Mrs. Countryman gave her report on the finances.

Among other reports Mrs. Farnsworth, the Christian Citizenship secretary, spoke at length on the "Temperance Question," to get results, public sentiment must be aroused. Our work is handicapped through infancy."

She told that the Salvation Army in New York City, put up on display in the streets, a huge whiskey bottle, filled up in fine clothes, followed by a crowd of poor and emaciated, the down and out. This was explained by a caption "it is the children who pay the liquor bill."

TODAY FOR TOMORROW

"What we want for tomorrow, put in the minds of children of today." The National Temperance study course is on now. The lessons are put in the hands of public school children to be taught in our Sunday schools.

"It is hard for the adults to create an interest in Temperance work. The liquor interests are not idle."

Mrs. Finkle and Miss M. Young were chosen as the program for December.

The thank-offering was dedicated by Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Houston conducted a fine devotional and Mrs. Riley sang an appropriate solo "Thanks Be To God," with Mrs. K. Bird at the piano.

Mrs. Schryver read a meditation on "Temperance" as essential to the late Miss Lazelle Brown.

Mrs. Hutchinson, the wife of the Rev. H. M. Davis, who introduced Mr. Berry, who spoke on the "National Evangelistic Movement."

EVANGELISM

"Evangelism," said the speaker, "is giving up ourselves; its aim is to acquaint ourselves with Jesus Christ so they come to accept Him as Saviour and Lord. There is a great upsurge in the world today and leaders feel this is the time to put on a campaign."

"Nowhere is there greater opportunity than in Canada, as the religious situation is different than in Britain or in the United States. The United church has the most strategic position with its 900,000 membership. The church should try to reconstruct its membership, all churches having the problem of nominal members.

FIVE ESSENTIALS

Mr. Berry then cited five essentials: "Seeking God primarily at church with attendance at the Sacramenta; Pray privately, and with one's family; Read the Scriptures intelligiently. It is absolutely by necessary to study the Scriptures; Witness in social contact and in one's daily work. The real witness is the witness of a life; A good Christian is a good steward. There is the consciousness of His presence.

POSSESSION FIRST

"The fresh must have Christ before it can offer Him to the world. Hence this period of preparation for the whole church, before the conference of 1939.

Thos. Hall graphically Mr. Berry brought the National Evangelistic Movement before the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Denyes tendered deep appreciation to the speaker.

Misses Julia and Patsy Bradford gave a piano duet. Mrs. Davis pronounced the benediction.

A social half hour brought this splendid meeting to a close. Mrs. Houston's and Mrs. Campbell's group serving light refreshments.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It is fitting that in the beginning, we make our introduction.

"THIS" is going to be your column and your response will be "THAT" — which results, "In the column yours — "THIS" is our challenge — and the "THAT" will be your comments. This invites us — so when we are over our introductions and the column matinees to its niche in your Ontario intelligencer, we want you to write us with your suggestions, your advice, your criticisms when deserving, and your encouragement when merited.

THIS WILL BE THAT and just what "THIS AND THAT" implies, We will tell you a little of this and a bit of that as we ramble here and there. Your column will contain items of news gathered from here to there. World shattering events will be included as to the every day happenings of human interest which are going on round about us. One day we may tell you about some distinguished person who is in our midst, yet still another day we may relate the heroism of some one's little boy or girl who saved the life of his or her puppy or kitten.

THIS AND THAT" will be a column for women but since it is an ancient custom for women to be of interest to men, we assure you that "THIS AND THAT" is neither meant nor intended to be exclusive. The world of women and men will be our beat.

We hope this brief introduction is the commencement of a pleasant and we trust mutually beneficial association. You will find "THIS AND THAT" in your Ontario Intelligencer every Saturday and Wednesday from now on. Look for it we will look for your comments.

King George H-S Assoc. Gives Tea

The King George Home and School Association gave a tea for the mothers of the kindergarten children at the school on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Killedder, president of the Home and School Association and Mr. Cousins, principal, welcomed the guests.

Mrs. E. Hilton presented all with name tags.

After an interval of becoming acquainted Mr. Cousins spoke briefly and introduced Miss Malcolm, kindergarten teacher, who gave an interesting and informative resume of the aims and purposes of the program followed by the first school year of the children. Miss Malcolm also had some hints on how mothers could help the child adjust to school life.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The tea table was very attractive with a centrepiece of autumn flowers and leaves. The small tables had dainty sprays of red berries.

Mrs. Morley Lovelace and Mrs. Lyle Ireland poured tea, and an enjoyable social hour was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. A. Mulvey won the prize for obtaining the most names of those present; Mrs. G. Anderson for the lucky name tag.

Those serving were Mesdames Hebden, Noakes, Hilton and Wannamaker.

Several of the senior girls entertained the children.

Modern Dinner Guests Put More Stress on Looks

By OLI DAUM
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The test may still be the taste but dinner guests today expect a more delicious looking dish than they did in grandmother's day.

The head chef of the largest hotel in the Commonwealth says any hostess can make a hit with her guests with a little time and patience.

Donat Perreault, a French Canadian born in Sherbrooke, has served patrons of the Royal York hotel here for 23 years.

APPETIZING DISH

His dinners are more elaborate than the average housewife would prepare but, he says, she can certainly make her spread every bit as mouth-watering.

One of chef Donat's most appetizing dishes is a mountain salmon decorated with glazed. This dish he usually uses a salmon weighing about 10 kg. It's sure to be the highlight of any dinner party.

Here's how to prepare it:

TO DECORATE SALMON

Prepare salmon parte: add to 1 tbls salmon enough butter to make firm paste; squeeze paste through cake decorator from head to tail on back of salmon and sides of fish to be decorated; allow a few minutes to set.

Insert boiled egg-white centred with half a glazed cherry into eye socket. Cut cucumber into glazed washed shrimp, olives or other small foods in a regular, attractive pattern.

TO GLAZE SALMON

Prepare glaze: into chicken stock chop meat, boiled egg-whites, onions, celery and mix with chopped ice. Add enough water to form stew; in separate pot mix 1 cup cooking gelatin with 1 gallon of water; pour into chicken stock mix-

Club Activities

TRINITY LADIES' CLUB

MADOC. — The October meeting of Trinity Ladies' Club was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Burnside, with a good attendance.

Following the business period the nominating committee was formed. Those on the committee are Mrs. Drinkwalter, Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Hulin.

The program arranged by Mrs. Hulin, was in keeping with "Thanksgiving." Mrs. J. Moon had the devotional period thoughtfully prepared. Mrs. Empey read a paper on the fine spoons, and this was followed by an article on "Celeriac" by Mrs. Moon.

Mrs. Carl Howse read an interesting story "A Day as a Minister's Wife."

Each member was asked to express her thoughts on "Thankfulness". Mrs. Brownson read two poems and Mrs. Ivor Hughes gave a reading on "Health". Mrs. Ashe concluded this part of the program with an article "Seven Reasons for Living."

After a lively contest, refreshments were served and a social hour was then enjoyed.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU MUST TELL YOUR MOTHER RIGHT AWAY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 13 years old, and I am going to have a baby. It is all over the school, and the boys and girls are talking about me.

Do you think I can marry if I go to Florida? Please tell me what to do. — L.C.

Dear L.C.:

At your age, you cannot get married in Florida or anywhere else, unless you have your parents' consent, and I certainly hope that will never give it. It would be not only a sad, but very unwise thing for a girl of 13 to marry anyone, even to your present circumstances.

There is only one thing for you to do, and that is to tell your mother about this right away, if you have not already done so, and let her help you. If you prefer, you could go and have a talk with your family doctor first, and let him tell your mother. Between you, you could plan together what would be best to do.

But do not talk with anyone else about it, least of all, any one of your school mates. I am very sorry indeed that this trouble of yours has become known to them, but it is very important that you do not discuss it.

Simply do as I have said, and go to your mother or your doctor at once. You need help, and you can help immediately.

GO BACK, IF YOU LIKE, BUT NOT ON A "STEADY" BASIS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I went steady with Ken for two and a half months, during which time I went through heaven and hell. I am 17 and he is 18, and we were planning to get married eventually.

He is very unreliable and has a horrid temper, so about two weeks ago we broke off forever. However, I'll be called and asked me for a date, and nearly every one I have accepted. We had a nice evening, and he asked me to go back with him, promising to be more dependable. But he promised the same thing three months ago and never kept his promises.

Should I go back? I know I still love him very much—R.N.

Dear R.N.:

What I would suggest is that you go out with this boy whenever you wish but have it thoroughly understood that there will be no more "going steady" until he proves by his actions what he says. It would be very silly indeed for you to take up with him just when you have left him while feeling that you could not depend on his promise any more than you have been able to in the past.

So why not show a little independence in this matter and run your own terms for your friendship with him? If he is sufficiently interested in keeping your friendship to make a sincere effort to become a steadier, more reliable boy, all well and good. And if he doesn't make the effort, then I should think it would be quite clear that he didn't care that much — in which case, why devote yourself to someone you know isn't really interested in making you happy?

YOU'RE RUNNING THE RISK OF MAKING A FOOL OF YOURSELF

Dear Beatrice:

About a year ago, I went out a few times with a young man I'll call Mr. Z. I liked him a lot, and I thought he liked me, too.

Then suddenly, about six months ago, he stopped calling me and seemed to avoid me, so I decided he no longer liked me and began to go out with other boys. Meanwhile, my girl friend and Mr. Z had begun to see a lot of each other, and I thought she was the reason for Mr. Z and me breaking up.

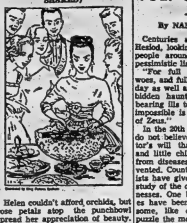
A few weeks ago, one of the boys I had gone out with, asked me to a party and I said yes. Everything went fine for awhile, until one day when I happened to run into Mr. Z coming home from work on the bus. The only way he talked, he made it quite evident that he still liked me, but gave no reason for having neglected me in the past months.

I like my present boy friend very much, and my girl friend still likes Mr. Z even though she knows I still like me. My boy friend knows about Mr. Z and told me to have it out with him once and for all. I did make it plain to Mr. Z that he was playing with fire.

What can we do? — C.K.

Dear C.K.:

This is the biggest mountain I've ever seen made out of a very tiny molehill. Don't you really think you're making a huge effort to work up a full-fledged drama out of nothing? Or are you simply trying to bolster up the pride that got hurt when Mr. Z dropped you by telling yourself—and others—that he has been harboring a secret passion for you all this time?



To be quite frank, all you'd be doing if you took your boy friend's advice and "had it out with Mr. Z" would be to make a fool of yourself. What, for heaven's sake, is there to have out with him? Can't a young man with whom you once had some dates speak in a friendly way when you happen to meet without your imagining that he is pining away for love of you?

Simmer down, now, and be sensible. Let things rest as they are, and stop cooking up a big stew over them. Go out with your own boy friend and let poor girl friend and Mr. Z settle their own business. Nothing is up to you but to mind your own.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE ESSENCE OF BEAUTY (Part V — APPRECIATION SHARED)

Helen couldn't afford orchids, but can polish up the purchase to spread her appreciation of beauty.

Not every woman can be beautiful in the accepted sense of the word. And, despite the fact that we have been brought up on the theory that everyone has equal opportunity, we all know that, actually, this isn't quite true. Therefore, it goes without saying, that there are many women who have no opportunities to revel in beauty which are denied to others. This does not mean that because a woman has a mink coat and sooth-ing, doesn't, that the mink-clad dame has the better of the bargain. MINK coats are very nice, but they never made a woman more beautiful than she is. They can make a woman feel, and look, more luxurious, it is true. But that's a different story. We're talking now about beauty—real beauty. And, as we have for several days, established the fact that beauty which can make a woman beautiful "in the eyes of the beholder" whether her features are up to standard or not, and one of them is a keen appreciation of beauty and her ability to share it with others.

Let us consider, for instance, a woman who lives many miles but fortunate enough to be able to hear the finest concerts. She may have a friend who also loves music but cannot afford to hear the best. Unfortunately, she wants to give her goon fortune. So what does she do? If she can, she invites her friend to an occasional concert and, if this is not possible, she buys a record of the music her friend will enjoy and presents it to her. The same goes for a good book. She reads it, passes it on to one who will also enjoy it.

Then there's the woman who is able to travel while her friends may not be so fortunate. We have in mind at the moment one particular friend who is in just such a position. She loves people and she loves to travel and, since it is a rare occasion when friends can accompany her on her journeys she tries to bring back to them all we the joys she has experienced on her journeys. She tries to bring back to them all the joys she has experienced on her own voyage.

Recently, for instance, she went on a trip to Honolulu. There she was entertained at a most glamorous cocktail party. One of the things which intrigued her most was a pandemonium which floated the petals of rare orchids. Beautiful! It was one of the loveliest sights Joan had ever seen. She could hardly wait to tell her friends at home about it—and share the experience with them. But, of course, she couldn't afford orchids. So—o at her next party she served punch with rose petals floating on the top. Everyone was intrigued and she told the story of her Honolulu cocktail party—and, surprisingly, but with a genuine effort to share her experience. Helen has a wonderful reputation as a hostess —not because of the fact that she has entertained many friends but because she tries to share her experiences with them.

She never speaks superciliously of her travels, but in every way possible she tries to share her delights — whether they encompass food, drink, music, lore or whatever-you. Her friends never refuse an invitation to a party. "She's marvelous," they say. "And SO beautiful!" Helen's not beautiful at all—not in the accepted sense. But those who enjoy her warmth and appreciation of everything that is beautiful—feel that she is. And that's all that counts.

For Parents Only

Immunize Your Child

By NANCY CLEAVER

Centuries ago a Greek writer, Hesiod, looking upon the illness of people around him, wrote these pessimistic lines:

"Disease, indeed, lurketh earth's woes, and full the sea; and in the day as well as night diseases unbidden haunt mankind, silently bearing ills to men . . . so utterly impossible is it to escape the will of Zeus."

In the 20th century, many of us do not believe that it is the Creator's will that men and women and little children should languish from diseases which can be prevented. Countless research scientists have given their lives to the study of the cause of various sicknesses. Their quest has been to see to have been conquered, although some, like cancer, still in part puzzle the most brilliant of doctors.

(We are apt to take the disappearance of the terrible scourge of smallpox for granted. For grandad, so seldom do we see a face disfigured by deep pox marks from this disease. Once it was the most dreaded of all diseases. It swept cold and death of the population at one time. Smallpox is a "killer," and we don't like to still see our in Canada. There is no natural immunity against it. People of any age can catch it.

VACCINATION

Before he reaches his first birthday, every child should be vaccinated against this germ. This is usually done during the second year. It leaves only a small scar if it "takes." If it does not "take," there is no scar and the individual continues to be susceptible. Vaccination should be repeated in each case and again after seven years.

Triple toxoid is a preparation which combines whooping cough and diphtheria and tetanus toxoids. Immunization is a matter of taking to a clinic or a doctor. It provides protection against diphtheria and lockjaw, or tetanus, and partial protection against whooping cough.

Diphtheria is more apt to attack young children and is, too, a killing disease. Even when a patient survives it, often it leaves serious nerve and heart complications. Tetanus or lockjaw sometimes follows puncture wounds or other injuries. Triple toxoid is a protection against these diseases. A "booster" dose to re-enforce its effectiveness is needed to continue the strength of the protection as the years pass.

In the case of whooping cough, the vaccine provides about 80 per cent protection. If the disease is contracted by a child who has been given this treatment, it is much milder and is otherwise would have been. As this communicable disease is one which is apt to attack babies and very young children, the vaccine should be given at or before the baby is six months old.

School-age children may not be so sick with whooping cough as the little ones, but it is a long drawn out disease. The sleep of the whole household is apt to be broken by the distressing sound of a child "whooping." For maximum immunity, toxoid doses are given up to school age.

To emphasize the importance of parents protecting their children from smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus, National Immunization Week is observed throughout Canada. Doctors, clinics, school nurses, departments of health, as well as newspaper and radio, bring this vital duty to the attention of fathers and mothers. Do not neglect to act in this matter! Do all you can to help your child escape these diseases.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

SIMPLE, INFORMAL OPEN HOUSE FOR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My parents' Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary is next month. I am inviting the relatives for supper at 5 o'clock. Then I would like to have an Open House for friends beginning at 8 O'clock.

(1) Could I send invitation cards to friends for the Open House?

(2) Our house is very small. Is it necessary to decorate the room in which the party will be held?

(3) Some suggestions, please, as to how to receive the guests?

(4) At the Open House must I serve a lunch or can I just serve the Cake?

(5) What do I do to entertain the guests? — D.R.

(1) If your party is to be just an informal gathering, and if you are not inviting many guests, you may properly invite them by telephone or by telephone. Or you may invite those who live near by either verbally or by telephone, and write notes or cards of invitations to those farther away.

(2) Not necessary to decorate the room, doubtless convenient or practical to do so with the small space. The only decoration might be the centerpiece of the table where The Anniversary Cake is to be.

(3) I suggest that you stand near the door to receive the guests with your father, and that opposite you "the bride and groom" stand to-gether (the "bride" has the right of the "groom") to greet and welcome their guests. As you may imagine (as I am sure they will be), your mother and father open the gifts as it is handed to them, if there is time, or later, when it is convenient. The gifts should be opened at the Anniversary Party, and the Anniversary Cake cut and eaten ceremonially.

(4) You may, if you wish, at the hour, serve a lunch. The Anniversary Cake (make an important feature of this), and a cold beverage (or some kind for the toasts "To the Bride and Groom," then you may offer if you wish, and, perhaps, for nibbling, nuts, potato chips, mints, or some simple thing. You may find them, silver dragees, as Anniversary candies.

(5) Feature the memorable ceremony of the Cutting-of-the-Cake, and have the guests respond with "The Bride Cuts the Cake" as your mother's and father's appreciative comments about both. And you can be sure that the guests at a Wedding Anniversary Celebration will want to do a lot of reuniioning, about "old days and new"!

ATTIRE OF MEN IN THE WEDDING PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. Can daughter is to be married in church at 11:30 in the morning. She is to wear a wedding gown and veil. What do the groom, best man, and ushers wear? May bouquets suits be worn?

2. The reception will take place at 7 o'clock in the evening. When does the bride remove her veil?

— R.

1. What the men in the wedding party wear depends on the degree of formality of the wedding. That is, if the bride is planning to have a strictly formal wedding, the men wear cutaways and striped trousers and appropriate formal accessories. (Today this formal attire may be, and usually is, rented.) If it is to be considered a semi-formal wedding, the men in the wedding party may wear short jackets, Oxford jackets, instead of cutaway coats; the other items the same as for formal attire. For a small, very informal church wedding, the men in the wedding party may wear dark blue suits, even when the bride wears a wedding dress and veil.

2. The bride wears her veil during the receiving, which is the receiving reception, just as to the morning ceremony. She removes her veil when, at the end of the reception, she goes to change to her going away clothes.

FLOWERS THE TABLE EXPENSES OF BRIDE'S FAMILY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Our Lodge is about to doing the catering for the wedding banquet for one of our members' guests, and we would like to know who provides the flowers for the tables— our Club or the bride's parents? During the summer we catered for a wedding banquet, and then used flowers from our own gardens. But in this season flowers would have to be bought, and we should be thankful to feel that this is not our responsibility. Could you please tell us the table-decorations that would be suitable for this occasion? — Club Member

Your Club should indeed not be responsible for paying for the flowers to be used for the decoration of this design for each table. The responsibility of the bride's parents, and you should ask them if they would prefer to provide the flowers from their florist, or if your Club should itemize this expense with the other expenses. Very often, instead of flowers, only greenery is used for center-pieces; for example, a wreath or other structure of this design for each table, is less expensive than flowers, of course, and very decorative.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Have been following your column closely and want to tell you how much I enjoy it. I wonder if you have a recipe for beet wine.—Mrs. P. A. Woods.

ANSWER:

I have to admit defeat on this Mrs. Woods. Ever since your letter arrived last month I have had enquiries out but without success. Perhaps some of our readers will come to the rescue. I would have written to you by mail if you had enclosed your address. If and when I hear I'll print the recipe here, but would prefer you to send a stamped self-addressed envelope, as many of our readers do not like to see their recipes in the column, and I'm not happy about it.

QUESTION:

Please help me with this most aggravating and frustrating problem. Is there any possible way to salt baking-a-cooked egg without taking any part of the white, and so spoiling the appearance of the egg? The white seems to draw the salt to the shell? I have tried every way I can think of to overcome this trouble. I may add that I cook the eggs under boiling point to avoid the dark edge discoloration. My warmest regards—Amy A.

ANSWER:

I think the basic trouble is that your eggs are new laid and only 1 or 2 days old. This is the rule for

HARD-COOKED EGGS:

(1) Cover eggs in saucepan with cold water. Bring quickly to boil. Remove from heat, cover pan, let stand off heat from 20 to 25 minutes. (Soft cooked eggs require 4 minutes off the heat.) (2) Bring water to boil in covered pan. With a spoon lower room-temperature eggs into boiling water. Reduce heat to very low and keep water simmering for 18 minutes. Eggs should be boiled by both methods once or twice to "settle" them. Cold water quickly and shrinks the white away from it shell and of course prevents yolks darkening.

QUESTION:

I am a university student's wife and therefore live on a fairly limited budget. I recently read where you send information on economical hints and cooking recipes. Could you possibly send me this printed matter?—Hazel M.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you five releases which are economy-minded and which I am sure will help. I have another idea for you girls who must watch the pennies. I bought a 3-lb fresh ox-tongue for 59c last week and will tell you how I cooked it. It is the cheapest fancy meat I know and a great favorite.

BOILED OX-TONGUE

(1) Tongue is pickled soak it in cold water 1-2 hour.) Place tongue in large kettle, cover with cold water and add 3 onions and 4 carrots peeled and sliced, 3 stalks of celery cut up, 4 whole cloves, 4 pepper berries, 1-2 bay leaf. (If tongue is fresh add 4 teaspoons salt.) Cover closely and heat just to boiling, lower heat at-once and simmer tongue until tender—about 3-4 to 4 hours. Cool the tongue in the cooking liquid until it may be handled then lift out, remove peel off tough outer skin and trim off roots and little bones. Slice tongue lengthwise, but with tongue resting on its side. Drawn butter sauce makes a good with tongue for those who care to make it. Remaining tongue is delicious cold are potatoes in parsley cream sauce and steamed shredded or buttered cabbage.

I will keep all of you economy-minded girls in my mind and give recipes especially for you from time to time.

HALLOWEEN

Pupils of Shannonville Public School enjoyed a Hallowe'en party in the school on Friday evening. Prizes were given for the best costumes and treats were supplied by the pupils, who all report a good time.

On Monday night a masquerade party was held in the local hall sponsored by the L.O.L. 242. A large number were in attendance.

The kiddies were out in full force for their annual calls and characters of all kinds were represented including cowboys, cowgirls, witches, hobgoblins and many others. It was either a trick or a treat when the homes were invaded. The children received a good supply of treats, peanuts, kisses, fudge, apples, oranges and other good things.

Prizes were played but none of a very serious nature.

Wellington

W. S. FIELD DAY

WELLINGTON — The Wellington high school held its annual field day on October 27th, and completed it on October 28th. The only disappointing thing was that Don Simpson, a senior, chipped a bone in his wrist and gave it a severe spill while doing the high jump. All pupils tried hard and results showed some close competition.

CITY FIREFIGHTERS HELPED

The World Food and Agriculture Organization has completed ten years of service and a story has been written giving a good tell how this organization helped the fishermen of Ceylon to help themselves by providing them with their own outboard motors.

Ceylon, an island facing grim starvation have been given assistance such as new hybrid corn, introduced into Europe and this increased the yield by twenty-five million bushels.

In countries where wheat is scarce a low cost flour has been manufactured from fish. Children who were suffering from tropical diseases have been given special protein food and skim milk products.

Then, too, insecticides and spray materials have been distributed and still there is a great deal more to do in the years ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sharp spent a recent week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keating, of Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Dunkerley, of Sidney, Mr. and Mrs. A. Yonkman and Tony were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nelson.

The Face On The Stamp

The Good Samaritan

By NICHOLAS MIKA

(Article 4)

Not far from Honolulu rise the rocky shores of the island Molokai. "A hundred years ago it was the most dreadful place in the world . . . Its name was synonymous with horror, in fact anybody would have preferred to spend ten years in prison rather than ten hours on the island. Why? One could eventually leave or escape from prison, but from this island there was only one way -- death. The isolated loneliness of Molokai was the last refuge of the world's outcasts, the lepers.

They were left to themselves and their misery. Children were born and died here, seeing and knowing nothing but the merciless disease which made their bodies and places by pieces. Some had no arms or feet, lipless of eyes there were gaping holes, their sores went undressed and their bodies became d i s g u s t i n g l y repulsive. Words cannot describe the tragic fate of these lost souls.

Apathy was substituted for hope. Sometimes despair made them forget. They were human beings and they fought each other. Their neglected hunger crumpled like their bodies. Dirt, unwashed rags, rubbish and the dead who were not properly buried formed the air of pollson. No doctor, no nurse dared to go there. Only a priest with medicine to bring relief.

When a young Belgian priest heard of these conditions, his heart was stirred with love for these unfortunate ones and he beseeched his bishop until he received permission to go to Molokai. He well knew that never again would he be allowed to return to civilized society. With a ghastly life mind to share the misery of the banished of Molokai, he went, forgetting himself alive.

Ironically, the lepers did not welcome him, for he belonged to a world that had condemned them to a living death. There was no shelter, he slept under a tree listening to the cries and to be prepared for the dying mixed with the hysterical screams of insanity. He could not bring them any cure for their disease but he had something more important. He gave them a warm and loving heart, his friendly smile when their first words cried their tears. He dressed their ugly sores and wounds and with his own hands he made coffins for many the dead. He helped them to build up their huts and plant a garden with flowers. In the evening when the work was done, he even taught them to sing again.

Ships that brought supplies anchored far off the shore, Many dumped the containers with food into the water and let the hungry struggle for themselves to get them. But the priest had no fear, he shared his life so closely with the lepers that he smoked the same pipe with them, ate from their dishes and sat on their bedsides.

There was no drinking water in the village, let alone water to sweep their filthy rags or their limited supply of bandages. From the top of a hill priest and lepers began to build a water line, and for the first time fresh clear water flowed through the village.

For sixteen years this good Samaritan lived at Molokai until the terrible disease took over his own body. He carried on his work of mercy until he could neither walk not talk any longer. But his sacrifice was not in vain. Others followed his example. Before he died doctors and some sisters came to carry on. They laid him to rest under the same tree where he had spent his first night. To-day a granite cross in his memory stands at Molokai, but the most beautiful monument he created himself in the hearts of the unfortunate people. His name was Damien De Veuster. The world knows him as Father Damien.

Along Canadian Trails

Both Sides Won Strange War

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by David Reason

The War of 1812-14 between Canada and the United States was one of the strangest in history. In most wars, there is a winner and a loser. In the War of 1812, both sides end I up thinking they had won and saying so. They still say so today, almost 150 years later.

On both sides there were heroes and cowards, brilliant generals and foolish ones. Armies fought bravely on the Great Lakes, but also adventurous though seldom very dangerous careers. One of the strangest encounters of the whole war, however, was that between the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Gloucester. Even in the midst of a war, people on both sides could not help laughing at the comic opera battle.

On July 30, 1812, the American schooner Julia started out from the United States port of Sackets Harbor, opposite Prescott, Upper Canada, and headed for Lake Ontario. She was out to raid British and Canadian commerce on Lake Ontario. The British Navy was watching her and she swung out into midstream, in a cruise among the Thousand Islands, the sailing ship Earl of Moira or Duke of Gloucester set out in pursuit.

A few miles upstream, the Julia, unable to shake off her pursuer, dropped anchor, uncovered her one 18-pounder and two 12-pounder guns and made ready for battle. The two British ships, anchored, fired their broadsides at each other, but the British and United States ships bombarded each other furiously.

Thanks to the nervousness of the gunners and the inexperience of the commanders, not a single life was lost on any one of the three ships. It was doubtful if even a single ball was scored. When darkness came, the Julia retired between the islands back to Port at Ogdensburg; the Earl of Moira and the Duke of Gloucester to Kingston, sailed into Prescott.

There ends, undoubtedly, the most successful naval battle ever fought. Everyone returned home safely, convinced that a victory had been won, and no one was even hurt in the process.

SEEK NEWSPAPERMAN

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Police are making a country-wide search in Australia for Peter Gruening, 32, South Pacific manager for United Press, who has been missing a week. Gruening, son of Professor Ernest Gruening of Alaska, left his Sydney apartment in his automobile a week ago and has not been heard from since. Police have expressed fears for his safety, saying they had been told he was suffering from a spinal ailment.

YOUR CAR

Good Brakes Are Better Than Luck

By EUGENE MILMOE

What it comes to safety, too many drivers trust to luck rather than good brakes. Tragic results of this attitude are seen each year in thousands of accidents traceable to brake neglect.

Be a safety-wise motorist and have your brakes checked frequently. Since hydraulic brakes are often responsible for brake failure, make sure the master cylinder, wheel cylinders and fluid lines are in perfect working order, and keep the fluid reservoir filled to the proper level. If dirt is found in the fluid, the system should be thoroughly flushed with clean fluid of the best grade.

Let an expert handle all necessary brake services, repairs and replacements. It should be an excellent home mechanic or handyman, but you can't afford to take chances with your safety.

J.H. writes: "On my car, I notice the engine seems to be shooting oil at the measuring stick. What do you suppose is the cause?"

(A) A clogged ventilating system will cause this. Check your crankcase ventilating valve. If it is clogged, it should be cleaned or replaced. Be sure the valve is working properly. Excessive crankcase pressure is usually responsible.

$70 BARGAIN?

J.J. asks: "I intend buying a 1951 eight-cylinder car from a junk dealer for $70. I know the car was in a wreck, but it has a pretty good except for some minor defects. Do you think I should buy it?"

(A) I wouldn't advise it. The chances are you will have to invest quite a bit more to have the car put in a good, safe running condition.

From R.W.: "Is it harmful to shift a 1955 car from first to high when driving on a level road?"

(A) As long as the car carries little weight, it isn't necessary to go into second gear on a level run. As a matter of fact, this practice can reduce performance and tear, especially if you must do a lot of stop-and-go driving.

E.H. writes: "My tires have been worried by balancer every 5,000 miles, yet I still get a shimmy when driving at certain road speeds. In addition, all of my front tires was worn badly on a recent trip. What would you do?"

(A) Has the front wheel alignment been checked? If this isn't the trouble, look for such possibilities as loose front wheel bearings, wrong tire pressures, faulty springs and shocks or a bent front wheel.

ASPHALT AND BATTERY

From B.G.: "My battery does not seem to charge enough although it is only six months old and presumably in good condition. Do you think I might try to adjust the regulator to get more voltage?"

(A) Don't experiment with the regulator. There are several different types and it takes an experienced mechanic with the right tools and gauges to adjust voltage settings properly. As a matter of fact, you should first have a check made of the generator-battery circuit before accusing the regulator.

Cannifton

CANNIFTON — Sorry to report that Jack White broke his leg at work on Monday.

Garden Notes

Compost for Christmas Trees

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Maintaining organic matter in your soil is as important part of successful gardening, but using organic matter to your soil is not a cure-all.

It does however, open up heavy soil, permitting air to penetrate. It also increases the water-holding properties of sandy soil. It does contain some plant food, and the presence of organic matter helps to release plant nutrients from soil minerals into available forms.

Most gardeners do not have access to animal manures to add to their soil, but they can get a valuable supply from compost heaps which they build in their own garden. Into it can go weeds which have not yet gone to seed, corn stocks, grass clippings, vegetable parings and leaves. So, do not burn the leaves, rake them up and add them to your soil conditioner. Make a layer six inches deep, add a thin layer of soil and sprinkle lightly with vigoro, to hasten the composing of the plant material. It will also enrich the compost and make it a more valuable plant food.

BUILD PILE

Build the pile up to three or four feet in height and keep wet. It will take time and warm weather to break down the material. The compost heap you make now will be ready for use by midsummer. Start another pile in the early summer as soon as you begin weeding and clipping grass. It is not necessary to buy so-called "activators" or worm food. The plant food you sprinkle on is the only plant food need to buy to insure a rich compost to improve your soil.

Do you want to keep a Christmas tree? If you prespire a place for it before the ground freezes. Any cap buy one to plant after it has served as a indoor tree.

Just in case the ground becomes hard as concrete by December, the 20th dig out a hole in November. Make it at least three feet in diameter and two to three feet deep, depending on the size of the tree. Loosen the soil to a depth of one foot and mix in some organic food. Cover the hole with boards if there is any danger of children falling into it. Place the soil from the hole on a tarpaulin, and cover it with a heavy mulch of straw, or leaves; or place in bags and store in the basement for use when planting the tree.

CHOOSING TREES

When you buy your tree choose one which is balled and burlapped. Leave the wrapper on until you place the tree outdoors, or in a cool place as long as possible before bringing it in to trim. Choose a cool room, and keep the humidity up and the temperature down. Dry heat may kill the tree. Place it in a tub and pack around the outside the burlap with peat moss. Keep the moss quite damp, but do not allow water to stand in the tub. Add more water each day to maintain humidity.

By the end of the week take the tree out and plant it, tramping soil down around the balled roots. (The burlap will rot in the spring. Leave it in place.)

Firs keep their needles better than spruces and are better bet-bet to stand this treatment.

If the weather is severe, a Douglas fir will survive the winter in a cool basement if kept moist.

THE BETHEL - ZION

W.I. Presents Two Gifts Of Appreciation

BETHEL - ZION — The meeting of Bethel-Zion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Rose with an attendance of 20 members, two visitors and six children.

The president, Mrs. Gordon Ray, opened the meeting. Business arising from the minutes was dealt with. It was decided to cater to Scott's if a date was available. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earle Ray.

Mrs. Roscoe Robson gave a full report of the Area Convention, which was held in Belleville.

The motto, "If You Like Me" by Padre Young, was given by Mrs. Percy Ray.

Mrs. Morden Brough dealt with the topic, "Those Who Have Hearts that Time Cannot Age Are Happily Wise."

Mrs. Gordon Ray conducted a "Grandmothers' Contest," which was won by Mrs. Lorne Ray.

At this point Mrs. F. Wellman read an address and Mrs. Percy Ray and Mrs. Morden Ray were each presented with electric percolators by the members of their work the past few years as leader and assistant leader of the Bethel-Zion Girls' club.

Mrs. Gordon Ray read two poems, "When Ma is Sick," and "When Pa is Sick."

After the meeting closed a social hall hour followed.

POINT ANNE

Bride-to-Be Honored By Many Gifts

POINT ANNE — On Tuesday evening in the Point Anne parish hall a miscellaneous shower was held for Miss Hazel Lloyd, who is being married on Saturday.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by playing euchre. Winners were: Mrs. Melissa Sedore, Mrs. Robert Hull, Mrs. Illeen Meeuwsid, consolation, Mrs. Joan Sedore, lone hand, Mrs. Melissa Sedore.

Spot prize was won by Miss Janet Whitehead.

After euchre, Hazel was escorted to a chair and after untying her lovely gifts, which were many, she most graciously thanked each giver and those who helped to get the shower up for her. All joined in wishing her a happy married life.

After a social half hour refreshments were served by the ladies.

Leafs-Wings Castoff Zooming Into Star After Steady Toil With Bruins

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GOINGS ON

There is some sort of order aligning itself out of the more or less chaos that has been apparent regarding the release of various players in the senior "B" group.

Manager Kitch Stanford of the Brockville Magedomas is a guy who cares but little for the OHA book of words, it seems. Kitch didn't pay any attention to the hard-and-fast rule that players in a league wanting transfer to another club in the same group must get a release which must be sent to the OHA powers-that-be with his certificate.

No sirree! Theft with authority and let the divil take the consequences, said Kitch. So what happens. He goes after the Duncan duo of Erwin and Edwin, who demanded and did not get a handsome ransom to wear a Belleville uniform this year, and signs them on the dotted line.

The TPT's executive DID NOT release the Duncans and Erwin played for the Maredomas against the Cornwall Colts, and, incidentally, scored a couple of goals against the downstreamers. However, the TPT management yesterday announced they had released the Duncans to the Magedomas with no coin of the realm attached.

But the rest of the release pot boils merrily on. Bob Taylor of Belleville, who played with the Clinton Comets last year, will not get his release from the American club unless they receive a mortgage on the city hall, three northern hunting lodges and five per cent of the national surplus next spring. So Marne Robert has been doing his puckchasing thus far from the sidelines.

The Clinton club, who desire the Kingston Goodyears' Pawchuk and Duke Doran, and no doubt offered 'em a good slice of Fort Knox for their signatures, have been denied the services of these players simply because the Goodyears' management stipulates: "Pay or they don't play."

Meanwhile, the Goodies, shopping around for a defence-man or two aligned their sights on one Hib Macey, who did yeoman service for the Nemesis of this city and who has since been receiving his mail at Collins Bay—held it—as an employee not a guest. They want Macy's release from the TPT management but at time of writing the TPT had not seen fit to do so, mainly because of the Taylor hold-up by Clinton.

Manager "Red" Doran, who referred the Taylor incident to the Ontario Hockey Association, has been following up his self-imposed task, but seem assured by the OHA's business manager, Billy Hanley, that the matter will be placed in front of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the privy council of puckdom in such matters.

In case some may wonder why the Clinton Comets, an American team playing in the American Eastern Amateur League, can hold up a Canadian player's release, it is stated that the CAHA has arrangements with American amateur leagues in which the bodies respect and honor the administrative actions of the other, such as suspensions and releases.

So there's the situation in a nutshell. Belleville wants Taylor, Kingston wants Macy and Clinton wants Pywchuk and Doran.

Actually it all amounts to the amount of fielding intisee each club demands to release the players. The OHA does not set any amount, as we understand it. The clubs place their own value. If our information is correct Clinton demanded $150 for Taylor's release. We do not know what the tab on Pawchuk or Macy is.

TEEPEES HERE

Hockey fans hereabouts will see one of the best Junior "A" Clubs extant when the St. Catharines Teepees step on the ice against the TPT's in Memorial Arena on November 16th. The Teeps at the moment are on a western junket which they started with a decisive 6-1 victory over the Winnipeg St. Boniface Canucks. They will take on Port Arthur and Fort William in their stride and on their return from the prairie safari will trek on down to Montreal for jousts with Quebec Junior squads. On their way home they hop off at Brockville and Belleville—and that's where we come in. The Teeps boast a half-dozen stars whom pro scouts have tabbed as sure-fire National Leaguers and the pewsters from this area will see some of the fastest junior players in Canada in action.

* * * *

WELL, WELL!

Brockville Magedomas, on paper one of the strongest teams in the senior "B" group, thought they'd get in on the general kicking around being given the Kingston Goodyears. But they received a rude jolt last night down Boddenville way.

The Goodies, smarting from two lickings and a tie, broke out with surging power and whipped the Magpies 6-3 in decisive manner to rack up their first two points of the season.

* * * *

The Maredomas after their 10-2 victory over Cornwall, caused circuit eyebrows to lift and they were expected to take the Goodies in stride. But the Douglas men reared up their hind legs to give the rest of the circuit something else to wonder about.

SASKATOON (CP) — Sites for four 1956 Canadian championships were awarded Friday as the 52nd annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada moved into its second day.

Two of the competitions went to eastern Canada, boxing to Montreal and gymnastics to the central Ontario division with Toronto as the probable location.

Winnipeg brings the wrestling events to the Prairies while Vancouver and Montreal split the weight-lifting competitions. The latter will be divided into an east and west zone and the results of each compared in choosing Canada's Olympic contingent.

Dave Creighton Loop Surprise Since Working Boston Way; Tied for Top With Beliveau

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Creighton's success in the National Hockey League this season has surprised nearly everybody but Dave Creighton. He knew he just needed week to step in the big league.

The 25-year-old centre was cast aside by three clubs in one season. Few experts looked for much improvement in Creighton's scoring production when he went to New York Rangers from Detroit Red Wings in a cash deal.

But Rangers gave him plenty of work and Creighton produced. He now is tied with Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens for the league's scoring lead with four goals and 10 assists in 10 games.

That's only three points less than his total output with Toronto Maple Leaf and Chicago Black Hawks in 63 games last season.

"I've been playing regularly and it's paying off," Creighton says.

Muzz Patrick, Rangers' general manager, agrees. Along with Dave's been a pleasant surprise for us this season," says Patrick. "He's showing the league he still can play defence. I don't think he has reached his peak yet," gers at Chicago.

Until last season, Creighton had been with Boston Bruins for five seasons and had a couple of 30-goal years in that time. Then Bruins traded him to Toronto and he couldn't find the range. It was the same story with Black Hawks, to whom he was traded by Toronto midway through the 1954-55 campaign.

Hawks traded Creighton to Detroit at the end of last season but Dave never saw action with the Red Wings.

There were no games Friday night but Creighton and his teammates will get a chance to move into second place tonight when they play the Leafs at Toronto. Leafs haven't lost a home game this year but Rangers coach Phil Watson hopes to change that. He says:

"Leafs started this winning streak against us when they beat us 3-2. But what we start, we can finish."

In other games tonight, Boston plays at Montreal and Detroit takes on Black Hawks at Chicago. Sunday night it's Canadiens at Boston, Leafs at Detroit and Ran-

Cubs Hand Barrie Flyers Fourth Loss As Marlies, Bilts Battle to Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The goaltenders were kept on the hop Friday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

In two games there were 131 shots and 19 of the drives eluded the bombarded goalies.

At Guelph, Toronto Marlboros and the Biltmores engaged in a scoring duel which ended in a 7-7 tie. Things were quieter in a scoreless duel at Barrie when the Cubs handed Flyers their fourth straight loss, 3-2 at decision.

Eric Reid, 14-year-old goaltender for Marlboros, had a 27 shots to handle while the Guelph goalkeeper, Ron Boomer, was shot at 26 times.

In the Barrie game, Dennis Riggin of Hamilton tucked out 38 shots and Tommy Green stopped 27 of the Flyers' rush.

The Hamilton win boosted Cubs' league lead to two points and Guelph moved into a third-place tie with Marlboros and Flyers with Toronto St. Michael's Majors for fifth place with three points and Barrie is last with two.

Bob Forhan scored twice in the last minute of regulation time to give Biltmores the tie. There was no scoring in the 10-minute overtime session.

Toronto led 3-2 going into third stanza. Guelph tied it with two goals within 34 seconds to take the lead but Marlboros, with a man advantage, counted twice in less than two minutes to regain the lead. Then Forhan went to work. The tying goals were his second and third of the night.

Al Cleary had two goals while Brian Webber and Gerry Cleary scored the other Guelph goals. Fulford and Ken Girard tallied twice for Toronto. Goalie Gerry Bill Kennedy and Ron Farnfield got one each.

The Cubs overcame a 2-0 Barrie lead in the third period to win the Barrie game. Johnson gave Flyers a 1-0 lead in the second period and Jack Kane increased it to 2-0 at 6:15 of the third.

Max Sturtum made it 2-1 at 8:27. Then Lorne Roe tied the score at 16:42 and 16 seconds later Bill Binnie won the game for Hamilton.

There are no games scheduled tonight. Sunday, Guelph play St. Micael's and Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks take on Marlboros, both games at Toronto.

Browns Favored Over Giants

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Lions, staggering along on a six game losing streak, have a chance to make their weigh felt in the western conference they ruled last year when they play Baltimore Colts tonight in a National Football league game at Detroit.

Baltimore's brilliant rookies have boosted the Colts into a first-place tie with Los Angeles in the western division of the National league.

Another game tonight at Chicago between Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Cardinals could be of prime importance if Cleveland should stumble Sunday. The Steelers, 1-6-7 winners over the Cards in the opening game, are only a game behind Cleveland in the eastern conference.

Cleveland is a 10-point favorite to roll to its sixth straight over New York Giants at Cleveland Sunday. It's the first meeting of the two teams this season.

In the wide-open scramble of the western conference, Los Angeles entertains San Francisco Sunday. Drome by next Tuesday, Nov. 8.

If Philadelphia and Washington come close to their early games won by 31-30, 28-27 and 27-24 respectively, their second meeting at Washington Sunday should provide some real action.

Green Bay and Chicago Bears, tied with San Francisco for runner-up spot in the western conference, play Sunday at Chicago's Wrigley Field. It will be one of the few times that both the Bears and Cardinals have played in Chicago on the same weekend, except when playing one another.

Dutchies Win Over Maroons In Overtime

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bill Colvin isn't among the top point scorers in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, but he comes up with goals when they are needed.

A couple of weeks ago, Colvin scored three goals to lead Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to victory and Friday night he scored another winner.

The 30-year-old centre, with two sons, Michael's Majors in the junior A OHA last season, fired an overtime goal to give the Dutchmen a 5-4 win over Chatham Maroons at Chatham.

Stratford Indians defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 7-5 at Stratford to move into second place in the league standings in the other game Friday night.

Dutchmen took a 2-0 lead in the first period and led 3-1 at the end of the period. Maroons came back with three goals in the third frame to one by the winners.

BROKE TIE AT 3:22

Colvin's tie-breaking effort came at 3:22 of the 5-minute overtime session. Bob White, Bud Kemp, Ken Lindsay and Charlie Burns also scored for Dutchmen.

Rod Seiling, Dick Chalmers, Ernie Dick and Cliff McArthur were the Chatham marksmen.

Owen Sound Mercurys battled to a 2-2 tie in the first period. Stratford Indians ahead at the end of the middle frame and outscored Owen Sound 3-2 in the last sthanza.

Mickey Marcinkiewicz, Jim Indians and Herb Delordy, Dinny Finnamore, Bob Bell, Ken Sendo and Tommy Walker completed the scoring.

Mercurys were led by veteran Tommy Burlington and Jerry Reid who each scored a pair of goals. Elmer Skov notched the other.

Tonight, Chatham is at Owen Sound and Windsor Bulldogs play at Kitchener. Stratford visits Windsor in the lone Sunday game.

Notre Dame, Penn Said Mis-Match

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the more colorful stories the late Knute Rockne used to tell concerned a time when he tackled Jim Thorpe in a pro football game. As Thorpe arose from the turf, Rockne pointed to the crowd in the stands and said: "Look at those people, Mr. Rockne. They come here to see old Jim run."

Such thinking may explain why some 50,000 fans are expected to turn out today for the game between Notre Dame and Pennsylvania. They're not to see Notre Dame run. As a football game, it figures to be the kind of mis-match that's boring commissioner Bert Bell would allow.

Notre Dame is ranked sixth among the college football powers in this week's Associated Press top 20 and has been only No. 1 Michigan State. Penn has lost 15 in a row.

Top-rated Maryland takes on Louisiana State, which has won only once but has given a rough time to several southeastern conference powers.

Oklahoma, ranked second, should back up its No. 2 ranking against Michigan, ranked third, meets Illinois, which has topped only one Big 10 opponent in two starts.

Other Saturday games involving first 10 teams are Michigan State (4) vs. Purdue, Navy (5) vs. College of the Pacific, Georgia Tech (8) vs. Tennessee and Navy (9) vs. Duke.

Stukus Says He's Through As Coach

VANCOUVER (CP) — Annis Stukus, whose dismissal a week ago as head coach of the British Columbia Lions rocked the city with controversy, now says he feels relief.

"My reaction is one of relief," he said in an interview Friday. "I feel that perhaps the directors have actually done me a favor."

The only Canadian coach in professional football confirmed his retirement from his profession.

"I'll never, except for any price, take another coaching job. I'm through as a coach."

Asked whether he thought the Lions directors had taken the right action, he said:

"There is no such thing as right or wrong. It's the privilege of the directors to act as they see fit. Coaches are hired and fired every day."

DROPPED CONTRACT

Stukus was fired Oct. 27 after a stormy, three-hour meeting of club directors who finally voted 13-to-10 against renewing his $12,000-a-year contract.

Last year, the Lions won one game and this year had a 3-11 win-loss record.

Did Stukus anticipate he would be fired?

"Not in a million years. I hadn't the vaguest idea they would do it, although I knew there were four or five fellows who would want to.

"There were people here on the directors' board who resented me as long as I was head coach, there'd never be a championship club in Vancouver.

"That was their personal opinion and they may have sold the idea to others."

Mortson Said In Good Shape

BOSTON (CP) — Gus Mortson, veteran defenceman for Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League who underwent emergency surgery for removal of an intestinal abscess Wednesday night was said by hospital authorities here Friday night to be in "good condition."

There is no estimate at the present time when Mortson will be released from hospital, however, Dr. Edward R. Browne, team physician, said after performing the surgery that the Black Hawk veteran would probably be in hospital for the next two weeks and would be out of NHL action for from four to six weeks.

Eight Players In Running For Russell Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Eight players, two from each of the big football team, are in the running for the Jeff Russell Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the player adjudged the most valuable and sportsmanlike in Big Four play.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argonauts announced their nominees Friday. Hamilton choices are backfielder Jon Kusserow and veteran offensive guard Vince Ferrari. Argonauts nominated end Al Pfeifer and tackle Pete Zanchuk.

Pfeifer, ex-Fordham University star who was fired from Argonauts after the 1954 season and re-hired this year, leads the Big Four in touchdown passes with 15. Zanchuk, in his seventh season with Toronto, has been one of its best two-way linemen.

Kusserow, formerly of New York Yankees of the NFL, is in his third season with Hamilton and this season has been one of its top ground-gainers and pass defenders. Scott joined Hamilton in 1950 from Duke. He is now a Canadian citizen. He has been an effective guard on the last four teams.

Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders previously announced their candidates. Ottawa nominated halfbacks Avatus Stone and Don Pitcher, while Montreal chose quarterback Sam Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson.

Dutchies Tumble Imperials 24-0 In Playoff

KITCHENER (CP) — Crashing Cookie Gilchrist led Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to a 24-0 win over Sarnia Imperials Friday night in the first game of the four football three final series for the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior championship.

The brilliant import half scored two touchdowns in the third quarter and sparked Dutchies to three more in the fourth. Both times the big fullback used repeatedly but unsuccessfully in the first half.

Kitchener backs Bobby Kuntz, Billy Graham and Ed Learn, accounted for the other touchdowns. The victory left Kitchener heavy favorites to take the series. The second game is scheduled for Sarnia next Saturday.

Dutchmen, who outplayed in the first 30 minutes, could muster only a single point on a single by quarterback Bob Celeri.

MISSED TWICE TRY

Gino Capelletti, Sarnia import half from the University of Minnesota, missed the three tries by inches. Dutchies blocked the first, the second went wide and the third fell short.

Dutchmen came up with their first scoring chance early in the second quarter and went 35 yards on receiving plunges by Gilchrist, Graham ran 44 yards in the fourth quarter for the second.

Celeri climaxed the passes to Learn and Gilmour for the other touchdowns. Learn converted all the touchdowns but the last.

Imps import guard Larry Cundonick was injured in the early minutes of the second half and his loss was felt.

Dutchies picked up 16 first downs, 12 in the first half, against 15 for Sarnia. Celeri clicked on seven of 17 pass attempts for 117 yards and Eastern Capelletti and Red McKelvey threw 25 for nine completions.

Must Or Bust!

Cold, Casualties Loom Trouble For Saskatchewan Roughies

REGINA (CP)—Cold and casualties spelled possible trouble for Saskatchewan Roughriders today as they prepared to take the field of the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoffs against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Record - setting passer Frank Filchock, while Winnipeg boss Al Ulmer said he'd be surprised if he had trouble in cold weather in the west, a high or calm 40 degrees was predicted.

This worry could be eased, however, by figures released on the eve of the two-game total-point round, which showed Tripucka set another league record for pass completions. He completed 167 of 257 attempts for a 61.48 percentage record to break the 58.7 mark he set last year.

Winnipeg quarterback Buddy Leake clicked on 62 per cent of his 210 passes during the 16-game regular schedule, in which Saskatchewan finished second and Winnipeg four behind Edmonton Eskimos. Winner of the round being played today and Monday will meet Eskimos in the two-game total-point final.

Injuries were another headache for Roughrider coach Frankie Filchock, while Winnipeg boss Al Ulmer said he'd be surprised if he had trouble in cold weather in the west, a high or calm 40 degrees was predicted.

Como Surprised at Success Of TV Show Opposite Gleason

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Television rehearsal halls are much the same on the east coast as in the west. They are so shabby you wonder how the people ever get any glamour in the shows.

This week for example, they were rehearsing for the Patti Page show with Perry Como and Gene Nelson. The stars and about 30 singers, dancers, actors and others were crammed in an ancient hall, and the way things went, it looked as if they'd never get the show on the air. But they did.

My target for that day was Como (Perry the giant killer). Well, he hasn't really slain the giant—Jackie Gleason—but he has come within a point or two of matching his audience rating. Nobody has done that opposite the fat one in years.

ALWAYS RELAXED

"I'm really happily surprised," said Perry as he relaxed—let's face it, he's always relaxed—between rehearsals. "When I got into this thing, I was hesitant.

"After all, I've had 25 years of singing; I didn't want to toss it all down the drain by failing opposite the show. I figured I had a few good years left."

Como is working six days a week now, but he doesn't seem to mind it. He's happy with the Saturday night show's success. And despite their opposition on the networks, he and Gleason refuse to feud.

"I've known Jackie for years," he said. "He calls me up all the time and we talk over matters."

STOPPED SONG SESSIONS

The trade has considered the Como success a blunder on CBS' part. That network broke up the 45-minute song sessions of Como, etc., for half-hour shows. Thus it was supposed that Como was sent to NBC to perform giant-killing feats against Gleason.

"It didn't happen like that," Como corrected. "I had decided to give up the 15-minute show to try something that would provide more security. Then I heard about the CBS move. I was talking to both CBS and NBC before I settled on the deal."

The last time Perry was seen on the movie lots was for "Words and Music" several years back. He was asked about a return to pictures.

"I don't see how I can," he said.

Aspirin Stops Formation Of Kidney Stones

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP) — Aspirin or similar drugs may provide a good treatment to prevent formation of new or more painful kidney stones.

This possibility is raised by a new approach to a common ailment as summed up by Dr. Samuel Vest, urologist of the University of Virginia school of medicine, in calcium and magnesium. The crystal repared paper Friday to the American College of Surgeons' annual clinical congress.

Kidney stones come from formation of crystals of materials like calcium and magnesium. The crystals grow and become stones which block the urinary passage.

Many studies have been made concerning the solubility or insolubility of various crystals, Dr. Vest said. But lately, some researchers have been studying protein materials that may be involved in formation of crystals. They find evidence that certain proteins can bind or trap chemicals like calcium, and thus prevent formation of stones.

Dr. Edwin Prien of Brookline, Mass., tested aspirin as one means of preventing formation of urinary stones. He found that five to six aspirin tablets daily apparently stopped formation of new stones in 17 of 19 persons who had suffered repeatedly from such stones. One was a man who had formed new stones 100 times.

Minor Hockey Schedules Open On November 17

The 1955-56 Belleville Minor Hockey Association schedules will open in two weeks with over 600 players, ranging in age from eight to 15, expected to participate.

This was one in a number of plans discussed last night at a meeting of 30 minor sport enthusiasts at the City Hall. It was decided to start action as soon as possible to give the boys a fuller player playing season.

Next Thursday, November 10th, registration will begin. The squirt players are asked to be at the arena at 6.00 p.m., the midgets at 7.30 p.m. and the juveniles at 9.30. These divisions will commence play one week later, on November 17th. The pee wee players will register on Saturday, November 12th at 8.00 a.m., also at the arena, and the bantams will take over at 10.00 a.m. These two divisions will open their schedules on Saturday, November 19th.

President Bill Gault stressed last night that no player will be allowed to start to practice or play until they have handed in their birth certificates. No other proof of age will be accepted. Player insurance was also discussed with all present feeling that every player should be insured with the cost only $1.00 Application forms will be distributed for all age players at the city schools by the middle of next week, to be handed in at the registration night.

Six definite sponsors are lined up at the present time with little trouble expected in obtaining others. The Lions Club, Northern Electric, Rotary Club, Home and School Association, Kiwanis Club and Kinsmen Club have expressed their desires to sponsor a team.

It is highly possible that a district juvenile league will be formed with the B.M.H.A. entering a team. The league would likely be composed of teams from Napanee, Belleville, Wellington, Trenton and Picton. Further discussion on this will take place at a later date.

Jerry Mahoney was appointed referee-in-chief for the minor association. It was also decided that he should be given the power to suspend any player or coach during a game until his case is taken up by a committee of league conveners, Mr. Mahoney asks for four or five volunteers to assist him in the referee's role.

Several other matters were brought up. The association will attempt to get an extra hour of ice time on Saturday mornings. Mr. Harry Rollins announced that Kari Green has accepted the position of caretaker for the players' sweaters and other equipment on Saturdays and Thursdays.

HORSE OF YEAR

TORONTO (CP) — Ace Marine, 1955 winner of the $20,000-added Queen's Plate, Friday was named Canada's "horse of the year."

Owned by Toronto industrialist Larkin Maloney, Ace Marine was chosen in the annual poll conducted by Daily Racing Form. Second was Canadian Champ, owned by Bill Beagley of Toronto.

Ace Marine, three-year-old son of Ace Admiral and Mazzarine, raced 16 times this year.

AT THE CAPITOL — A Dream Comes Alive. Verdi's vision of lyric love, written with his own hand in this original manuscript of his most famous opera, will burst into throbbing life when "Aida", the first real opera film in color opens Monday at the Capitol. Sophia Loren Italy's most luscious screen siren and handsome Luciano Delle Marra play the young lovers in this unprecedented film of music, spectacle and poignant romance.

TAPE REPLACES STITCHES

LONDON (Reuters) — A South African medical team has found that ordinary transparent tape is better than stitches for closing surgical skin incisions, an article in a leading British medical journal The Lancet, reported Thursday. It said that a team under Dr. Theodore Gillman, professor of physiology at the University of Natal, Durban, first carried out experiments using specially prepared tape. "Subsequently, however, we tried ordinary plastic tape available in most stationery stores and found it quite as efficient."

MADOC

F.W.T.A.O. Conference Held at H.S.

MADOC — The fall conference of Region Four of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario was held in Madoc high school auditorium on Saturday with morning and afternoon sessions.

At noon nearly 200 members and guests attended a banquet and dinner meeting in the school room at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, where a turkey dinner was served by St. Peter's Women's Club.

Mrs. A. Woods, president of Centre Hastings Women's Teachers' Association, presided at the dinner meeting and after welcoming all present, introduced the head table guests: George S. White, M.P.; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., the Rev. M. Heslip, minister of St. Peter's; G. W. Wood, Public School Inspector; Carl Bowen, Madoc high school principal; R. G. Marshall, public school principal; Miss McCoy, chairman of Madoc township school board; Dorian Stewart, representative Madoc village council. Miss Carol Connor, of Tweed, with was engaged by Mrs. F. Houston, of Belleville, rendered two solos.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Miss Cora Bailey, of Peterborough, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Helen Keeler, Federation provincial treasurer, who spoke on "Public Relations."

"There is in the Ontario government a department called the Department of Planning and Development, concerned with controlled and orderly growth. This department is not dictatorial, but will assist, if desired to do so, any community with plans for orderly growth, which is a good relationship between the public and the institution, permitting the community to draw on governmental experts' knowledge.

"Educational growth will continue with the growth of the school population, which includes teachers, department of Education, trustees and parents, who are responsible for an orderly and restricted growth, among which is a relationship exists.

GOOD PUBLIC RELATIONS "MUST"

"To have good public relations demands a minimum of discord, Delhgit Alcott by Secretary. Diversified thinking tends for progress, and needs to be encouraged so that parents may know what the experts plan that growth in education may be effected.

"Federation also demands growth, and it must be kept orderly, done quietly and sincerely, and with a minimum of publicity. The Federation has instituted, planned programs, first in Ontario, and now for the first time in Canada, which have related the specific of the Federation in the eyes of department officials, parents and public.

RELATIONS PROGRAM

The Federation's public relations program consists of planned, orderly growth as illustrated by the Student Teacher Conference, Leadership Conference; Reading Survey, Reading Conference.

"Good 'public relations' is in the hand of every teacher; her personality alone can either make or break a child; by her knowledge she can build a citizen, or by lack of knowledge, can ruin a child's mind. The history of tomorrow will be shaped by the children of today. Public relations is a 'planned program of policies and conduct that will foster confidence and increase public understanding'.

Appreciation to the speaker and soloist was expressed by Mrs. Florence Hart, of Oshawa.

Madoc Junction

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

MADOC JCT. — Anniversary services were held at Eggleton United church on October 30th, when Rev. G. B. McCrea, of Carlton, guest speaker, delivered inspiring sermons at both services. His text for the morning service was taken from St. Matthew 14: 14.

Everyone enjoyed the special music provided by the junior choir, which rendered the anthems, "Father Take My Hand and Lead Me," and a duet, "God is Love," sung by Misses Grace Clarke and Joanne Reide, with Mrs. Maurice Clancy as pianist.

At the evening service Mr. McCrea based his message on words found in II Kings, 2.

Mr. Thomas Bridges, assistant pianist, presided at the piano for the opening prelude and hymns, and the Junior quartet, Messrs. Lorne Watson, Glenn Watson, Ralph Johnson and Craig Watson, with Miss Betty McConnell as pianist, brought a wonderful message in song by singing three beautiful selections.

Four large potted chrysanthemums, two yellow and two mauve-pink color adorned the front of the church, placed there by Mrs. Carl Bridges.

A lovely new pulpit drape, given by Mrs. S. Danford in memory of her late husband, Mr. Samuel Danford, graced the pulpit.

Despite the rainy day there was a large congregation at each of the services with a number in attendance from the surrounding communities.

The anniversary guests were entertained at the following homes:

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. McCrea and daughter Kathleen at Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson of Belleville, at Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harlow's.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett and Marilyn of Huntingdon, at Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hollinger's.

Dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stapley's were: Mr. and Mrs. George Cooke of West Huntingdon; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMullen and Grant, R. R. 4, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Petherick, Nona and Fay; Mr. and Mrs. William Petherick, all of Petherick; Mrs. Samuel Danford, dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMullen and Grant of R.R. 4, Belleville, spent the tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reide.

The quartet: Messrs. Lorne Watson, Craig Watson, Ralph Johnson and Glenn Watson, also Mrs. Lorne Watson and Anne, of Misses Betty McConnell, Marilyn Parks, Ruby Bateman were entertained at supper and evening service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy, with the choir leader, Mrs. Bruce Stapley, assisting with the supper.

Friend Shoots Hunting Partner

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — An Ohio resident, Lawrence Ditto, 27, of Van Wert, was fatally shot by a member of his hunting party Thursday on the flats along Colden water road, one mile east of nearby Searchmont. The body has been taken to the Sault and an inquest ordered for Saturday.

Mr. Ditto was shot accidentally by a friend, Joe Sinning. He was buried in the Sault on the three children. His widow was notified of the tragedy, also a member of the party. Provincial police are investigating.

Hard-Luck Peasant Woman Fled from Poverty in Italy Took Life in Toronto Jail

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Next Tuesday a coroner's jury will be asked to probe the death of Gerarda Celluci Trullo who hanged herself in a Toronto police station barely 10 months after reaching Canada to start a new life.

She died at lunch time Oct. 17, strangled by a rope made of bed sheets tied around the bars of her cell. She had been in it less than half an hour, charged with shoplifting.

A few yards away, in a nearby cell, was her husband, Benvenuto Pasquale Trullo, 41, also in jail, charged with a similar offence. Half a mile away, in the home they shared with relatives from Italy's Frosinone area, were their three small children.

POLICE, FAMILY BAFFLED

Why Gerarda Trullo took her life after a few moments of hysterical wailing and battering at the door of her cell is a question her husband and family here, police and lawyers say they cannot understand.

The Trullos had had a tough time up to that late Monday morning—a tough time in Italy, almost a tougher one in Canada.

Gerarda was 35, a peasant girl from Gallinaro in the Liri valley 80 miles southwest of Rome. Since childhood her life in Italy turned upon the early-morning walk to the fields, where she labored all day, and the late-evening climb back to her home.

In 1945, after two years' courtship, she married Benvenuto, then 29 (she was 26), whose home was in Fontana-Liri, 20 miles away.

He was also a peasant laborer. During the war he'd been a sailor, was at sea for 28 months, then "escaped to Albania." "It was rough," he said as he talked of Trullo's death. "There were the Germans, the Albanians and the Italians so you never knew where the bullets would come from—and the rations got worse and worse."

After their marriage, Gerarda and Benvenuto tried share-cropping. It didn't work. Always too much rain or too much sun. Always a poor harvest. And their first child, a little girl, died in 1943.

There followed other children: Anna in 1950, Carmela in 1952 and Domenico in 1953.

HELPED BY BROTHER

Meanwhile Gerarda's youngest brother, Lucio Celluci, had come to Canada and soon got work as a bricklayer. Soon he sponsored a sister, Loretta, and her husband, Domenico Bevilacqua, and their two children.

Perhaps Gerardo and Benvenuto thought, there would be a chance for them in Canada.

Lucio agreed to sponsor them and sent them $1,000 to pay for their passage. The family arrived Toronto last Dec. 3. They moved in with Lucio and his wife, sharing a large semi-detached house in the heart of an Italian colony, with their own church, St. Agnes', nearby. Father Attilio was so Italian he couldn't speak English.

Benvenuto's off-and-on job since has been as a bricklayer. He got a month's work soon after arriving and things looked good. Then had weather stopped construction until spring and, he said in the interview, it was May before he worked steadily again, earning only $30 a week from a small contractor. The union scale for bricklayers in Toronto is $2.46 an hour.

In July, Toronto's heat prostrated him and he was sent home. A fortnight later he reported back for work to find the job gone. He found another briefly, but was let go right him going until the end of August. Work since has been sporadic.

"Lucio helped us out. Every now and again he'd give me a few dollars money. Altogether I have borrowed $250 from him since we arrived here, so we owe him $1,250."

MOTHER DEPRESSED

Gerarda sometimes got depressed.

"She would say: 'You have so many bills. We are going into debt. The children must be fed and clothed. This can't go on. What am I to do with myself out on the window or in front of a streetcar?

"But she never meant that. Women sometimes talk' like that when they are very worried. She was in perfect health."

Trullo's lean face was gaunt with tragedy as he recalled the day she died.

It was raining and I knew there would be no work. So Gerry and I decided to go shopping after giving the children their breakfast. She had $20 and so had I. We were going to share it.

"She stopped to look at one store, then another, and I followed her. In the store she went to one section, while I went to look at another.

SELF-SERVICE STORE

The store was a recently-opened self-service branch of the F. W. Woolworth Company, Ltd. After selecting their purchases, customers go through a turnstile at the cash register where their parcels are rung up and paid for.

"After about 20 minutes I went over to Gerry and asked: 'Have you finished yet? Shoddy? We go home so can do the Loretta can do her shopping?'

"She didn't say anything. She just looked at me. But when we got to the cashier she said: 'You pay. You have money.'

"We had a little argument about whose money would be used and finally I paid. It was $1.62.

"Then as we were leaving the store two men stopped my wife and took some stuff from her bag. They said she had taken it. It was some underwear and stockings, I think.

"I took out the $20 I had in my pocket and offered it to them. I insisted they took us to the office and called the police. I was still standing there like this the shod up, arms crossed over his chest) and holding the $20 when the police arrived.

CHARGED TO PAY

"I don't know where my wife took those things. She must have hidden them in her bag.

"She would never steal. She was a good woman. To steal would be to ruin our reputation. We would lose the respect of our family and friends here—and even in Italy, for the word would get back there, too. There was no question of stealing and I tried to pay when I saw the situation.

"The police took us to the police station. They couldn't speak Italian and I couldn't speak English. They took my wife to a cell and put me in a different one in another corridor.

"But I could hear Gerarda screaming and banging on the door of the cell. She did that three or four times, and then there was no more crying. I thought maybe 'everything was all right after all and they were going to let us go' realizing it was all a mistake.

"But nobody came. I came to about 20 minutes later, put handcuffs on me and took me back to the office. Father Attilio was there. He told me to be brave, to resign myself to fate. Someone put a chair behind me and I sat down. Something was said about my wife not being well.

FOUND WIFE DEAD

"But nobody said anything about Gerarda being dead—not even the priest.

"Then the cell door was opened—I think doctors must have been in there—and I saw my wife lying on the floor. I ran in and saw she was dead."

The police records show that the Trullos were booked in at 12:30 p.m. and that at 1:13 p.m. Gerarda was dead. Her cell was checked periodically during the hysterical spell, the last time at 1:05 p.m.

Sandro Celluci, an English-speaking cousin, meanwhile had been called and accompanied the convenuto to city hall where the police took photographs and fingerprints.

"Then they let us go. We went back to the station where Gerarda died, picked up her coat, purse, and a blouse the doctors had removed from her, and then went home."

POLICE COURTEOUS

Mr. Sandro, he says, were courteous. "They were calm enough."

"But no one could speak Italian. I don't know what the law says here. They must be the same as in Italy. If a man is charged in Italy and if someone who didn't know the language got into difficulty they would call in an interpreter at once."

"I am sure that if there had been an interpreter everything would have been all right. But Gerarda had never been in touch with the police and she was terrified and confused, I think."

Store manager A. H. Reid said in an interview he and assistant manager John Young had watched the Trullos separately in the store for "about half an hour before they finally passed the cash desk together.

"We had nothing against him," he said. "He went through the cash, paid for the goods in his hand and went on."

"Then Gerarda followed and made no payment, although we had seen her put articles in her bag."

GOODS WORTH $23

They took back to the office and recovered $23 worth of merchandise from her bag, most of it wearing apparel."

Asked whether he thought the Trullos understood the questions put, Mr. Reid said: "Most foreigners can say what they want to say but can't answer the questions you ask them."

"When the police took them away I said we would lay a charge of shop-lifting against the woman. We had nothing against the man. We discovered later, however, that he was listed as an accomplice.

"It was only later that we found out the situation. By then the woman had died. Our complaint disappeared when she died, and of course, we asked that the charges against Trullo—which should not have been laid—be withdrawn."

Toronto newspapers that evening headlined the fate of the unhappy immigrant Gerarda who had taken her own life under the shadow of petty officialdom. Police were quoted as saying she might have been despondent, imagining her family in danger of deportation. Immigration officers were quoted as saying this misunderstanding do not carry that risk.

UNAWARE OF CHILDREN

There was speculation that she was worried about the children, especially 18-months-old Domenico. Police quoted as saying they had said they known the Trullos had three children she would not have been detained.

City council, taking note of the case, has asked police chief John Chisholm to report on the possibility of setting up a police interpreter service so that interpreters for every likely language in Toronto may be available "at all reasonable hours."

Controller Roy Belyea said at a board of control meeting it is a sad commentary" on the operation of a police station that a mother of three, speaking no English and in a distressed state of mind, could be put in a cell and allowed to hang herself.

Detective Herbert Cahagnar, however, one of those assigned to the case, said: "Under the circumstances I think the police officers did everything possible."

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS

The heartsick Trullo household, meanwhile, failed to arrange for Gerarda's funeral and burial. An undertaker they were advised to use refused to do so, it was indicated, saying a rough stone memorial.

Lucio, however, "organized the unsung hero throughout the Celluchi" struggle to get ahead in their new country, said:

"We wanted to do the decent thing, but we just couldn't take on that. We finally arranged for a $250 burial, leaving the memorial until later."

"The Toronto Star helped us with $100 and the Italian consul (Dr. Gian Piero Nuli) gave us another $100. We have looked after the rest."

Trullo said Arturo Scotti, publisher of the Corriere Canadese, Toronto's Italian-language weekly, recommended that Benvenuto consider bricklaying until the construction season ends and that he then approach him for employment.

"I had 2½ hours' work today so I guess the season is ending," he said. "I'll be in touch with Mr. Scotti later."

"We don't know," says Dr. Fred W. Ticketi, the coroner who signed the death certificate. "It still is being investigated—we have not finished."
The cause of death was asphyxia due to hanging, he said. The inquest, Nov. 8, might throw light on the reasons that led Gerarda to do it.

Mrs. Percy Day, 40, Dies After Train Amputates Legs

Boswell Street Resident Found Lying Beside Tracks

Mrs. Percy Day, 40, of 65 Boswell Street, mother of three school-age daughters, was fatally injured early today as she was run over by a Canadian National Railways passenger train as she took a short-cut home along the tracks after visiting friends.

Mrs. Day was apparently struck by the first section of No. 18 train and lay at the side of the tracks until she was spotted by the crew members of the second section of the train. Both legs were severed above the knees.

She was taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance. She died on the operating table at 5.40 this morning.

Details of the accident were sketchy but it is believed Mrs. Day had been visiting friends in the Purdy street district and, to save time on the way home, had started walking down the tracks.

Railway officials said they believed the woman had been struck by the first section of eastbound No. 18 passenger train which would have passed between one o'clock and one-thirty.

SEES DISTURBED WOMAN

The body of the severely injured woman was spotted by the engineer of the second section of No. 18 train, Harold W. Hendricks, 44 Crestview Ave. Nine-teen minutes behind the first section, Mr. Henricks had stopped his train for a block signal midway between Frank and Colebrook. Then the body was lying on the south side of the eastbound tracks.

First aid was given Mrs. Day by George Jeremias, Queen's University student who was a passenger on the train on his way back to Kingston to attend classes.

In the meantime Bush's Ambulance was called and Dr. Hugh Ferguson, who lives on the property, was taken to hospital. She died on the operating table at 5.40 this morning as three doctors worked desperately to save her life. It was reported she had been conscious at one time after arriving at the hospital. Attending physicians were Dr. Austin Walker, Dr. E. G. Anderson and Dr. E. G. Kennedy.

Investigation into the fatality is being conducted by Provincial Constables Taylor and Culhane.

Coroner Dr. K. J. Potter, after consultation with Acting Crown Attorney Ralph Graham, stated there would be no inquest.

Cannot Relax Defence Effort Says St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent reiterated Saturday night that there can be no relaxation now in the matter of defence.

He told l'Association Canadienne-Francaise pour l'Avancement des Sciences:

"It is true . . . that the international outlook is more peaceful now than for some years—thanks in part to the increased might of our alliance and the other North Atlantic Nations.

"However, in spite of the importance of the task of planning for the constant growth in our economy, we cannot, for the time being at least, relax our defence effort, for we are convinced that it is only that effort which has brought about this bright spot in the cloudy international sky."

At another point, the prime minister, speaking in French, said:

"We recognize that thanks to the talents of our Canadian families and to the ideals of organizations such as yours, thanks also to the contribution of conservation and public bodies, Canada has played an important part in outstanding scientific progress achieved during the first half of the 20th century and that today our country is better equipped than ever to hold its place among the most advanced nations at the dawn of the atomic age. . . .

"We look upon this atomic age with the firm confidence that the discoveries of the scientists and the application of those discoveries will continue to serve humanity and will not be used to set off catastrophies which humanity could not survive."

He said the government next year will begin construction of a new, fully-equipped laboratory for use by the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada, organized in 1938 under a joint arrangement among the federal government, McGill University and the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Gun Game Ends In Wounding

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A 16-year-old boy was critically injured during a gun game which "got out of control" and "misfired twice" but turned out tragically real.

Doctors and volunteer blood donors were trying to save the life of Wilfred Lowell who, police said was shot through the abdomen by a 15-year-old buddy.

Police said the boy who fired the shot told them he thought a .44 calibre revolver was unloaded.

A 17-year-old youth also was present at the game in the hallway of Cowell's city home, investigators said. They said the group took turns shooting the gun at different participants.

TWO MEN DIE AFTER TRAIN STRIKES CAR

Kenneth Kleinsteuber And J. Gordon Victims

A deer hunting trip for three Corbyville district men ended in tragedy at noon on Saturday when their car was struck by a CNR freight train five miles north of Belleville.

Jack Gordon, 29, of R.R. 1, Corbyville, died on arrival at Belleville General Hospital on Saturday. A companion Kenneth Kleinsteuber, 29, of Plainfield, died early Monday afternoon in the same hospital. The third man had been a patient since the accident. Third man in the car, James Bandy, 46, of Corbyville, is in hospital in a serious condition. Kleinsteuber suffered a fractured skull. Bandy has multiple fractures.

Their car laden with rifles and other hunting equipment, the three men left home at noon on Saturday. They drove west along the 5th concession of Thurlow township toward Highway 14 and apparently failed to see the eastbound freight. The diesel engine struck their car broadside and shoved it about 50 feet down the track.

Police said they were not certain which of the three men was driving the car. Kleinsteuber's vehicle belonged to Kleinsteuber. Gordon was sitting beside the driver and Bandy was in the back seat of the impact as the engine plowed into the left side of the car.

The train in charge of Conductor Joseph Campbell of Belleville, and Engineer Ernest Bedford, also crushed stone. Engineer Wesley Gray and fireman Edward McQuaid, both of Belleville.

The three men were thrown from their car as it was rolled down the track by the diesel engine. The injured were taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance. Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott said there would be no inquest.

A farmer in Corbyville district, Mr. Gordon is survived by his wife, the former Jean Lucy Rodenhiser, and four children, Francis, 8, Donald 6, and Alan, 2. Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gordon and a brother, Merle, of Marmora.

Returning Home From Trenton, Vampire Crashes

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP)—The pilot of an RCAF Vampire jet was killed Friday night when his plane crashed and caught fire three miles east of this air base near Montreal's Dorval Airport, police said for a landing.

The pilot was identified as FO Gerald Marshall, 27, of St. Eustache Sur le Lac, Que.

The plane was returning with two others in formation from Trenton when the crash occurred, police said. A member of No. 438 City of Montreal auxiliary force squadron.

They had walked it 10 miles over a mountain pass.

Lord Alexander's Daughter to Wed

LONDON (Reuters) — The engagement is announced of Miss Alexander, 23-year-old daughter of Earl Alexander of Tunis, former governor general of Canada, was announced today. She will marry Capt. Hugh Lacey Rose, who returned to England two years ago after studying veterinary medicine at McGill University, Montreal, was educated in Canada. Lord Alexander's eldest daughter Lady Rose remained at McGill after her father's governor-generalship and returned to Britain as minister of defence, a post he held from 1952 to 1954.

Bush Pilots Come Into Their Own With DEW Airlift Setting Record

QUEBEC (CP)—A new breed of bush pilots—flying pioneers of the north—have found their heyday in the first season of defence jobs.

This was the theme of talk here today as aviation executives from all parts of Canada began the 21st annual meeting of the Air Industries and Transport Association.

Many of the pilots who blazed aerial trails into northern wilderness beyond the limits of surface adventurers—now have found a modern use of their skills. So says T. P. Fox, director of former bush pilot and now president of AITA.

Mr. Fox said that the problems of airmen in the DEW (distant early warning) line job were essentially the same as those the pioneer airmen of Canada faced in "ordinary" bush flying in pre-Second World War days.

The principle is the same although the magnitude of the job is 100 feet.

HER "TOUCH OF RED" PLEASES RUSSIANS

Russian journalists now touring the U.S. fulfilled one of their expressed wishes Thursday—to visit Hollywood studios and meet the stars. They visited M-G-M studios where they met the glamorous actress Grace Kelly. Two of the Red scribes, A. E. Adzubie and Boris Kampov-Polevoy, are shown chatting with the actress. One of the Russians quipped to Miss Kelly, "We like you because you have a touch of red—in your hair."

U.S., Canada to Share Cost Of 4th Radar Warning Line

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is prepared to share with the United States the cost of a fourth radar warning line in this country, it was learned reliably today.

Plans have been laid for a radar fence running down the coast of Labrador and the east coast of Newfoundland to the vicinity of Cape Race, southern tip of Newfoundland.

The chain would be one of the coastal flanking lines for the main radar network in Canada. Actually it would be a southern extension of the new building mid-Canada line which stretches roughly along the 55th parallel from Labrador into the Peace river area of Alberta.

Cost of the new line is not known but it would be considerably less than the $700,000,000 being spent on the mid-Canada line.

It is understood that Canada is willing to pay for this fourth line on the same scale as for the Pinetree network which extends across most of southern Canada. Canada paid one-third and the U. S. two-thirds of Pinetree.

Three Victims of Monoxide Among 25 Dead in Accidents

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two teen-agers and a truck driver who were victims of carbon monoxide poisoning were among 25 persons who died accidentally in eastern Canada during the week-end.

Francis Labelle, 18, and Patricia Smith, 16, both of the Thamesville area, near Chatham, were found dead Saturday in a parked car. Transport driver Frederick Gill, 21, of Milton, Ont., died Saturday when he fell asleep in the cab of his truck.

A Canadian Press count from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday shows 18 traffic deaths. Quebec led with nine, Ontario had eight and Nova Scotia one.

A Quebec man died when he fell two storeys from his house and a man died when he was thrown from a horse at Windsor.

In Nova Scotia two persons were shot to death while on a hunting expedition.

Ontario deaths:

Alex Hunter, 21, Toronto, when his car went out of control and smashed into a house.

Stefan Lesyk, 48, Brandon, Man., thrown from his horse during a mock for hunt near Windsor, Ont.

Francis Labelle, 18, and Patricia Smith, 16, of the Thamesville district, asphyxiated in a parked car.

Jack Gordon, 29, Corbyville, when a car in which he was riding collided with a freight train.

Bill Mannell, 19, North Bay, when his car crashed into a transport.

Mrs. Cecil Brazier, 49, Sudbury district, when struck by a car passing another vehicle.

Kenneth Townsend, 19, Lockerby, when a car in which he was riding rolled over.

Benjamin J. Dempsey, 34, Oakville, when his car crashed into an earth mover at a highway intersection.

George Merrill Overbaught, 12, Simcoe, when struck by a car.

Mrs. Orville Hawkins, 66, Grandview, killed Saturday night when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another automobile at North Bay.

Macmillan Clears Former Official of Tip-Off to Spies

LONDON (AP) — The government said today that Harold Philby —former foreign office official named as a "third man" in the Burgess-Maclean spy case—was known to have Communist associations at one time.

Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan added, however, there is no evidence that Philby tipped off Donald Maclean and Guy Burgess that they were under suspicion before they fled behind the Iron Curtain in May, 1951.

Giving a report to the House of Commons in the case described by some British newspapers as a "major scandal of the 20th century" Macmillan said:

"Although the circumstances are exceptional in terms of a diplomat there was not necessarily a tip-off. Evidence of this character has been taken into this possibility has been undertaken and is proceeding even at the present time."

Philby was first assistant secretary in Washington when Burgess and Maclean fled. He was security officer in the British embassy there when Burgess was called home.

ASKED TO RESIGN

Macmillan said Philby had been a friend of Burgess in their undergraduate days.

"It is now known that Mr. Philby had Communist associates during and after his university days and was asked to resign from the foreign office."

Philby now lives in the English countryside where he is a free lance writer.

The foreign secretary emphasized that despite a "close investigation" of Philby "no evidence has been found to show that he was responsible for warning Burgess or Maclean."

"I have no reason to conclude that Mr. Philby has at any time betrayed the interests of this country."

TITO AND DULLES DEMAND FREEDOM FOR SATELLITES

East European States Should Be Independent

BRIONI, Yugoslavia (AP)—Marshal Tito put his weight today behind the West's demand that Soviet satellite states of eastern Europe be given their independence and freedom of action.

As a leading statesman in the Balkans, he apparently also has been asked to use his influence for peace between Israel and the Arab states during a trip he is planning to Egypt.

Those were the highlights of a seven-hour talk today between the president of Communist Yugoslavia and U.S. State Secretary Dulles at Tito's Adriatic island retreat.

Tito took Dulles for a ride in his white speedboat to the nearby island of Vanga, which he uses for swimming and skindiving. There they had lunch, with Tito's young wife Jovanka, presiding at the bar.

TITO THE HOST

Then Tito played host in his palatial home for the first time to the large group of accompanying newspaper correspondents who strolled about a black marble reception chamber with its crystal and gold plate, oil paintings of noble ancestors, rich rugs, and a collection of ship models.

Sitting beside Tito, who later said he was a "pessimist," Dulles told reporters:

"We were of common accord in recognizing the importance of independence for these (east European) states and the importance to the outside in their internal affairs and the right to develop their own social and economic order in ways of their choice."

These words would apply to Hungary, Bulgaria, Albania, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Poland. They indicated that Tito's views had not been changed by the visit of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party leader Khrushchev last spring.

Vessel So Good Skipper Called Liar for Report

HALIFAX (CP) — The navy brought the destroyer escort HMCS Laurent home to Halifax Saturday and said its new propulsion plant of its kind had more than passed expectations on her maiden voyage.

But Lt.-Comdr. Robert Thibault of Vancouver, her skipper, said he was called "liar" when he reported on the results of her sea trials.

"She is," he said, "the most ship afloat for maximum detection, holding and killing." And he said this was proved during the recent advancements in submarine design for the next 10 or 15 years.

The first of 14 ships of her type, the St. Laurent is entirely Canadian from design to construction.

Seven Drowned As Dredge Sinks In St. Lawrence

Lifeboat Gave Sudden Jerk Throwing Men Into Water

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP) — Seven men, pitched from a lifeboat into the icy waters of the St. Lawrence river, were drowned Sunday after the dredge Fundy sank 11 miles north of here. Four others, hanging on to floating debris, were rescued.

Survivors are: Bill McIntire, 50, of St. Catharines, Ont., Hector Bulger of Nelis Harbor, Cape Breton, N. S., Patrick Mason and John James, both of Catalina, Nfld.

The four survivors arrived today aboard the tugboat A. F. Fifield in the harbor of this town, 200 miles east of Quebec City, and confirmed loss of seven men.

THROWN FROM LIFEBOAT

Signals service of the transport department said Sunday messages from the Marcel station at Point au Pere, three miles east of here, placed the number of crew at 14.

The A. F. Fifield was towing the dredge when the mishap occurred.

McIntire, in charge of the dredge, said in a telephone interview from the Rimouski harbormaster's office the dredge started taking water at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

"All of us got into the lifeboat . . . We had been in it about 15 minutes or so.

"Then as we pulled away the tow gave a sudden jerk and we were all thrown into the water."

The 50-year-old owner of the dredge said all 11 men were wearing lifejackets.

"Everybody got hold of pieces of wood — pieces floating around from the broken back of the dredge . . . One fellow got on top of a floating door. I grabbed a large piece of wood.

"The tug came around to pick us up . . . It took 36 minutes before the first man was picked up," he said.

LIFEBELT SWEPT OFF

McIntire said darkness and a heavy swell at sea in this part of the St. Lawrence river, more than 30 miles west of Rimouski, hampered operations.

"I was the last man to be picked up . . . I had just had about enough. I was all worn around. Like the others I had a lifebelt on but I don't know what happened to it . . . I guess it came off in the scramble when we tumbled off the boat."

"I swallowed so much salt water I felt sick. I vomited and when they pulled me out . . . in fact, I still feel sick and weak now . . . They pumped my stomach this morning when we got in."

McIntire said he did not know how the other men were lost.

"The boat was full but they were hurt when we were tossed out of the boat . . . but really don't know," he said.

Capt. G. E. Gaudreau, department of transportation agent in Quebec City, said both the Fundy and the A. F. Fifield are the property of Foundy Inc., a firm whose offices are at Sorel, Que.

The tug was towing the dredge to Montreal from Catalina, Nfld. Gaudreau said he accompanied the vessels on the trip.

MONTREAL (CP)—J. P. Porter Company today released the names of seven victims of disaster in the sinking Sunday of its dredge—the Fundy—in the St. Lawrence river near Rimouski, Que.

Lost and believed drowned are:

Matthew Mahar, 33, Sonora,

Eden Promises To Visit Moscow

GENEVA (AP) — Sir Anthony Eden informally has promised Soviet leaders he will visit Russia some time after their trip to Britain next spring, diplomatic officials reported Sunday night.

The prime minister was said to have given this undertaking to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev during informal exchanges at the Big Four "summit" conference here last July. The informants said it was arranged that the Soviet government would extend an official invitation to Eden when the Russian leaders visit Britain in the spring.

Bulganin and Khrushchev are expected in Britain next April or May. No firm date for the first official visit of Soviet government leaders to Britain has yet been announced.

Sir Winston Churchill was the last British prime minister to visit Russia. He attended the Yalta conference in 1945 — 10 years ago. Eden accompanied him.

Striving for Peace With Deeds Not Words, Zhukov Tells Troops

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Defence Minister Georgi K. Zhukov said today Russia is striving "to develop peaceful cooperation and confidence between states by deeds and not by words."

Marshal Zhukov addressed the traditional parade of massed troops in Red Square in Moscow on the 38th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Moscow radio broadcast the account of his speech.

"In its foreign policy, the Soviet government is guided by the basic principle of peaceful coexistence and continues to struggle for the cause of peace," Zhukov said.

"The U. S. S. R. does not forget there are circles in certain countries which strive to wreck the cause of peace. The Soviet people can be sure that the personnel of our armed forces will continue to defend the national interest of our socialist motherland and the peaceful labor of the people."

Zhukov, whose personal talks and correspondence with President Eisenhower has raised some hopes of a breakthrough in understanding between East and West, spoke in much the same vein as First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich, who addressed a Bolshoi Theatre audience on the eve of the celebration.

Kaganovich said the so-called "new look" in Soviet diplomacy was not just a gesture but a serious basis for a change in international relations.

He said Western nations must realize that their policy of acting "from a position of strength" was a fiasco and that the time has come to engage in amicable negotiation on world issues.

Soviet proposals at the Geneva conference, he added, were "aimed at achieving real security.

"We did not fight the last war in order to rearm Germany," Kaganovich continued. "We want to see Germany reunified—it must be a peace-loving Germany."

Lifeboat Gave Sudden Jerk Throwing Men Into Water

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP) — Seven men, pitched from a lifeboat into the icy waters of the St. Lawrence river, were drowned Sunday after the dredge Fundy sank 11 miles north of here. Four others, hanging on to floating debris, were rescued.

Survivors are: Bill McIntire, 50, of St. Catharines, Ont., Hector Bulger of Nelis Harbor, Cape Breton, N. S., Patrick Mason and John James, both of Catalina, Nfld.

The four survivors arrived today aboard the tugboat A. F. Fifield in the harbor of this town, 200 miles east of Quebec City, and confirmed loss of seven men.

THROWN FROM LIFEBOAT

Signals service of the transport department said Sunday messages from the Marcel station at Point au Pere, three miles east of here, placed the number of crew at 14.

The A. F. Fifield was towing the dredge when the mishap occurred.

McIntire, in charge of the dredge, said in a telephone interview from the Rimouski harbormaster's office the dredge started taking water at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

"All of us got into the lifeboat . . . We had been in it about 15 minutes or so.

"Then as we pulled away the tow gave a sudden jerk and we were all thrown into the water."

The 50-year-old owner of the dredge said all 11 men were wearing lifejackets.

"Everybody got hold of pieces of wood — pieces floating around from the broken back of the dredge . . . One fellow got on top of a floating door. I grabbed a large piece of wood.

"The tug came around to pick us up . . . It took 36 minutes before the first man was picked up," he said.

LIFEBELT SWEPT OFF

McIntire said darkness and a heavy swell at sea in this part of the St. Lawrence river, more than 30 miles west of Rimouski, hampered operations.

"I was the last man to be picked up . . . I had just had about enough. I was all worn around. Like the others I had a lifebelt on but I don't know what happened to it . . . I guess it came off in the scramble when we tumbled off the boat."

"I swallowed so much salt water I felt sick. I vomited and when they pulled me out . . . in fact, I still feel sick and weak now . . . They pumped my stomach this morning when we got in."

McIntire said he did not know how the other men were lost.

"The boat was full but they were hurt when we were tossed out of the boat . . . but really don't know," he said.

Capt. G. E. Gaudreau, department of transportation agent in Quebec City, said both the Fundy and the A. F. Fifield are the property of Foundy Inc., a firm whose offices are at Sorel, Que.

The tug was towing the dredge to Montreal from Catalina, Nfld. Gaudreau said he accompanied the vessels on the trip.

MONTREAL (CP)—J. P. Porter Company today released the names of seven victims of disaster in the sinking Sunday of its dredge—the Fundy—in the St. Lawrence river near Rimouski, Que.

Lost and believed drowned are:

THOMAS RECTOR TO BE INDUCTED WED., NOV. 9

The induction and institution of Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas Church will take place in the church on Wednesday, November 9, at eight p.m. The Rt. Rev. Kenneth L. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, will officiate with the Very Rev. J. O. Anderson, M.C., D.D., Dean of Ottawa, preaching the sermon. A reception will take place in the Parish House following the induction.

TWO DISTRICT MEN RETURNING HOME

Two soldiers from the Quinte district will reach home early on Wednesday, Nov. 9th, as the fifth draft of soldiers and dependents arrives from Germany aboard the Empress of Australia.

The two soldiers are the 170 soldier's, 170 wives and 249 children in the draft.

WO 2 L. R. Owen, of RCEME, 12 Kitchener Ave., Trenton, and Sgt. W. J. Sneath, RCASC, of Havelock, are the two men from the Quinte district returning home.

FIREMEN CALLED TO DOUSE BONFIRE

A bonfire at the corner of Evans and Grier streets which had not been completely extinguished the night before, caused city firemen a run early Sunday morning. The reels were called shortly before four o'clock as the bonfire was then blazing merrily and 100 gallons of water were used to extinguish the fire.

MANY DEER HUNTERS SEEK PERMITS

The return of the deer-hunting season brought a large turnout of permit seekers to town Saturday.

One clerk at Ed Thomas', hunting-license agency estimated that over 450 permits taken out by provincial hunters to date.

At one three-hour session alone Saturday afternoon some 150 licences were issued. Business was so brisk in fact, the agency ran out of non-resident permits, he said.

POPPY RETURNS WILL SET RECORD SAYS CHAIRMAN

Poppy Day returns will set a record in the Belleville district, a Canadian Legion spokesman said today.

So far some $1,531 has been collected with one or two boxes in rural districts still to be counted. This compares with $1,400 total for $1,538 collected last year.

"We expect this year to set a new record," Les Digby, chairman of the Legion's local campaign, said today.

"In doing so, we would like to thank the citizens of this district for their generosity and help, without which, of course, we wouldn't be looking forward to such optimistic results."

DOMINION PRESIDENT WILL ADDRESS LOCAL AUXILIARIES

Mrs. Britton Osler, Toronto, Dominion president of the Woman's Auxiliaries, will be the guest speaker at a joint meeting of Anglican churches of Belleville scheduled for Christ Church Tuesday, November 8.

GORDON NICHOLSON ATTENDS PARLEY MEET

Representing Belleville at Saturday's meeting of the Ontario Parks Association in Woodstock, was Gordon Dick Nicholson, Superintendent of the Belleville Parks System.

Some 40 members attended the meeting, the Belleville representative travelling the longest distance to attend.

Two Are Injured As Cars Collide

Two persons were injured, with property damage amounting to nearly $1,000, in a two-car crash at the corner of Victoria Ave. and Church streets, Sunday afternoon.

Taken to hospital with undetermined injuries were Miss Cosma, 2 Wickett street, who was thrown from one of the vehicles, and Otto Cosma, also of Wickett street, who suffered lacerations to his forehead.

The accident occurred as a car driven by Miss Cosma proceeding north on Church street, was in collision with an eastbound car on Victoria driven by Mayhew Purtz, R. R. 2 Shannonville. Pina Coma was thrown out of the automobile as the two vehicles crashed in the centre of the intersection. The Cosma car continued out of control and came to rest against the Pinkston's Ambulance building.

Police have charged Cosma with careless driving.

Man Headed for Extinction School Teachers Are Told

"How much time do we have today to acquire a personal philosophy which is a workable culture? It is said the average Canadian home is a cultural vacuum.

"As we move to higher and higher standards of living what we call civilization sinks to lower and lower levels. Like the dinosaur we are going to extinction but we ourselves are creating the environment in which we cannot survive."

So said Mr. Frank Patten, business administrator and superintendent of secondary schools in Ontario, and a past president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (O.S.S.T.F.) at the annual meeting of District 10 of the federation held Saturday at Quinte Secondary School.

Some 220 teachers from the area between Brighton and Cardinal attended the meeting and heard the general of the Ethiopian Ministry of Education discuss professional standards for teachers under the title, "Where Do We Go From Here."

NO PRECISE FORMULA

"We are under a misapprehension about standards. There is no precise formula for achieving standards," said Mr. Patten.

He explained that standards involved the human factor and were different from fixed physical standards because of the interval and external pressures exerted on the mind by chemistry and society.

"Standards are relative but exist except in your mind," he said. "Into the human mind is very complicated."

In outlining the changes in the teaching profession and style of the courses taught in Ontario, Mr. Patten stated that the first teachers "were clerics or retired army officers who knew some mathematics."

"It was only in 1870 that science became respectable as a subject in the schools.

"We have never appreciated our human resources on the basis that what is around us is not culture.

"We have always reached back to a respectability of other places and added them on to the end by replacing this dilettantism with standards rooted n Canadian surroundings. Only the day after 20 courses in British history. We now realize that Canadian history is important.

"Change is not in the activity but in the schools are forced to pressures and social conventions and no one is more aware of them than the child. He is civilized by the school because it doesn't teach his children barbarous customs and the same breath brags of having a parking ticket fixed.

"You are invited to teach these things while the social climate changes but is not the same," said Mr. Patten.

In speaking of social pressures Mr. Patten said that 50 years ago Mr. Patten said that he had been approached to lend his support to army cadet training for Ottawa boys for two nights each week. He had been asked if the safe driving course could be included in the curriculum.

"Every time we add this sort of thing, and the public has the right to ask for it, we constantly expect different standards from schools."

In comparing school standards of 50 years ago with those in effect today Mr. Patten said that "there is a greater degree of literacy today."

He quoted Horace Mann's survey of U.S. school children in 1838 in which it was reported that of "eleven twelfths" of all children did not understand the meaning of words such as "benevolence."

"As we get more and more amenities we get less and less time to read, converse or think," he said.

He pointed out that civilization and the standard of living are two different things. He said that many people who think "the highlands of culture are eroding" with the A-bomb over their heads, are conscious of a feeling of futility.

"What is the way out? What standards do we follow? Some nations say political organization, some say Communism and others democracy. Democracy is not an absolute. There are no absolute standards in political life first as there are no absolute standards in an Upper School composition.

MINDS ARE POWERHOUSES

"Minds are powerhouses not storehouses. It is not always what you teach but how you teach that changes a storehouse mind into a powerhouse.

"The universities, to a great degree, determine not only the students they get from upper school. It is not enough to jack up the standard. Something is lacking. We must stretch and exercise the mind. The standards in school today won't necessarily be good standards tomorrow.

"We have to change our minds and attitudes to meet changing standards and supervision. Setting up of education policy committees by the O.S.S.T.F. is important and a significant development. It we can organize and develop on the basis of best practice there 'is hope. Recognition that standards change and flexible mind will on your part are important.

"After we realize that are professional people we have to assume that the job of school boards, trustees and parents generally is the same job."

Mr. Patten was introduced by Belleville Collegiate principal E. A. Orr, a past president of the O.S.S.T.F. and thanked by Cecil Ready, president-elect of District 10 for 1955-56.

Mr. Roy Silk, chairman of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, welcomed the visitors and spoke briefly.

Mr. L. J. Reid, principal of the Quinte Secondary School, and immediate past president of District No. 10, was chairman of the district meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers elected for the coming year are: president Mr. V. Ready, of Kingston; first vice president, Mr. D. Grant, of Brockville; second vice president, Mr. R. Smith, of Napanee; public relations officer, Mr. E. C. Daverne, of Napanee; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Ralph Kolnik, of Kingston.

Councillors are Miss B. Elliott, of Kingston and Mr. L. F. Reid, of Belleville.

Acting education committee: Russell J. Sims of Kingston; Rupert Ronald, of Belleville; Richard Allin, of Tamworth.

Plans were made for annual assembly in Toronto: Mr. V. Ready, Mr. D. Grant, Mrs. J. Burns of Tweed, Mrs. J. Fitz of Gananoque and Mr. R. Calhoun.

Safety Campaign Cuts Accidents

TORONTO (CP)—The attorney-general's department said today a great reduction in the number of highway accidents in Ontario indicates that the province's traffic safety program already is paying off.

A department statement said accurate figures are not available for the first six days of the campaign —now in its seventh day—because of the work of law enforcement agencies which have yet to submit their statistics.

However, Inspector W. A. Clark, head of the Ontario Provincial Police safety division, said he is confident that the statistics when available will show a substantial reduction in the number of accidents.

The OPP spot check of cars on main highways was called off Saturday and Sunday to prevent tying up heavy weekend traffic but it was resumed today in several locations.

Church Cannot Cope With Dire Need Says Anglican Bishop of Caledonia

The great need of men and women to carry on the work of the Anglican Church in the 250,000 square-mile diocese of Caledonia on the Pacific coast, was stressed to joint congregations of St. Thomas', Christ Church and St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Sunday evening.

The Rt. Rev. H. G. Watts, D.D., bishop of the western diocese, spoke eloquently of the need in St. Thomas' Church, saying that the "harvest was great, but the laborers few."

He said the expansion of the white population over the past 30 years has been so great, the church cannot cope with the needs of the people.

"If I had twenty fully ordained and prepared ministers I could place them all to the dioceses of Caledonia and Cariboo" he said.

"The huge diocese of Caledonia was started in 1897 by a group of Church missionaries, who, through beauty and grandeur of the territory, recommended them of their native Scotland and they called it "New Caledonia", Bishop Watts said.

He paid tribute to the Church of England Missionary Society which did such yeoman service among the Indians of the territory in the 19th century. Today, however, the Indian villages in Caledonia—some of them hundreds of miles apart—by villages are increasing in size as is the white population. Twenty years ago there were 5,000 Indians scattered on the work. Now there are not nearly enough to go around.

Bishop Watts quoted an incident when he sent a student 700 miles to a place called Nelson on the Alaskan highway.

The student received a letter from the bishop suggesting that the bishop remain until he knew the community.

"You should come here and marry people who want to be married —and baptize children who should be baptized," the student wrote.

SERVICE IN POOL ROOM

It baptized some 42 infants with 60 adults who were baptized because of illness," Bishop Watts recalled.

"I held a confirmation service for two adults in a shack that was 16 feet square and the local poolroom. The service was held in a partitioned corner of the shack. At the back the rattle of the pool balls and the low hum of conversation could be heard. In another part of the shack furniture was stored," he said.

"One of the boys I went on, "was an eight-inch plank supported by two boxes."

"But the service meant as much to those people of Caledonia as do your services down here in your own well-appointed churches."

Since that time the men of the district have started to build their own edifice in Fort Nelson. They have asked for outside help, doing the work themselves in their spare time. It is hoped to have it completed by next autumn, the Bishop said.

An object in the basement of Bishop Watts' own home is the headquarters of a Sunday School. From this cellar spare are some 1260 parcels of mail, including Sunday School papers and literature. Some of these are for mailing weeks ahead in order to reach destination by next autumn.

In the diocese of Caledonia industrial operations of tremendous wealth are being carried on. There is the 400 million dollar Kitimat project of the Aluminum Co. and the 100 million dollar project, besides mineral and other developments.

"But" said Bishop Watts, "what shall it profit man if he gains the whole world . . ."

Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of the church, was in charge of the service. He was assisted by Archdeacon J. B. McCreggan, rector of Christ Church; the Rev. A. L. Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill; the Rev. Everett Smith, United Church and the Rev. J. Cantrell.

IN MEMORIAM

VENN — In loving memory of our dear husband, Sidney Venn, who was killed November 7th, 1952.
What words we could say could his head
His happy face to see.
To Jack his son, and see his smile,
That meant so much to us.
Lovingly remembered by Grandmother, Grandfather, Summers and Eunice and June.

VENN — In loving memory of a dear husband, Sidney, who was killed November 7th, 1952.
Sad and sudden was the call
And he left us all.
His memory is as dear today
As in the years that are gone.
—Lovingly remembered by Aunt Sue, Uncle Bert and Family.

YORK — In loving memory of my dear brother, Cecil York, who was killed November 7th, 1954.
Such a face that is ever before us,
A voice we shall never hear more,
A smile we will always remember,
Of a brother so precious and dear,
Our hearts just ache with sadness,
Our eyes hold many a tear;
But God took him home, we miss him,
We say, but we hope not a care.
—Always remembered by sister Edith, Bert, Gordon and Family.

WRIGHT — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Alexander Wright, who died November 8th, 1951, in his 38th year.
Sweet memories are ours we woke that morn
The day he died.
Sweet memories are ours we woke that night
And never
To part with one we loved so dear,
Sometimes it's hard to understand,
But God knows best.
But in His wisdom, God has planned.
We miss you more and more,
Our sorrow is deep as the sea,
And courage to bear the blow,
Is to know that we shall see dear,
No one will ever know,
—Lovingly remembered and ever remembered by wife Mary, daughter Shirley and son Alexander.

ALTEA — In loving memory of my dear husband, Mario A. Altea, who passed away one year ago, November 7th, 1954.
There is no portrait from those we love,
No picture hung on the wall,
For today in memory's garden, dear,
Is where we recall.
Each dawning day a thought of him,
Each night a prayer.
For to the world he was just a man,
He always will be there.
—Ever remembered and ever loved, by wife, sons, Jack and Rex.

REID — In loving memory of my husband, Morley A. Reid, who died November 7th, 1953.
He has brought when leaving home
He would no more return;
But he left us a memory we would keep
Until we meet again.
We do not know what pain he bore,
We did not hear him moan;
We only know he passed away,
Without a word of farewell.
—Sadly missed by his wife Edith.

BIRTHS

PICKNELL — At and Mrs. V. W. Picknell, (nee Ruth Belair), are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, on Wednesday, November 2nd, 1955, at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness, care and sympathy and beautiful floral tributes during the illness and passing of our dear husband and loving mother.
—George and Jean Lywood, Carleton.

We would like to say a sincere "thank you" to all those who remembered us with cards, flowers and personal calls during our stay in the hospital. Your kindness helped once our return home. Also special "thank you" to Dr. Thompson and Dr. Thrasher.
—Mrs. Doug. Frost and Baby Ronald.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to relatives, friends and many of kindness, messages of sympathy, floral tributes and cards received from our kind relatives, friends and neighbors during our recent bereavement in the loss of our loving husband and father. Also to Rev. Father Lamb, Dr. Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. F. Townsend and the staff of the Belleville and District Memorial Hospital.
—Mrs. Vivian Green and family.

My sincere thanks to my relatives, friends and neighbors for remembering me with cards, flowers, fruit and candy during my stay in Kingston General Hospital. Thanks to Doctors Hall and Thrasher, Nurses and Staff for their kindness.
—Mrs. Ernest Sherwin.

CNR Main Line Culvert Cracked, Blame Prank

OSHAWA (CP)—Police said Saturday that cracks in a railway culvert on the CPR main line here may have resulted from an explosion set by teen-agers as a Hallowe'en trick.

Railway officials said the damage was not serious enough to stop traffic and it would be repaired as soon as possible.

A quantity of dynamite was found behind a night stream when a construction shack a short distance from the culvert. Residents reported an explosion late Tuesday.

RCAF Sets Up Search Base For Five Missing in Quebec

TRENTON (CP)—The RCAF today set up search headquarters at Lac des Loups in northwestern Quebec as they stepped up the search for five persons missing in the bush country.

Four amphibious Otter aircraft will use the base, 115 miles north of Ottawa, as a headquarters. Two-engined Dakotas, two from Ottawa and two from Trenton, will also take part in the search.

Missing are Lloyd and David Evans and Augustino Ricci of Montreal who vanished last Tuesday when their plane failed to turn up following a 100-mile flight from St. Jovite, 50 miles north of Montreal, to Amos.

The men were on a hunting expedition. RCAF planes began a search of the area last week but postponed operations during the weekend.

A Rouyn man and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Lacoste, also are missing in the same area after going into the woods on a hunting trip a month ago.

Meanwhile, an air force spokesman at a Bagotville said Sunday Ottawa, as a headquarters. Two-engined Dakotas, two from Ottawa and two from Trenton, will also take part in the search.

Meanwhile, an air force spokesman at a Bagotville said Sunday survived a collision of two CF-100 aircraft near Bagotville Thursday night.

The other occupant of the plane, PO D. J. Cronin, 23, of Brantford, Ont. is missing. Officials said earlier they believed the two men might have been thrown from the plane by their ejection seats and parachuted to safety.

Charge Husband With Murder

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I. (CP) — Hedley MacNeill was charged with murder today, a few hours after his wife was found dead in her bed, apparently from a blow to the head, and his four-year-old daughter was rushed to hospital with brain injuries.

MacNeill, taken into custody at his home, was remanded until Nov. 10.

Police said the screams of four-year-old Phyllis awakened the seven other children of the family and one rushed to raise the alarm. Phyllis was taken to hospital but no report on her condition was immediately forthcoming.

Going to Fire, It's His House

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Santon decided to follow the fire chief's car Saturday night while out for a drive with his family in suburban Rexdale township.

Santon, his wife and two small children were startled to see the fire chief pull up in front of their own home.

Damage was estimated at $3,000. The fire was believed to have been caused by a faulty furnace.

Rocky Sunsets Make Artist's Job Too Easy

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Calgary-born artist and architect says the beautiful sunsets over the Rocky mountain peaks make an artist's job too easy.

Maxwell Bates, in Winnipeg to night their search has determined that "half the artist's work is done for him before he picks up his brush. He ought to be able to see something ordinary, even something ugly, and from that create a work of art.

"It is bad to rely on lovely scenery too much. I see many paintings from Alberta. A few are good but many look just alike," he said.

"Prairie scenery is not such a temptation to a lazy artist because it must be treated with imagination to make a picture. We do not see enough good paintings from Manitoba."

MACMILLAN

Burgess and Mclean vanished 4½ years ago just as a security net was closing in upon them.

BEHIND IRON CURTAIN

The two youthful diplomats are believed living behind the Iron Curtain.

A Soviet diplomat who deserted to the West, Vladimir Petrov, disclosed have had Burgess and Maclean were recruited as Communist agents in the 1930s.

Following demands for a full investigation into the strange case, Macmillan rose in Commons to say:

"It can rarely have happened in our long parliamentary history that a political head of a department should have been so grossly misled by the House of Commons so painful a story as that which it is our duty to consider today."

Macmillan said both the present Conservative government and the previous Labor government in power just after the Second World War share responsibility in the case of the "two traitors."

Burgess and Maclean fled in May, 1951, when the Labor party was in power but the foreign office waited for four years until officially admitting they were Communist spies.

Giving a background of Burgess and Maclean's British schools of a family that has held high places in the British foreign service—Macmillan said:

"To understand, though not, of course, to excuse what they did is necessary to cast our minds back to the 1930s and to think of the background against which the two principal characters grew up.

"At that time the most violent opinions were being expressed. The circumstances of the Spanish civil war, with Fascists and Communists backing rival forces, divided British and indeed European opinion acutely.

"... With the Hitler-Stalin pact ideological beliefs exerted a pull which sometimes proved stronger than patriotism. This was particularly disturbing effect upon young people."

The foreign secretary went on to explain that "this clash of loyalties —buried in 1941 by the alliance with Russia—was revived when the war ended and there was the estrangement with Russia.

"Thus it was that men could be found in Britain who could put the interests of another country before those of their own in the conflict of horrible crime of treachery."

SPEED TIMER

TRENTON (CP) — Police chief Jack Taylor mailed a speeding ticket to a motorist and got a pleasant surprise from the motorist, whom the chief didn't identify, sent a $5 money order to the chief and suspended this note: "For your information, your speed timer is absolutely correct."

CHANGE OF POSITION

Search Quebec Forests For 2 RCAF Officers

RCAF planes are combing Quebec forests in the Bagotville area for FO D. J. Cronin, 23, of Brantford, and another RCAF officer after the collision of two CF-100's. One plane crash was located but no trace of the two crew members has been uncovered. F/O L. E. Maudsley, above, pilot of the second plane, was uninjured and managed to fly the craft back to base. (Central Press Canadian photos.)

Coffin Granted Execution Stay

QUEBEC (CP) — Execution of Wilbert Coffin, 44 year-old prospector convicted of slaying an American bear hunter, today was postponed until Feb. 10.

It was the seventh stay of execution in one of Canada's most unusual criminal cases.

Coffin's latest execution date had been set for Dec. 2 but, under an unprecedented order of the federal cabinet, his case is to be studied by the Supreme Court of Canada. The cabinet's recent action brought about the seventh stay of execution.

One Man Injured In Toronto Blast

TORONTO (CP) — One person was injured today in two underground explosions at the intersection of Bloor street west and Dovercourt road.

Witnesses said the mishap occurred in a manhole where hydro employees were working. Flames shot 50 feet into the air.

A second explosion occurred after the injured man, who was not immediately identified, was taken to hospital.

Ask Parks Rate Be Made 2 Mills

WOODSTOCK (CP)—At the fall meeting of the Ontario Parks Board Association here Saturday a committee was set up to prepare a brief to be presented to the Ontario government.

E. Lippert of Kitchener, a past president of the association, was named chairman of the committee which includes A. MacDonald of Etobicoke, president James T. Bennet of Guelph and C. M. Ireland of Preston.

The brief will ask parks be placed under one government head for the purpose of clarification of contracts and that the mill rate for park purposes be raised to two mills instead of the one mill as set forth by the present park act.

GM Again Asks Board Declare Strike Illegal

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiations between General Motors of Canada and the United Auto Workers (CIO - CCL) have been recessed pending a new review of the 50-day strike by the Ontario labor relations board.

Talks were suspended Friday and are not expected to be resumed until after the labor board has heard a new petition by the corporation to declare the strike of some 17,000 workers in five Ontario centres illegal.

An earlier bid by General Motors to have the strike declared illegal was rejected by the board.

Executive members of the Oshawa local of the union met today to consider a request that outside contractors be allowed into the strike-bound production plant to make necessary installations and thus shorten the call-back period after the strike ends.

MR. LLOYD JASPER,

newly-elected president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. Mr. Jasper's election took place at the annual meeting of the directors of the OFA held in Toronto. The new president is a successful beef producer and comes from Millaray, Ontario.

Egypt, Israel Exchange Charges On Recent Battle

JERUSALEM (AP) — A new shower of charges of violations of armistice terms confronted peacemakers today in the troubled Middle East.

They included an Israeli declaration that Egyptian troops were entrenched in the demilitarized zone of the Egyptian Sinai, "constituting a longstanding violation and a threat to tivilian life."

The spokesman said "prohibited numbers" of troops were in the zone, opposite the scene of last week's bloody El Sabha clash, where the armistice agreement permits only three Egyptian checkposts with a total of 20 soldiers.

Israel also accused Egypt of a new raid into the Gaza strip.

Other claims and counter claims were exchanged by Jordan and Israel.

French Recognize Moroccan Sultan

CASABLANCA, Morocco (Reuters) — Presence Francaise, the side-line French military movement in Morocco, today recognized Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef as the new reign of Morocco.

The Presence Francaise formerly opposed the restoration of Ben Youssef and much of the French government's reform plan for the troubled protectorate.

'TWAS SEVEN WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

When all over town
People hurried and scurried
Some wearing a frown.

Soon the stockings would hang
By the chimney with care
But what to put in them?
We feel such despair.

The children were nestled
All snug in their beds,
What to buy? Where to shop?
Buzzes through our poor heads.

Mum with her list
And Dad just confused,
Had just settled down
Not too enthused.

When out of his chair,
Dad rose with a clatter,
Mother, surprised, said,
"What is the matter?"

The light from the lamp
Lit the face so merry,
Where Dad dropped the "Intell"
His face all aglow.

Then to my wondering eyes did appear
An ad in the paper that made it all clear.

As rapid as eagles our ideas all came,
We whistled and shouted as we checked off each name.

"WATCHES AND DIAMONDS—EARRINGS AND BRADS—
CHINA AND SILVER—
ALL JEWELLERY NEEDS."

We had what we needed to fill up our socks.

MEDICAL DOLLAR STATISTICS

According to the American Medical Association, hospitals are getting an ever-increasing share of the "medical-care dollar" of U.S. citizens.

The same trend almost certainly holds true for Canada, . . .

In 1929 physicians got 33 cents of every medical dollar and hospitals only 14 cents. (The remaining 53 cents was divided as follows: drugs 20 cents, dentists 16 cents, other 17 cents.)

In 1954 the physicians' share of the dollar had dropped to 28 cents, while the hospitals' share had risen to 27 cents. (The remaining amount, 45 cents, was split as follows: drugs 15 cents, dentists 9 cents, others 21 cents).

"American Medical Association experts say that in the next decade there is "a strong possibility" that Americans will spend more for hospital service than for the services of physicians. Since hospitals are now within a cent of the physicians' total, this looks like the most conservative prophecy since the first stone age man predicted that the sun would rise tomorrow.

There may be a moral in all this, but we merely want to point out one fact. Although hospitals have widened the scope of their service, their basic function, today as in 1929, remains the provision of a place in which to care for a sick person. In 1929 many sick persons were cared for in their homes, more often than not by relatives, generally the housewife. This places a new emphasis on the value of a wife. In 1929 she saved her husband 13 cents out of every one of his medical dollars.

TWO COURT CASES

Certain Canadian courts have recently shown considerable interest in the attitude towards them of certain publications and have taken action to discourage contempt.

Contempt of the law is deplorable and anything the courts can do to curb unwarranted exhibitions of contempt will be in the best interests of everyone.

At the same time it is not desirable for some jurists to reflect on the fact that, just as it takes two to tango, contempt is generally the by-product of the interaction of the courts and publications.

That the court's viewpoint must prevail and that newspapers must hold their ink when their editors feel contempt is central to the administration of justice.

At the same time it is possible, just possible mind you, that some readers of newspapers may have wondered why some editor does not exhibit a little fire over a strange coincidence, one day or other.

The same day's papers contained two interesting reports of police court cases in the Toronto district.

At Oshawa a beverage room waiter was sentenced to two months hard labor for selling liquor to minors, then had this sentence changed to one month and a fine of $200 when the presiding magistrate ruled that a one-month sentence was the maximum jail term permissible under this section of the law.

At Toronto a 16-year-old man who was a member of a gang of eight or ten youths which attacked three couples was granted suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year. He had kicked a woman in the face and broken her jaw; for this he was ordered to pay the victim $300.

It is possible, just possible, that some editor may have the temerity to suggest that justice was suffering from more than her traditional handicap of a blindfold when these two cases resulted in such sharply contrasting sentences.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

In Japan, police seem to have found an answer to the soaping of store windows on Hallowe'en. The note of camaraderie accompanying their latest effort suggests that their handling of Hallowe'en pranksters was tinged with genius.

Police noted pranksters soaping windows. They decided that soaping windows was against the law on October 31st as well as on November 1st and November 1st. So they apprehended two soap-wielding youths "who formed the nucleus of the bucket brigade which began later to lather the windows of fifty-three words and drawings from some of the store windows."

The news report continues: "The group was enlarged as they were taken to the police, who, pausing to snicker, were taken in by the police, who overlooked the matter on the fact they had avoided detection. Most of the words were taken from the windows last night. This morning, the first of the group had not been presented into service, went to work with more hot water, brushes and polishing cloths, and cleaned up all the windows on the station."

"After that the police furnished them with coffee and cakes to their school principals for their lateness."

Furnishing the culprits with coffee after they had paid for their "crime" by wiping their glassy slates clean was a generous gesture that should wash away any feeling of resentment on the part of the window washers.

Possibly the only aspect of the punishment which one might quarrel with is that part of the debt was paid on school time. However, the whole affair was dealt with admirably by the police and one might possibly be copied with profit by municipal constabulary elsewhere.

EDUCATION

Life is itself a public school
Which all who live attend.
Present problems are the rule.
The lessons at an end.
The disobedient students learn
Life's discipline is swift and stern.

What not to do and what to do
Are often taught by pain.
No one who lives a lifetime through
Untutored can remain.
Men learn from failure's stinging throng
The difference 'twixt right and wrong.

Both love and hate are teachers wise
And so are good and bad.
From every human enterprise
Some lesson can be had.
For every selfish act we get
The punishment of deep regret.

They've named this "education week"
Our schools with pride to view.
Some for a modern system seek,
Some think the old will do.
Well, life's a school for all mankind,
Its system perfectly designed.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
Nov. 7, 1935

Miss H. Houston of Shannonville spent the weekend here with her aunt, Mrs. J. Young, Branner Street.

Charles Doran, Arthur Knight and Fred Morby have left for Dorcourt on a hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson celebrated the 50th, or golden anniversary of their wedding on Sunday, Nov. 2nd, at their home, Consecon, in the vicinity of which village they have spent their entire married life. A reception was held at their home on Saturday afternoon and evening and many friends were present to offer congratulations and express good wishes. The guests were received by the eldest daughter, Mrs. Harold Wallace of Bloomfield. The following assisted in the various duties as tea hour: Mrs. L. R. Yott of Bloomfield; Mrs. C. H. Maybee of Sydenham; Mrs. R. Yott, Mrs. Gilbert Johnson, Mrs. Charles Spafford of Kingston; Mrs. Rose Walters, Miss Gene Yott and Mrs. W. V. Zufelt. Sunday was a family day at the home and a reunion of the unbroken family circle. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have four daughters and one son, all being home for the happy occasion. They are, Mrs. Harold Walters of Bloomfield; Mrs. L. R. Yott of Bloomfield; Mrs. C. H. Maybee of Sydenham; Mrs. Charles Spafford of Kingston, and Mr. J. A. Thompson of Toronto. There are twelve grandchildren, all of whom were present but Mr. Alex. Yott of Clinton, Ontario. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson received many beautiful gifts.

Need Private Universities

(By David Rockefeller in "The Gadfly," Great Books Foundation, Chicago)

Privately supported colleges and universities, which are free from political pressures and controls, are essential to a healthy democracy as pathbreakers and standard setters. They are essential to the full growth of the individual freedom. It is no accident, for example, that in countries where dictators have gained control they have turned very early to bringing the universities to heel.

The independent liberal arts colleges, renowned indeed as have the ones whose needs are today the greatest), are in an important sense a training ground for future leadership . . .

The purpose of the liberal arts college is to carry forward the traditional concept of the liberal arts college . . .

Today it has a large stake in maintaining the vitality and good health of our private colleges because it depends on them for a considerable extent for its future leadership . . .

Conversely, it must be said in all frankness that without help of business these colleges may well find it impossible to maintain the high standards for the independent colleges and universities have set in the past . . .

Green-Witch Or Grennitch?

(Christian Science Monitor)

New Englanders who named their settlements after old English towns were inviting trouble — for future boards of selectmen. The town of Grennitch, Connecticut, is said to be split wide open over the pronunciation of the home of Ulysses.

It hasn't yet become a question of political importance, as was the next selection for an official who put Grennitch Creek, and Breckwood Brook — not to mention Long Island Sound — on a ballot asking the people in the town on the Thames, not yet at any rate, as we Easterner from Connecticut, the Americans' desire to settle such matters by referendum, may be strong enough even this long after 1776 to preclude an appeal to the Privy Council in London or any meddlesomeness by Redcoats.

Still, the Grennitchers are satisfied as they are, and the anti-Grennitchites mildly only compound the difficulty. As people have pronounced Cholmondeley as "Chumly," Greenwich as "Grunnage," Beauchamp as "Beechum," and Boucicault as "Bewley" — but Boscastle as Boscastle — it ought to be much help in a local dispute about Grennitch.

Medical Men Lose Prestige

(Sudbury Star)

The medical profession does not occupy the high place in public esteem it once did, according to Dr. J. C. C. Dawson, president of the Ontario Medical Association. He expressed his opinion before 200 doctors meeting in Hamilton.

There are a number of reasons that should be advanced to explain this loss of prestige, perhaps the most important is the disappearance of the family doctor as a public institution.

The family doctor used to be a room in the doctor's residence where there was a great measure of privacy, where there was a close relationship between doctor and patient, where the doctor was abandoned together in one office building where public waiting rooms, receptionists and a staff of nurses usually and efficiency create a sort of factory atmosphere.

Instead of the friendly, individual greeting that marked the office-in-the-home, the patient is confronted by the formal calling of a name by a nurse or receptionist to indicate that the doctor is waiting.

Stories of doctors who refuse to answer night calls, and public knowledge of the established fee for office and house calls, have contributed to the decline of the family doctor tradition.

In summary it might be said that the public today looks on the medical profession as a business, that the homely touch of the family doctor who knew the medical history of a family from infant to grandparent has been lost.

The loss f public esteem appears to be a fact, and that most people now regard most doctors as almost total strangers.

Golf Course For Dodgers

(Fort Arthur News Chronicle)

Mr. Average Golfer, the fellow who plays the game for recreation and personal pleasure, and who, in doing so, contributes most to the financing of golf clubs, has at last found a champion:—not a champion player but, in the words of the dictionary, "one who defends the cause of another". He appears in the person of Fred Gardiner, chairman of the Metropolitan Council of Toronto.

They are preparing a Metro course which is to have no membership, no privileges, no liquor and no professionals. Defending the somewhat unique regulations, Mr. Gardiner says the course is intended for recreation, "not a place to get lessons to become Bobby Jonesers".

Good for Mr. Gardiner—even if some of the rules he has quoted are likely to disagree.

Everyone who agree will be the many who are just golfers and who, in some instances, are getting a bit fed up with paying increased built, prepared and conducted to suit the new Bobby Jonesers.

Look over almost any golf course and you'll find it built to measure to suit the fellow who can drive up to the tee and knock off a drive that measures 250 yards or more. At those distances he finds the going not quite so apparent short. The measurements even made so that he can usually avoid the traps. He gets his ball on the green and keep him in the preferred class.

But the average golfer is the man that far gets in all the trouble. There is the rough between the tee and the fairway, bunkers, ditches and waterways are there to catch him. Even the man whose other than championship tee shot he is constantly losing balls. He spends his time hunting for his ball in the grass or negotiating bad lies while the top flight golfers may well be state smiling at their own superb efforts.

But who pays?

Sure, the top flight players pay, but they are few and far be-tween them compared with the larger number. The latter group does not put up the bulk of the money to keep everything in shape to suit the small minority.

It is not to be presumed this new Metro course will be designated rules, will draw the Canadian open for a while yet, but it will draw the patronage of many who can enjoy the game for other good reasons.

Mr. Gardiner is right on his golf, as he is on so many other things.

A Daniel come to judgement.

Realize Value Of Publicity

(St. Catharines Standard)

Three chers and a tiger for the Queen Cross.

That body has estimated that free newspaper publicity is worth one dollar a line. On that basis, the commissioner says, his organization had received $28,834 worth of publicity in Quebec province in the first nine months of this year. If paid rates for boosting services were added, the total would rise higher.

It is gratifying to see that some organization, dependent on the public for financial support, is acquiring great reams of newspaper publicity, but it is disappointing to find that such space is valuable. After all, newspapers are in the business to sell — space. If they give too much of it away, there is no room left for paying customers. Also, if they aren't careful about what they give away, they may find they are properly in the realm of paid advertising creep into the news columns.

No newspaper is going to stop giving a good break to worthy and worthwhile agencies, community projects, campaigns, and the like. But occasionally it is worthwhile for those groups that space is valuable and that, when they throw it away, the newspaper reserves the right to collect for the space it has used and what material is put into that space.

The average publicity chairman for a club or for a campaign has the feeling that the amount of space obtained is the sole key to success. If he can get more clippings into that scrapbook than his fellow last year did, he obviously has done a good job. Also, what a mistaken idea this is.

The only occasion upon which publicity is wanted, we would assume, is that the group wants people to read it; it wants to get its story or message or appeal across to the greatest number of people.

The key, therefore, is not volume or comprehensiveness, but point running it unless it is read, it has failed. And it should be understood. And the scientific facts are reflected to the public in an absorbing interest, it won't be read unless it is brief, interesting, and to the point.

Maybe some groups won't believe it, but a short, effective stylish story will probably reach more people, and get the message across to them, than will a lengthy epistle which recounts the whole history of the organization and lists 27 officers and committee chairmen.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

There's No Change, Ma'am

The only noticeable change of life experienced by a woman who had had a fair education—which means not only ordinary schooling but proper physical education and instruction in physiology and sex hygiene—is a gradual cessation of the function of menstruation through a cycle of several months.

The middle aged woman—that's anywhere from 35 to 55, depending on the — who has no discomfort or disability or indeed any new complaint or symptom or fear or anxiety, will seek the advice of her physician if she has good sense. If perchance she selects one who goofs, say by telling her that most women have some such disturbance as hers at the "critical" time of life, she would be wise to write if off as tuition and look around for a twentieth century physician.

That bugbear of middle age, "hot flashes," sudden flushing or flustering assocIated with disturbing warmth and sweating, is a disturbance of metabolism (oxidation or combustion rate) which occurs frequently in middle aged persons but is by no means confined to women. It is more natural way because the women talk about it (to each other) whereas men prefer to keep silent about it, and they become subject to jest.

Like other symptoms of middle aged persons, hot flashes are more prevalent and more distressing among the new-rich and poor-rich than among honest folk. Or maybe it just seems so because not, it should be discontinued.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE NEED TO BE FED

A woman in this country has recently performed one of the most helpful and humane of services. The people of Pakistan live on a diet margin of food requirements which health and vigor demand. On the other hand we in this country have a tremendous supply of soybeans and other foods stored in warehouses. Mrs. Mulliken persuaded the government to turn this unused surplus into a medicinal compound, put it in small envelopes, and send it to Pakistan to be distributed. The total expenditure for this compound on their meager diet and it is equal to about a penny per American meal. Thus their starvation diet is stepped up to the place where they can be saved from death. The body needs to be fed but the soul even more.

THE PACKSACK

His reverence launched quietly into a summary or brief biographical sketch of the departed and his many virtues. Finding his matter a little commonplace, the parson searched about in his mind for bits and pieces of former funeral oration and turned inward, and he warmed to his subject. In due course he was full of the departed's relatives, and he knew he had his audience properly spellbound.

Well, I got hold of a detail of his superlatives, and could think of no more. Now for the dramatic close.

Leaning over from the pulpit, he pointed down to the coffin.

"My friends," he cried, "there shall be there, but the one."

You could tell by the slow flush that swept over the sallow face that the parson realized his words. You could tell by the tiny stirring in the audience that many of them were having sudden trouble with their diaphragms.

But with a benediction, which bowed all heads, the service ended and the congregation filed out past their coats.

It is probably things like this that parsons laugh at when they are by themselves.

RAWDON

Carmel W.A. Sponsors Most Successful Bazaar, Tea

RAWDON. —A most successful afternoon tea and bazaar was culminated on Wednesday, at Carmel United church in Rawdon township, when one hundred and ten visitors were in attendance from Burnbrae, Hoards, English Line, Wellman's, Stirling, Mount Pleasant, Bethel, Frankford, Stockdale and Eggleton W.A. groups; from River Valley W.M.S. and also special visitors from the Trenton area.

The treasurer, Mrs. Ray Hagerman, was financial secretary.

Mrs. Joe Grills, president Carmel W.A., welcomed the guests at the door and presided for the program. She conducted the opening devotional with Mrs. Ernest Grills reading the Bible lesson and commentary.

Vocal solos were as follows: For Burnbrae, Mrs. Douglas Hagerman with Mrs. Ross Hart, accompanist; for Hoard's, Mrs. Albert Sager with Mrs. Arthur Fyear as accompanist; Wellman's, a piano solo by Mrs. Gerald Clancy; selections were read for Stirling by Mrs. Earl Eggleton; for Mount Pleasant by Mrs. Ken Weaver and for River Valley W.M.S., by Mrs. Glenn Bush.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Harry Brown introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Walter Elliott, president Bay of Quinte Conference Woman's Association, who gave an inspirational address on the theme "Climb the Mountain With Me."

Mrs. Arthur Packman closed the program and officially opened the bazaar in Jubilee Hall.

This hall was decorated in a color scheme of green and red streamers and vases of bittersweet, the latter sold to eager buyers later in the afternoon.

The platform was used to display a large assortment of lovely aprons, all sizes and all varieties while in the main hall was displayed a galaxy of plants; a large array of fancy work, and small accessories and this featured doll bassinettes.

DELECTABLE HOME-COOKING

The home-baking table looked most attractive with delectable food all ready to be carried home. The articles were disposed of in short order and tea was served at decorated quartet tables to the large number of guests. Every member of Carmel W.A. had a special job either working in the various booths, serving the guests, replenishing plates or other duties and they realized $133 for their efforts.

There were 20 guests from the English Line, 20 from Burnbrae and 18 from Hoards and the other places had a smaller number of representatives.

The afternoon was a decided success and those in attendance enjoyed a delightful afternoon.

Public Will Get Chance to Buy Ford Motor Stock

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock of the Ford Motor Co., which revolutionized industry with its mass production methods, is to be sold to the public after the first of the year.

The price and precise timing have not yet been set, but nearly 7,000,000 new common shares with voting rights will be offered. Financial analysts say it is expected to bring between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000, indicating a price at $60 to $70 a share.

Announcement that Ford, richest private business enterprise in the world, will desert the ranks of family-owned firms was made Sunday night. It came from the Ford Foundation, multi - billion - dollar philanthropic trust set up by Henry Ford, who died in 1947.

The new stock will be offered by the Ford Foundation—not by the company.

HEIRS ARE AGREED

Henry Ford II, grandson of the founder and president of the Ford Company, has agreed with other Ford heirs to transfer 60 per cent of their exclusive voting control of the company to the new common stock, it was reported by H. Rowan Gaither, Jr., foundation president.

The other 40 per cent of voting rights will remain with the Ford family.

With the public sale of its stock the company will have to disclose for the first time its assets and earnings, one of its most carefully guarded secrets for 53½ years.

When distribution is completed, Ford Motor Co. will join more than 1,100 other firms whose securities are listed for trading on the New York stock exchange. Keith Funston, exchange president, hailed the Ford decision as "landmark in the history of public ownership" of American business.

The foundation, which owns more than 88 per cent of Ford stock, has long sought to diversify its stock portfolio. Henry Ford II said recently, "The foundation shouldn't have all its eggs in one basket. If our industry went sour, it would not be able to meet its obligations."

TO RESUME COURT

BRANTFORD (CP) — After a careful inspection of the refurnished town council chamber in Paris, Ont., magistrate John T. Shillington said Thursday he will resume sittings in the town Nov. 18. The magistrate cancelled sittings in the chamber two months ago after he complained of noise, interruptions and insufficient accommodation for persons in the room—including prisoners, a new dais, prisoner's box and witness stand—were set up in the community hall. After an inspection, magistrate Shillington said the accommodations were satisfactory.

Pearson Tells Indians U.S. Is Good Neighbor

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Canada tried Friday to tell India about the United States.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, here on one of the last legs of a world tour, spoke at a meeting of the Indian Council of World Affairs.

"To use a North American expression, the Americans sound off easily," Pearson said, "and to some Canadians and possibly even some Indians.

"They occasionally say things that are regrettable.

"These outbursts make world headlines WHEN disapproval and condemnation of them by sensible, serious, quiet and decent Americans—who make up a vast majority of the nation—are rarely cabled across oceans.

"We in Canada know our southern neighbo well; better, I think, than any other people do. We do not blindly follow or even support all American policies or actions. We do not like all the manifestations of their way of life as I am sure they do not like all of ours in Canada.

Low Challenges Hees, Prudham To Prove Claims

TORONTO (CP)—Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, Saturday night challenged two members of the Commons to back up recent statements they made about his party during a debate in the next session of Parliament.

George Hees, federal member f Toronto Broadview, and Mines Minister Prudham came under rapid fire during a speech by Mr. Low at the annual banquet of the Social Credit Association of Ontario.

He quoted a statement attributed to Mr. Hees in a speech at Edmonton which said the Social Credit leadership is divided and the organization is losing ground in Alberta because of disunity.

A "PLAYBOY"

Mr. Low described thi Toronto member as a "meddlesome playboy" who went into Alberta saying things which sounded like a Communist attempt to turn one group against another.

Mr. Low said he would give Mr. Hees the opportunity in the Commons to back up the statements or to back down in the eyes of the public.

He said Mr. Hees already had been challenged by Premier W.A. C. Bennett and Provincial Treasurer Manning to back up the leadership dissension charges. Two telegrams sent by the MP, Mr. Low said, had not been acknowledged by Mr. Hees.

His challenge to the federal minister resulted from a statement Mr. Prudham was reported to have made in a speech at Edmonton.

Mr. Prudham was quoted as saying that the Social Credit philosophy could only be practised in a third dictatorship.

BETTER GET READY

He suggested that Mr. Prudham get himself thoroughly prepared to debate his statement in the Commons."

"We are trying to emancipate the people of Canada from the worst dictatorship they have ever known," he said.

"Mr. Low said he would not make any political speech when his organization will form a government in Canada or Ontario. However, the movement has advanced to the stage where it has carefully thought-out policies ready to present to the people.

"I do think that we are going to form a government in Canada and Ontario. We are going forth in faith that is well founded."

Mr. Low's 1¼-hour speech ended the two-day provincial convention.

A highlight of the convention was the installation of the first women's group of Social Credit members in the province. Mrs. Lillian Alton of Mount Albert, a director of the Ontario association, was chosen president.

May Be Negroes On Grand Jury In Kidnapping Case

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—District attorney Stanny Sanders said Negroes will be on the panel from which a grand jury was to be drawn today in the Emmett Till kidnap case.

"We've had them before . . . there may be some on there this time," Sanders told reporters Friday night.

A 29-member grand jury chosen from the panel will decide whether white half-brothers Roy Bryant and J. W. Milam will stand trial for kidnapping Till, a 14-year-old Chicago boy who disappeared while vacationing in Mississippi.

An all-white criminal court jury in neighboring Tallahatchie county acquitted Bryant and Milam of murdering Till. Both are free on $10,000 bail in the kidnap charge.

The jury decided there was "reasonable doubt" about identification of the battered, bullet-pierced body pulled from the Tallahatchie river Aug. 31.

UNCLE EXPECTED

Sanders said most of the local witnesses who testified for the state in the murder trial will be summoned before the grand jury, including Mose Wright, the boy's uncle, and Willie Reed, an 18-year-old Negro farm hand who worked for Milam's brother. Both have since left the state to live in Chicago.

"Our information is that they will be here," Sanders said.

At the murder trial, Wright testified that two white men who closely resembled Bryant and Milam came to his sharecropper cabin for the "Chicago boy who did the cutting talk at Money."

Bryant operates a general store at Money. Miss., testimony that Judge Curtis Swango would not allow the jury to hear, his pretty brunette wife told a Negro to put his arms around her and boasted of being "with white women before." She did not identify the Negro.

The sheriff of Leflore county and a deputy testified Bryant and Milam admitted taking the boy from Mose Wright's cabin but claimed they released him when he turned out to be the wrong one.

ELECTRONIC TAPE CUTS BRIDGE-DESIGNING TIME FROM WEEKS TO HOURS

Only three men are in this photo, but it could be a picture of 55 men working with pencils and slide rules for a week. The equivalent of 55 man-weeks of work is being done in the electronic computer being demonstrated by Dr. Jos. Kates of the Ontario Highways Ministry in Toronto. The idea is this: two tapes are fed into the electronic computer containing specifications on the design of a bridge to be built. The computer produces answers to the mathematical questions on the tapes, doing in hours the work of 55 engineers calculating for a whole week. Inventor of the lapse, only one of its kind in the world, is Dr. T. O. Lazarides, left, Toronto consulting engineer. He spent nine years and $10,000 developing the tape which will speed design and construction of bridges of a certain type. (Central Press Canadian.)

Freedom Depends On Virile Press

CANBERRAR (Reuters) — Governor-General Sir William Slim of Australia said today freedom and democracy are impossible "without a virile, free press."

Slim was opening the eighth conference of the Commonwealth Press Union here, attended by delegates from 14 British Commonwealth countries.

"You do well to be jealous of your freedom, and in this conference to watch over it," Slim said. "I appeal to the press to use its influence to ensure that it will not consciously or unconsciously undermine the foundations of its own and the people's freedom."

OAKVILLE (CP) — The search for two girls missing from their homes for six days spread to New Brunswick.

Police said Sunday Judith Mae Nantais, 15, and Coralie Estatin, 16, were reported seen at the Chatham, N. B., RCAF station Saturday by Judith's brother, George. He called his father, and told him the girls tried to borrow money from him. He said they fled when RCMP officers appeared.

TORONTO (CP)—Cliff Lumsdon, long distance swimmer who splashed to $25,000 prize money in the 32-mile Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim last September, married Saturday in suburban New Toronto. His bride is Joan Christina Cooke, the girl who cheered him from his boat during the gruelling swim. Long distance swimmer Marilyn Bell was maid of honor at the wedding held in Cawtny United church.

BOTHERED BY CONSCIENCE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Because his conscience troubled him for 28 years, he said, an unemployed truck driver walked into a sheriff's office Saturday and said he killed a playmate. Ola Earl Joslin, now 43, told deputies that in 1927 when he was 14, he shot "an impulse" 13-year-old Howard Truman. At that time the death was listed as accidental.

Weddings

YESTERFELT—WRIGHT

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Wright was the scene on a lovely wedding on Saturday, October 15, when their daughter, Shirley Marilyn, became the bride of Harry Cecil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yesterfelt of Belleville, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a full-length gown of white nylon lace and net, with a fingertip veil was held by a corsage of red carnations and she carried a Bible with cover of white lace, created with Sweetheart roses with red buds on the hand-streamers.

Mrs. Leslie Smith, Belleville, as matron of honor, wore a cocktail length dress of blue nylon net and lace with matching hat, mitts and brocaded slippers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bridegroom's aide was Mr. Leslie Smith of Belleville.

A reception followed. The bride's mother chose a black nylon net and ribbon ensemble with corsage of Demure red roses. The bridegroom's mother was in navy sheer with matching accessories and corsage of Demure roses in pink.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and Buffalo, the bride donned a charcoal grey suit with tweed accessories. Upon their return they will reside at 324 Bridge Street East.

Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Cobourg, Campbellford and Picton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. J. Purdy with Mrs. L. Smith as hostess.

Secondary H-S Assoc. Holds Conference

The Secondary Home and School Association Conference was recently held in Hamilton at the Delta Secondary School under the chairmanship of Mrs. G. D. McAuley. Seventy-five delegates from a widely scattered area of Ontario attended and were inspired, provoked to considerable thought and provided with many a helpful suggestion for their local Associations.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker was Miss Marion V. Boyer, Director, Women's Bureau, Department of Labour, Ottawa. Her subject was the need of bringing education up to date in line with all the changing aspects and demands of this modern, fast-moving world.

"Overcrowded schools, lack of suitable accommodation and inadequate teacher supply comprise the problem. Our people be aroused as an answer to all their problems. The school curriculum was inflexible. Our people must be given participation by parents. These methods must be changed to meet the needs of the present. There is need for men and women trained in science, engineering and technology.

"We must build a structure which will endure. We must build a structure which will endure. We must instill in our boys' and girls the idea that this Canada we have is a country full of enormous opportunities. We must be building a leading role in some of the most important fields of God's and the world. Some examples of this leadership are seen in her part in the Colombo Plan and Technical Plan. Our young citizens must get the feeling that they can meet responsibilities in the present. We must teach them not by preaching but by living. Our emphasis is on truth, justice, mercy, love and unselfishness. Confidence in unselfishness and for teachers and parents. Confidence in their own judgment. Parents want the help of teachers and vice versa".

CANADA'S FUTURE DEPENDS

"We must strive for good vocational direction for students. Guidance directions are doing the best they can with the limited facilities at their disposal but a more concentrated and co-ordinated effort is needed in this direction. We are inclined to be too much in the general materialistic attitude of the age. Students are going to try for jobs that offer the most pay and not for those which they can contribute most to the future of our country and for which they are best suited.

"To bring about the right attitude there is needed co-operation of family, school, guidance directors and employers. A broad general knowledge is needed, so students thought to learning to live with people and to solve their own problems is the fear of not conforming both for children and adults. This may be solved by the imagination on the part of teacher and parents. Careful guidance toward a high goal and the creation of a spark toward a bright future."

The speaker was followed by a film which was enlarged upon the various phases of the subject.

FUTURE SOUND OF PAST

The first speaker felt that the building of the future must of necessity be born of the past so that all the good of the past will not be lost. There must be a feeling of equality and a need of education for all suited to the individual.

Second speaker feared that present-day mass education may develop life to education at all there being too much stress on quantity instead of quality. He also pleaded for a co-operation of system with an enriched curriculum for exceptional students. He urged students not to accept, the bare minimum in their courses but to extend themselves.

Third speaker pointed out that most students had lofty ideals but were often discouraged by pressure from a few who tagged them "brains" or "eggheads". This attrition often came from pupils of low standing who try to pull good students down to their level.

DISCUSSIONS

The noon session took the form of discussions on various subjects relating to the Association's organization, grade meetings, curriculum, communications and public relations, membership and the part of the student in Secondary Home and School Associations and delegates participated.

During the afternoon a panel consisting of an experienced Home and School member, a new member, a secondary school principal and a teacher conducted a discussion on "Why are there not more Home and School Associations in the Secondary schools?" The following were given as some of the more prevalent reasons: disinterested parents, reluctant teachers, just one more meeting for teachers, fear of Association trying to dominate principals and staff, lack of interesting programs, programs not relative to Home and School principles and poor selling of the Home and School idea.

While this appears to be a negative conclusion to the conference, it does provide food for thought and some of the pitfalls to be avoided for existing and prospective Home and School Associations.

New Eastminster Church W.C. Sponsors Successful Tea

The first project of the Women's Committee of the newly formed Eastminster United church, Belleville, was held in the form of a most attractive afternoon tea and sale of home-cooking on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. W. H. Finkle, 233 Bridge Street East.

Chrysanthemums in glowing tints were most pleasingly arranged throughout the spacious rooms making a delightful atmosphere for this special event.

Opening the tea-hour to the various guests were Susan Barnett, Patsy Whitfield, Linda Brunt, and Sandra Lamb, who welcomed all with their usual smiles; while the receptionist was Mrs. Stanley Mrs. W. H. Finkle and the president of the Women's Committee, Mrs. N. Meldrum.

Mrs. George Marples and Miss Dianne Simpson acted as treasurers for the afternoon.

The tea table, arranged by Mrs. L. Read and Mrs. W. E. Riley, was lovely with its white Chinese, handdrawn linen cloth, its centre by an attractive arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and bronze candles in silver candelabra.

Presiding at the silver services were, Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the pastor of the Bridge Street church, and Mrs. J. W. Flatt, wife of Mr. J. W. Flatt, Mrs. C. E. Larman, wife of the Rev. S.E. Larman, pastor of Holloway Street United church, and Mrs. J. D. Rowley, wife of the Rev. R. A. Rowley, pastor of Tabernacle United church.

Those who served included: Mesdames A. Bonter, R. Brownfield, F. Simpson, R. Moorman, H. Gillis, Jr., Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Gerald Duffy, J. Kuntze, D. Lamb, R. Donsolus and Miss Frances Finkle. Mesdames E. Rowland, Sr., and Rowland, Jr., presided when, Mesdames E. Macklin, Phail, Jr., Mrs. Bonter, Mrs. Burnham, G. Dymock, N. Desmond, E. R. Knutson, W. Munroe, L. Urne, C. Arnold, Mrs. Bonter and A. M. Richards.

Mrs. Meldrum of the home-cooking and miscellaneous tables and Mrs. Barnett, assisted by Mesdames S. Hunter, H. Steenburg, M. Reid, R. B. Peacock, and Mrs. Whitfield and Mrs. D. Lamb was general convenor.

Inviting the guests to the tea-room were Mrs. F. Simpson, Mrs. L. Read, Mrs. C. White, and Mrs. W. E. Riley.

DELICIOUS CONFECTIONERY

The home-cooking table was laden with sumptuous pies, cakes, rolls, home-made candies, jams, jam, pickles and preserves, while the miscellaneous table displayed costume jewellery; knitted articles and beautiful Christmas corsages. It delightful and successful event making of this first project of the Women's Committee for the day' with special appreciative thanks tendered to the ladies of other churches for their fine co-operation.

Y.P.C.F. Rally Held In Alliance Church

Mr. James Blackwood, of Bowmanville, director of Y.P.C.F., gave a special welcome to all of the first citizens, including the many teenagers.

Their song service was conducted by Mr. Ernie Bath, who led in many familiar hymns and choruses and was accompanied by Mrs. Beverley Foster at the piano.

After the fine sing-song, Mr. Glen Brooks led in prayer.

The theme of the evening was supplied by a teenage trio from Bethel Baptist Church, Toronto. The boys gave their testimony as to what the Lord Jesus Christ meant to them personally, after which they played many various musical numbers on the accordion, trombone and clarinet.

TESTIMONIES

Following this, Ray Massey of B.C.I., gave his testimony, basing his theme on Romans 10:9 and 10, "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God had raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with heart man believeth unto righteousness; "the Universal Gift,' 'Laws Unavoidable,' and 'God's Plan and Purpose' and he said, "Only the Lord Jesus Christ could cleanse the heart from sin, hatred, bitterness and pride. Christ's main purpose in coming into the world, was to save lost souls. Mr. Massey Hulse used such familiar Scripture verses as Romans 5:8, "God all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God," and Isaiah 53: 6, "All we like sheep have gone astray."

He encouraged each one to examine his or her heart before God, and said, that if only the Lord made that all important dedication of taking Christ as Saviour to do so.

The service closed with the singing of "Just As I Am Without One Plea."

Forgets War In Creating Shellcraft

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Anna Patterson, widowed by the First World War, has memories she prefers not to remember.

One of the pastimes that make it easier is her hobby of creating little people and things from shells.

The tools for shellcraft are simple enough—tweezers, glue, nail polish and shellac. But her results are delicate and beautiful.

She has made a whole band of shellcraft musicians — drummers, accordionists, a saxophonist and conductor. Their music stands are complete with music that can be read.

She has also made match boxes, salt cellars, powder puffs, jewelry and decorative ornaments. Her latest project is a model boat in shells.

Mrs. Patterson carries on her shellcraft activity in a workshop and teardrop shells from the stores. She collects them from time to time, may crab for a paperweight on a visit to the former home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fenny Marsh of Five Islands, near Truro, N.S.

She and her son Otto, a radio technician with the Air Material Command at Rockcliffe station here, came to Canada in 1949 from Belgium. Her husband Frank and Otto had fled to Britain from Prague, although at different times.

In 1939 when the Germans invaded Czechoslovakia her husband was taken prisoner for anti-Nazi views. He was released from the post as chief of the economics department for all Austrian technical schools while living in Vienna. With their son, Otto, was sent out of the country by train in time to escape.

Later, with help from the Prague chamber of commerce, Mrs. Patterson and her husband managed to escape and join their son in Britain. Her husband immediately joined the British army. He was killed in action in January, 1945, near Antwerp while serving with Montgomery's forces.

Pr. Wales H-S Assoc. Discusses 'Schooling'

The November meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held last Tuesday in the senior class room. The president, Mrs. Evelyn Wilson, was in the chair. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Hawley. Mrs. Hart read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Hunter gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Hawley had attended the Regional conference at Petersboro and at this time Mrs. May gave an interesting report on the day's activities and a number of ideas and suggestions were included.

CHILDREN'S FAIR

Members were all reminded about the Children's Fair this month and were promised a real good time evening and urged to all come and bring a friend.

Mrs. Wilson in turning turned over to Mr. Sproule of the program committee, who introduced Mrs. Hawley, who in turn introduced the meeting with an excellent piano accompaniment at the piano by Miss Carolyn Holcour. The two young artists were Miss Mrs. Hawley.

A panel discussion was held on "Schooling Problems Makes Them Tick!" Members of the panel were Mr. Jack Cousins, speaking on Secondary school education; Mr. Earl Jaboh, clerk-treasurer of Sidney township and chairman of the council; Mr. Jim Durrant, member of the Bay of Quinte High School Board; Mr. Hooper Johnson, member of Parliament for Bay of Quinte; Mr. Jack Sproule, chairman of S.S. No. 2, Thurlow Board.

PANEL DISCUSSION

The discussion touched all phases of schooling. The formation of new boards in rural areas; board duties; curriculum; finance; government grants, and legislation; bus transportation and operating costs; principal's duties; teachers' salaries and strikes in schools; present and future enrollments and plans for expansion. The audience was asked to join the discussion and several good questions were asked such as "Of what benefit is a kindergarten?"; "What are some children start school?"; "what can be done to help backward children", and other questions being answered which stirred up a lively discussion.

Everyone learned much about the school system and how it operates. Refreshments were served at the work and time and cost of living in keeping schools operating.

The panel received a hearty round of applause and all present agreed that a panel discussion can be most interesting and most informative.

The panel members were thanked by the chairman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gerry Johnson and Mrs. Bedford and their committee.

Surprise Party Marks 35th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mickle of Denbigh, Ontario, were pleasantly surprised recently at a party sponsored by their family at the occasion of their 35th wedding anniversary.

Willing hands soon decorated the room with gay streamers and a large wedding bell, while the table with its pink cloth was centred by a three-tier anniversary cake, made and decorated by their daughter, Mrs. Douglas Cummings, of Holloway. The delicious repast consisted of all the little trimmings which go to make a complete meal, was enjoyed by all.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Mickle were presented with suitable gifts from the matching smoker for which they graciously expressed their thanks and appreciation. A social family-get-together followed.

Members of the family present included Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cummings of Holloway; Mr. and Mrs. Powell Mickle of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs.- Cecil Mickle of Vedder Crossing; Mrs. Ivan (Ila) Malcolm, of Belleville; Mrs. Ivan Graham, whose husband is stationed at Halifax, was unable to be present.

BORN IN TREES

AMRITSAR, India (Reuters) — Three babies were born in trees during the recent floods which devastated the Punjab. The mothers had taken refuge in the branches when the village of Kotli was flooded. After being without food for three days, the mothers and babies were rescued. All survived the ordeal.

Hadassah Is Planning Convention

MONTREAL (CP)—The 16th biennial convention of Canadian Hadassah, meeting in Ottawa Nov. 20-24, will have as its theme "Service unlimited" in pointing up the salient features marking its projects.

About 1,000 delegates and visitors are expected to attend, representing 300 chapters with a membership of 15,000 in all parts of Canada. Hadassah is affiliated with the Women's International Zionist Organization, which has its headquarters in Israel and federations in 57 countries.

Guests of honor at the convention will include experts in the economic, cultural and humanitarian fields from Israel, Europe, the United States and Canada. They will take part in discussion and question periods.

Canadian Hadassah's projects include Hadassim, a children's village founded in Israel in 1947 where young immigrants from the ages of eight to 17 receive progressive elementary and secondary training. There is also Nahalal, an agricultural school whose graduates have established settlements and work villages in various parts of the country.

Skates Exchange Takes Place On Friday

The Home and School Association of the city hold skate swap each year to enable parents to exchange outgrown skates and to return buy a pair suitable for another year's fun.

The children bring their skates to the school on the day before the sale, bearing a slip with particulars of size, price, name and grade.

Volunteer parents sort these in rows according to size, then when the sales begin, there is a lively scene.

For girls nothing will do except white figure skates and as these must fit just so, they are soon outgrown.

Boys like hockey skates and there is always a good selection.

Soon bright faces tell the story of bodies fulfilled and there is disappointment, too, for there are never enough to please all.

The Home and School Associations take a small commission for this service, but the benefits derived amount to so much more to the boys and girls and to their parents as well.

This year four Home and School Associations will hold sales in their respective schools on November 11.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE YOU HAVEN'T GONE AT THINGS THE RIGHT WAY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I was happily married. Then, over five years ago, my wife died, and now I know what it is to be lonesome.

I have been reading your column for years, and I have seen in it so many letters from lonesome widows and widowers, and read the advice you gave them. But from my own experience, I do not think your advice works out very well.

You advise them to go to the YWs, and YMs, to church and to clubs. Well, I have a good home and job. I do not drink or smoke. I go to church and belong to clubs, and I work on all the projects that my clubs run. Many times, I have let it be known that if the right lady would come along I would get married again. My friends kid me all the time about ladies, but they do not see that I meet any of them.

So where does your advice get a person? — Mr. R.

Dear Mr. R.:

I'm sorry you have had such unsatisfactory results from trying to follow my advice. But I still believe in it! I still think that the very best thing for any lonesome adult, whether widow, widower, unmarried, or married — and for some reason lonely, is to get out among people, make all the friends they can and get interested in just as many activities as possible, particularly in activities planned to help others. And if this course action doesn't work out, as you say it hasn't in your case, then there's something wrong with the way the person has gone at it.

Let me make a guess at what may be wrong with your own course of action.

What I think is that you may have confined your activities within too narrow limits and need to widen your horizons.

Let me explain just what I mean by this:

You live in quite a small town. You've probably lived there many years, and your life has been following pretty much the same pattern through those years. Since the population is not large, it's likely that you know a big percentage of those people, and meet the same ones, day after day, everywhere you go. It's also likely that the existing number of groups and clubs is limited.

For these reasons, there has been little opportunity for you to find new friends and new activities, which is what you need.

But your town is very near a large city, where I'm quite sure there is much to be found in the way of new friends and new activity if you would just go there and do a little intelligent research.There's absolutely no reason for you going round and round in the same routine—and no sense in it!

So what I suggest is that, on your next free night, you take the short trip into that big city and go—yes, to the YMCA. Have a talk with one of the staff members there and explain your situation frankly. I wouldn't suggest that you come right out and say you're looking for a wife. But do say that you are a lonely widower; that you need new friends, and new interest in your life, and that you want to go about finding them.

Ask what activities go on at the Y, pick out one or two that specially interest you and sign up with them for the winter. Ask, also, what else goes on around town that you'd enjoy. Get all the information you possibly can, sort it out and make up your mind what projects you'd like best. Then go after them.

Will you do this. If you will, I think you'll find that this sort of advice can work out better than you think.

Fringed With A Flair

By TRACY ADRIAN

Girls who like to wear low cut dresses for an evening out will welcome the new trend toward cozy, chic collars for warm coverage when driving to a party at the country club or even for getting to their destinations in a city taxi.

This one is a fringed model of jersey and is long, wide and doubled for extra warmth and luxury. It comes in solid colors or in two tones. The two tone idea was designed in college colors to please the campus set. Whether one or two shaded, the intricately knotted fringe gives a soft finishing touch to the wrap.

One a Day Keeps the Doctor At Bay

As Conducted by Mary Moore

McGinty's are cookies and I acted as if I made apple fritters every day of my life, and that it was nothing "Nothing 'at all!" Actually, and between you and me, I think we do make apple pies of infinitum and nauseum—but just the same I love them. But I'm not going to stay in an apple pie end.

APPLE FRITTERS

Pare and core apples and cut into 1-2 or 3-4 inch slices. Dip in Fritter Batter—1 cup all-purpose flour sifted, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 beaten eggs, 1 tablespoon melted shortening. Sift flour with salt and baking powder. Mix together the eggs, milk and melted shortening and mix into flour mixture until smooth. (This may be fried as it is for plain fritters.) Dip apple slices into fritter batter and lift out with fork and allow to drain. Lower apple fritter into hot fat of 375 deg. Fahr. (medium) and fry until delicately brown—about 3 to 5 minutes. Remove from fat by skimming out with long-handled fork or flat wire egg beater. Drain on absorbent paper, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serve with

LEMON SAUCE:

Mix in top of double boiler 2-3 cup white sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch, then stir in 1 cup boiling water and cook over direct heat until thickened. Place over boiling water, add 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind and cook, covered 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons butter and shake of salt. Serve hot over hot fritters. This sauce is good on banana fritters too.

BAYSIDE W.M.S.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Harry Rutter and Mrs. William Rutter were co-hostesses for the November meeting of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Clifton Rush, presided and act as leader of the devotional service gave a talk on Paul.

Scripture readings from Luke were given by Mrs. R. Percival, Mrs. E. Vandervoort, Mrs. L. Young, followed by discussion and silent prayer. Mrs. Rush then led in prayer and all read Richard Trench's sonnet, "Lord What a Change Within Us."

Subscriptions for the "Missionary Monthly" were taken by Mrs. W. Jeffery. It was decided to take 25 cents gifts for sale and each member is to assist with the refreshments. It was also decided to extend invitations to Grace Church W.M.S., Aiken's W.M.S. and Centenary W.M.S. ladies to attend the Christmas meeting on Wednesday, November 30th at the Bayside parsonage. The local ladies of the W.A. would also be invited to attend.

Mrs. Walter Jones was in charge of the Study Book giving interesting resume under the headings "Fellow Citizens," under which how the immigrants become members of their own churches: "How the Church Can Help," which told of social gatherings being held to welcome new families, and "Immigrants in Local Churches," which told that the German immigrants preferred to meet with the Canadian brethren than form themselves as some new immigrants do.

Mrs. Rutter served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Rush moved a vote of thanks to the Rutter ladies for opening their home.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE ESSENCE OF BEAUTY (Part 6 — SERENITY)

The serenity of an older woman is beautiful even to a carefree teen-ager.

For the past week we have been discussing the inner qualities of a woman which can bring more beauty to her face, more radiance, more attractive warmth than all the cosmetics in her favorite department store. All of these qualities have been based, in one way or another on love. But today we are going to digress from love and concentrate on serenity.

Serenity is a woman's greatest asset where beauty is concerned. It is the quality which keeps her from getting jittery when things go wrong. It is the quality which helps her to take life's tragedies, great or small, in stride. It is the quality which teaches her to accept people as they are. It gives her tolerance, understanding quiet patience—and, once acquired, it is a quality which lasts through life—giving her, even to a great age, a beauty of facial expression which many a younger woman might envy.

A paragraph back we said that we would digress from love in discussing serenity. But, actually, it is not a digression. For the serenity that comes from understanding, tolerance and quiet acceptance of things as they are also springs from love. Not a selfish love, of course. But a love of all peoples and of all situations coupled with philosophy and understanding.

A woman does not acquire this understanding overnight. She must develop it by youth and keep cultivating it until, like a beautiful fruit, it develops into full flowering beauty.

Ask any teen-ager who has had the experience of being given wonderful advice by an aging woman (who's probably neither a relative nor a close family friend) why she listened, and you'll probably hear her say, "Well, she's not only so quiet and serene, but she's so beautiful!"

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN THE WEDDING CAKE IS CUT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the ceremony is in the morning and the reception in the early evening, when should the wedding cake be cut? — S.

When there is a seated bridal table at the reception, the wedding cake is cut at the end of the meal, and is served with the ice cream. After the bride and groom have cut the first slice and shared it with each other, an attendant finishes cutting the cake. Tried it has been passed to the wedding party it is served to the wedding guests.

If there is no seated service, the cake is cut when all the guests have been greeted in the receiving-line and have come to the room in which the refreshments are to be served. The guests are summoned to gather 'round while the bride and groom cut the cake, and usually all gaily sing "The Bride Cuts the Cake!"

A RING IS NOT A SUITABLE GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been going steady with a young man since the first part of this year. We are not engaged, nor has he ever raised the subject of our being engaged. He has taken me to several dances, and often sends me a corsage to wear for these. And he gave me a birthday present of an album of records of the type I like. Now he is soon to have a birthday, and I would like to give him a ring of the kind he has said he would like to have and which, I must admit, is quite expensive. But my mother and father are up in arms about this, and insist that this kind of present to a man to whom I am not engaged is all out-of-order, and would certainly cause talk. What do you think about this, Mrs. Beeckman?—G.W.

Your mother and father are so right about this impulsive and unsuitable plan of yours. Giving this friend a ring would, I should think, "certainly cause talk" . . . and I sincerely hope you will cancel this plan to give him this ring, even though he apparently did some heavy hinting about wanting this expensive gift! And, to take a wise look into the future, this inappropriate present might not be easy for you to explain to the man to whom you will become engaged!

PRINTED OR ENGRAVED ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENTS NOT CORRECT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just become engaged, and was planning to send printed engagement announcements. But now I have been told that these are not considered correct. True or false? — Marie T.

True! Don't send printed or engraved announcements of your engagement . . . these are never considered good form or good taste.

GARDENIA TOO "DRESSY" WITH BUSINESS SUIT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) My bride-to-be thinks I should wear a gardenia with my blue business suit at our very small wedding in the rectory, only our families and attendants to be present. What do you think?

(2) And should I wear gloves?

— Groom-to-be

(1) I suggest that with your business suit you wear a white carnation (or perhaps a white aster); a gardenia is too "dressed-up" looking for a business suit.

(2) No.

SAUVE CITY SUIT

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

One phase of fashion that is winning wide acceptance is the suit designed specifically for smart town wear dressy yet not overdone impressive but not opulent. Here is a typical entry, a suave suit of sleek black wool with shirred satin band bordering the deep collar. The collar, we note, is drapable at will. There is a similar shirred satin band down the slim skirt. A good choice for the commuter since, with a dressy lace or satin blouse it is perfect for a dinner and theatre evening.

CPT Committee Presents Report Of Year's Work

PICTON.—A total of $3,196.44 was expended on worthy causes during the year 'ald those 31, 1954, to October 31, 1955, it was learned at the annual meeting of the Community Progress Committee of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges, held Thursday night. The report was presented by treasurer, Mrs. Florence Vickery.

Expenditures included $1,050 for donations to aid those suffering from cancer, polio and tuberculosis $350 for purchase of an electric ear-shair; donations to aid fire victims and other good causes, $380 for ambulances and nursing services and $140 for rent of a hospital bed. The remainder went for general purposes, raising funds and supplies. Net receipts included $913.93 from a Tag Day, $11,310.52 from bingos and lotteries, $370.34 from card parties, $42 from rent of hall, $37.50 from special donations and $26.50 from bank interest. The bank balance at end of year was $1,384.07. At the present time the committee has $1193.22 on hand.

Starting the new year, the committee decided in meeting decided to pay costs of an ambulance to Kingston and gave $25 donation to an alcohol case. A call to young man to regain his sight, with a 50 fourteen dollars for blood if necessary. Several cases reported are to be investigated.

Plans were made for euchres in the hall, to be held every other Monday night, and a Christmas draw and euchre.

Thanks were expressed to Robert Cassidy for his donation of time in making changes to the electric-eye. A letter from R. K. Williamson, chairman of the Central C.P.T. committee, read by secretary, Mrs. A. E. Hubbard, spoke of the committees doing a great deal for the welfare of humanity and urged greater effort. Four new T.B. cases were reported and these will be added to the list to be remembered and given any needed help.

Election of officers was delayed until the December meeting. Chairman Phil Dodds thanked the officers and members for their work.

Circulation Up In Past 2 Months Librarian Reports

Book circulation and membership at the Corby Public Library in Belleville during September and October according to the report of librarian Olive Delaney to the library board, was encouraging Friday.

Total circulation for September and October was 21,276 books with the number circulation reaching 11,550. Biggest increase was in the boys' and girls' library with Royal Engineers' wife library with from 2,433 in September. Adult circulation for the two months totalled 4,119 and fiction 8,049.

New memberships for September and October totalled 411 of which 192 were boys and girls. Of 28 additional nurses who attended a book talk and tour of the library in October, 23 enrolled as new members.

Eighty-one films were circulated during September and October and there were 27 projector bookings.

Book talks were given in the public schools for children in grades 4-6 with the exception of Queen Victoria and Winston Churchill schools.

Other activities at the library included formation of a Conversational French Club three weeks ago, with 22 members attending the first discussion and meetings of the Camera Club and Great Books Discussion Group. The Conversational French Club meets every Tuesday evening.

SPONSOR HOME

STRATFORD (CP) — William Heimka, 38, Listowel, was told Friday he may keep from his wife when granted bail of $500 on charge of assaulting her. The hearing was adjourned to 18. Heimka pleaded not guilty to the charge. "I'll allow you to go to your home and you will go to jail," magistrate D. E. Holmes warned him.

Housing Project, Waterway Threaten Scenic Attraction Victoria's Reversible Falls

VICTORIA (CP)—The loss of Reversible Falls as a major tourist attraction is feared by some Victorians as a result of proposed housing developments in the area.

Reversible Falls is one of the two such phenomena in Canada, the other being the Falls of Saint John, N.B.

The scenic attraction is in the gorge between Esquimalt and Saanich municipalities, and a scheme to develop the gorge property owned jointly by Esquimalt and the British Columbia Electric Company has been endorsed.

Half the site has been parcelled into a housing subdivision and there is no guarantee that the falls will be allowed to remain.

PROPOSED WATERWAY

One alternative to dynamiting the falls out of existence is to build a dam to control the rise and flow of water, to create a channel through to Esquimalt harbor. Another suggestion calls for dredging a 4½ mile waterway.

It is generally felt that elimination of the falls would mean a major loss to Victoria and Vancouver Island.

At high water the sea rushes from Victoria Harbor up into the one-and-a-half mile length of Selkirk water into Gorge channel, to flow inland over the falls to Portage inlet at a speed which powerful motorboats negotiate with difficulty.

When the flow is reversed and the tide is going out, the falls put on a spectacular display. At the height of this descending cataract, the water is turned into one vast sheet of churning foam.

HOME OF LEGENDS

The early Songhees Indians believed a great water god dwelt in the falls, and that if a man was ill when the water was flowing inland he would recover. If the current was seaward, he would die.

In the early '90s the gorge was popular for swimming, boating and herring fishing, but it was closed to aquatic sports when it was decided to run sewage outlets into the waterway.

It is hoped now to clean up the gorge again and restore the neglected beauty. The big question is whether the reversible falls will be restored in the process.

The area surrounding the falls, known as Gorge Park, is an almost untouched area, woodland natural beauty. Wild rhododendrons, giant ferns and immense laurel bushes line its footpaths.

Hillier

HILLIER.—A shower was recently held at the Hillier Hall in honor of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ostrander. Hearty thanks were attended to all the friends by the newlyweds.

The Hillier church anniversary was held October 30. The Rev. Mr. Cook delivered a splendid message and the choir rendered excellent music.

Mrs. D. Trumpour entertained Mr and Mrs. W. Trumpour and Mr. and Mrs. O. Trumpour at tea last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Conley spent a recent Sunday at Oshawa the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Dunford.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Young and Mrs. Newson visited their mother Mrs. W. Young who accompanied them to Belleville to attend the marriage of Miss Barbara Young on October 29.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pierson upon their recent marriage. All welcome them as residents in the community.

Friends of Mr. Frank Harris are glad he was out enjoying tree cutting to be able to return home to Wellington.

Master Lewis White has returned to school after being at home last week with a sore throat and tonsilitis, the result of being in a motor accident with his parents.

Mrs. Clayton Cruickshanks spent Wednesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. McCartney.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Tice called on Mrs. C. MacDonald, Belleville, and glad to report her condition much improved.

Regret to learn that Mrs. Norris Dafoe is under the care of the doctor at Trenton, and trust for a speedy recovery.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Baden Alyea, extend their sympathy in the passing of Mrs. Morris Alyea at Trenton.

Government Aid To Hog Market Threat to Canada

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The little pig that goes to the U.S.S hog market is being fattened up with government dollars.

In a move to counter a skid that has the porker slithering to lower price levels, the Eisenhower administration plans to sink $85,000,000 into the hog market by buying up 170,000,000 pounds of pork and 30,000,00 pounds of lard between now and next August.

The purchases will go into the government's non - profit school lunch program and to charitable institutions and other eligible outlets. It has, the administration says, no intention of building up and holding stocks that might later depress the market. It will buy only what it has a market for.

AGITATION FOLLOWS

This new price support program points a purposeful finger at Canadian pork exports to the U.S market. It was when the U.S. government starts buying up surplus farm products, American agriculture usually begins agitating for restrictions to protect the domestic market.

The agitation hasn't started yet but it could be something to tackle with in the Congress session when the lame Canadian product is popped into the U.S. market and that the Canadian imports are small compared with overall U.S. pork consumption. Canada exports about 65,00,000 pounds of pork products a year to the U.S. Export shipments are running about 10 per cent higher than in 1954 and consumes approximately 1,000,000,000 pounds of pork a year.

The agitation starts, of course, has its political overtones. The U.S. is heading into a three-cornered some alarming political problems for the administration in the traditional farming areas of the hog country, and the Democrats could have a field day if they exploit the situation. Also, the 1956 elections are two years off and all-out farm prices promise to shape up as a major issue.

The government decided a trend toward the Canadian agricultural market would be made of "high quality pork from lightweight hogs" weighing from 170 to 220 pounds. This policy, he added, was designed to encourage production of "more meaty-type hogs" as against the traditional lardy, heavyweight animal.

Agriculture experts here expect that the program will boost prices by about 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight. The government blames the price decline on larger annual hog crops.

BAIL IS SET

STRATFORD (CP)—Surety bail of $7,500 was set Friday for Robert O'Donnell, 28, Stratford municipal employee, when he appeared on a charge of rape. No plea was entered.

Family Honors Parents With Many Gifts

RAWDON. — Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen attended the 50th wedding anniversary of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDonald at Frankford Community hall on Tuesday evening. Mrs. MacMullen assisted with the program. She contributed a reading, an "Courtship" and also read a special poem.

Relatives were in attendance from Toronto, Cobourg, Stirling, Belleville, Brighton, Trenton, Foxboro, Marmora and other points.

The honored couple were the recipients of two upholstered chairs, from their neighbors of the Riverside community, each received a wrist watch from a group of relatives and there were also several individual gifts and a pot of gold chrysanthemums.

Their grandchildren family made a special presentation of electrical appliances.

Their daughter, Mrs. David McConnell, voiced thanks to all the relatives and friends for their kindness to her parents. For the first celebration of a 50th wedding anniversary in the family.

Mrs. McDonald's eldest brother, Edward Montgomery, Foxboro, gave a special address. Reeve George C. Anderson of Tyendinaga Township, Mayor Clifford Ford, was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Wm. Hall played and rendered a vocal selection. The Riverside community presented a hilarious burlesque, featuring a cast of 25 persons.

Mr. J. A. Montgomery, Colborne, made the presentation of the wrist watches on behalf of a group of relatives.

At the close, sandwiches, cookies and coffee was served.

FIRM BUYS BUILDING

AYLMER (CP) — The newly formed Canadian subsidiary of Bessemer Gas Manufacturing Co. Inc., of Wooster, Ohio, has bought property immediately west of here, it was announced Thursday. The rebuilt Aylmer Service Centre building, destroyed by fire several years ago, will be used as a distributing centre for irrigation equipment and possibly for the manufacture of fire fighting equipment.

Canada Will Sell Germans Apples

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada this year is expected to sell apples in the German market for the first time since 1938.

Dr. Edgar Gerwin, first secretary of the German embassy, said Friday in an interview that "negotiations are going on which look very hopeful." However, he was unable to estimate the amount of apples West Germany would buy.

A trade official in Ottawa said the negotiations have been staged for shipment of Canadian apples to West Germany but that "it now looks like a market will emerge in the near future."

West Germany is commenting on attempts by both Maritime apple growers and federal agriculture officials to find a market in West Germany for at least a part of Canada's bumper 1955 apple crop.

"The situation this year is that we have had a very good crop," the official said. "It will be necessary to find markets for import apples and Canada has ample supplies for export."

70-ASK RECOUNT

WINNIPEG (CP)—Arthur Townsend, secretary of the Manitoba Sunday Sports Association, announced Thursday the association would apply for a recount of ballots in last month's Winnipeg commercial Sunday sports referendum. He said the application would be made on the grounds that city returning officer had rejected ballots because they had marked "yes" in the yes column or "no" in the no column, instead of the proper mark. More than 2,400 ballots were rejected.

Chances are you get a "helping" of aluminum as part of your daily diet. Most cities use aluminum sulphate to clear the water from lakes and rivers. Ottawa, for instance, has used it for this purpose for 35 years.

Usually, however, the aluminum is sacquired with the outside of foods. In cooking utensils, cups and frozen food containers—in wrapping for cheese, meat and roasts and foil-covers—in bottle tops and hoods—aluminum helps keep what we eat and drink fresh and pure and wholesome.

Sir John A. Macdonald's Former Home Has Had Interesting History

OTTAWA (CP)—The centenary died, Thomas and Annie married, of a stately grey stone mansion here, one of the country's major historic landmarks, has been marked by the British government, its present owner.

The house is Earnscliffe, home of Sir John A. Macdonald—Canada's first prime minister — from 1883 until his death in 1891. Since 1927 it has been the residence of a succession of six United Kingdom high commissioners.

But most others have lived in the house.

A tenant - by - tenant story of Earnscliffe now has been published by the commonwealth relations office in honor of the work of three years' research by Norman Reddaway, secretary to the present high commissioner, Sir Archibald Nye.

Earnscliffe, on a bluff overlooking the Ottawa river about half a mile downstream from Parliament hill, has been closely connected with the history of Ottawa and Canada since it was built in 1855 or 1856. That history has been interwoven into the story of the house in a booklet available free on request.

It is the concluding part of Mr. Reddaway's research. Earlier this year he presented an album about Earnscliffe's pictorial history to the parliamentary library.

The builder and first owner was John MacKinnon, a Scots banker who came to Bytown, as Ottawa was first known, and married the daughter of a merchant. The contractor who became wealthy building the Rideau canal in the 1820s, MacKinnon became a sort of junior partner to his father-in-law.

He chose the site just west of the spot where the Rideau river drops over the falls into shore into the Ottawa. A short distance east was the home of MacKay's own home of Rideau Hall which was sold in 1838 to become the official home of governors-general.

MacKinnon died in 1866, leaving the house to his mortgaged. But his wife, Annie, was aided by another of McKay's sons - in - law, Thomas Keefer, who settled the mortgage and allowed Annie to stay there. And in 1870, when Annie's sister, Elizabeth - Keefer, died, Thomas and Annie married.

But one of the many business projects of McKay and MacKinnon, the Ottawa and Prescott Railway, had gone into receivership about 1861 and was bought by Thomas Reynolds, agent of a mortgage-holding British company.

In 1866 Reynolds became the owner of Illeirs-ville as well. Before 1871, when he moved in, it had several tenants, including the Royal Engineers who found it useful as a military hospital but never did.

It is believed Sir John Macdonald himself may have been an early tenant.

At any rate he is connected with the naming of the house. The book let tells how the Reynolds family thought of calling it Eaglecliffe, and that Sir John suggested the old English word for eagle—earn.

Reynolds made major changes to the big, roomy house. By 1883 it was ready to become a prime minister's home.

Sir John had great affection for Earnscliffe and made it famous. He paid $10,040 for it and spent $7,000 on improvements during his eight years there. He liked the view and he and his invalid daughter, Mary, used to sit on summer evenings gazing across the Ottawa river to the Gatineau hills.

After the prime minister's death, his wife, who became Baroness Macdonald of Earnscliffe, moved out. It was rented to various militia commanders before it was sold in 1900.

Then it was purchased by Mrs. Ella B. Harris for $15,000. She had been left wealthy by her first husband, an American iron millionaire, and her money and hospitality made the old house a beautiful, glittering centre for Ottawa society. She died in 1924 and her second husband, Charles Avery, lived there until his death in 1930.

At that point the Earnscliffe story almost took a different path. Conservative Prime Minister R. B. Bennett became interested in buying it either as the prime minister's official residence or as the home of the Conservative party leader.

Montreal Fencer Edward Brooke Canada's Outstanding Male Athlete

SASKATOON (CP) — The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada Saturday awarded Montreal fencing expert Edward Brooke the Marion D. Crowe Memorial Trophy as Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1955.

Brooke won the international fencing competition over-night Americans earlier this fall and wound up in a three-way tie for top honors in the United States championships.

Gymnast Ernestine Russell of Windsor, Ont., was named the outstanding female athlete for the second straight year.

The top junior award in any sport—the Viscount Alexander Trophy—went to Nova Scotia track expert Joe Mullin of Halifax. Hamilton's Henry Kennedy was named the top track and field performer for the year and won the Jack Davies Memorial Trophy. Bata of Toronto took the F. N. A. Rowell Trophy for his performances in field events only. Richard Harding of University of Toronto was awarded the Dr. Fred Tilden Trophy as the country's top varsity athlete.

The leading Indian athlete is Gerry McKay of Lytton, British Columbia, who was chosen winner of the Tom Longboat Trophy.

Sets Canadian Swim Record

TORONTO (CP)—Sarah Barber of Brantford set a Canadian record for the 200-yard breaststroke for girls under 17 when she swam the distance Saturday in 2:31.4.

The former mark of 2:34.4 was set two years ago by Lenore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B.C.

The swim was held at the central Ontario swimming championship meet in which Hamilton Aquatic Club captured team honors. More than 250 swimmers from 10 clubs competed.

Seattle Seeks Luke Sewell

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Rainiers, Pacific Coast League baseball champions, are going to dicker with Sewell—if the Toronto Leafs let go of him—to see if he'll manage the 1956 team.

General manager Dewey Soriano of Seattle said Sunday night he was going to confer with owner Emil Sick on lining up Sewell.

Sewell won the International League pennant for Toronto in 1954 and finished second by half a game this season. He formerly piloted Cincinnati Redlegs and St. Louis Browns. Soriano said he understood Sewell has clearance from Toronto to make a deal for himself.

Seattle is looking for a replacement for Freddie Hutchison, the 1955 pilot who goes to St. Louis Cards next season as manager.

Weightlifter Adds Another Title

QUEBEC (CP)—World champion John Davis of Brooklyn, N.Y., Saturday added the North American heavyweight weightlifting title to his string of trophies with total lifts of 1,000 pounds.

Davis, who has won the world championship eight times and twice has been the Olympic titleholder, pressed 340 pounds, snatched 290 and lifted 370 in the clean and jerk.

Jean-Guy Dube of Quebec set a Canadian record in the lightweight division, lifting a total of 720 pounds, 10 above the previous mark, which he also set in 1953.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

LONDON (Reuters) — Denis Compton, famed English cricketer who has had a troublesome right knee for the last few years, had the knee cap removed at University College Hospital here Saturday.

In a statement issued later, his doctors said: "From what was found during the operation, great tribute must be paid to Mr. Compton for the courageous way he has continued to play cricket during the past few years."

The doctors said it was impossible at this stage to forecast Compton's future.

SIDELINED AGAIN

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs, who played his first National Hockey League game Wednesday night since breaking a leg last March, is sidelined again by injuries.

Team officials said Horton suffered a bone bruise at the site of the old fracture in a game against Montreal Canadiens Thursday night.

He has been ordered to rest for two weeks.

TURF PASSES TEST

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Empire Stadium turf, where the Grey Cup football classic will be played Nov. 26, has passed its first test.

Rain-swept during the week, the playing field showed a complete absence of puddles and a good water drain-off, it was reported by Pacific National Exhibition officials. The PNE operates the stadium.

Earlier this year the field had to be returfed and a new drainage system installed at a cost of $56,000.

Queen's Comets Edge McGill

KINGSTON (CP)—Queen's Comets won their first game of the season in six starts Saturday afternoon when they made a first quarter single by Ron Belfoi stand up to beat McGill Indians 1-0 in an Intercollegiate Intermediate Football Union clash.

The Indians threatened in the final quarter when they marched 30 yards only to have Lou Nowakoski run the ball out to the two-yard line after a McGill kick with only 15 seconds to play.

FORMER CHAMP DIES

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP)—Former champion speed skater William F. (Willie) Logan, 48, died in hospital Sunday.

He won national championships at Toronto and international championships at Saranac Lake, N.Y., in 1925. Returning home, he went outside his class and won both the Maritime and provincial senior titles.

Logan represented Canada in the Olympics in 1928 and 1932. He was captain and leading point-getter of the 1932 team.

Petes Win Grid Title

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Orfans Saturday won the Ontario Rugby Football Union Intermediate A championship by defeating Hamilton Tiger-Cats 26-6 to take their two-game, total-point series 29-17.

The Orfans now meet Montreal for the eastern Canada intermediate title.

Jim Lorenzo, Boyd Hendry, Bill Huntley and Reg Fowler scored touchdowns for Peterborough. Art Jones converted three of the touchdowns and kicked two singles. Roy Armstrong roughed Glen Tinnick for the other Peterborough point.

The Panthers took a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter when Bill Brady grabbed an Orfan fumble and went for a touchdown. Glen Dawson converted.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reading the paper, and she said to pop, Goodness, William, I mean gracious, I never read the obliturry collum, but I just happened to be scanning it with my eyes, and here somebody I know has passed away forever.

Who, for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, Mrs. Warner Hipple.

It's the first time I've been introduced to the name, and the introduction seems to of come a little late, pop said, and ma said, She was Blanch Hipple's sister in law, and the news is rather a shock because I must say I've always been rather critical of her. Still it's a consolation to think that whatever I said against her was said in her lifetime. It mens nobody has ever accused me of speeking disrespectfully of the dead, she said.

Even at that, it might be less harmful to the dead than to the living, pop said, and ma said, I only said what everybody els said, that she was malicious and 2 faced. And yet when I come to reflect, the poor woman was a saint in her health, so her attitude tords life was probably due to her finical condition, endeed, this is Mrs. Warren Hipple and not Mrs. Warner Hipple at all, she said.

Then your frend is still alive and unwell, pop said, and ma said, She's not my frend, please, and I've always said that ill health is no excuse for backbiting and hipocksy, and I intend to keep right on saying so.

So I gather, my dear, pop said. Meening she was saying so already.

Ultrasonic Flaw Plotter 'Sees' Through 10 Miles of Solid Steel

By JOHN B. KNOX

WATERTOWN, Mass. (AP)—In a laboratory at the United States Army's Watertown arsenal you can see an experimental machine able to "look" through 30 feet of solid steel.

Scientists say they could theoretically "look" through a straight steel rail 10 miles long—if such a thing existed. Other machines something like these are being studied by scientists elsewhere in the hope they may seek out cancer hidden deep in the human body.

The parent machine is called "model 1 ultrasonic flaw plotter." The word "ultrasonic" tells you that it does its "looking" with something more like sound waves than light waves. But their frequency—250,000 to 1,000,000 vibrations a second—can neither be heard nor felt by human sense organs.

And unlike x-rays or nuclear radiation, the ultrasonic waves can't hurt you.

Both machines can find flaws in steel and other materials at far greater depths than the most powerful x-ray — and cheaper, too.

Carleton Hastings, chief of the arsenal's non - destructive testing branch, explains that x-ray-type inspection with the powerful betatron can penetrate only, 15 to 20 inches of steel. A single x-ray shadow photograph at that thickness requires 20 minutes to half an hour of exposure.

On the other hand, the ultrasonic machine, which has been under test for a year and a half, can do more than x-rays do—in considerably less time, Hastings says. The mechanism costs only one-tenth the price of x-ray equipment.

Since there are no dangerous radiations, the machines need not be kept behind concrete-and-lead barriers. They can be moved around. Thus they will increase not only the speed of inspection—which was a serious bottleneck in Second World War mass production—but they'll also make possible inspection of vital items not inspected in the past.

What is the principle behind these ultrasonic machines? It has been known that while a train is still perhaps two miles away — invisible and inaudible—sonic vibrations are carried forward by the rails can be heard.

The machine in the Watertown arsenal resembles in some ways in a bubble or air pocket.

Urge Safety Belts

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The Auckland road safety council has urged all pedestrians to get a safety belt for their own protection at night. The belts have reflecting material fused into them and are available in various colors to match men's or women's coats. Tests have shown that pedestrians in a dark clothing can be clearly picked up 300 feet away when wearing the belts. They are being sold by the council at nominal costs.

POST OFFICIAL HONORED

TORONTO (CP)—W. M. MacLean, Ontario regional director for the post office department, will retire next week. He was honored by the department at a dinner Friday night. Mr. MacLean has logged thousands of miles in his regular tour of the 2,700 regional offices on his itinerary. It took him as far north as James bay. He entered the service in 1911.

a low-power radar station. Using crystals of a chosen frequency, it shoots the ultrasonic vibrations into the metal being inspected. Then it "listens" for the echoes. The echoes tell the story, for they'll echo back from any foreign substances or flaw—even from air

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!
Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plate is far softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down biting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They are too leery film which expects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Soak and Polident in the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach first of all. Polident always leaves false teeth odor-free, yet the tasteless, long-lasting denture cleanser. Polident, at your drug counter.

RUNAWAY!

Whitby's power-laden Dunlops cut a complete victory swath through the rest of the circuit last night with a 5-3 win over the Cornwall Colts for their fifth consecutive victory. The wins with a tie game gave the Dunnies eleven point. seven in front of the second Place TPT's.

The Dunlops have scored 41 goals in six games, almost an average of seven per tilt while having 15 scored against them.

Meanwhile the TPT's, who played lethargic hockey in their last outing against the Dunnies, have had orders to snap out of it—or else. Coach Danny Cox laid down the law in no uncertain terms following the 10-1 debacle, and the boys will go through heavy practice drills all week readying for the Brockville Magedomas who will be here Friday.

DEER ARE RUNNIN'

Hundreds of hunters in search of a fast buck started the annual war on the four-footed horned denizens of the north country timberlands today.

The big trek to resort, hunting lodge and cabin started Saturday to give the deer-seekers time to bed down, ready the wigwams and stock the groceries before taking to the leaf-carpeted forests in search of easy meat.

The wise bucks and does, whose life insurance policies have a long time to run, will probably make a safety retreat to summer homes south of No. 7 Highway in Hastings, Peterborough, Lennox and Addington and parts of Frontenac County for they will be immune to buckshot, bullets, buttons and bows until November 9 when the season in this part of the district opens until November 12, both dates inclusive.

North of the highway in these and other regions the season opened today and will continue until November 19 inclusive. This gives the hunters plenty of time to get their buck—or get killed or wounded.

According to issuers of licences the deer-questing shoot troops will outnumber the invading forces of last season, when it was stated there were two rifles for each pair of antlers. Many veterans are returning to the wars while a large number of tyros will seek their first antlered buck. Then there are the usual quotas of adviters, story-tellers, cooks, cardplayers and those who believe in taking their ease in a demijohn of firewater rather than at a deer, bear or other fatty game.

Dear-Staging is not only a sure method of the quick shuffling off this mortal coil of the white-tailed dinners, but the hunter who is fed up with taxes, threats of war, a grousing spouse or other worries of life, can find a quick way to hunting Valhalla, just by being careless.

One efficient way of cashing in life insurance policies is the head-shot. Most hunters prefer this method. It is quick, efficient and painless. All you do is look down the barrel of a loaded gun while hauling it backwards through brush or a fence. The results are deafening. And think of the goodies your wife can buy the kids—and her second husband.

Another cure for ulcers, gallstones, indigestion or imaginary appendicitis, in fact any stomach trouble, is a simple method. Merely beat thick underbrush with the hands while clasping the barrel of the gun. This is a sure relief.

If you are troubled with inrrown toenails, athletes' foot, corns, bunions, carbuncles of the hoof or merely chilblains, try the time-honored method of placing the muzzle of the gun on your boot. Then have the camp jester tell you a story or tickle your ribs. After all, doing the mamba dance on one foot is not so tough after all. Besides you can split the cost of a pair of shoes with another unfortunate hunter who sought the same cure.

Got spleen or liver trouble? Or perhaps heartburn is bothering you. Get the cure. It's easy. Merely place your gun on the other side of the fence muzzle upwards before you climb over. It's got these new-fangled drugs beaten a mile. Only one shot is sufficient for a permanent cure.

Hunters who do not want to waste ammunition should go for this one. When taking the gun out of the car, grab it muzzle first and give it a strong pull. Shake well after loading. In this manner your abdomen absorbs the bullet which will not cause damage to the surrounding countryside nor endanger the life of another hunter.

On the other hand, if you want to be around to enjoy your roast venison, load the Christmas tree for the kiddies and keep the life insurance healthy, maintain a healthy respect for your deer-hunting weapons. Treat every gun as though it were loaded, and never point it at anything you do not want to shoot. And be sure you know what you are shooting at. Not a few "bucks" have turned out to be next-door neighbors or other hunting pals. And good hunting—and the best of luck.

COMPOSER DIES

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Herman Paley, 76, who wrote more than 1,600 songs, including "Sympathy," "Billy," and "Keep On Smiling," died Friday in a hospital of a bear condition and complications. In addition to composing, Paley was a pianist for top singers in the vaudeville circuits in the 1920s and early 1930s and for years served as a talent scout for film studios and radio networks. He was instrumental in bringing composer George Gershwin and actor Don Ameche to public attention.

Jean Beliveau flashed back into National Hockey League prominence during the weekend with the magic of his stick.

The big centre fired five goals in two games with the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. Beliveau scored four goals Saturday as Canadiens defeated Boston Bruins 4-2 at Montreal. Three of them came in a 44-second span.

He tallied Sunday night with 61 seconds remaining in the game at Boston to give the Habs a 3-3 tie with Bruins.

In other games, New York Rangers defeated the Maple Leafs 3-0 at Toronto Saturday while Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks battled to a 3-3 tie at Chicago.

WINGS DOWN LEAFS

Rangers continued their winning ways with a 4-2 victory over the Hawks Saturday at Chicago. Red Wings dumped the Leafs 4-1 at Detroit Sunday.

Canadiens are still on top in the league race with 18 points, three ahead of second-place Rangers. Boston, Toronto and Chicago are tied for the third position with 12 points each. Detroit and Leafs are in the cellar with 11 points.

The second tie of the Montreal Forum showered the ice with programs when Beliveau's fast three goals tucked up a two-goal Boston lead. The demonstration broke loose again in the third period when he scored his fourth.

Bert Olmstead, left winger on Beliveau's line, assisted on all of the 24-year-old centre's goals. Leo Boivin and Doug Mohns put Bruins ahead 2-0 in the first period.

Beliveau flipped in his three quickies at the 42-second mark, at 1:08 and 1:26 of the middle period. He finished scored at 15:53 of the last period when he banged in Bernie Geoffrion's rebound.

COULDN'T HOLD LEAD

A Sunday crowd of 13,634—largest in nearly two years at Boston Garden—saw Bruins take the lead twice but each time Canadiens came back.

Murray Costello, Leo Labine and Mohns picked up Boston goals while Maurice Richard, Claude Provost and Beliveau scored for Montreal.

Provost scored his first NHL goal to put the Habs ahead at 12:38 of the second period. He drilled a 75-foot slap shot past Boston defenders and caught goaltender Terry Sawchuk by surprise.

Ranger goaltender Lorne Worsley was spectacular as he earned his first shutout of the season before 13,132 fans at Toronto Saturday.

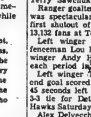
Watson and Wilson sent Chicago ahead 2-0 in the first period. Lindsay made it 2-1 at 8:48 of the second when he finished off a passing play with Gordie Howe and Earl Reibel. At the 25-second mark of the last period, Leswick fired a goal. Delvecchio took Warren Godfrey's pass at 15:09 to set things up for Lindsay's goal at 18:15.

The hustling Ranger line of Dean Prentice, Andy Bathgate and Larry Popein was the main force behind New York's third win over the Hawks. Each scored a goal. Dave Creighton added the other Ranger marker. Wilson and Allan Stanley got Chicago's goals.

RELIED ON' DEFENCE

A crowd of 12,742 at Detroit Olympia saw the Wings snap a nine-game winless streak as they struck for four goals in the first 27 minutes and settled back to defensive hockey.



Bill Dineen, Reibel, Howe and Godfrey wrapped it up for Wings. Rudy Migay saved Leafs from their fifth shutout loss of the season.

Dineen opened the scoring at 9:39 of the first period when he took Delvecchio's pass. A few minutes later Reibel made it 2-0. Migay put Leafs in the game for a while with his goal at 18:25.

Howe and Godfrey closed out the scoring early in the second period while Tommie Goodfellow and Morrison was in the penalty box.

Detroit outshot Toronto 45-20.

There is no activity in the league until Wednesday, when Canadiens play their first game of the season at New York.

Royals Retain Top Spot In Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts missed an opportunity to move into first place in the Quebec Hockey League when they split a weekend doubleheader while Montreal Royals saw action only once.

Chicoutimi Sagueneens proved poor hosts to the Cataracts Saturday when they tripped last year's Edinburgh Trophy winners 4-1. Shawinigan came back to down the Aces in Quebec 4-3 Sunday afternoon but Montreal Royals picked up an easy 8-2 win over the last-place Trois-Rivieres Lions in another afternoon game to keep their one-point edge.

The Royals now have 18 points on eight wins and two ties in 11 starts while Shawinigan has 17 points on eight wins and a draw in 14 games.

The Saguenees, who also have three games in hand over the Cataracta, have 15 points. Far below the Aces and Lions are bottling it out for fourth place.

Quebec has six points in 11 games while Trois-Riveres have won only two of its 13 games for four points.

Schreider Scores Both T.D.'s In Gaels' Win Over Redmen; Varsity Blues Drub Western

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's Golden Gaels, who last won the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union championship in 1937, get a valid crack at the crown title this Saturday against the University of Toronto Blues. Kingston's Richardson Stadium should be hopping for the clash.

The title-hungry Gaels closed out the college schedule with a 12-7 victory in the mud over McGill Redmen at Montreal, giving them first place after six games. Varsity clinched its playoff spot by defeating the winless University of Western Ontario Mustangs 38-8 at Toronto.

Saturday's game has all the earmarks of a thriller. Both clubs probably will be at full strength and "up" for this one.

The Gaels, already assured of a playoff berth, had a tough time against the Redmen. Speedy Gary Schreider scored both Queen's touchdowns—his first on a 14-yard pass from quarter Dick Carr, Bob Holland converted and John Ferrabee booted a single to open the scoring in the first 15 minutes.

The Redmen, who finished the season in third place with two victories, three losses and one draw, outrushed the Gaels 194 yards to 276 but they bogged down time after time when they were deep in Queen's territory.

Varsity had an easy time of it at Toronto over the hapless Mustang who experienced their sorriest season since they joined the college group in 1929. Mustangs didn't win a game and salvaged only a tie with McGill in their six games.

Varsity's victory gave the club second place, two points behind Queen's.

The Blues took full advantage of blocked kicks, fumbles and interceptions to roll for six touchdowns, five of them converted, and three singles.

Their touchdowns were scored by Don Johnston, Gene Chorosiecki Fred Smale, Dick Rizk, Jack Rogers and Peter Maik, who also kicked the convert on five. Quarter Ed Skrzypek booted three singles.

Quarter Art Turner scored Western's only touchdown, early in the second quarter, and later kicked a single to account for all Mustang points.

Varsity led 6-0 at the end of the first quarter, 13-6 at half time and headed into the final quarter with a 26-6 lead. The Blues blocked Western kicks to set up two touchdowns, made a pass interception to set up another and took advantage of a Western fumble to score one of their singles.

Riders Unhorsed

Bombers Grab Nine-Point Lead Tiger Cats Claw Alouettes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sam Etcheverry now knows what a porous front will can do to a quarterback.

The Montreal signal-caller, just about the best in the business, viewed much of Sunday's proceedings from the seat of his pants as his Als took a season's-end 26-6 pasting from the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton. It was a most unfamiliar role for him. The ex-Bisons man from Denver University who led the Als to top position in the 12-game Big Four schedule.

The loss meant nothing to the Als who now can rest while their Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argonauts tangle in the sudden-death Big Four semi-final at Hamilton on Saturday. The winner meets the Als a week later at Montreal and then it is Vancouver and the Nov. 26 Grey Cup final for the victor.

THIRD DEFEAT

While the Als were taking their beating, the third of the 12-game schedule, Winnipeg was 36-24 decision to the Rough Riders at Ottawa in a game that had no bearing on the final standing. Argonauts had previously been shot down third place, and a spot in the playoffs, and the game was a warmup for the big one against the Tiger-Cats next week-end.

Saturday's game meant nothing to the standing but they produced a new Big Four scoring champion—Toronto's Ed Sydor. The former University flash ended the schedule with 84 points, three more than Montreal's Pat Abbruzzi who holds the Canadian record of 19 touchdowns in one year.

Etcheverry, who has had time almost to count the hoses when pitching the Als to nine victories this season, took the loss on Saturday. The big black and yellow tabbies roamed the Montreal backfield almost at will, smeared Etcheverry for big losses seven times and rushed him to the bench on three of his desperation passes were intercepted.

STILL 4 POINTERS

It was the worst beating the Als have taken in two years but when the big one comes up a week from Saturday Montreal fans won't likely be sure their favorite quarterback batting off hard-charging linesmen. He's still considered the team to beat in the East.

Tiger-Cats wrapped up the game in the first quarter when they took a 14-0 lead. That was the count until the final 15 minutes when Hamilton scored two touchdowns, a field goal and a convert within limitime. Pfeifer did a touchdown by J. C Caroline, converted by Bud Korchak.

Hamilton touchdowns were scored by Jim Kuszewski, Johnny Fedosoff, Ron Howell and Jerry Sazio. Ray Truant kicked three converts and Don Oorschot a field goal. Cam Fraser was credited with a point after a rouge and conceded a safety touch following a kick by Hamilton youngster.

At Ottawa, the Rough Riders spotted Argonauts an early touchdown, then in the end of the first quarter and went on from there to Bobby Jackson's 36 Riders scoring parade with two touchdowns and other field-goalers were scored by quarter Jack Scarbath, Don Pinkey, Avatus Stone and Dave Austin. Tom Tracy kicked the converts.

Bunky Clark led the Toronto scoring with two touchdowns. Pfeifer and Corky Tharp also went over for touchdowns and Pfeifer kicked four converts.

WINNIPEG (CP) — A frozen, snow-blown field and sub-freezing temperatures were the conditions forecast for tonight's final game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union's semi-final series.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who won the first game 18-7 in Regina on Saturday, and the Saskatchewan Roughriders worked out on the beautiful diamond and sodden turf Winnipeg Stadium Sunday. A tarpaulin protected the frozen infield but the outer was drifting through the stadium.

Bombers go into the second game of the total-point series with a nine-point lead. The club will attempt to make it the third straight year it has ousted Saskatchewan from the western playoffs.

Riders are expected to again be without the services of their top scoring halfback Ken Carpenter, sidelined with injuries.

THE TURNING POINT

Bomber line coach Larry Cabrelli said the turning point in the total point came in the opening minutes of the final quarter when Winnipeg's Willie Robinson scooped out of nowhere, overtook two of his teammates and brought down Rider rookie Harry Lunn on the Bombers' nine-yard line. Lunn was attempting to get on with the eight-yard line when Robinson nailed him after the Saskatchewan rookie lost a yard in his sprint.

Trailing 7-4 at that point, the Bombers backed away from the wall and bowled over the Riders. Quarterback Jackie Parker scored early in the first quarter when Dave Skrien kicked from the 26-yard line, missed the uprights but collected the point.

Parker added a fourth touchdown in the second when quarter Frank Tripucka hooked to Jim Trimble and to Stan Williams on the one-yard line. Bobby Marlow drove through for both touchdowns and end Joe Aguiera converted it. Larry Isbell made the seventh point on a 50-yard punt that bounced to the deadline.

In the fourth Gerry James made a spectacular 15-yard end run to score the touchdown that Lake converted. With less than two minutes remaining Ron Grant scored a 30-yard pass by Leake in the end zone for the second touchdown, Leake again converting.

Marlies Hand Kitchener Juniors First Defeat

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Marlboros, defending Memorial Cup champions, ran wild with five third-period goals to hand Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks their first defeat of the season, 7-1 in the slightest of an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A doubleheader here Sunday.

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors put down Guelph Biltmores 4-2 in the first game of the twin bill, watched by 5,742 fans.

The Marlboro win, their first on home ice this season, hoisted the Dukes from sixth to second place, tied with the Majors and Guelph. Kitchener follows in fifth place with four points, one behind those three.

Gary Collins, 20-year-old holdover left winger, led the Dukes with two goals, including the winning tally, on assists and his all-round play. Wally Boyer, Larry Lonsberry, Bob Bowles, Bob Pulford and defenceman Ron Casey scored Toronto's other goals.

GOFF GOAL

Willie O'Ree, star left winger with Quebec Frontenacs last season fired the only marker for the Montreal Canadiens farmhands, giving them a 1-0 lead near the end of the first period.

Claude Provost, who held the Canucks together in the second period when he was blasted by 13 shots to 5 for the rest of the third stanza, when 17 drives came his way. He had a total of 24 saves to make while the 14-year-old Eric Reid, at his net at the other end, turned away only six, including one in the third period.

Reid backed shot of the game came in the second period when a bullet, suspended about 40 feet above the ice of Maple Leaf Gardens, exploded over the Kitchener bench, showering the players, fans and ice. No injuries were noticed.

Pat Hannigan, Pat Quinn, defenceman Noel Price, just returned to the roster from Marlboros, and Gino Uhrlaco shared the scoring for the Majors in the first game. Bill Sweeney and defenceman Pete Filotte netted Guelph's goals.

Bulldogs Whip Dutchies, Indians Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs' deal for a new goaltender started paying off right from the start.

Bulldogs obtained Bruce Dale from Stratford Indians Saturday in exchange for right winger Chuck Henderson and cash.

Dale was spectacular in the nets as Windsor won both weekend games, defeating league - leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 4-3 Saturday and Stratford 2-1 at Windsor Sunday.

Chatham Maroons won a 3-2 decision from Owen Sound Mercurys at Owen Sound Saturday in the other OHA Senior A game played during the weekend.

Dale thwarted many Dutchmen attempts in the game at Kitchener, watched by 3,000 fans, as he stopped 31 shots. Dennis Brodeur had 15 shots to handle for Kitchener.

Reg Abbott, John Sleaver and Jimmy Peters scored the Bulldogs' goals.

A crowd of 2,962 at Windsor saw Dale stop 27 shots as he saved the game on many occasions. Darwin Iffted Bulldogs into a fourth-place tie with Chatham, one point out of third.

John Sleaver and Walter Pawlyshyn scored the Windsor goals in a strong opening frame. Maurice Levesque spoiled Dale's shutout attempt at 9:40 of the third period.

Jackie Hamilton connected for both Owen Sound goals, one in each of the first and second periods.

There are no games scheduled tonight.

Ryder Cup Retained by U.S. For 8th Time

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—It appears that the best way for Great Britain to gain possession of the Ryder Cup golf trophy is to armarry some sort of land-lease deal.

The United States today was the Gold Cup for another two years, winning it for the eighth time in the biennial battle Sunday, 4-matches to four.

This 8-4 score was the best the British have ever done on American soil and at least one sparkling aspect was included in their victories—John Jacobs' one-up win over Cary Middlecoff on the 36th hole.

But the cold fact remains that the U.S. team, performing under a hot sun at the Thunderbird Country Club, packed too much talent.

And the cup, which hasn't seen the British Isles since 1933, remains in the custody of the Professional Golfers Association of America.

The eight singles matches Sunday went like this:

United States — Sam Snead over Capt. Dai Rees, 3 and one.

Capt. Chick Harbert over Sydney Scott, 3 and 2.

Lloyd Mangrum over Christy O'Connor, 4 and 2.

Doug Ford over Harry Weetman, 3 and 2.

Jack Burke, Jr., over Harry Bradshaw, 2 and 2.

British—Jacobs over Middlecoff, one up.

Eric Brown over Jerry Barber, 2 and 1.

Arthur Lees over Marty Furgol, 3 and 1.

Saturday the U.S won three out of four doubles matches.

Michigan Upset By Illinois; Favorites Lose

NEW YORK (CP)—The University of Michigan Wolverines, rated almost a certainty in recent weeks to win an invitation to the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., were upset Saturday 25-6 by Illinois in one of the major reversals of the Big Ten Conference football season.

Ranked No. 3 in last week's Associated Press poll of U.S. college teams, Michigan was clearly outplayed by the Illini who had previously won only one of its four conference games.

Meanwhile, Michigan State, with Earl Morral running 90 yards for a touchdown, moved into a second place tie with Michigan by defeating Purdue 27-0.

Ohio State, 20-12 victor over Indiana, leads the Big Ten but is not eligible for the Rose Bowl this season since it went last year.

Thus, Michigan, which started in the season-opening Michigan State needs victories in two remaining conference games against Indiana and Ohio State to assure itself of a Rose Bowl trip.

EASY VICTORY

UCLA, No. 5 team in the country and favorite to win the Pacific coast title, Saturday had little trouble walloped College of The Pacific 34-0.

Saturday's schedule was sprinkled with surprises such as Yale's 14-0 victory over Princeton, a 7-0 tie between favored Navy and Duke, Harvard's Ivy League upset 7-6 win over Princeton, Vanderbilt's 34-0 drubbing of Kentucky and Louisiana State's victory over Southern California.

The No. 1 and 2 teams, Maryland and Oklahoma, meanwhile, moved closer to a Miami Orange Bowl date. Maryland trounced an 13-0 win over Louisiana State and Oklahoma crushed Missouri 20-6.

Notre Dame, No. 6, had surprising difficulty in the first half before Frank Reno Penn before riding to a 46-14 victory.

ATTENDS PRESS BALL

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vincent Massey was guest of honor Friday night as hundreds attended the annual Ottawa Press Club ball which signals the start of the capital's social season. Mayor Charlotte Whitton, most of the diplomatic corps and a number of government officials were among those who gathered for the big ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel for an evening of dancing and gaiety.

Ratterman Flips Browns to Win Over Giants

CLEVELAND (AP) — George Ratterman emerged from the shadow of Otto Graham Sunday as he pitched Cleveland Browns from an 11-point deficit to a 24-14 National Football League victory over New York Giants.

The former Montreal Alouettes quarterback who has been accosfsting to the great Otto the last three seasons after a year at Dallas emerged his finest hour when leading over in the second period when Graham suffered a head injury.

At the time the Browns were trailing 14-3. Ratterman tossed 15 passes for 183 yards and two touchdowns and wound up an 80-yard drive by winning the end for another score.

A BETTER GRIB

The victory lightened Cleveland's hold on first place in the eastern division of the NFL.

Washington Redskins moved into a share of the runner-up spot behind the Browns by the eastern conference, defeating Philadelphia Eagles 34-21. That left the Skins with a 4-3 mark. Pittsburgh Steelers are in the same fix after losing to Chicago Cardinals 27-13 Saturday night.

In the western conference, Chicago Bears looked like the big, bad wolves of old, shellacking Green Bay Packers 52-33.

Los Angeles Rams took over sole ownership of the western lead, coming from behind in the second half to smack San Francisco 49ers 27-14.

The Bears jumped into a share of second place with Baltimore Colts, who fell 24-14 Saturday night to the Detroit Lions won their first game of the season.

Teepees Romp To Two Wins Over Lakeheads

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — St. Catharines TeePees romped to two exhibition victories over Lakehead Junior hockey squads this week-end when they swamped Fort William Canadiens 13-4 Sunday after soon followed 6-4 win over host Arthur North Stars Saturday night.

Added to a 5-1 win over St. Boniface in Winnipeg earlier in the week, the latter triumphs about coaching the Ontario Junior Hockey Association representatives a 4-0 sweep of their three-game western jaunt.

Led by Ed Hoekstra with three goals and two assists, TeePees took a 4-1 lead over Canadiens in the first period, increasing this margin by seven goals in the middle frame before Canadiens put three-in-two in the final period.

Ab McDonald collected five points on two goals and three assists. Other two-goal scorers were Elmer Vasko and Bob Belyea, while Dick Lafontaine, Art Stratton, Don Cherry and Wayne Hillman scored one each.

Fort William marksmen were Paddy Murro, Bob Elieti, Ron Pretlac and Gary Mork.

Auto-Racing Star Killed In Race Crash

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Two great auto-racing careers have come to an end, one in death and one in disillusionment.

The first was Jack McGrath's. The 36-year-old Los Angeles driver who held the one-lap and 10-lap speed records at the Indianapolis speedway, was killed Sunday when his car went into a spectacular flip and fell on top of him in the 26th lap of the 100-mile Bobby Ball memorial championship race.

The second career closed when the American Automobile Association ended its sponsorship of championship racing after 46 years. The AAA also announced earlier it quit, saying racing has been placing increasing emphasis on speed, power and driver endurance and that their objectives are not in line with the AAA's safety program.

The race, stopped after 97 miles and four accidents, was won for the second year in a row by Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix. Johnny Thomson of Springfield, Mass., was second.

McGrath's accident was the only one that produced injury.

The tragedy occurred with McGrath only 14 laps away from the end of his dirt track career. He had said the Bobby Ball would be his last dirt track race and that he was going to quit racing to enter business with January, with the stipulation that he would drive in the 1956 Indianapolis 500-miler.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

Some bids look like your interfering in-laws. But they are not so bad when you get used to them. As in this deal:

NORTH
♠A K 9 8 5 3
♥7
♦Q 7 3
♣A 7 3 2

WEST
♠J 10 2
♥7 10 6 2
♣Q J 9 6 5 4

EAST
♥K Q 9 8 5 4 3
♦10 9 8 7 2
♣10

SOUTH
♠Q 7 6 4
♥A
♦A K 6 5 4
♣K 8 4

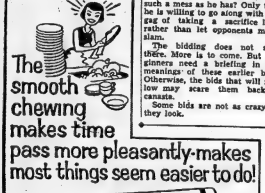
The bidding started off like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♥
5 ♦	6 ♥

In answer to the sound opening bid by south, the jump taken out by north is a universal signal to go game, at least. It also suggests the kind of material that could help make a slam.

Realizing this, east is anxious to interfere with opponent lines of communication. His pre-empt advises partner he is willing to take a sacrifice loss, if necessary, with hearts as trump.

Now we come to the south bid of five hearts. Off hand it looks like a silly piece of business. But not with advanced players. It is to them a signal for giving unusual information.



This bid in the same suit named by an opponent is known as an overcall in opponent suit. One of its purposes is to tell partner their own side will lose no tricks in the opponent suit.

A player does not waste time or breath on such a signal unless he hopes to reach a slam. The idea is that such information may be necessary for partner to decide if slam is safe enough.

After this, what could west mean by going six hearts with such a mess as he has? Only that he is willing to go along with the gag of taking a sacrifice loss; rather than let opponents make slam.

The bidding does not stop there. More is to come. But beginners need a briefing in the meanings of these earlier bids. Otherwise, the bids that will follow may scare them back to canasta.

Some kids are not as crazy as they look.

Still Arguing Admissibility Of Statements

KINGSTON (CP)—After a full week of testimony, the trial of Hilton Campbell for the murder of a 25-year-old mother, Mrs. Bernice Ansley, was adjourned Saturday with counsel still arguing over the admissibility of evidence.

The trial, which will resume today has reached an impasse over whether or not conversations between Campbell and police officers are admissible.

For the third day in a row, counsel argued in this trial within a trial and Mr. Justice J. L Wilson has reached no decision on whether to admit statements allegedly made to three Kingston detectives.

Campbell, a 25-year-old farmer, was put on the stand for questioning during this secondary phase of the trial but the judge warned that none of the evidence presented may be reported unless it is repeated in open court.

Important Notice!

Bowlers, Captains, League Secretaries

$250.00 A WEEK

If you bowl in an organized league, you are entitled to the chance of participating in the weekly Bowl o' Fun contest for cash prizes.

Each week your league may enter its high team in THAT WEEK'S BOWLING.

Bowl o' Fun is presented by the Ontario Bowling Proprietors Association and only member alleys participate. This is a contest for everyone, because HANDICAPS ARE COUNTED AS PART OF THE SCORE. The high team each week divides $150.00—the second $75.00 and the third $25.00. There is no cost or fee to enter. Here's what to do—

Ask the Manager at the alley where you bowl if it is a member of the Association. If it is, he will have registration and weekly entry forms. Get all your fellow bowlers to sign the registration form and mail it in. Then you will all be eligible for the whole season to share in the prize money if your particular team wins. Also ask your alley manager for the Bowl o' Fun rules. If your alley is not a member of the association, it can obtain full information by writing to the address below:

EAT YOUR CEREAL

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—MGM studio today said it will scatter 100,000,000 free movie tickets in cereal boxes across the country during the next three months. In a deal with the Quaker Oats Co. an MGM spokesman said, two tickets will be put in each 20,000,000 cereal packages. The distribution, which begins next month, will be accompanied by a larger advertising campaign in newspaper comic sections and on radio.

Basil Kuglin Of Foxboro 'Socred' Officer

TORONTO (CP) — Stanley R. Patterson of Cormiley Saturday was elected to his third term as president of the Social Credit Association of Ontario.

Vice-presidents elected at the annual meeting here were E. Shipley Birrell and W. S. Ovens of Toronto and Basil Kuglin, R.R. 1 Foxboro. Burton W. Ford of Toronto was chosen secretary and James C. Logan, also of Toronto, treasurer.

Directors are Edward Parisienne and Ele Faills, Ottawa; James Johanne, Galt; F. W. Murdock, Lyndhurst; Stewart Baplist, Kitchener; Ross Moffatt, Nipissing; Mrs. Lillian Alton, Mount Albert; Charles Jackson, Fingal, and Murray Hoffstetter, Oshawa.

Chemical Corps Told to Develop Germs and Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Army has ordered its chemical corps to develop new germ, gas and radiological weapons, and the defences against them, "to the fullest extent the human mind can encompass."

Army Secretary Wilber Brucker announced this broadened mission for the corps Tuesday in directing a reorganization along lines recommended by a special committee of civilian scientists.

The committee said the corps should stress research and "unin hibited speculation" on how to convert new ideas into methods of subduing an enemy without necessarily killing people and without destroying property he victor might want to save.

The committee of chemical experts and educationists emphasized the non-destructive potentials of chemical warfare. It said the public has mistakenly assumed that much of the chemical corps' work is "horrifying in character."

The committee called for greater awareness that chemical agents and weapons can be used without causing "indiscriminate death or destruction." It said certain kinds of nerve gas could "weaken the will to fight" of an enemy population without killing or producing permanent injury.

STORM BLAMED FOR DEATHS

BOSTON (AP) — A weekend northeast storm which dumped more than three inches of rain on parts of New England was blamed today for 18 highway deaths and scores of injuries. Wind and water damage was reported widespread.

U.S. Will Make Another Effort To Control Arms

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The United States will make a new effort this week to get Russia to join in disarmament measures designed to make impossible a massive surprise attack by either of the world's great atomic powers.

State Secretary Dulles, it was learned, will tell Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that agreement on such measures—urged in by President Eisenhower's U. S-Soviet aerial inspection plan—could be followed readily by other steps leading to worldwide arms reduction and control of atomic weapons.

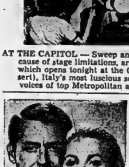
Meanwhile, a committee of Big Four experts seeking agreement on the lowering of Iron Curtain barriers to develop East-West contacts has found the "spirit of Geneva" wearing thin.

Authoritative sources say three days of secret negotiations between representatives of the big three Western powers and the Soviet Union have failed to produce agreement on any major point.

The Russians have rejected proposals for a freer exchange of ideas and information except on technical matters. They want Western scientists, engineers and economists to contribute their knowledge to the Russians, but they maintain other exchanges would be "dangerous interference" in Soviet internal affairs.

Big three negotiators have turned down Russian demands to end the West's ban on the sale of strategic goods to the Soviet bloc and have refused to discuss a Communist "freedom of the seas" proposal. The latter would have put the West in the position of opposing the Nationalist Chinese blockade of the Chinese mainland.

The disarmament issue, a subject of East-West negotiation for seven years, is expected to come before the ministers in midweek as conference was in recess by Soviet request today, the anniversary of the 1917 Russian revolution.



The disarmament discussion should be brief, officials said, because the issue l primarily the responsibility of a United Nations sub-committee composed of the four powers representated here, plus Canada.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find that your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Unleash your mind of "fog" and, with a smile, start this morning's day with purpose, hope and determination to keep up the right tempo until responsive results are yours at the end of the day.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Friendly rays lingering from yesterday are now cooping earth on. Silent Sun vibrations. But don't overreach or try to do too many things in one day. Go ahead steadily.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Whatever your occupation and duties, begin with cheerfulness and ambition, knowing that you can attain much, if not more, than before with conscientious effort.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Practical and sound business and work matters seeking favorable favors and recognition and granting benefits are in the forecast. A day is promising day.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Use your Sun augurs for personal and business gains, helpful cooperation from others and, perhaps, advantages that will give you a wider field for operation in your line of work. A good day on the whole.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — This day should give you a chance to make fresh headway in familiar activities and perhaps pick up important leads for new objectives. It favors selling, buying, advertising, promoting.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Go straight toward your goals; tackle difficult and troublesome tasks with equal effort. This is a good period for advancement in all worthwhile undertakings.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — This is no day to go to extremes, but you can have excellent returns for steady, systematic work. Your specific interests, necessary duties, social activities favored.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — This can be a red letter day for you if you concentrate on essentials before wandering off to things frivolous. This does not mean to overwork. Use good judgment. You can gain.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Pushing steadily ahead without worry or strain should put you right up where you expect to be. Labor, industry, mechanical trades, surgery, dentistry tops in favor.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Rays are not very propitious for new enterprises, but familiar activities, hobby pastimes, study, and the home are favored. Don't neglect important matters while dabbling with unimportant ones.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — No round-about routes now! Direct, straightforward methods and procedure with your schedule will bring you quicker, surer returns. The possibilities are good.

You born today are active, ambitious, highly capable. Intelligence is strong in this Zodiacal sector. Guard against a tendency to domineer. You have many fine characteristics to develop so never give harmful traits the upperhand. You can hold, with dignity and efficiency a position of authority and importance, or be a thorough employee in trade, industry, teacher, medicine research; would do well as author, actor, lawyer.

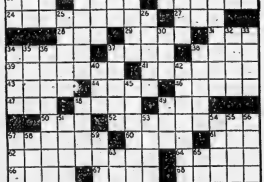
ALARM FROM 'CLOCK' KIDNEYS



Don't Cap ruin your Sleep

Your nights made miserable by constant trips to the bathroom? Then you may suffer from a minor kidney irritation, called NYCOPRIN (nicotine). It relieves kidney and bladder irritations by increasing circulation through kidneys to remove excess waste. NYCOPRIN helps on the way to restful sleep. Get NYCOPRIN (nicotine) at Druggist stores. Money back if not delighted with results. Ask for NYCOPRIN (Ni-co-prin), or size or druggist tells what you want.

RESCUED FROM FLOODS

Mrs. David B. Parkin is helped to safety across make-shift bridge as flood waters swell around her property in North Vancouver. A number of families in the plush Vancouver suburb were evacuated, some across fire ladders, as two days of continual rain sent creeks and streams over their banks. Damage throughout British Columbia was extensive. (CP Photo).

TO PRESENT BRIEF

The Regina Leader-Post and Saskatoon Star-Phoenix have retained three lawyers to present a brief on effect of patent monopolies before the Royal Commission on Patents, Copyrights, Trade Marks and Industrial Designs. The Commission is under chairmanship of Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley and will hear the submission at Ottawa, Nov. 21. Left to right: Ian MacKeigan, Halifax attorney and former deputy commissioner under the Canadian Combines Investigation act; Walton Hamilton, former professor of law at Yale University, and Judge Thurman Arnold of Washington.

A. T. Wilgress Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Arthur T. Wilgress, 69, a former Ontario editor and publisher and King's privy council for Ontario, died recently while visiting in England.

Mr. Wilgress owned the Brockville Recorder and Times from 1893 until 1915. He was an alderman of the city from 1910 until 1912 and for a time a governor of Brockville General Hospital.

He became King's printer for the province in 1915 and later was made librarian for the Ontario legislature.

He had been visiting his daughter, Mrs. G. W. Thompson, in Cheltenham, England since last spring.

Newsprint Price Increase Called Profiteering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Arthur Klein (Dem. N.Y.) charged Saturday that the recent price increases on newsprint from Canada amount to profiteering.

Klein is chairman of a House of Representatives interstate and foreign commerce sub - committee making an inquiry into newsprint supplies.

Several Canadian producers have announced increases of $3, $4 and $5 a ton, making the delivered price in New York $129, $130 and $131. They blamed rising costs.

Klein said:

"There was apparently nothing to justify increasing the cost of newsprint, and other wage increases or other costs.

"There's nothing our government can do about the price of newsprint in Canada, although the possibilities of retaliation in this country and possible violation of the antitrust law in connection therewith might well be looked into."

Klein also reported that his committee will meet Nov. 14 on on visits to paper mills in Tennessee, North Carolina and Alabama. He said "we want to see if there are some ways by which we can increase domestic supplies so that we'll not be at the mercy of the Canadian producers." More than 90 per cent of all newsprint consumed in the United States comes from Canada.

KODAK PRESIDENT DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Earl Stanley Currie, 64, president of Canadian Kodak Co., died at his home Sunday. He had been president and general manager of the company since 1945. Born in Stayner, Ont., he joined the company in 1912 and after service in various departments was appointed assistant to the president in 1937. The same year he was elected secretary and then became a director and assistant general manager in 1941.

YOUTHS CHARGED

TORONTO (CP)—Three Toronto youths were arrested early Sunday after a wild, 85-mile-an-hour chase through city streets. They were captured when their car was demolished after striking two hydro poles. A dozen police cars took part in the case when the car was reported stolen. Charged with car theft and theft of licence plates were Douglas Caudle, 17, and Harold Craddock, 16. A 15-year-old boy was also charged.

Sultan Youssef Will Return To Morocco Nov. 18

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay said today newly restored Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef will be back in the capital of Morocco by Nov. 18, the anniversary of his enthronement 25 years ago.

Pinay spoke to reporters as Youssef, in a gesture of amity, placed a wreath on the tomb of the 7 e n k n o w n soldier. Shouts of "long live the sultan" and "long live Morocco" and "long live France"—in French and Arabic—broke from the assembled crowd at the Arch of Triumph.

Before leaving for today's ceremony, Youssef saw a delegation of Moroccan rabbis and told them he would make no distinction between his Moslem and Jewish subjects. Traditionally, Moroccan Jews have had the special status of "protegees" of the sultan. During Youssef's exile, Moroccan Jews have been speeding immigration to Israel.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—put more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead—unless, that is, if you can avoid backaches and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around fifty. For many after fifty years Doan's Kidney Pills have been helping more and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder active, to flush out poisons in the blood, to help them feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Doan's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's. 24

Klondyke Gardens is Farmers' Gold Mine

Jean Vlaemmix, a recent arrival from Holland, is typical of the group of industrious new Canadians who are busy transforming the marshy wasteland near Grand Bend, Ont., into rich market garden plots. The area, known as Klondyke Gardens, was formerly the private duck-hunting reserve of a wealthy doctor. He had subdivided almost half of the 7,000-acre holding, and has been selling it in lots to new Canadians for the past seven years. The Klondyke has proven a gold mine of top-grade vegetables to the 25 farmers from Holland and Belgium. After draining and clearing the land, they have averaged a gross income of $10,000 from market produce. Next year they plan a $100,000 crop. (Central Press Canadian).

DESIGN NEW FLAG

The result of 12 years' work, a new design for a national flag has been produced by Andre Barbeau, 25-year-old Montrealer. His design displays a forest green maple leaf on a white field with vertical red, white and blue stripes at each side. Barbeau, assistant manager of the credit department of a Montreal publishing company, now studied drawing and as a youngster collected stamps and coins. (CF Photo).

Montrealer Designs National Flag After 12 Years of Study, Work

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The result of 12 years' leisure-time work, a simple, eye catching design for a national flag has been produced by Andre Barbeau, 25-year-old Montrealer.

Barbeau's design displays a forest green maple leaf on a white field with vertical red, white and blue stripes at each side.

Barbeau chose the maple leaf as the central emblem because it was officially adopted in 1860 by the Province of Canada presenting for a visit by the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII.

His design is the outcome of hundreds of sketches done in an estimated 5,000 hours of study. He buttonholed anyone and everyone who wanted to talk flag to try to arrive at a popular conception of what it should be.

"I tried to see what people who are sincere about a national flag want it to look like and to bring all these ideas together into one design," he says.

In his dozen years' study, Barbeau, assistant manager of the credit department of a Montreal publishing company works on heraldry and has accumulated bundles of documents about the flags of many countries, about discussion of a Canadian flag and views expressed by different Canadians.

This is the symbolism of the design:

The green leaf is the emblem of national unity and its white field represents peace.

Red vertical stripes at each side of the white field represent the British contribution to Canadian life while the adjoining white stripes represent the French contribution.

Blue stripes at each end of the flag represent all other racial groups in Canada as well as the country's maritime east and west boundaries which inspired the motto: A Mari Usque Ad Mare (from sea to sea).

COLLECTIVE CORNCOB

Corn seems to be popping out all over on this newly developed ear. The strange bouquet-like maize was developed by Russian agronomist Molenby after he found an ear growing in the Kharkov region that had two offshoots from the main axis. He then got the idea of seeing how many "satellites" could be grown around one ear. By selection and creation of agro-technical conditions it has been possible to increase the number of shoots around the main axis to form eight to 12. No fewer than 75 per cent of the seeds have produced plants with many cobs, each weighing from a pound to a pound and a half. Central Press Canadian).

Last of Four Fugitives Caught In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bank bandit Robert Lewis, the last of four armed convicts who broke from Oakalla prison farm Friday, was captured early today in a Vancouver alley.

Police said Lewis, 24, gave up without a struggle when he was cornered in the West-End alley way by three officers.

His capture, less than 60 hours after he and three others broke out of the suburban prison, ended one of the most intense manhunts in recent Vancouver history.

Lewis was in the provincial jail awaiting transfer to the penitentiary to begin a 10-year sentence for bank robbery.

Two of the men in the break were recaptured within minutes and 16hr John Wasylenchuk, 42, also a bank bandit, was picked up Sunday morning.

Wasylenchuk was spotted by an Oakalla employee who was driving to work.

Roland Uncles, supervisor of the young offender's unit at the prison, called RCMP officers when he saw Wasylenchuk standing on Kingsway, one of Vancouver's busiest streets.

Two officers traced him to nearby bush. He gave up without a struggle. The officers said he was "cold and haggard."

TIP FROM CAB DRIVER

More than 200 prison guards, RCMP and city police took part in the search for the manhunt, when it was believed that Lewis and Wasylenchuk were pinned down in the swamp and woods surrounding the prison.

Early today, after detectives said the search would become a "general lookout," a taxi driver telephoned police and told them he had driven Lewis to the West End.

The cab driver, who refused to give his name, said he picked up Lewis on the Granville street bridge.

Eisenhower Will Decide Whether To Quit Hospital

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER (AP)—This is a big day for President Eisenhower. He decides today on the basis of doctors' advice whether to leave the hospital Friday and fly back to Washington.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist, arranged to give the president a full report on his condition, outline a further convalescence program for the immediate future, then let him pick the date for return to the capital.

White House press secretary secretary James C. Hagerty said the "best guess" still is that the president will check out of Fitzsimons Army Hospital Friday. That will be seven weeks after his Sept. 24 heart attack and nearly three months after he arrived in Denver Aug. 14 for a vacation.

White scheduled a press conference after his meeting with the president to announce the date for departure from the hospital and to report on Eisenhower's recovery progress.

Sunday night Eisenhower and his wife went to a musicale in the hospital auditorium. They heard a Denver choral group sing some of the president's favorite operetta numbers from "The Student Prince," "The Red Mill," "New Moon" and "The Desert Song."

Saturday he met with an old friend, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, deputy commander of NATO.

Montgomery told reporters afterward that they discussed world problems, and he added:

"I reckon that he looks better today than I have ever seen him look . . his face is healthy, eyes clear, very alert, very interested, picks up the conversation any time you like, whatever your subject."

Montgomery praised Eisenhower warmly as "a very valuable man to the world" in the struggle against communism—"whether in the White House or any other colored house."

Think Molotov Brings New Plan Back To Geneva

'Better Baggage' Remark Stirs Hope of Concessions

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov returned to the Big Four conference today from top-level talks in Moscow, and Western leaders believe a remark he made in the Soviet capital about bringing better baggage" means he him meant that his three-day talks then had softened Soviet opposition to Germany's early reunification.

American authorities also speculated that he might be ready to put a more friendly face on Russia's attitude toward President Eisenhower's proposal for reciprocal aerial inspection of military installations in the United States and the Soviet Union—while reserving the Soviet demand for prompt outlawing of atomic weapons.

Molotov, who went to Moscow for the weekend and participated in the celebration of the Bolshevik revolution anniversary, indicated there Monday night that he might be bringing new proposals to Geneva.

AT RECEPTION

Answering a question at a Kremlin reception, he said:

"I arrived in Moscow with good baggage and I am leaving with even better baggage because I have had a good meeting and talks."

Told of Molotov's remark, Premier Faure commented with a smile: "That is exactly right."

Molotov added that he thought it important that the Geneva meeting of foreign ministers to produce an East-West agreement, saying, "Why should we have gone to Geneva if we did not think we could reach agreement."

"Of course, there will be certain difficulties on some questions. But you know the Russian proverb, 'Moscow was not built in one day'."

Whatever the Russian's next move may be, it seems clear that the conference is going into a critical phase, and that Germany is the heart of it.

CONVERGE ON GENEVA

West German diplomats have converged on Geneva to share the climax. Freign Minister Heinrich von Brentano arranged to fly from Bonn today to set up close contacts with the Western foreign ministers.

Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the West German opposition Socialist party, arrived Tuesday and conferred with State Secretary Dulles.

The Soviet delegation, which usually work on Chancellor Adenauer's side, dispatched their chairman, Nikolai Bulganin, to call on Prince Hubertus Zu Lowenstein, Adenauer's personal envoy to the foreign affairs committee of the lower house of Parliament, Kurt Georg Kiesinger, also is here.

There were hints that the Soviet Union might soften its opposition to free all-German elections in some way, and accept parallel negotiation on reunification and European security provided the West would agree to talks on Germany.

Such an approach could leave the Atlantic alliance intact but deny a reunited Germany the right of membership.

Canada and U.S. Will Share Costs Of Radar Link-Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States have agreed in principle on sharing costs of a planned 600-mile east coast linkup of the Pinetree and mid-Canada radar lines, it was learned here.

Canada will pay one-third of the cost and the U.S. two-thirds, a reliable source said Monday. The chain would run from the vicinity of Cape Race on the southeast tip of Newfoundland up the east coast of Newfoundland and Labrador to approximately the 55th parallel.

Defence department officials described the planned line as a "fill-in" on the three-line North American radar network and not an additional radar line.

NOW HAS THREE

Canada now has three radar chains—DEW (Distant Early Warning), across North America's Arctic coast; mid-Canada, which runs approximately along the 55th parallel, and Pinetree which extends across most of southern Canada, with its heaviest concentration of radar stations in Ontario and Quebec.

Pinetree has been in operation for some time and target for completion of mid-Canada and DEW lines is secret but estimated as 1957.

Tried to Silence Slum Witness, Man Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—Albert Theriault, 27, was arrested today and charged with attempting to dissuade a material witness from giving evidence against Clare Boan and three other persons charged in a "slum murder" case.

The witness told police a man had advised him not to testify.

Police would not disclose the name of the witness, who had appeared voluntarily at a closed hearing last week.

The four men are accused of keeping a common bawdy house. The properties with which they are connected are in the central Jarvis street area.

May Reduce Speed Limit For Trucks

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says it has learned the provincial highway safety committee is considering a plan to reduce the speed limit for trucks to 45 from 50 miles an hour, he speed limit 60r cars would remain at 60 m. p. h.

The paper says the "differential speed" plan is one of the innovations the committee might suggest.

Injuries Are Fatal

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Sandy Gibson, 53, of Sault Ste. Marie, died here Monday of multiple head and hip injuries suffered in a traffic accident 10 days ago.

Police said Mr. Gibson was struck outside his home during a snow and rainstorm by a car driven by Mrs. Erlynne Robinson. An inquest has been ordered.

DISPUTES RIGHT OF WITNESSES TO QUESTION LAW

Duplessis Appeals Against Court Test

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Court of Appeal has been called on to decide whether the validity of a provincial law can be contested without prior permission from the Quebec government. Hearing of the appeal began Monday.

The case involves Premier Duplessis in his capacity as Quebec attorney-general, and Laurier Saumur, a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

Mr. Saumur from a provincial law adopted in 1953 which makes it illegal for any religious group to call for injunctions restraining through any medium against other religious organizations.

The appeal against the right of Mr. Saumur to contest the constitutionality of the law was made by Premier Duplessis. The main issue in the case, however, has not yet been brought before the courts.

Saumur was convicted several years ago of distributing literature without a permit from the Quebec City chief of police. The city by-law concerned was adopted under provincial legislation empowering municipalities to set rules of that sort.

SUPREME COURT

His appeal eventually reached the Supreme Court of Canada which did not declare the provincial law unconstitutional but said it must not apply to religious literature.

The provincial government then adopted the law making it illegal for a religious group to call for injurious statements against another.

Both laws were questioned by the religious sect. It asked for an injunction against the Quebec attorney-general to forbid application of the first law and started the present action to have the new law declared unconstitutional.

A Superior Court justice subsequently refused the injunction but could not be sought against the attorney-general's approval of the commission but said permission was not necessary to challenge the constitutionality of the second law.

It is on the latter ruling that Premier Duplessis is appealing.

May Make All Traffic Offenders Face Court

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Highway Traffic Act may be revised to make all traffic offences liable for all traffic offences as an aid to the campaign to reduce highway accidents.

It was reported Monday night that the attorney-general's department is studying this possibility and drafting legislation to give magistrates discretionary powers.

It was reported that department officials feel that holding the owner wholly responsible would have a deterrent significance on drivers and make them think twice before they permit others to use their vehicles.

Such a policy would be operated in conjunction with a point system for motorists which the department a also studying.

INSPECTS GUIDED MISSILE LAUNCHING SHIP

Admiral Earl Louis Mountbatten, left, Britain's first sea lord and chief of naval staff, takes a long look at the guided-missile launcher aboard the USS Boston, the U.S. navy's first guided missile ship, berthed in Philadelphia. Charge Woman With Murder In Poison Deaths of 2 Boys

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A woman who police said threatened "to get even somehow" in a neighborhood quarrel has been charged with murder in the poison deaths of two little boys.

William, Baughman, 7, and his six-year-old brother, Lawrence, died within hours of each other Oct. 13. The coroner at the time ruled that they had died of accidental poisoning, caused by eating phosphorous used in rat and roach control.

Mrs. Mary Moss Falcon, 27, was booked Monday night in connection with the death of the boys. She had been rent collector at the house in which the Baughman family lived, and officers said Mrs. Falcon had filed a quarrel with Mrs. Helen Baughman in September, and promised to "get even somehow."

The boys lived with their parents and five other children in one room. Their only subsistence was a $7-a-week allowance given by a Roman Catholic church. Neighbors said they begged for pennies and food, and frequently scavenged through garbage cans in search of something to eat.

Mrs. Baughman, who told police she tore Mrs. Falcon's blouse off 9, were placed in juvenile homes.

Eden Proposes Conference To Reduce Risk of Treachery

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden proposes an independent conference of eminent Britons to study further precautions to prevent any recurrence of the Burgess-Maclean Red spying case.

The House of the House of Commons Monday night that the foreign office has adopted "current and careful security measures" for the future. But his government would like the conference to explore "whether any further precautions can properly be taken to reduce the risk of treachery."

He suggested that the conference be composed of Privy Councillors representing both his Conservatives and the opposition Labor party.

Cabinet members must be Privy Councillors and generally form the acting council. But there are many other members, including former cabinet ministers and leaders of various fields, who can be called upon when there is a special need. The two surviving former prime ministers—Sir Winston Churchill and Clement Attlee—are members.

The searching examination of security measures resulted from the activities of two renegade diplomats, Donald Maclean and Guy Burgess, who fled Britain in 1951. They are believed to be in Russia or elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain.

Crew Fights On Ocean Liner During Storm

LIVERPOOL (CP) — Fighting broke out among the British crew and the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland early today as the 20,000-ton ship neared Liverpool after a rough voyage from Montreal.

Glasses and bottles were hurled in the crew's quarters and the ship's fire-alarm system was damaged, a company official said in a statement.

Ship officials radioed for police help and Liverpool police boarded the vessel when it docked.

First reports said about 100 men were involved but the company official said the figure was much smaller.

The official did not give the cause of the fight and said the matter now is in the hands of the police.

The liner arrived after a rough trans-Atlantic crossing.

ISRAELI PREMIER WILL VISIT U.S. LOOKING FOR ARMS

Rumor Says U.S. Ready To Authorize Purchase

By JAMES M. LONG

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett will go to the United States this week to request Israel's first arms.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the request arises from renewed Israeli-Arab border clashes and efforts by the Soviet bloc to penetrate the Middle East through arms and economic aid for Arab states. He said:

"Previously we had been favorable to a limitation or restriction of armaments in the Middle East. Now we ask for the right to a balance in armaments."

He made it clear that Israel now wants arms equal to the reported multi-million-dollar shipment Egypt has begun receiving from the Czechs.

Sharett already has taken his views to Geneva, where he saw State Secretary Dulles at the end of Four foreign ministers conference.

SUNDERLAND

The bloodiest of Israeli battle since the 1948 Palestine war underscored Sharett's warning of Israel that the peril of war in the strained Middle East has increased. And despite United Nations appeals for Jews and Arabs to restore peace in the shrinking Holy Land, there is no assurance that it will not break out again.

In the past Israel has received some arms from abroad. These have been mostly small arms—nothing like the heavy guns, tanks and MiG jet fighters reported to be involved in the Czech shipments to Egypt.

Washington sources today said Israel is expected to have brought aside a strong American protest against Communist shipments of big quantities of weapons to Egypt.

Foreign Minister Molotov is understood to have made clear that his government will do nothing to stop the flow already under way to Egypt. Egypt is paying for them with cotton and rice.

Diplomatic officials said Molotov made known his government's refusal to interfere during a far-ranging talk on Middle Eastern problems with State Secretary Dulles in Geneva. Details have been kept secret, but it was learned that Molotov rebuffed any arms deal as a normal commercial transaction to which no one could object.

REPORT SALE NEAR

In New York, The Times says in a Washington dispatch that the U. S. will agree to sell Israel a "significant" quantity of arms. The report followed a visit by Israel's Ambassador Abba Eban to George V. Allen, assistant secretary of state.

"However, all indications are that the Israeli government has not yet decided how many requirements to ask the United States to sell; nor have the United States decided how much it is prepared to sell," The Times dispatch adds.

Foreign Matter in Hold Smelled Like Gunpowder

DENVER (AP)—Evidence that something "foreign" exploded with a "bomb-like" blast is reported under study by official investigators of a Nov. 1 United Airlines crash which killed 44 persons.

Disclosing this, James N. Peyton, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Board's investigation division, said Monday night that the rear luggage hold of the DC-6B plane was shattered by the explosion.

Sifts walls of the luggage compartment "were pushed out and the floor was in pieces," Peyton told a reporter.

It appeared that something "foreign" exploded in the airliner crash near Longmont, Colo., he said. Asked to explain "foreign," Peyton said he meant something "not a part" of the plane.

Trips, Kills Self

LINDSAY (CP)—Bill Fanning, 21, of Lindsay fatally shot himself while hunting Monday near Cavan, about 50 miles northwest of Peterborough.

His companions said he tripped over a log and was shot by his own gun while chasing a deer he had wounded.

Lesser Lights Shine as Red Heads Whoop Up Revolution Celebration

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leaders Monday night commemorated the 1917 Bolshevik revolution with a reception at the Kremlin's Grand Palace which would have done credit to the tsars.

There was champagne and caviar, ballet dancers and violinists, and the old battlers of the barricades took it all as if they were back in the days of Lenin and Stalin.

The glittering St. George's Hall, splendid with white and gold, was packed by upwards of 1,000 guests. Diplomats in their decorations and decorations were among them.

In Granita Palace, adjoining St. George's, was a sumptuous spread for the lesser lights of the Soviet hierarchy. Here food and drink was as good, though the company was not as illustrious. There were gentlemen in plain clothes who made sure that guests from the second dining room did not stray into St. George's Hall.

But when the leading Soviet figures had made their appearance in to see how the others were getting along, and to join in their fun. Premier Nikolai A. I. Mikoyan bounded onto the dance floor and, amid cheers, flung himself into a folk dance.

Then President Klementi Voroshilov demanded that the band play a polka. Grey-haired but perky, he bounded through a polka more creditably for a man of 74. The crowd went into ecstasies.

Even Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Communist party secretary, got into it, pirouetting with Ekaterina Furteva, first secretary of the Moscow city committee.

Many guests in the crowd seemed as lit up as the red, white and blue fireworks which thundered over the city during the banquet.

'Bomb-Like' Blast Shattered Plane In Which 44 Died

DENVER (AP) — The Israeli ambassador to Canada says his country is seeking arms from western nations but has declined to say if Canada is one of them.

Ambassador Michael Comay told reporters in an interview Monday that Israel is seeking arms from the West and particularly from the United States.

Asked if his country—her neighbour Egypt getting arms from Communist Czechoslovakia—would ask Canada for arms, Mr. Comay replied: "I can't say anything about that at all."

He recalled that Israel previously obtained some surplus army supplies from Canada.

Canadian officials indicated Israel has not made any formal request for military equipment so far. The external affairs department doesn't comment on Mr. Comay's statement.

Sault Requests Gas Pipeline

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) This city, currently in the grip of a serious power shortage, will ask the federal government to route the proposed trans-Canada natural gas pipeline through Sault Ste. Marie.

City council appointed a three-man committee Monday night to present the city's brief to federal authorities. Named were Mayor C. Herb Smale and aldermen Gordon Lodge and Henry Lang.

A hydro-electric power shortage in the large Algoma district has affected industry and threatened the city with increased unemployment.

Southern Ontario Indians Confer With Dept. Heads

OTTAWA. (CP) — Indian affairs branch officials met in Ottawa Monday with more than 30 delegates from southern Ontario's Indian bands for discussions that could result in further changes in Indian administration.

An informed here said the meeting was to acquaint Indian council delegates with the men who administer the Indian Act and to provide an opportunity for the delegates to discuss their problems and make recommendations and suggestions.

The meeting, which continues today, is being held behind closed doors in the Genaral Hotel in Ottawa.

The informant said the more important of the recommendations stemming from the meeting could result in administrative changes. It might even bring changes in the new Indian Act which, Parliament heard in 1950 and which made sweeping administrative changes.

Deputy Citizenship Minister Lloyd Fortier and H. M. Jones, director of the Indian Affairs branch, headed the Ottawa delegation to meet the Indian councillors.

Shopping Made Easier At Canadian Tire

Canadian Tire Corporation for many years have built their business on the principle of "one stop" service with modern shopping habits, they have inaugurated their own Credit Budget Plan. The highlights of this plan are that a customer may purchase any merchandise or service over $20, with no down payment and weekly payments as low as $1

On most credit accounts there is no waiting, immediate delivery of any goods can be secured. Under this new scheme there are no outside interviews or references required.

As in all of Canadian Tire Corporation activities, they have been successful in setting up this plan with a minimum cost to the consumer. Carrying charges are much below most other companies.

1956 Council Will Consider Corby Library Request For Increased Per Capita Grant

The 1956 Belleville city council will be asked to take into consideration a request from the Corby Public Library Board for an increase in the per capita grant received by the library.

Members of the library board of directors waited on city council Monday night with the request that the per capita grant be increased from the present 90c to $1.25, which, it was emphasized was the minimum increase necessary if the good work of the library.

Council approved of the library board recommendation that the 1956 council consider the increased grant and council members generally admitted they could do little more than "suggest" to the 1956 council.

As spokesman from the library board of directors, Mrs. Ross Hastings pressed that the present per capita grant of 90c per year was too little money to bring competent library staff to the city.

BALANCE WILL RISE

He said that salaries of library staff would cost $18,000 next year, an increase of eight per cent over $8,000-over this year. Under the present grant this would not leave any money for the purchase of books.

The situation is bad and requires the immediate and sympathetic attention of council," Dr. Upper said.

Alderman Effie McCabe brought in the recommendation that the per capita grant be increased from the present 90c to $1.25.

A similar recommendation was brought in by Alderman Harold Hyde, who pointed out that this year's council had been unlawfully to direct the 1956 council.

Alderman Hyde felt it was improper to deal with the matter at all and suggested that the library board investigate the methods of obtaining additional funds.

"It is all very easy to say an increase for the library board, but the intention of the per capita grant means another $7,000 a year on the tax rate," he said.

The aldermen felt the library board might consider joining with the Community Chest as a means of obtaining additional funds to carry on their work.

Alderman Gary David agreed that this council could not dictate to next year's council, but pointed out that the library board was using this means of putting the case before the public. "The library is an important institution and is in need of additional funds," he observed.

CAN ONLY RECOMMEND

"We are all in sympathy but this council can only make a recommend," noted Alderman William Argue.

Mayor Jack Bolt took the attitude that any recommendation to next year's council would be misleading to the library board. "It all depends on how elected next year," he pointed out.

On the other hand Alderman Ralph Graham felt that a suggestion from the present council might be a good thing. He said that council could go no further than suggest. Alderman Forrester said she would approve of the request only if there was assurance from the school board that the property would always be a thoroughfare.

Approving the recommendation were: Alderman Grandmoe and Hyde, with Aldermen Argue, David, Clarke, Graham, Forrester, Humphreys, Keegan, McCabe, Moxam and Safe opposing.

FOUND IN OPPOSITION DWINDLES

Under general business Alderman Frank Grandmoe said that opposition to the building of the proposed new dog pound on East Moira Street on the basis that at this point where now only four or five residents were opposed. In view of this he felt that council was as well proceed with the calling of tenders for the construction of the new pound.

Alderman Gerald Hyde noted that construction of the new wing at Belleville General Hospital had progressed to the point where the hospital board would be calling on the city for payment of the first $200,000 capital grant approved by council.

Also in all probability council would be asked to provide additional funds for completion of the wing, this additional money to be paid back to the hospital board when building campaign pledges from the general public were paid.

He pointed out that prompt payment of pledges would reduce the amount of additional money required by the hospital board and would thus relieve the city money in interest charges.

Police Court

Fines and costs totalling $36.30 were levied on Clifford Fitzgibbon, R.R. 2, Belleville, charged with careless driving and having insufficient brakes on his vehicle by Magistrate E. T. Wills in city magistrate's court this morning.

Fitzgibbon was fined $15.15, including costs, on each charge.

Remembrance Day Address Heard by Rotary

A reminder of Remembrance Day and what it means to Canadians was given Belleville Rotarians yesterday.

"The only reason to remember the past is to learn the lessons it has to teach," Mr. Len Taylor, district deputy commander of the Canadian Legion, told the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte.

"Part of Canada's heritage is the sacrifice of her men at arms. Justified or otherwise, it should teach us, although maintaining an adequate defence — to exercise all our thoughts and energies to avoid any further conflict by rededicating our lives this Remembrance Day to the cause of peace and goodwill to men," he added.

When thinking of Remembrance Day one should give more thought to the heritage of the nation, he said.

Canada has inherited a way of life which contains ideas of freedom, justice, peace, and various differing opinions. It also has created a nation of the Anglo-Saxon and French cultures out of which is growing a Canadian culture.

"It is up to us to see that we keep, an obligation to fulfill, to preserve the heritage which generations of Belleville brothers, sons, brothers and fathers, may not have been in vain."

Canada's way-of life has cost the nation a great deal in thought, time, friendships and suffering, he continued.

"In the past two great wars thousands of Canadians gave their lives, thousands of Canadians, now living, wish they had—to help to preserve our heritage, to make this Canada of ours a better place in which to live.

"We who are left should be ever thankful for our heritage and for those who have done so much to preserve it," he said.

Mr. Taylor was introduced by Frank Murray and thanked by E. A. Orr.

Police Blotter

Purloined pigeons and a damaged building number were among incidents reported to city police last night.

On the whole, however, it was a quiet night watch with only minor incidents which were quickly brought to the attention of headquarters.

The affair of the missing pigeons was reported by Robert Keenan, 24 Leighton Ave. Keenan told police some of his racing pigeons had been stolen during the night. Investigation revealed there was no flight of fancy. The padlock had been broken and the door of the coop containing the pigeons, and several of the birds, were missing.

But, whoever was responsible for the job, possibly may have a tryout. Some of the pigeons returned, rather famous, for their homing qualities and already, it is reported, some have returned home.

Backing into a parking space on Front St., Thurlow Ward, Belleville, innocently poked a parking meter and damaged it so that it is dutifully reported the mishap.

Some one or more made the report from the Belleville Metal and Waste Company in the city. Damage was estimated at $10 and a report was made to the police.

Investigation showed several windows smashed while spark plugs on a cutting shears motor had been damaged when it was afoot into the act of vandalism.

First reported victim of snow-covered roads in the district this year is Albert Broad, 300 Bleecker, 24 Ann St., driving south on the Bay Bridge Road when, near Wallbridge, his car left the road ahead, driven by Hyman Polsky, 124 Pitt St., suffered for a bump in the road. Unable to halt in time due to the slippery condition of the road from the early morning snow, the Broad vehicle tilted into the rear of the Polsky automobile. Damage to Broad's car was estimated at $200. There was no damage to the other vehicle.

A total of $150 damage was caused two vehicles in the intersection of Pinnacle and Station streets.

Dents to the tune of $50 were knocked in the fender of an automobile driven by John Plews, RR 1, Lemoine, while $100 damage was caused a car driven by Jack Moore, 294 Ann St., when both cars collided at the intersection.

Remembrance Day Memorial Service Will Mark Remembrance Day

War veterans of the city in conjunction with other organizations will mark Remembrance Day on Friday, November 11, with the annual parade and memorial service at the Station Street cenotaph.

The parade, held under the auspices of Canadian Legion Branch No. 99, will leave the Bridge St. armouries at 10.30. - Participating units will fall in at 10.15 and should be on hand at ten o'clock.

Veterans and others will march from the armouries to Bridge St., to Front street, to Station street, thence to the cenotaph.

Five bands will take part in the parade. These include those from Trenton RCAF, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the Sea Cadets and the Kinsmen Boys' Band. The Belleville army band will provide music for hymns at the cenotaph.

The parade will be under the supervision of Parade Marshal Major Angus B. Duffy of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

With respect to the depositing of wreaths, each organization or group will be allowed to lay one wreath and an escort of two who will fall in with the wreath bearer.

The order of laying of wreaths is as follows: the city government; Dominion government; Provincial government; Royal Canadian air force and Navy Air Force Veterans in Canada; 418 Wing RCAF Veterans; Belleville Legion and other organizations in order.

The services will be represented by RCSCC Quinte, navy; the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, army, and Trenton Station RCAF, the air force.

The parade will be headed by the color parties followed by the parade marshal and representatives of the city, Dominion and Provincial governments, the Trenton band, the band of 6 R.D., RCAF; Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Detachment; Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans; Branch 99 Canadian Legion; 418 Wing Veterans Association; Sea Cadets band; sea cadets; RCIVS cadets; wreath bearers; Kinsmen Club Boys' Band; Kinsmen Club; Fire and Police departments; other veterans and organizations.

The parade at the cenotaph will be in charge of the Rev. Eric Strain, chaplain of Branch 99 Canadian Legion. He will be assisted by the ranking officer of the Salvation Army and the president of the ministerial association.

"Last Post" and "Reveille" will be sounded by a 6 R.D. RCAF trumpeter. The parade will return to the armouries via the same route taken to the cenotaph.

PORT WILLIAM (CP) — Port William motorists parked free Monday on meter-lined streets to mark the city's 58nd day of fatality-free traffic accidents.

The first Monday of any month has been designated by city council and the traffic and safety committee as a free parking day for car drivers as long as the fatality-free record stands in the city.

To Fine Drinkers At Football Final

TORONTO (CP) — Spectators caught drinking in the stands at the Varsity-Queen's football court, the football playoff in Kingston Saturday, will be fined, it was announced here today.

The liquor crackdown was prompted by a stadium scuffle at Kingston Oct. 29 that sent seven students to hospital.

A University of Toronto official said extra police will patrol the stadium to make sure there is not a soft drink bottle gets past the gate. Provincial police and St Alma Mater Society officers would check parcels that looked suspicious.

Anyone caught drinking inside the stadium will be arrested and taken to the police court, the official said. Fines would run between $5 and $50. The rule would apply to supporters of both universities.

After Strike Company Shifts Production Site

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Holeproof Hosiery Company of Canada will shift a major portion of its knitting manufacturing to Sherbrooke, Que.

The move, announced Monday night, was the result of a strike in the company's hosiery plant here 95 per cent. The plant now has 250 workers.

Word of the transfer came 2½ months after settlement of a six-week strike by 170 production workers, the union and the company for the move. Union officials said the transfer had been decided jointly by the company and the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CCL) which represents the workers. It said the transfer had become necessary because of a need for "certain changes in the production facilities." Head office of the company would remain in London.

Holeproof was recently purchased by the United States firm of Julius Kayser and Company of New York.

The union source said an "atmosphere of bitterness" has prevailed at the plant since the union ended its strike last Aug. 17.

IN MEMORIAM

CRAIG — In precious memory of a dear aunt, Nellie, who died on November 8th, 1953.
Deep in our heart lies a picture,
Of a dear aunt laid to rest,
In memory's frame we shall hove it,
The best, the best, the best.
—Sadly missed by Patsy, Greg, Wayne and Glenn.

ANDERSON. — In loving memory of our dear brother, PO Wallace E. Anderson, who was killed while on active service in England, November 8th, 1944.
Nothing can ever take away
The memories we have today
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered by brother Ken, Ruth and family.

ANDERSON. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, PO Wallace E. Anderson, killed on active service in England, November 8th, 1944.
There is still an ache in our hearts today
That cannot vary wore't take away;
We smile and try to be brave but sometimes
In our quieter moments of memories he lives
—Ever remembered by Mom and Dad, Gary, Keith and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—A few key industrial stocks posted moderate advances in first-hour stock exchange dealings today. Otherwise the market was thoroughly lifeless.

A few senior base metals moved ahead fractions, but juniors and other mining stocks were narrowly mixed. Western oils moved sluggishly. Among industrials, light selective demand appeared for utilities, financial institutions, liquors, steels and constructions.

Algoma's $2.50 jump to 89½ was top individual performance. Ford A was up a point to 136½ and Weston B ahead 1¾ to 31½.

International Nickel responded to Monday's favorable dividend news with an advance of ½. Hudson Bay also gained ½. Cassiar lost 25 cents.

Kerr-Addison moved up ¾ among golds. In a dull uranium section, Gulch and Rayrock firmed a few pennies. Placer was off ⅝ in holding companies.

Canadian Collieries dipped ¼ and other western coalers were limited to about 10 cents. Canadian Williston and Petrol moved up.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand at increased prices on A large and medium.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, in first hands, graded: A large 54; A medium 46; A small 42-43; B 41; C 33-36. Wholesale to retail: A large 59; A medium 53; A small 47-48; B 48; C 40-41.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57¾-58; western 58½ (nominal).

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow on a plain quality offering at the Ontario stockyards today. The few good and choice slaughter cattle offered sold steady.

Receipts: cattle 1,374; calves 697; hogs 450; sheep and lambs 478; carryover from Monday 4,200 cattle, mostly common killers and stockers.

Prices: choice steers 20-20.75; good steers 19-20; mediums 16-19; common 12-16; good heifers 17-18; mediums 14-17; common 12-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; choice dry-fed yearlings 21.50-22.50; good fed yearlings 20.50-21.50; mediums 17-20; good cows 10.50-11, some sales to 11.50; canner and cutter cows down to 6; good heavy bologna bulls up to top of 13; heavy fat beef bulls slow to a top of 12; common and medium light bulls down to 9.

Replacement cattle: slow at 18-19 for good stockers; medium stock calves 16-18.50.

Calves steady at 23-25 for good and choice vealers with sales to 26 and more; mediums 16-22; common 10-15; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hog prices: grade A 22.50; grade 16 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

Lambs steady at 19.50 for good handyweight ewes and wethers with two small loads of Southdowns lambs at 20.50; discounted 1 a hundredweight heavy lambs 2, common and mediums lambs 13-17; good light sheep 8, common and heavy sheep down to 3.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 3-64 per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate 99 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80, against $2.79½.

Hog-Marketing Vote Promised

TORONTO (CP) — Stratford farmer Theodore Parker said Monday he was told by Agriculture Minister Thomas that Ontario's hog producers will have final say in the matter of compulsory co-operative hog marketing.

Mr. Parker, leading opposition to the system, said in an interview that Mr. Thomas assured him of this in a four-hour conference Monday at Queen's Park.

If the Supreme Court of Canada upholds the province's hog marketing legislation, the minister said, hog producers will decide by ballot whether they want compulsory co-operative marketing. The vote would follow the court decision immediately.

Mr. Parker said, however, he is confident the Supreme Court will declare the legislation invalid. If the compulsory co-op were approved, all co-ops from coast to coast would be affected, he said.

Should the legislation be upheld, he said, there is a good chance it will be voted out by producers in the subsequent vote.

St. Laurent Asks Pearson to Stop In Israel

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has passed along to External Affairs Minister Pearson a request that he stop at Tel Aviv, Israel's capital, as well as Cairo.

The request that Mr. Pearson visit Tel Aviv came from the Canadian Zionist movement. Representatives met with Mr. St. Laurent in Montreal last Friday.

The prime minister's office said today that Mr. St. Laurent agreed to pass along the request to Mr. Pearson who now is in Pakistan, on the final stages of a six-week world tour.

From other sources it was learned Mr. Pearson is considering a revision of his remaining tour schedule to decide whether he can make the Tel Aviv stop.

Prowler Entering House When Woodward Slain

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — A prowler, who at first denied being on the estate of William E. Woodward Jr. the night of his shotgun death, now says he was breaking into the house at the time.

Paul W. Wirths' new version of his activities in the early morning of Oct. 30 was reported by Nassau county police officials Monday.

The new account supports on some points the story given by beautiful, blonde Ann Woodward who said she thought she was shooting at a prowler when she killed her wealthy sportsman husband.

Two days after the shooting, Wirths, a 23-year old German refugee, was picked up.

He first told police he broke into the Woodward garage several days before the shooting but on that night was creeping around a nearby country club.

Then Monday Wirths told this story:

On that, Saturday night Wirths hung around the 12-room Woodward house at Oyster bay, occasionally peering in the windows.

Wirths saw lights go on in various parts of the house. This revealed Mrs. Woodward's report that she and her husband, having quarreled one night break in, had inspected all parts of the house before retiring in separate bedrooms with loaded shotguns at hand.

CLIMBED A TREE

A branch of the tree snapped under his weight, he said. Police reported finding the broken branch when Wirths was taken back to the 60-acre estate to re-enact his movements.

Wirths found an unlocked door.

When the door was flung open, a curtain blew out and swayed across Wirths' face, startling him and causing him to knock a shotgun he was carrying against the building.

He paused a moment and was just stepping into the room when he heard the gunfire downstairs. He thought it was fired at him.

"It sounded like a cannon. I didn't wait. I got the hell out of there."

General Motors Is Far Too Big Trust Probe Told

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — T. F. Quinn, American businessman and author, thinks "General Motors is too big."

"It unwittingly threatens the very existence of our smaller good companies and eventually our own free American institutions," Quinn said in a statement to the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee at the opening session of a four-week "study" of the world's largest manufacturing firm.

Quinn's prepared remarks were released to the press in advance of delivery.

Quinn proposed a "maximum free-enterprise bill" designed to restrict the size of large corporations and possibly to persuade them to break up. This, he said, is the way in which what he termed the "gianism isrue"—the "pressing, dreadful issue" facing the country.

Long a critic of large corporations, Quinn formerly was a vice-president of the General Electric Corp. He now is head of two small firms, T. K. Quinn Co. and Monitor Equipment Corp., in New York. He has written a number of books, including "Giant Business: Threat to Democracy" and "I Quit Monster Business."

Senator Joseph O'Mahoney, Dem. Wyo., presiding over the hearings, has said they are not an investigation of GM, but that the sub-committee wants to try to find out how the corporation grew so big and to look into complaints that it has exerted undue pressure on its dealers and suppliers.

Quinn said the legislation he has in mind would be aimed at "limiting and restricting oversized corporations" and encouraging "economic freedom in many fields that are now practically closed."

Predicts Long Delay In Health Insurance

TORONTO, (CP)—Ontario CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald said Monday it appears likely the province will wait many years for a health insurance plan.

Two factors, he said, will delay the implementation of Premier Frost's proposals: The Ontario plan must wait upon federal government aid, and it is "designed to be a long term-out, piecemeal process."

Excerpts of Mr. MacDonald's address were released to the press in advance of delivery.

LUNCH TIME

Fire Destroys Farm Buildings, Loss May Exceed $10,000

TRENTON (Special) — A fire believed to be the result of spontaneous combustion, destroyed 2 barns and sheds belonging to Ed. Young, Carrying Place, five miles south of here Saturday.

Loss is estimated at $10,000 Young Ed. Brown was in Belleville at the time the outbreak was first noticed by a neighbor, Mrs. Harvey Brown.

Flames, Brown said, broke off to a roaring start, consumed the buildings in a matter of minutes.

A quantity of baled hay, nearly 30 loads of grain, a tractor and other farm equipment were lost. A number of chickens burned in the fire.

An eye-witness reported an explosion preceded the fire which sent a great column of black smoke skyward.

Mr. Brown, Sr., has been in hospital in Toronto for some months. NAME AMHERST OFFICERS

Popular Trenton businessman, William House, has been elected president of the Trenton Arena Limited.

The new board of directors includes: Mr. House, Senator W. A. Fraser, W. H. McClure, Mark Tripp, O. Alyea, Don Fraser and Eben James.

Norman Banfield was retained as secretary-treasurer.

Driver Freezes At Rail Crossing

TRENTON (Special) — No less than six car-train accidents have been investigated by Trenton police in Quinte district level crossings in the north Trenton district in the last two months.

The latest happened Sunday night. Fortunately nobody was hurt seriously.

The car was driven by Paul Zuwerkalns, formerly of Frankford. He was accompanied by his wife; four-year-old son Mervel and five-year-old daughter, Vera. The little boy was the only one hurt. He suffered a cut lip. Damage confined to the front of the vehicles was estimated at $250.

Police investigation revealed the driver brought his car to a stop too close to the tracks and when he saw that he was in trouble was too frightened to move it out of the way of the oncoming diesel-powered train.

Will Aid Disabled

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and Ontario governments have signed an agreement for federal-provincial co-operation in the rehabilitation of disabled persons, it was announced Monday.

The agreement includes federal financial aid towards the cost of a rehabilitation program in Ontario. Similar agreements are in effect with most other provinces.

Four Countries Added to Atomic Study Committee

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP)—The United Nations returned today its voting list to a disputed Security Council seat following unanimous agreement Monday night on setting up a 15-country team of scientists to study the effects of atomic radiation.

Russia and the Soviet bloc voted with the West to create a body to study radiation as it affects man and his environment after the sponsoring countries, including Canada, had made concessions to India and the Latin-American group on the question.

The concessions involved adding Argentina, Belgium, Egypt and France to the original committee list of Canada, Australia, Britain, Brazil, the United States, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, India, Japan, Sweden and Russia.

'Marilyn Monroe' Is New RCAF Jet

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada is experimenting with an F-86 jet fighter with a sipped-in waist, the annual review of the Air Industries and Transport Association was told today.

An official of Canadair, Ltd., of Montreal said the aircraft had been called the "Cokebottle" or, more enthusiastically, "Marilyn Monroe."

The top profile of the aircraft shows the body pinched in from the leading edge of the wing to several feet behind the trailing edge.

The "new look" Sabre is still at the experimental stage and is now at Uplands airport, near Ottawa, where it is being tested by the RCAF.

Cloud Hampers RCAF Air Search Of Quebec Bush

TRENTON (CP) — Cloud today continued to hamper RCAF air operations in the search for five persons missing in northwestern Quebec bush.

"There's a cloud base of about 10,000 feet," said a spokesman, "and it's hanging right over the hills up there—it looks as though it may clear a bit later, though."

Eight RCAF planes are taking part in the search for three Montreal men, Lloyd Arnold Evans and Augustino Ricci, and a Roura, Que., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Lacoste.

The Montreal men vanished last Thursday on a 100-mile plane flight from St. Jovite, Que., to Amos, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Lacoste have been reported missing since they entered the same area on a hunting trip a month ago.

SEEK SURVIVORS

Meanwhile, planes from the RCAF base at Bagotville, Que., are still seeking survivors of the crash of a T-33 twin jet last Thursday night. The interceptor collided with another plane and disappeared.

The RCAF announced Saturday that one of the two airmen in the CF-100, FO William Ness of Bearden, P. E. I., is believed dead. The other airman was FO J. L. Graham, 23, of Brantford, Ont.
